THE AMERICAN RED CROSS DESERVES WHOLEHEARTED SUPPORT

The American Red Cross has never failed! With your help, it never will. Re-pledge your support at the annual roll call, Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

PROBLEMS AND ACCOMPLISHMENTS unparalleled in its fifty-two years of service to humanity make up the record of the American Red Cross for the twelve months just closed. Changing times have necessitated changing attitudes and programs to meet the pressing needs of the hour. Growth has been marked in such volunteer activities as production work, enrollments in the health courses; home hygiene and care of the sick, first aid and life-saving; increase in case loads in war service and civilian home service; substantial maintenance of public health nursing and gains in Junior Red Cross enrollment in high schools.

Abnormal obligations were imposed in the conversion and distribution of 85,000,000 bushels of wheat and 844,000 bales of cotton, holdings of the Federal Farm Board, voted by Congress for the relief of some 6,000,000 of our unemployed fellow Americans. Additional responsibilities were also involved in the new legislation affecting veterans, which made necessary increased home service work on a scale unprecedented since the World War. But for the active participation in these two projects of hundreds of thousands of local volunteer workers these obligations could not have been successfully discharged. All routines and programs have been scrutinized from the standpoint of priority. At the same time, every effort has been made to preserve efficiency and speed of action. Among the internal economies effected were general staff curtailment and salary reductions. Hospital social work in Army and Navy hospitals has been reorganized upon a basis corresponding to that maintained in reference to regular Army and Navy stations.

Not since the World War has there been such widespread and diversified activity on the part of Red Cross chapters. Most of them were cooperating with other public and private agencies in general measures of unemployment relief. Chapters in all but seventeen out of a total of 3,076 counties participated in the distribution of government flour. The same wholesale activity applied to distribution of government cotton cloth and clothing to the needy. The few counties not affected were sparsely settled in the West. In both instances chapters enlisted the help of every local facility. No emergencies recently confronting the American Red Cross have resulted in such wholesale activity on the part of so many people. In the face of extraordinary demands, the American Red Cross everywhere has successfully met the challenge, carrying on at the same time its regular day-by-day work as usual.

The Red Cross is our nationally authorized disaster-relief organization. Last year ninety-two disasters of Nature, comprising floods, tornadoes, hurricanes, earthquake and fire, wreaked their havoc in continental United States and the insular possessions. In twelve weeks alone, disaster relief was administered in twenty-four different states, in which 30,000 families were among the victims. The average for the total number of holocausts during the year was a disaster every five and one-half days. In each one of these the Greatest Mother took the helm; keeping in the stricken areas corps of trained workers, assisted by scores of volunteers. Working night and day to bring relief as needed, and to help families to adjust to the changed conditions, restoring their morale as well as giving material assistance. Sometimes this assistance took the form of building supplies, so that the refugees might again have roofs over their heads; sometimes livestock was distributed, in order that the families might have a means of livelihood. Always, in rural districts, garden seed was distributed so that food for the family and stock might be speedily forthcoming by the labors of the refugees themselves. In such work, as in the cotton and wheat distribution, the Red Cross enjoys the co-operation of all local townsfolk and groups. The Red Cross is made up of these very people. It belongs to them, and they belong to it.

The ex-service man is one of the major responsibilities of the Red Cross, by the terms of its charter. In the course of the past year the Red Cross workers in the nation-wide network of 3,700 chapters and 10,000 branches, and the representatives of the national organization, handled the cases of 528,000 veterans. This is the largest number reported at any time since the World War period. Moreover, to meet the pressing relief problems of their communities during the recent depression, Red Cross chapters accepted responsibility for all disabled veterans in need, regardless of whether or not their disabilities were incurred during the war or arose since discharge from causes in no way attributable to military service. Every effort was made by the Red Cross to reach every veteran out of employment and to put him in touch with organized resources for placement. Assistance in preparing and presenting all types of claims for compensation continued to hold first place in a large number of chapter activities. No veteran need go to the expense of consulting a lawyer as to his rights. The Red Cross workers stand ready and prepared to give him every aid, free of cost, in substantiating his claim.

To enumerate the varieties of assistance given by the army of men and women who belong to the volunteer service of the Red Cross would be to exhaust the category of human charity. In addition to the aid lent in the wheat and cotton distribution, these workers made 35,000,000 garments, 3,800,000 surgical dressings, brailled 552,000 pages for the blind, served 240,000 persons in canteens, made 76,000 motor calls, and volunteered in every capacity from bundle-wrapping to the lending of entire offices with their staffs. Many of these volunteers were themselves the victims, in greater or less degree, of the economic disturbance, but found in service for others a temporary escape from their own anxieties.

With the announcement of its annual Roll Call, from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving, the American Red Cross comes again before the American people, asking their continued support, through the repledging of their membership dues, for its vast humanitarian program of mercy and relief.

Homeless Children

A WORTHWHILE NON-SECTARIAN ENDEAVOR SPONSORED AND SUPPORTED BY THE ORDERS OF NATIVE SONS AND NATIVE DAUGHTERS OF THE GOLDEN WEST

The Native Sons and Native Daughters Central Committee on Homeless Children, for many years located at 959 Phelan building, moves its offices to 998 Eddy Street, San Francisco, November 1. Take car No. 31 on Market Street, out Eddy to Gough street.

NOTHING PARTICULARLY STARTLING about an announcement of the removal of an office. The casual reader scarcely would give it a second thought. Many Native Sons and Native Daughters will note the change, and a few perhaps will say to themselves: "Well, the Committee is probably getting cheaper rent, and that's good!" But to those workers who for twenty-one years have known that "Spirit of Place," even though that Place be merely an office building, there comes a feeling of sadness and home-sickness.

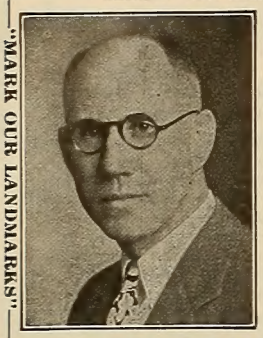
They are leaving the city pavement which their feet have trod many times during a day for many years; the elevators manned by the boys who smile a cheery "Good morning!"; the halls where many a tenant of long years, knowing about the babies' work, nod their morning welcome; the janitor, with brush and broom, as he answers to the "Hello! how is business?", "Still 'picking up', thank you."

Entering the door, the walls seem to say: "You're going to miss us. We know a lot of your secrets, don't we? We have listened to many a story sobbed from breaking hearts. We have looked down upon hundreds of your child-hungry men and women who have entered here to tell you of their loss or their disappointment that no child has been born to them. We have seen the children come and go, and come again round and rosy and ready to romp with the toys which some kind Native Daughter has brought in for them, unconscious of anything unusual in loving and being loved. And their mothers, too, their faces animated with pride, as they expatiate on the beauty and brightness and lovableness of their children, or are troubled, as the case may be, over their problems with 'Jimmie' or 'Bill'."

What tales they might tell, those walls of 959 Phelan building, which have protected the busy workers all through the years, and would continue to protect them if they could, from outside storms and inside storms, which have needed to be met and conquered.

Only a notice of moving from one building to another, but Change has come—Change to those who have seen life in its many phases between its friendly walls, and who are a wee bit sad as they wonder what lies ahead, and what the future holds for the children who are homeless, and alone.

NAPA COUNTY ADOBES, BUILT IN EARLY FORTIES, LITTLE CHANGED.



Ninety-three years have wrought little change in the appearance and durability of two adobe houses, built about 1840-1845 by Don Cayetano Juarez, which stand on the Napa highway, one mile southeast of Napa City, says the "Calistogan." Juarez was one of the first settlers in Napa. He was born at the Monterey Presidio in 1809, and when a young man entered the Mexican army, locating at the Presidio in San Francisco. In 1827 he was sent to Sonoma to keep the Indians of Sonoma and Napa Valleys in subjection. He had a brilliant military record and was honorably discharged from the army in 1836.

In the winter of 1837 he brought horses and cattle into the Napa Valley. In 1840 he went with his family to Napa to live, having been granted land by the Mexican government. It was a two-league grant, lying on the east side of the Napa River, between Soscol Creek and Clark's Creek, and contained 8,865 acres. It was during this year that he built a small adobe, and in 1845 he built his largest adobe.

For the first time in history, a pheasant hunting season in California will open for a six-day period beginning November 15. The following counties, however, will remain closed to pheasant shooting this first open season: Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Sonoma, Marin, Lassen, and a portion of Modoc.

A WANDERING HISTORIAN

"MARK OUR LANDMARKS"

"MARK OUR LANDMARKS"

"MARK OUR LANDMARKS"

Chester F. Gannon

(GRAND HISTORIAN N.S.G.W.)

"MARK OUR LANDMARKS"

ON THE 15TH OF SEPTEMBER, YOUR Historian boarded a liner at San Francisco, with New York, via the Panama Canal, his objective. To trace the path of those Pioneers who came westward by Panama was one of the motivating reasons for the journey. The sailing at our Pacific dock was as bustling and exciting as any Atlantic departure of today. Serpentines flowed adown the side of the boat. Tears likewise followed their course along rouge-covered, as well as age-creased faces of the eternal feminine, who feel that all occasions necessitate the dew of Niobe. It matters not whether the affair be one of pleasure or sorrow. Funeral, wedding, bon voyage alike take of their share of liquid sentiment. And then, despite the sorrowful display, and with the orchestra playing, the ship pointed out into the Golden Gate to follow the course of Drake, Cabrillo, the Conquistadores, Morgan, Cortez and, as compared with these, our more modern Pioneers.

Morning brought the Port of San Pedro, and passengers spent the day in the City of Los Angeles. Again lines were cast off and the trip southward started in earnest. The course of the vessel for the most part is relatively close to the shore; the same uninviting shore line that the men of old beheld, is viewed by the modern traveler. Lower California shows an unattractive aridness. Upper Mexico continues a barren landscape, rugged, dry and devoid of appreciable vegetation.

Thus the course continued southward, and on the fifth day in the early morning we steamed into the outer harbor at Mazatlan, Mexico. Lack of depth and rolling ocean compels one to go ashore in launches. Getting on and off of these bobbing launches is an exciting and novel experience, and is sometimes attended with wet feet. The first glimpse of Mazatlan is both pleasing and surprising. Aridness has given way to the influence of the tropics and one beholds a sandy beach, fringed with palm trees and, just beyond, the red-roofed houses arise amid a background of green. Mazatlan was a stop of the Pioneer boat and perhaps here supplies and water were taken aboard those slow, overladen steamers as they labored northward into the Port of Gold, the Port of San Francisco. If the Pioneer did stop at this rather important city, I am sure he found things pretty much the same as they are now. Stone houses, which appear to have stood for generations, line the streets in all directions. The streets themselves present a succession of chuck holes filled with mud and water from the rain which had fallen most of the night before. A large, high promontory of land juts seaward from the harbor. Atop is the second highest lighthouse in the world. An intimate contact with Mazatlan, where five or six hours are spent, reveals much filth, lack of sanitation and difficult living conditions—from the American point of view. However, it should not be avoided, for the comparison of conditions undergone by our sister republic gives even a poor American a reason to believe that his lot is not so undesirable when contrasted with the conditions of other people. A tame boa constrictor roamed about the floor of the hotel diningroom to add both novelty and thrills to the lunch.

The anchor is up, and we are on our way to see new flags, new peoples, new customs and a changing panorama of scenery. The shore line becomes more tropical each hour, and finally the Central American mountains, green-lined from the water's edge to their tops, lie eastward in endless profusion. There seems to be no level land, only mountain rising upon mountain. Few habitations puncture the landscape, and the traveler is impressed with the vastness of unused land hereabouts, as he must be when he travels through the western states like Utah, Nevada, Wyoming, Idaho and Montana.

Guatemala City, that beautiful habitation with an elevation of 5,000 feet, the altitude of Lake Tahoe, and with a population of almost a hundred thousand, was to have been the next port of call. With express train punctuality the boat arrived, but Nature connived to disappoint. A cloudburst had torn up yards of the eighty-mile railroad from the port to the city. Unusual weather, they voiced. (They must have learned this from certain Californians.) But "unusual" or not, landing tickets were handed back. No attempt was made to land freight in the lighters tossing about in the high-riding sea. The journey was again to the southward.

La Libertad, port of Salvador, two days away, is the next stoppig point, and again the weather acts up. After lying to at sea, we view the port across the half-mile expanse of water and await a launch from shore. Through the high-rising waves labors a launch and comes close, yells that they do not want to take the responsibility of landing passengers and labors back to shore. After a number of hours the launch returns, towing a small barge loaded with freight and passengers that are to join the boat at this point. They finally reach the side of the vessel, the passengers shaky, white and bilious. A glimpse of them, and one is convinced that the officials were right, and that not many passengers would have weathered the trip to land.

Panama lies beyond! Panama, the land of Pioneer deaths and Pioneer sufferings and hardships. Panama, the land to which the eyes of the world were turned in 1915 and gave to the western world a reason for a world exposition. No unruly weather disappoints from now on, and in through the Port of Balboa we edged our way. Soon landed and viewed the beautiful tropical American city, founded upon a swamp and converted into a region of tropical loveliness. Attractive buildings, both public and private, prevail amid green and flowery beauty. Health, normal working conditions, and a contented colony of Americans live in this rather far-flung American habitation.

Of course, the lure is Panama City, a mile away, and then the history seeker waits with keen expectation for a glimpse of Old Panama, sacked by Morgan over two hundred years ago and destroyed by him as the Romans destroyed the homes of their enemies and rivals. One's anticipation are not disappointed by a visit to Old Panama where, amid the ever-encroaching jungle, the dignified old ruins rise to a hight of a hundred feet and show a civility unexpected from those early times and a people not supposed to be altogether too enlightened. Imagination would reason that the Pioneer, as he waited at this port for his boat to San Francisco, visited the same ruins and formed his own opinions of the sacking of this old city and its complete destruction, a destruction so thorough that nowhere exist lines to mark the former habitations of its 30,000 inhabitants. The ruins which endure are the ruins of their public buildings and churches. The destruction of the homes of the Panamanians was complete.

New Panama City is quaint, narrow-streeted, overcrowded and filled with stores displaying merchandise brought in from the Orient and perfumes from the boulevards of Paris. Strong indeed is the woman with money in her pocket who can resist the lure of these stores, counters filled and prices cheap. Cabarets, social clubs and inviting bars complete the lure to spend, and one must be careful or he will leave Panama with little money for the rest of the journey.

The canal is traversed, and Christobal and Colon, the two Atlantic ports, are visited, but they are not as physically attractive as their sister cities on the Pacific. The Panama Canal has been oft described and particularly its locks, but few people comment upon the beauty of the luxuriant tropical growth which abounds on both sides and at times seems almost close enough to touch. Timidity arises as crocodiles slide into the water, and minds conjure visions of snakes in the green, inviting shore line.

A lecturer stands on the deck and points out places of interest. Your Historian requested that the old Panama railroad, built for the convenience of the Pioneer, California bound, be pointed out. A few minutes after the request was made he pointed to the old roadbed and an old bridge over which rolled the hoards in the early '50s. This was the railroad built with Edward D. Baker occupying the highest executive position in its construction. Why Baker, brilliant lawyer and matchless orator, should have been selected to have undertaken to work on this project is not altogether clear, but we know that he did participate in this work, that he was successful, and this reveals just another trait of ability in this many-sided man. In unmarked graves, the toll of Panama's fever-laden jungle, are the thousands of Pioneers who died at both ports of Panama as they came to California, or returned to their Eastern homes, often laden with the gold they had wrested from California soil.

Out into the Caribbean sailed the steamer, and the next port was Cartagena, little heralded aboard ship and, as far as your Historian was concerned, an unknown place. But here is where history stood still, and here its footsteps are so discernible today that one almost feels the spell of three hundred dead and forgotten years. Launches call at the ship, and ashore we go. Then the revelation comes, and antiquity is everywhere!

Here came Admiral Vernon in the early part of the eighteenth century to capture this rich Spanish city for his British king. Vain effort. One fort fell before the admiral, but the others, Verdun-like, thwarted his attempts. Mount Vernon was named after this venturesome, but unsuccessful, admiral. Sir Francis Drake attacked here, but the Spanish flag still flew when that doughty seaman withdrew. The old city is enclosed by a wall made of a mixture of concrete and stone, and stands splendidly preserved today. It is at least twenty feet high and fifteen feet across, and our automobile was driven over some portions of it. It appears to be good for another three hundred years. It stretches mile upon mile, and encloses a good-sized city. One wonders how these ancients learned the art of durability of cement. Old buildings abound. Ancient churches are on every hand, and in full view beneath the altar of the oldest church is the grinning skeleton of a Cartagenian patron saint. He it was who christianized over three hundred thousand Negroes brought, captured, to this South American port to slave until their deaths for their Spanish masters. These slaves built the splendid protecting wall, and they likewise built the forts to protect the city.

On a hill overlooking Cartagena and rising to an eminence of about two hundred fifty feet is a splendid fort, well preserved, and appearing most formidable in this enlightened era when military machinery is so effective. The fort is a marvel of military skill. It rises high and impressively over the surrounding country, and dominates the landscape as it once did the enemies of Spain. Going up those steps, we peer over its battle casements and walk into its elaborate underground passageways, cement lined, where an army could find refuge from hostile shot and shell. Undoubtedly in hot weather these underground passages were almost unbearable. We were advised that it cost eleven million dollars and took ten years to build. It is quite probable that both statements are factual. From this fort to the principal church a mile away, is a tunnel dug far underground and passing under a body of water that separates its two terminals. The tunnelling alone must have taken unlimited labor and time, but in those days thoughts of military safety were paramount to everything else, and expense and labor were not spared as in this more-modern day when Americans, particularly, forget danger and get excited only when it really appears before them.

Outside the old walled city flourishes a newer Cartagena. Its streets are wider and better kept, beautiful homes abound in vine and tree filled gardens. Part of the charm in Cartagena is in its oldness. How modern is our California Pioneer history compared to this country? This community flourished three hundred years ago, and our one hundredth birthday has not yet arrived. The old city gate, picturesque and rugged, is cut through a breach in the wall. Now, fast modern traffic teems through it. The avenue of Martyrs displays the busts of twelve patriots who were executed when they, Spaniards, tried to break away from the rule of the mother country, not unlike the American colonists when they felt that the control of a mother country far across the sea was unnecessary and tyrannical. The rise and fall of Spanish prestige in South and Central America is most interesting, and what a treat Brothers Byington, Cutler, Seawell, Knowland and Dr. Chapman would get in browsing through this city of antiquity and

CALIFORNIA FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

THANKSGIVING DAY, THURSDAY, November 29, 1883, was observed in California in the usual way. There were horse races at Oakland and Sacramento, and Vallejo, Solano County, arranged a regatta. The latter drew an immense crowd, but on account of a gale and rough water it had to be called off.

The prices of edibles were nominal: Turkeys 22c pound, chickens 50c each, quail 75c dozen, mallards 60c brace, wild geese 15c each, butter 35c pound, eggs 45c dozen, apples 50c box, potatoes and onions 80c cental. Wheat was $1.85 and barley $1.02 a cental, so California farmers felt optimistic.

A strong north wind prevailed, with the temperature at 4 degrees below zero at Truckee, Nevada County, and 29 degrees above in the valleys.

Rain fell on but three days during November, making the month's precipitation .61 of an inch and the season's total only 2.47 inches. The densest fog ever known to have settled over San Francisco Bay appeared the 16th. Several ferryboat collisions occurred, and navigation was virtually suspended.

The State Board of Silk Culture opened rooms in San Francisco and set a coterie of young women at work as filatures. From cocoons sent in by producers they were taking threads and reeling them for the manufacture of silk. To take charge, an expert had been brought from Italy, whence silkworm eggs were also to be imported.

Miss Emma Wixon, a Mills Seminary, Alameda County, graduate, made her debut in grand opera in Paris, France. She was a success, and took the stage name of Mlle. Nevada.

Two Doane steam wagons and thirty-two trailers were installed at Emigrant Gap, Placer County, to haul lumber from mills six miles distant to the Central Pacific shipping point.

The Mark Hopkins estate, amounting to $895,078, was distributed this month. The widow received three-quarters and a brother, Moses Hopkins, one-quarter. The attorney's fee was $15,000.

Governor Leland Stanford, Charles Crocker and C. P. Huntington applied to the San Francisco Board of Supervisors for a franchise to build a cable street railway through Golden Gate Park to the Cliff House. The mayor vetoed the project.

James Scott, 99-year-old Camptonville, Yuba County, Irishman, was naturalized this month. He desired to become an American citizen in order to file on government land.

Mrs. Anna Desmond, authoress of Red Bluff, Tehama County, had a diamond breastpin valued at $1,000 that had been handed down by generation to generation of her family since A.D. 1280. She was descended from the French nobility headed by Lord LaCorne, but had no descendant to whom to leave the heirloom.

Along the south bank of Carquinez Strait, about two miles south of Martinez, Contra Costa County, the Nevada Warehouse and Dock Company built a warehouse, 1,712 feet long and 150 feet wide, with docks to, at one time, accommodate ten ships loading grain.

A Sutter County farmer named Heyland, supposed to be a bachelor, died and left a $30,000 estate to his wife and two children in Canada. He had come to California in 1853 and his family, not hearing from him again, concluded he had died. His wife and one child had passed on, and the surviving daughter, now married, came and took possession of the estate.

The stage from Sonora, Tuolumne County, to Milton was stopped November 3 by a masked highwayman who blasted the express box open on the floor of the stage and got 228 ounces of gold dust and $550 in coin. He ordered Driver McConnell to unhitch the team and take the horses to safety. McConnell saw an Italian boy a short distance away hunting with a rifle, signaled to him and got the gun. He fired three times at the fleeing robber, who dropped his derby hat and handkerchief as he ran. A pair of field glasses, also found, showed the man had used them to view the coming of the stage. On the handkerchief was the mark of a San Francisco laundry, and through it a man who gave the name of Flemming was arrested November 15. He proved to be Charles E. Bolton, alias "Black Bart the Po-8," who had become famous as a stage robber.

Beginning in 1877, he had been either definitely known or suspicioned to have held up twenty-two stages in the six years he had been at the game. He was 40 years old, of good personal appearance, and came from New York. He had habitually lost his "wad" speculating in mining stocks, and when broke secured another stake from an express box. He had a penchant for leaving in the rifled express boxes verses of doggerel signed "Black Bart the Po-8," hence his fame. As a specimen of his poetic art, the following was left in the express box at one of his holdups:

"Here I lay me down to sleep
To wait the coming morrow.
Perhaps success, perhaps defeat
And everlasting sorrow.
Yet, come what will
My condition can't be worse,
And if there's money in that box
'Tis money in my purse."

As he could be tried only for his last offense, he was found guilty and sent to San Quentin for six years. He neither drank liquor nor used tobacco.

The Idaho mine at Grass Valley, Nevada County, paid a $2 dividend this month. It is still in operation.

A Brighton, Sacramento County, farmer posted the following sign over his gate: "No Shooting Aloud Here."

The Central Pacific made a contract for 50,000 cords of two-foot pine wood, to be delivered at Truckee, Nevada County, for its locomotives.

Charles Slaughter and Charles Brown, dusky sons of African descent, fought with bare fists near Sacramento November 14, and to avoid police interference ten hackloads of sports went outside the city limits for the mill. In the third round Slaughter was knocked out and dangerously injured.

G. M. Robinson, San Francisco athlete, at the Olympic Club November 29 lifted, with his left arm, a fifty-pound dumbbell from the floor to above his head seventy-nine times. He made a world record.

The Eureka Baseball club of Sacramento played the Athletics of Grass Valley, Nevada County, a game for $250 November 4, and won by a score of 12 to 4.

Tulare City had a $15,000 fire November 1. Three hotels and six saloons in the business section of Port Costa, Contra Costa County, burned November 5 with a $50,000 loss. Williams, Colusa County, suffered a $60,000 fire loss during the month.

A disastrous fire November 20 destroyed most of Dixon, Solano County. A blaze that swept the business district of Hanford, Kings County, November 29 caused a loss of $75,000.

In Los Angeles City November 23 a house burned in which G. Weinhold and John Chaean were sleeping. Both were cremated.

Superintendent Drake of the Merced Canal, driving a team, was stopped by two highwaymen, who stripped him naked, relieved him of $60, badly beat him and then drove away with the team.

Robert Cheaves was knocked down and robbed in Nevada City, Nevada County, the night of November 16. In his fist he clutched a $20 gold piece which the assailant overlooked. Proud of his adroitness, Cheaves was exhibiting the coin to several listeners when John Enright grabbed it and levanted. John was caught and jailed.

B. F. Eggleston, who arrived in Downieville, Sierra County, in 1850 and became one of its most prominent citizens, died there November 6.

Benjamin F. Post, who came to Hangtown, El Dorado County, prior to its becoming known as Placerville and had resided there ever since, the night of November 6 fell into a flume and drowned.

Samuel Lowery, one of the founders of Truckee, Nevada County, died there November 21.

L. K. Hammer, who arrived in Amador County in 1849 and mined there until 1854, when he went to Sacramento and opened a music store, died November 26 at the Capital City.

Joseph Jewel was hanged at San Jose, Santa Clara County, November 30 for a murder committed in March 1883.

Anthony Thurman, a miner, fell 700 feet down the shaft of the Standard mine at Bodie, Mono County, November 20 and was killed.

Three-year-old Bobby Corbett fell under the wheels of a separator on his father's ranch near Livermore, Alameda County, November 5 and was crushed to death.

William and John Winges, brothers mining at Main Bar on the American River near Georgetown, El Dorado County, were murdered in their cabin the night of November 30 by a Mexican desperado.

Rival tongs in Sacramento's Chinatown had a street gun battle November 11. Two Chinks were killed and three badly injured. "No sabbee" was the sole reply of every Mongolian interrogated by the officers, and the cause of the affray was not ascertained.

romance. Cartagena is a present-day city of at least 50,000 people, but the inhabitants are for the most part poor and pressed to sustain life from day to day.

Again the ship sails eastward and the Port de Columbia, entrance to Barranquilla, a city of 70,000 and fourteen miles inland, received our call. A dock extending nearly a mile into the harbor accommodates the boat, and a quick night trip is made to Barranquilla. Beautiful homes, and a modern three-story hotel which seems far too good for the country attract the eye. The muddy and water-filled chuck holes make motoring anything but pleasant, and one looks about at a poverty-stricken lower class whose reasons for even living appear not too well founded.

Next, Havana for a few hours, but streets bustling with armed soldiers and machine guns do not enthuse the travelers. Its land-locked harbor does not appear to be more than a half-mile in length and a quarter-mile in width. We sailed away from Havana at midnight, and five hours later the attack on the National hotel cost at least one hundred lives, with no particular benefit to Cuba. Everywhere are signs of neglect of public places, as Cuba wallows in a slough of financial despondency.

Thence to New York and on to Chicago, where a widely heralded exposition, feebly comparing with the 1915 exposition on the Pacific Coast, commercializes every possible thing and permits to live in one's memory a sense of injustice done the visitor rather than a memory of the many interesting things abounding there. It is unfortunate that fair treatment to the sightseer and a splendid exhibition cannot go hand in hand.

As the writer steamed along both coasts he had before him Dana's "Two Years Before the Mast," obtained in the ship's library. Seeing the scenes which Dana had seen in 1836 made the voyage more interesting. And again the readers of this column are exhorted to read his beautiful description of California's romantic history, of a period when beauty, music, ease and romance lived for a time and then died. Also from the same library was obtained Hulbert's "The Forty-Niners." A wide search has been made by the author through files and papers pertaining to Pioneer history, and the facts are marshaled and then set forth in the alleged letters of a boy to his father living in the East. It is well worth reading.

And, by way of addendum, if you would follow romance, if you would see strange countries and new flags and new people, book passage on one of the liners plying between San Francisco and New York. The cost is nominal. There are nineteen days of leisure ahead of you, and it will be a month well spent and long remembered when the expense is forgotten. To sit leisurely on the deck of a boat, such as the one the writer booked on, to eat good food, meet sociable people, dance and linger in the clubroom where "the cup that clears of past regrets and future fears" is a fact and not a memory, to swim in the large open-air swimming pool at midnight under a tropical sky, to dine in a roofless dining-room beneath the stars, all make life worth living and must be experienced to realize their full charm.

CALIFORNIA'S ICE AGE REMNANT.

California holds the most southerly remnant of the Cold Age in the United States—the majestic Palisade Glacier on the granite-cragged east face of the high Sierra Nevada in Inyo County. The huge white wonder, a solid block of ice three miles long, one mile wide and hundreds of feet thick, looms 13,000 feet above sea level behind the town of Big Pine, in Owens Valley.

"Keep your Headlights Legal," is the November slogan of the California Public Safety Conference in its campaign to lessen the constantly increasing auto death-toll.

Armistice Day, November 11, will be appropriately observed in various California communities.

Mrs. Mary Wonderly, native of Pennsylvania, 81; as an infant-in-arms crossed the plains in 1852 and resided many years in El Dorado County; died at Sacramento, survived by six children.

Mrs. Orlena Fedora Healey, native of Maine, 86; came via Cape Horn in 1849 and for some time resided in San Francisco; died at Long Beach, Los Angeles County, survived by a daughter. She was the daughter of Captain Frederick Parker Sweet, who built Meigs Wharf, San Francisco's first pier, and the widow of Captain Charles T. Healey, who surveyed the townsite of Long Beach in 1882. It is said Mrs. Healey was the first woman resident of Long Beach.

PIONEER NATIVES DEAD

(Brief Notices of the Demise of Men and Women born in California Prior to 1860.)

Miss Rosita Stewart died September 16 in the Old Town section of San Diego City, in the same room of an ancient adobe where she was born December 1, 1845. Her father, John S. Stewart ("El Pilotin"), was a shipmate of Richard Henry Dana Jr., of "Two Years Before the Mast" fame, and her mother, Rosa Machado-Stewart, was a granddaughter of Jose Manuel Machado, who came to San Diego in 1782.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Cureton, born Sacramento County, 1852; died September 17, Pixley, Tulare County; five children survive. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, were Pioneers of 1849.

Mrs. Eliza Falque Heyd, born San Luis Obispo County, 1855; died September 17, San Luis Obispo City; four children survive.

Mrs. Mary F. Billingsley, born El Dorado County, 1851; died September 22, Hayward, Alameda County; son survives.

PRACTICE RECIPROCITY BY ALWAYS PATRONIZING GRIZZLY BEAR ADVERTISERS

LOS ANGELES CITY AND COUNTY

"PUT YOUR THANKS IN THANKSGIVing!", heads a letter being sent by the Los Angeles Joint N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Homeless Children Committee to every Native Son and Native Daughter in Los Angeles and Orange Counties, all of whom and their loyal friends are asked to make a donation toward the splendid work of removing the homeless child from the waif class into a childless home to gladden the hearts of foster-parents. "Shall the good work go on?", queries the committee. "The need is greater this year than ever. We must keep up this humanitarian effort!" Send offerings to Secretary Annie L. Adair, 3924 Sunset boulevard, Los Angeles.

John J. Ford, Deputy Grand President N.S.G.W., commenting on this appeal for funds, says: "For over twenty-three years this work has been progressing. During that time nearly four thousand children have been adopted. These children are referred to the Homeless Children Committee by various social agencies. The annual operating expense is about twenty-eight thousand dollars. This work is non-sectarian, and does not receive any funds from any local Community Chest. It is one of the two agencies licensed by the State of California to place children in homes for adoption. This work has strengthened and made known the aims and purposes of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West. It is work that helps children who cannot help themselves. It needs your support and co-operation! When you receive the Thanksgiving letter try to give one dollar or more toward this work, so that it can continue, undiminished, in the future as it has in the past. You will be more than repaid for your kindness in assisting to place a homeless child in a childless home. Do not forget the Thanksgiving letter, but give!"

TRUER WORDS NEVER UTTERED.

"A great menace which threatens our entire nation—that of anarchy and communism—may be blamed partly upon women's clubs," declared Mrs. Fred V. Watson, addressing the Women's Club of Hollywood, October 11. "We have played politics too long with human misery and we cannot count ourselves as excluded when we, as voters, stand by and watch the machinations of evil go on without our interference. Let us challenge these men who appear before us in our public affairs department. Let us close our ears to their flattery when they want some political bonus from us. Let us stand shoulder to shoulder to know the truth. Only so may we be free from such horrors as that one in Griffith Park, which was due in great measure to the rotten politics which we women have tacitly allowed through our silence and neglect."

Truer words were never uttered! All organizations, including the Native Daughters and the Native Sons, should unite their forces and clean up the rotten conditions existant in Los Angeles, city and county. Racketeering is rampant, and it cannot possibly be cured, or even curbed, until political racketeering is obliterated by forcing political racketeers out of public office. The need for prompt, forceful action was never greater!—C.M.H.

ATTENTION, NATIVE SONS!

The next in the series of monthly shows being sponsored by the united N.S.G.W. Parlors of Los Angeles County to stimulate interest in the Order will be staged November 29 at the meeting-place of Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267, I.O.O.F. Hall, 1431 Third street, Santa Monica. Come up this time, and bring friend eligible!

The Friday Luncheon Club, which holds forth at the Rosslyn Hotel every Friday from 12:15 to 1:15, continues to grow in popularity. All Native Sons are welcome. You're missing something worthwhile when you fail to join the "gang."

OPPOSED TO JAP QUOTA.

The October 11 card party of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W., in charge of Phyllis Rooke, was well attended. The pioneer dance October 21 was a wonderful success. Mrs. Louise McNary was the chairman of the able committee. Earlyday costumes were much in evidence. Talks on a sailing boat trip to the Orient by Evelyn Weldon, Rose O'Connor and Alice Bray were enjoyed October 25.

The Parlor has gone on record as opposed to granting a quota to Japs. Many attended the meeting at the Women's Athletic Club October 19, called by Past Grand Grace S. Stoermer to plan for the coming of Grand President Irma Laird on her official visits early next year.

Los Angeles' November calendar includes: 8th, card party, Kate Williams chairman. 15th, potluck supper; Lyndley Byneen will speak on the California exhibit at the Huntington Library. 22nd, "A Nite in the Old Pueblo"—dinner, entertainment and dancing. 25th, sewing club; Juanita Porter hostess.

NATIVE SON OFFICIAL VISITS.

Harmon D. Skillin of San Francisco, Grand Second Vice-president N.S.G.W., last month officially visited the southland Subordinate Parlors as per itinerary published in The Grizzly Bear for October, and was given a hearty welcome by each Parlor. The meetings were well attended, among the "faithful" being Grand Trustee Eldred Meyer, Past Grand John Newell, District Deputies Arthur Leonard, Edward Baldwin, Walter Hiskey and Walter Baskerville, Deputy Grand Presidents Walter Odemar and John Ford, Judge Donald Van Leuven, Grand Organist Leslie Maloche, Grand Inside Sentinel William Reuter and Past Grand Herman Lichtenberger.

Much to the delight of the official, candidates were presented for initiation at the meetings of Arrowhead No. 110 (San Bernardino), Glendale No. 264, Santa Monica Bay No. 267, Santa Bar-

For the Pleasure of MILLIONS

August 1932 . . . the awed hush of a mighty assemblage . . . the haunting strains of "Aloha," sung by a choir of 1500 . . . taps. An impressive close to the games of the Xth Olympiad, highlight event of the Los Angeles Coliseum. Begun in 1921 by a group of public spirited citizens—The Community Development Association—in the past ten years it has been a source of pleasure to millions and has earned an operating profit of over $425,000 for Los Angeles, City and County. In 1921 California Bank, again broadening its scope for community service, opened the doors of California Trust Company, a strong, progressive and independent institution devoted to trust business exclusively. Since 1903, through good times and bad, California Bank has stood ready to lend money to sound business enterprises. It will continue to do so.

Native Daughters of the Golden West

"TO THE OFFICERS AND MEMBERS of the Subordinate Parlors, Native Daughters of the Golden West—Dear Sisters: We approach the month of November happy in the knowledge that our Order is increasing in strength and broadening its field of usefulness. Our new strength is found in a substantial increase in members, in the organization of several new parlors, and also in a new spirit of faith in the future of our Order and in a higher appreciation of its value and its usefulness in our community life.

"November the eleventh we will celebrate Armistice Day—the anniversary of that great day when it was 'Over over there.' Today it is 'Over over here,' over in more sense than one. There is the same desire to laugh and cry and march and cheer. There is the same feeling that another great fight has been won. Armistice Day is a big day in the American mind, and for that matter—why not? Armistice Day, after all, is the spirit of hope spreading her wings for a newer and greater flight.

"Distressing as conditions have been in our country, we find much for which we can truly give thanks upon the approaching Thanksgiving Day. Thanksgiving is one of the special days of our Order, and as Native Daughters of the Golden West let us give thanks to Him on High for our double inheritance, our Nation and our State. We are truly heirs to the most fertile spot of God's making. Our troubles were largely self-imposed. We became so extravagant and indifferent, because the rewards were out of all proportion to the effort expended, that we forgot the homely virtues of thrift and vigilance. Working together, we shall overcome the difficulties that have beset us during the past few years and will emerge as members of a stronger and nobler fraternity.

" 'Father, we thank thee for the night
And for the lovely morning light,
For food and rest and loving care
And all that makes the day so fair.

Help us to do the things we should,
To be to others kind and good.
In all we do, in work or play,
To grow more loving every day.'

"Sincerely and fraternally in P.D.F.A.,
"IRMA LAIRD,
"Grand President N.D.G.W.

"Alturas, October 20, 1933."

Three Counties District Meet.

Salinas—The district meeting of Parlors of Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito Counties held September 23 was an unqualified success. Dinner was served at tables beautifully decorated under the artistic supervision of Nathalie Clark and carrying out the theme of the evening, "California Romance." A red, red rose nodded coyly from the back of each chair; nut cups of the same bright hue were surmounted by silhouettes of spanish cavaliers; Indian baskets, filled with a profusion of colorful autumnal blooms, formed the centerpieces; tapers shed their soft glow from unique holders made by the deft hands of Gladys Harris; about the room were arranged Indian baskets and relics associated with the history of the state. Beautiful shawls and gay costumes of the assembled guests added to the attractiveness of the scene.

Supervising Deputy Rose Rhyner presided during the introduction of honored guests, group singing, cabaret numbers, and short talks by Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Organist Clara A. Gairaud, Deputy Alberta McCormick, Past Grands Stella Finkeldey, Ariana W. Stirling and Bertha A. Briggs. Presidents of the participating Parlors briefly outlined plans for the year, and the story was told of each of the relics on display. Ethel Irvine and Etta Juhler sang delightful groups of spanish numbers. Santa Cruz No. 26 dramatized "The Legend of the Nahquitch Maiden;" San Juan Bautista No. 179 gave the story of "The Rose of the Rancho;" Copa de Oro No. 105 interpreted Bret Harte's poem, "Concepcion de Arguello," and Aleli No. 102 gave an adaptation of "A Legend of San Luis Obispo" from Gertrude Atherton's "Splendid Idle Forties."

GRAND PRESIDENT'S OFFICIAL ITINERARY.

President Dinner Hostess.

Sacramento—Sutter No. 111 entertained in honor of Grand President Irma Laird October 3. President Loraine Williams was hostess at a dinner at which the table decorations were in the Order's colors, red, white and yellow. Among other guests were Grand Vice-president Gladys Noce, Past Grands Anna Mixon Armstrong, Dr. Eva R. Rasmussen and Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, Grand Trustee Alice M. Lane, Supervising Deputies Sadie Brainard and Mae Lucas, Deputies Esther Mulligan and Vera L. Hellinge.

Following the dinner, President Williams and her guests were escorted to Native Sons Building, where three hundred members of the Order waited to greet the Grand President. The meetinghall was beautifully decorated with baskets of flowers and Hallowe'en favors. Grand President Laird's address was most inspiring; she pointed to the projects of the Order, including veterans welfare, historical landmarkings, the Home, the care of homeless children, and the loyalty of members to each other. Following a class initiation the Grand President and others were presented with gifts from the Parlor, after which a most delightful banquet was served under the direction of Miss Loraine Patterson, general chairman of the evening.

Meetingplace Shifted.

Placentia—Grace No. 242 has moved from Fullerton to Placentia. A majority of the active members voted in favor of the move, and consent was granted by Grand President Irma Laird. Beginning October 19 meetings are held the first and third Thursdays in the Placentia Round Table Clubhouse, corner Chapman and Bradford avenue. The homeless children sewing club had recent meetings at the homes of Lena Wagner and Secretary Mary Rothaermel.

The ways and means committee, Helen Anderson chairman, is planning fall activities for the Parlor. One of the major affairs will be a benefit ball in the American Legion Hall, Placentia, November 10. The Parlor mourns the loss of Mrs. Zoraida Yorba-Travis, a charter member who spent her entire life in the Santa Ana Canyon district. She was born March 22, 1869, and is survived by four children.—M.E.

Reminiscent of Early Days.

Oakland—Bahia Vista No. 167 welcomed Grand President Irma Laird on her official visit October 19. The theme of the entire evening was reminiscent of early Spanish California, the decorations, costumes and music carrying out the idea.

Under "good of the Order," Betty and Barbara Barnett, 7-year-old twins dressed in spanish costumes, danced in, with an escort of twelve girls garbed in spanish shawls, and on conclusion of their act escorted the Grand President to the center of the room, where she was presented with a gift by Supervising Deputy Dora Brayton, who carried a large fan of flowers to which the gift was attached. A quartet consisting of President Imelda Mills, Anna Quinn, Mary Mills and Elsie Derickson, accompanied by May F. Mills, sang "Rosita" and "La Golondrina" in Spanish as an accompaniment to the presentation ceremonies. At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments in keeping with the spanish atmosphere were served. Chairlady Dora Brayton had the co-operation of the other members of the Parlor in making the event a success.

Homeless Children Benefit.

San Bernardino—President Mary Johnson and the other officers of Lugonia No. 241 entertained at a delicious dinner September 27. Mrs. E. Q. Sullivan gave an educational address, and the drum corps of Santa Monica Bay No. 267 N.S.G.W., which received an ovation, entertained. The Harmony Club met October 10 at the home of Rhoda Smith, and October 17 at the home of Ada McInerny. At a Hallowe'en party October 25 special features were introduced.

November 18, Lugonia will entertain the public at a bazar in the Municipal Auditorium. Bridge and dancing will be among the many attractions. The proceeds will go to the homeless children fund. The Parlor has opened a bureau to assist those who have articles for sale or can make special articles for sale. First vice-president Rhoda Smith is in charge.

Grand President Congratulates.

Etna—Eschscholtzia No. 112 and Mountain Dawn No. 120 had the pleasure of greeting Grand President Irma W. Laird when she made her official visit to the Siskiyou County Parlors at a joint meeting October 7. Other visitors were Grand Trustee Alice M. Lane, Past Grand Catherine E. Gloser, Dorothy Gloster of Alturas, Irma Murray of Oakland and Ella Taylor of Redding. Grand Trustee Minna K. Horn, Supervising Deputy Margaret E. Weston and Deputy Anita Tucker also were in attendance.

The Grand President congratulated President Laura Wolford and assisting members of the two Parlors on the efficient manner in which the ritual was exemplified for the benefit of two candidates. The visiting grand officers expressed their pleasure in the active part the Parlors are taking in carrying out the projects of the Order.

From the lodgeroom, attractive with huge baskets of flowers, all adjourned to the banquetroom, where delicious refreshments were served at tables decorated with blossoms and candles in the colors of the Order. The pleasant evening terminated with a program consisting of readings by Frances Kappler and Lettie Lewis, and piano solos by Grand Trustee Horn. Mmes. Laird, Lane and Taylor, the Misses Gloster and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murray were entertained at dinner by Margaret E. Weston and Minna K. Horn prior to the meeting.

Home Coming Official Visit.

Alturas—October 6, Alturas No. 159 and Mount Lassen No. 215 (Bieber) were hostesses to Grand President Irma W. Laird and her entourage on the occasion of her home-coming official visit, she being affiliated with No. 159. The banquetroom of the new Masonic Temple was truly an autumn bower. Tables colorful with autumn leaves and fruits held covers for one hundred. After partaking of the delicious viands, the party adjourned to the beautiful and spacious lodgeroom, where Alturas Parlor exemplified the ritual, with Mildred Smith presiding, and four candidates were initiated. Seats of honor were accorded Grand President Laird, Grand Trustee Alice Lane, Deputy Nettie McKenzie, Past Grands Emma Foley (during whose administration Alturas was born), Emma Humphrey, Bertha Briggs and Catherine E. Gloster, and Mrs. Eva Williams, mother of Mrs. Laird. Each was presented with a jar of jam made from Modoc wild plums. Besides these guests of honor there were present Deputy Martha Watson and Irma Murray, accompanied by other members of Aloha, Oakland; Eleanor Taylor, Eltapome, Weaverville; Mrs. Moncur, Plumas Pioneer, Quincy; Deputy Delphine Todt, Tamelpa, Mill Valley; Deputy Lucille Skillern and a large delegation from Nataqua, Standish; Mrs. K. Black, Copa de Oro, Hollister. Two members of Alturas who, because of living out of town are not often in attendance at meetings, were among the crowd, Iva Raker of Susanville and Cora Tollett of New Pine Creek, Oregon State.

Under "good of the Order" a drill team from Nataqua, dressed in white and carrying yellow chrysanthemums, demonstrated a beautiful drill in honor of the Grand President. Wilbur Fountain, small brother of Alturas' president, entertained with cowboy and spanish songs and dances in costume. Mrs. Schwabenland, soloist, gave beautiful renditions of "The Waters of Minnetonka" and "Indian Love Call" from "Rose Marie." To the beat of tom-toms and the strains of indian music, a group of Alturas members, garbed as Modoc Indians and bedecked with genuine trophies from old Indian war battlefields, reproduced an ancient tribal ceremonial in song and dance. Their leader carried a huge cornucopia-shaped Indian basket, supposedly containing tribal sacrificial offerings. At the conclusion of the dance she approached the Grand President and, in a typical Indian speech in broken English, presented her with the contents of the basket—a set of china cups, saucers and plates. The rest of the tribe then detached the sagebrush trimmings from the treasure basket. To each sprig was attached a small Indian basket, and these were presented to the various grand and past grand officers as souvenirs of their visit to the "Land of the Modocs."

Inspirational addresses by Grand President Laird and visitors concluded a delightful and long-to-be-remembered meeting. Notable among the evening's happenings was the fact that when Past Grand Gloster asked all members of Alturas related to the Grand President to stand, her mother, her sister, her aunt and five cousins responded. Enthusiastic appreciation of the Home was expressed by an Alturas member who had been a recent guest there. Enroute to Alturas a regrettable accident befell Past Grand Bertha Briggs and her sister, Mrs. Black. Between Oroville and Quincy a hit-and-run driver caused their car to leave the road and tip over. Both sustained minor injuries, and while their car was badly damaged it was able to continue the journey under its own power. October 9 Grand President Laird went to San Francisco to continue her visits in that locality, but was recalled to Alturas October 11 by the serious illness of her father, George E. Williams.—D.G.

NEWSY N.D. PARAGRAPHS.

Jackson—Ursula No. 1 celebrated the forty-seventh anniversary of its founding September 26. Mrs. Flora Harter Seymour, a charter member, re-affiliated. The program, which featured early-day happenings, was given by Charter Members M. E. Fontenrose, Flora Podesta, Henrietta O'Neill and Emma Wright. Fall flowers were used in the beautiful decorations, and refreshments were served. The arrangements committee included Josephine Dondero (chairman), Betty Read, Thelma Lorentsen and President Catherine Swenson.

Stockton—Joaquin No. 5 celebrated Columbus Day October 10. Mrs. Edna Gormsen was chairman, and the program included, address, Assemblyman Tod Clowdsley; spanish songs, Dio Buthenuth; reading, Constance Stormes. Visitors were Past Grand Pearl Lamb, Deputy Boss Jackson and delegations from Caliz de Oro, Chispa and El Pescadero Parlors. Coffee and doughnuts were served.

Napa—Grand President Irma Laird officially visited Eschol No. 16 October 9, and was greeted by a large attendance of that Parlor's members and several visitors, including Grand Trustee Alice Lane, Supervising Deputy Wilna Mitchell and Deputy Leillus Kelly. A turkey dinner preceded the meeting, and refreshments were served at its close. One candidate was initiated. Gifts of silver and glassware were presented the honored guests, and the officers received corsages. In outlining the projects of the Order, Grand President Laird urged every member to "try and get a candidates and make our Order known to the outsiders."

Red Bluff—Officers of Berendos No. 23 were installed October 17 by Past President Minnie Bofinger, Mary Ray becoming president. A Hallowe'en party was enjoyed after the ceremonies. A reception for Tehama County Pioneers was sponsored by the Parlor October 28.

Fortuna—Mrs. Belle East of Alton delightfully entertained Reichling No. 97 at the home of Mrs. Lottie Smith October 3. Whist was played and delicious refreshments were served. During the evening beautiful gifts were presented Mrs. Marie East-Linser, a recent bride.

Middletown—Clear Lake No. 135 was pleasantly surprised by a visit from Laura Frakes-Toman, former Grand Secretary, September 26. Word was received that the baby, "Cora Lee," sponsored by the Parlor a year ago, has been adopted into a fine home.

Calistoga—Calistoga No. 145, with President Grace Wolf presiding, was hostess at the October 8 district meeting. There was a large attendance, including twenty-five members of La Junta No. 203, headed by Supervising Deputy Wilna Mitchell and President Elsie Metzner. A splendid talk was given by Grand President Irma Laird, and a program was presented, each Parlor giving a number. Light refreshments were served at the close of the very successful gathering.

Oakland—Fruitvale No. 177 had a Hallowe'en party October 20. The dramatic club, directed by Nell Crowley and Chrissie Harrison, made its first appearance in "The Fountain of Youth." Another feature was old-fashioned dancing by May Barthold, Helen Cleu, Ora Rogers, Lorretta Kidd, Alice Miller, Jean Mattos and Francis McGovern. President Mae Franklin, in charge of arrangements, was assisted by Gertrude Silligo, Francis McGovern and Dorothy Metzer.

Daly City—El Carmelo No. 181 had its annual homeless children benefit whist October 18, and it was such a success that the usual donation of fifty dollars to the Central Committee will be made. The arrangements committee included Alice Anderson (chairman), Grand Outside Sentinel Alice Oldham and Callista Davis.

Saint Helena—La Junta No. 203 had a "hard times" party, and the decorations and the refreshments were in keeping with the theme; jokes inclosed in paper napkins were read and created much merriment. A "pioneer day" at which old settlers will be guests is being planned. Two candidates were initiated during October. Having completed its adoption of "Sally," the Parlor October 3 voted to adopt a boy, who will be named "George Edward," in honor of two Native Sons George Herdle and Edward Bonhote—responsible for the institution of La Junta.

Santa Rosa—Santa Rosa No. 217 has organized a drum corps, with Florence Irwin in charge. Leland S. Lewis (Santa Rosa No. 28 N.S.G.W.) is the drillmaster. Grand Trustee Willow Borba has recovered from a serious operation. The Parlor plans many fall events.

Antioch—Ten tables of whist were in progress when Mrs. Anthony Golik entertained October 13 at the first of a series of winter home parties for the benefit of Antioch No. 223. A shower of jams and jellies for the N.D. Home was held October 24. The idea originated with Antioch, and Stirling No. 146, Donner No. 193 and Las Juntas No. 221 co-operated. Myra Rademacher and Mary Ross worked out the details. Following the shower was a Hallowe'en party, arrangements for which were made by a committee including Emma Lynn (chairman), Edythe Easton, Marguerite Gogan and Blanche Garrow.

Santa Ana—Santa Ana No. 235 was visited October 9 by Supervising Deputy Marvel Thomas and Deputy Violet Henshilwood. The former spoke pleasingly of the Order's aims and projects, and the latter commended the Parlor offi-

"TO THE OFFICERS AND MEMBERS of Subordinate Parlors—Dear Brothers: Do you realize that approximately six months have elapsed since the Grand Parlor closed its session at Grass Valley and that within six months the Grand Parlor will again be in annual session at Ukiah? We should begin NOW to take stock as to what has been done and give heed as to what kind of a report each Subordinate Parlor will be able to make to the next Grand Parlor.

"DO NOT POSTPONE THE IMPORTANT WORK OF REPLENISHING YOUR RANKS by bringing in members to fill the places of those who fall out from natural and other causes. Unless a Parlor is vigilant in this matter the result which stares us squarely in the face is inevitable. Each Subordinate Parlor should ask itself the questions: 'When did we last hold an initiatory service? Has a real, honest-to-God effort been made to increase the membership? Has any plan of organization been formulated to put over a membership drive?' The foregoing are the important questions for each Parlor to answer for itself.

"The Grand Officers are giving unstintedly much of their time to promote the success of the Order. Each one is in dead earnest in his work. There is not one slacker in the entire line. Each one keenly appreciates the urgent necessity of reconstruction. It should be borne in mind, however, that the Order does not belong to the Grand Officers alone. These officers are but your servants, giving their best for the glory of our Order and the State of California. It is your Order, and your interest is as deep for the success of the Order as that of any of the Grand Officers. They are giving many days of gratuitous labor to the Order.

"A DAY OR TWO OF TIME DONATED BY EACH MEMBER OF THE ORDER AT LARGE IN INTERESTING ELIGIBLES TO JOIN LOCAL PARLORS WOULD SOLVE OUR PROBLEM IN SHORT ORDER. It could be done with but a trifle of cost to each member if all of us, to use a pioneer term, would put our 'shoulders to the wheel' in one supreme effort. Only a little more than two months of the present year remain. But much may be accomplished in that time. Many of the Subordinate Parlors are working in Trojan fashion, and have accomplished a great deal. We are working industriously to prevent a shrinkage in membership. WE MUST TURN THE TIDE, OR BE SWEPT OUT WITH IT. It looks like we will make a gain this year. The Order wants EVERY Parlor in the state to have a share in the victory, even if the contribution of the least be not greater than one or two members.

"LET US MAKE A TEST OF OUR STRENGTH and demonstrate how much may be accomplished in the next two months by a determined, sustained drive! Let us rally to the cause of increased membership and OUR EARNEST ENTHUSIASTIC EFFORT WILL NOT BE DENIED!

"Sincerely and fraternally yours,
"EMMET SEAWELL,
"Grand President, N.S.G.W.
"San Francisco, October 14, 1933."

NOW, FOR ENTHUSIASTIC ENDEAVOR—THE FIELD IS RIPE FOR HARVEST!

Concerted Effort—Splendid Progress.

Hayward—Eden No. 113, through concerted effort of its members, is making splendid progress in carrying out the injunction of Grand President Seawell to increase the membership of the Order, and recently initiated another class of twenty-three candidates.

At the October 10 meeting, President Leo Wessman designated Edmund J. Graff, Don Harder, Ed. Nicholsen and Jesse Ramos a committee to urge the establishment of a city baseball park. He also appointed a committee—Don Harder, Dale Simpson, William Silva, Al Frager and Joseph P. Ramos—to devise ways and means to raise funds with which to support the Parlor's athletic teams.

Pioneers Entertained.

Standish—Honey Lake No. 198 and Nataqua No. 152 entertained October 8 the Pioneer Mothers and Fathers and their near relatives, and some three hundred were seated at the festive board. Hardin Barry, who styled himself "second growth hickory, tougher than the first," was master of ceremonies.

Rev. E. L. Spaulding delivered an invocation, there was a program of vocal and instrumental selections, and Mrs. Emma Lou Humphrey, Past Grand N.D.G.W., paid a touching tribute to the California Pioneers. Ed. Gribble, termed the "oldest pioneer present," was presented a boquet. The enjoyable affair afforded an opportunity for the oldtimers to exchange greetings among themselves and with the Native youngsters.

Joint Initiation Planned.

Ukiah—Ukiah No. 71 is planning big doings for November 6. Initiation will be featured, and Santa Rosa No. 28, Broderick No. 117 (Point Arena), Lower Lake No. 159 and Alder Glen No. 200 (Fort Bragg) are expected to bring candidates. The ritual will be exemplified by Ukiah, and at the conclusion of the ceremonies refreshments will be served.

To make arrangements for the 1934 Grand Parlor which meets here in May, the following committee has been appointed: Henry C. Spurr, Keith C. Eversole, President Kenneth Phillips, Harold Zimmerman, Secretary Ben Hofman, Walter Sandelin, Fred L. Bosworth, Al Bechtol, LaVerne Kehoe, Bunt Cox and Henry Bucknell.

Wonderful Hosts.

Ferndale—Ferndale No. 93 entertained the Native Daughters and Native Sons of Humboldt County and their escorts at a most delightful affair October 2, and its members proved themselves wonderful hosts. Card games and dancing were provided, and delicious refreshments were served. President C. J. Olsen was master of ceremonies, and C. R. Kistner had charge of the refreshments.

Going Places Now.

Sacramento—Sacramento No. 3 accepted a baseball challenge from Sunset No. 26, and the former won by a 7-to-5 score. Such enthusiasm was created that No. 3 has placed a team in the winter league. The Parlor drum corps has been equipped with new uniforms, and is going places now. Earl Taylor is responsible for the new spirit. The corps journeyed to Stockton October 23, to Elk Grove October 27, and will visit Placerville during November.

DEPORTATION OF UNDESIRABLES URGED BY NATIVES

OAKLAND WITH GOVERNOR GENeral June J. Longshore presiding, the annual session of the General Assembly N.S.G.W. Past Presidents Association was held October 21. Officers elected and installed include: Frank Roemer, governor general; Frank Harrison, lieutenant general; James F. Stanley, director general; John T. Regan, secretary-treasurer general; Hubert J. Caveney, marshal general; W. A. Strong, guard general; A. W. Katzenstein, sentinel general; Monroe Label, Richard M. Hamb, Richard L. P. Bigelow, trustees general. A new office, organist general, was created, and Al Weber was appointed. Marysville was selected as the General Assembly's 1934 meetingplace.

Eulogies of Past Grand President Daniel A. Ryan and Past Governor General Thomas C. Conmy were delivered by John Burnett and Grand First Vice-president Chas. A. Koenig.

An appeal was directed to all N.S.G.W. Parlors to make every endeavor to increase the returns to the Central Homeless Children Committee, to the end that that humanitarian work, one of the major activities of the Order, may be continued.

Endorsement was given the proposed celebration, with a world fair in 1937, in honor of the completion of the San Francisco-Oakland bridge, the longest in the world.

A resolution was adopted, deploring the efforts of certain groups to belittle Admission Day and to strike it off the calendar of holidays. A statewide campaign, to the end that the day will be observed as a holiday generally throughout California, was suggested.

Blaming strikes in the agricultural districts on "communistic agencies guiding Mexican labor," a resolution was adopted calling on the United States Department of Agriculture to at once deport the agitators and "those hordes of poverty-stricken Mexicans who are ever a burden on the community." It was pointed out that American agricultural help is plentiful and available, and the practice of employing foreign labor in general, and Mexican labor in particular, was decried.

A committee to "Maintain California for Californians" was created by the General Assembly. Its purpose is to discourage the growing practice of filling major public and private positions with persons imported from without the state, and to call attention to the "vast numbers of competent persons, natives or long residents of the state, who are at all times available for responsible places of employment."

The session concluded with a banquet at which Grand President Emmet Seawell, Associate Justice of the California Supreme Court, was the principal speaker. Past Grand President Harry G. Williams was toastmaster, and Richard M. Hamb was master of ceremonies.

Sacramento initiated classes of candidates October 5 and 26, President Ervin Beale and his officers exemplifying the ritual. June Longshore and Joe Fitzhenry are captains of opposing membership teams. Dr. E. C. Turner, home from a trip around the world, entertained October 26 with motion pictures of activities in foreign countries taken by him.

Placerville—Placerville No. 9 and Marguerite No. 12 N.D.G.W. had their annual dinner for the Pioneers of El Dorado County October 8. Presidents Milton Orelli and Ruth Baumhoff extended greetings on behalf of the Parlors, several of the guests related earlyday experiences, and an enjoyable program was presented. Jane McCusker was the general chairman.

Fernbridge—The Humboldt County Central Committee, composed of representatives from Humboldt No. 14 (Eureka), Arcata No. 20 and Ferndale No. 93, met October 10 and following an elaborate banquet planned various fall activities, including a horseshoe tournament.

NATIVE DAUGHTER NEWS

cers and expressed confidence in the future. Among the many other visitors were Supervising Deputy Nellie M. Cline and Deputy Mattie Edwards. Entertainment was provided by First Vice-president Ruth Kotlar and Bruce Buel. Refreshments were served at decorated tables under the supervision of Mms. Elizabeth Marsile, Genevieve Hiskey and Raymond Marsile. Mrs. Wm. West, president, was the recipient of a fancy costumed doll, dressed by Deputy Marion Crum, the draperies of which concealed a shower of kerchiefs, the gift of members. The benefit card party at the Lambert place on Rancho San Joaquin September 25 was a pleasing financial and social success. Deputy Crum headed the arrangements committee. The lovely gardens afforded a pleasing setting for the many guests, who played auction and contract bridge.

Standish—The official visit of Grand President Irma Laird to Nataqua No. 152 and Susanville No. 243, in joint session September 20, was an outstanding event. Lassen Union high school was visited in the afternoon and Mrs. Laird addressed the students. Susanville initiated two candidates, and Nataqua put on a pretty and unique drill. In her talk the Grand President commended the officers and drill team. Many visitors were in attendance, and the hall was decorated in colorful home-grown flowers. Delightful refreshments terminated a most enjoyable occasion. Nataqua cleared $259.50 at its Admission Day dance.

Most Inspiring Address.

Oroville—Grand President Irma Laird officially visited Gold of Ophir No. 190 October 4. Others present were Grand Trustees Alice Lane and Florence Boyle, Past Grands Bertha Briggs and Esther Sullivan, Supervising Deputy Mae Huston, Deputies Frances Snyder and Lauretta Ross. Previous to the meeting a dinner, complimentary to the officials, was served, the tables being decorated in beautiful autumn colors. The message of the Grand President was most inspiring, as also were those of the other grand officers. During the evening Alta Baldwin sang "Bless You" in compliment to Mrs. Laird.

At the close of the Parlor session the meeting-hall was converted into a plains scene, with the moon slowly rising behind a giant cactus. At the conclusion of an act participated in by a miner (Hattie Clark), the new schoolmarm (Irma Laird) and two cowboys (Florence Boyle and Alta Baldwin), a boquet of sagebrush and a lovely gift were presented the Grand President. Upon the banquet tables were found pinto ponies, with names and histories attached; each guest chose her pony and told its history. Community singing of old-time songs closed the enjoyable evening. The following day Grand Trustee Boyle escorted Grand President Laird, Grand Trustee Lane and Past Grand Briggs through the Natives' Pioneer Museum.

N.D. PAST PRESIDENTS DOINGS.

Stockton—Past Presidents Association No. 8 entertained Chief President Winifred Halter October 12. The program also observed the organization's third anniversary. Mrs. Sue Cooney was chairman of the arrangements committee. Past presidents from all surrounding Parlors were in attendance.

San Jose—In recognition of Columbus Day, Past Presidents Association No. 3 enjoyed a program, directed by Grand Organist Clara Gairaud, in which Grace Paul, Margaret Gilleran, Julia Waddington and Clara Briggs participated. A jolly Hallowe'en party, arranged by Georgia Shannon, Julia Compton and Dorothy Salas, followed. The organization's welfare work has greatly expanded, and an outline for winter months activities was given by Chairman Claire Borchers of the welfare committee.

In Memoriam

MINNIE W. GETZ.

To the Officers and Members of Alta Parlor No. 3 N.D.G.W.—Whereas, Almighty God, in His infinite wisdom, has removed from our midst to the Heavenly Parlor our esteemed charter member, Minnie W. Getz, and while in all reverence we submit our minds and hearts to His Holy Will, we mourn our loss and feel the deepest sympathy for the family of our beloved member. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That in testimony of our love and esteem for our departed sister, these resolutions be spread in full on the minutes of the Parlor, a copy sent to the family and a copy sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

Respectfully submitted in P.D.F.A.,
ELIZABETH F. DOUGLASS,
MARY HOWELL,
MINNIE SPELMAN,
Committee.

San Francisco, September 30, 1933

ROSE SWIFT.

We, your committee appointed by the president to draft resolutions to the memory of our departed member, Rose Swift, respectfully submit the following.

The Angel of Death has entered the portals of Bonita Parlor No. 10 N.D.G.W. and taken from our midst our sister, Rose Swift. She was a loyal Native Daughter and loved California with a true and tender love. Our Order has lost a loved and faithful member. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That our charter be draped in mourning; that a copy of these resolutions be sent to her bereaved relatives, and that they be published in the "Redwood City Tribune" and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

"May the California winds blow lightly, may the California sun shine brightly, may the California rain fall softly, where sleeps our Sister dear."

Respectfully submitted in P.D.F.A.,
DORA WILSON,
MAMIE GLENNAN,
EMILY KELTING,
Committee.

Redwood City, October 1, 1933.

BINA YOUNG.

To the Officers and Members of El Carmelo Parlor No. 181 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of love and respect in memory of our departed sister, Bina Young, do submit the following:

Once again we bow to the will of Almighty God who, in His infinite wisdom, has called to the Heavenly Parlor on High our esteemed and beloved sister, Bina Young. And

Whereas, In her passing our Parlor has lost a most highly respected and faithful member, the community a useful citizen, her husband a devoted wife, and her children an affectionate mother, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we extend our sincere and heartfelt sympathy to her bereaved family; and further be it resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to her devoted husband, Howard B. Young, also a copy to her loving daughter, Louise Eliasen; that a copy in full be spread upon the minutes of this Parlor; that a copy be sent to the "Daly City Record," and a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear for publication.

Respectfully submitted in P.D.F.A.,

SAN FRANCISCO

THE LILLIE HITCHCOCK-COIT MEMorial Tower was dedicated October 8. It stands atop Telegraph Hill, so named from the fact that in early days news of incoming ships, arriving through the Golden Gate, was signaled from its summit. The white granite shaft, 170 feet high, was built with funds left by Mrs. Coit, belle of the '60s and heroine of the old Volunteer Fire Department, who died in 1929, at the age of 88. Born at West Point, Lillie Hitchcock came to San Francisco in May 1851 with her parents, Dr. Charles M. and Martha Hunter Hitchcock.

Speakers at the dedicatory ceremonies included, among others, Mayor Angelo Rossi; Mrs. Irma Laird, Grand President N.D.G.W.; Justice Emmet Seawell, Grand President N.S.G.W.; F. Holland Dutton of the Society of California Pioneers, and George Baron, who represented the San Francisco Fire Department.

THANKSGIVING EVE MONSTER BENEFIT FOR HOMELESS CHILDREN.

The N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Homeless Children Committe will feature a monster entertainment and ball Thanksgiving Eve, November 29. The entertainment will consist of leading numbers from all the local theaters, and some of the stage's greatest artists will be presented. Chairman Helen Mann of the entertainment sub-committee is being assisted by Chief Thomas J. Murphy of the San Francisco Fire Department in planning the program. Others active in arranging for the benefit for the kiddies are Charles R. Boden, Mathew Brady, Paul Conniff, John J. Barrett, Lulu Porter, Ann Dippel and Joseph Rose.

At the committee meeting October 20, Mayor Angelo J. Rossi paid a tribute to the Central Homeless Children Committee, and related many incidents, that have come to his official attention, of abandoned children being taken in charge by the Central Committee and placed in fine homes. Officers of the joint San Francisco committee are: Walter Bammann (Pacific N.S.), chairman; Kitty Malaney (Dolores N.D.), vice-chairman; Agnes Curry (Portola N.D.), recording secretary; Bertha Mouser (Keith N.D.), financial secretary; Martin Huber (Mission N.S.), treasurer.

RECEPTION FOR N.D. GRAND PRESIDENT.

Under the auspices of the Grand Parlor N.D.G.W. Home Committee, a reception in honor of Grand President Irma W. Laird was the occasion for a representative gathering of members and citizens at the Home October 1. Past Grand Dr. Mariana Bertola, chairman of the committee, extended a welcome, and among the speakers were Annette Abbott Adams, Dr. J. C. Geiger, Grand President Laird, Mrs. A. W. Stokes, Mrs. H. DeNyse, Supervisors J. Emmett Hayden and James B. McSheehy, Miss Anna W. Beaver, Mrs. Angelita L. Sherer. Vocal selections were rendered by Past Grand Estelle M. Evans and Paul Weber of Piedmont Parlor No. 120 N.S.G.W.

The following members of the Home Committee were introduced: Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Past Grands Genevieve W. Baker, Estelle M. Evans, Emma G. Foley and Evelyn I. Carlson, Miss Millie Tietjen, Mrs. Agnes M. Curry, Miss Elizabeth F. Douglass and Grand Trustee Alice M. Lane. There was a very large attendance, and many messages of regret at inability to attend were received. Misses Bernice Monahan, Catherine McNally and Marion Curry assisted in receiving the guests.

MARRIED BOYS DEFEAT SINGLE ONES.

South San Francisco Parlor No. 157 N.S.G.W. had its annual baseball contest between the married and the single members October 22, and the former won by a score of 10 to 4. The game was also in the nature of a homecoming celebration for Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, for seventeen years a member of the Parlor and during the season just closed identified with the New York Giants—and having an important part in the winning of the world series. "Lefty" not only played the entire game with the married men, but proved that he is still a pitcher by pitching the last two innings and allowing the single men not a hit.

Included in the married men's team also were Paul McAvoy (captain), Thomas Keating, Bill Latzin—who helped South San Francisco win the championship of the Native Sons Baseball League seventeen years ago, and from which league "Lefty" O'Doul started his professional baseball career,—Henry Kendall, Dan Collins, Andy Pelessier, George Simas, Judge George W. Schonfeld and John Den Besten. On the single men's team were Jack Brady (captain), Moon Mertag, Lefty Guerra, Ed. Hallinan, Jimmy English, Henry Sunsa, Carl Simas, Otto Elvander, Joseph Baldelli and Eddy Fox. Over a thousand residents of the Bay View district turned out to witness this annual event and to extend a welcome to "Lefty" O'Doul.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS NEWS BRIEFS.

Due to the splendid work of Chairman Thelma Flake, Grand Marshal Anna C. Thuesen and an energetic committee the bridge-whist party in aid of the sick fund of Alta Parlor No. 3, October 16, was a huge success. Frank MacDonald conducted the games and the "dutch auction" which followed.

Orinda Parlor No. 56 had an official visit October 13 from Grand Vice-president Gladys E. Noce, substituting for Grand President Irma Laird, called home by her father's illness. The Parlor officers, wearing peach-colored gowns and green hats and carrying green muffs with gardenias, made a beautiful picture. Among the many in attendance were twenty past presidents of Orinda, twenty-six deputies, Grand Secretary Sallie Thaler, Grand Trustees Orinda Giannini, Ethel Begley, Alice Lane and Willow Borba, Grand Inside Sentinel Alice Oldham, Past Grands Emma Foley, Eliza Keith, Dr. Mariana Bertola and Evelyn Carlson, and Supervising Deputy Rena Mathias. Numerous presentations were made, including beautiful gifts to Grand Vice-president Noce and Deputy Mae Waring. A delightful dinner preceded the meeting, and at its conclusion a buffet supper was served. Past President Mae Shea and Edna Bishop (James Lick No. 220) will be joint hostesses at the get-together breakfast at the Home November 12.

Genevieve Parlor No. 132 and Gabrielle Parlor No. 139 were well represented at the October 8 breakfast at the Home, when Deputy Nora Scheflin and Emma Heiman were hostesses. Congressman Richard J. Welch was the speaker, motion pictures of the progress being made in the construction of the Golden Gate bridge were shown, and a fine program was presented by the San Francisco Glee Club, Lillian Troy, Alice Taylor Bradford, Deputy Rena Taube, Ernestine Cerville and Isabel Thiebaut. Among those in attendance were Past Grands Genevieve W. Baker, who instituted Genevieve Parlor, Dr. Mariana Bertola, Evelyn Carlson and Margaret Hill, Grand Trustee Orinda Giannini, Elizabeth Douglas, Manager Reed of the Golden Gate bridge and Mr. Madden.

Golden Gate Parlor No. 158 had an indoor picnic September 25 to which members of Golden Gate Parlor No. 29 N.S.G.W. were invited. A Hallowe'en costume party October 23 was greatly enjoyed, and gifts were presented for the most original costumes. The Parlor's drill team was hostess to its many friends at a Hallowe'en barn dance October 24.

Linda Rosa Parlor No. 170 was honored by an official visit from Grand President Irma W. Laird October 11. Also present were Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Grand Trustees Ethel Begley and Alice Lane, Grand Outside Sentinel Alice Oldham, Past Grands Margaret Grote Hill and Evelyn I. Carlson, Supervising Deputy Ann Dippel, Deputy Elizabeth Mueller and delegations from many neighboring Parlors. President Gladys P. Huber presided. Grand President Laird gave an interesting address, encouraging each Native Daughter to do her part in the different projects

NATIVE SONS NEWS BRIEFS.

The San Francisco Extension of the Order Committee is preparing for a class initiation, December 8, in honor of Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell. Officers of nearly all the local Parlors will compete for the coveted places on the team that will exemplify the ritual.

Daniel Joseph O'Brien, for many years chief of police of San Francisco, died October 12. He was affiliated with Rincon Parlor No. 72, and was born in San Francisco August 8, 1875.

Stanford Parlor No. 76 enjoyed a genuine "german night" October 19, the numbers on the program coming from the Deutscher Verein of San Francisco. The purpose was to honor the German Pioneers whose sons are now affiliated with the Order. The evening was in charge of Carl Boegershausen and Charles W. Dechent, and upwards of two hundred members and friends of the Parlor were in attendance. Stanford's golden jubilee committee is sponsoring a full-moon river trip "through the heart of California," from San Francisco to Sacramento, November 4.

In Memoriam

JOSEPH K. HAWKINS.

Once more the solemn hour has struck and another well beloved brother of Mount Tamalpais Parlor No. 64 N.S.G.W. has answered the call of the Supreme Ruler, and his spirit has winged its flight to meet with those who have gone before in the Grand Parlor on High.

Joseph K. Hawkins has departed this Vale of Tears after years of suffering borne with patience, ever true to his country and to our great Order; a loving husband and father, a brilliant star in the firmament of the bench and bar, always faithful to his clients, a public servant whose record is beyond reproach, his passing will leave an aching void difficult to fill.

We extend to his bereaved family our most sincere sympathy in this, their dark hour of sorrow, and we commend them to our Most Merciful Father for comfort and consolation. Be it

Resolved, That a copy of this memorial be spread upon the minutes of the Parlor and a copy be forwarded to the family of our departed brother; that the charter of this Parlor be draped for a period of thirty days; that the Parlor stand in silence in respect to his memory, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

Respectfully submitted in Friendship, Loyalty and Charity,

MARY FRANCES MITCHELL.

Officers and Members of Past Presidents Association No. 3 N.D.G.W.—Your committee appointed to draft a testimonial of love and respect to the memory of our beloved sister, Mary Frances Mitchell, respectfully submit the following:

Our Heavenly Father has called from our circle one of our beloved and highly esteemed members, Mary Frances Mitchell, who passed away September third, nineteen hundred and thirty three. The long and intimate associations held with her in this Association make it eminently fitting that we express our appreciation of her unfaltering loyalty and earnest devotion; to pay loving tribute to the great affection that she ever maintained for this organization. The loss of this devoted member leaves a vacancy that is deeply felt by all.

"No one hears the door that opens
When they pass beyond our call.
Soft as loosened leaves of roses
One by one our loved ones fall."

The members of Past Presidents Association Number Three extend to the bereaved daughter our heartfelt sympathy, expressing the hope that the knowledge of this sincere sympathy will help to assuage her sorrow. We ask that this testimonial be spread upon our minutes, a copy sent to the daughter, and a copy sent to The Grizzly Bear for publication.

ANNIE LUCAS GILL.

To the Officers and Members of Manzanita Parlor No. 29 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our beloved sister, Annie Lucas Gill, beg to submit the following:

Our Heavenly Father, in His infinite wisdom and love, has seen fit to call to her eternal reward our dearly deloved sister, Annie Lucas Gill. We miss her gracious presence and her kindly Christian character, and we realize that our loss is her gain. While bowing in submission to the will of our Heavenly Father, nevertheless we mourn with keen regret the passing of our sister and ask that our tribute of affection and sympathy be sent to her sorrowing relatives; that a copy of the same be written into the minutes of this meeting, and that another copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear for publication.

NATIVE SON NEWS

Santa Rosa—Santa Rosa No. 28 has appointed a committee—Henry Stone, George Colgan and Dr. W. C. Shipley—to revive the Sonoma County Museum project.

Hollister—Fremont No. 44 and Copa de Oro No. 105 N.D.G.W. had a highly successful card party October 19 that netted in excess of $75 for the homeless children. Baskets of groceries were presented prizewinners, and an artistic wishing-well from which fortunes were drawn helped to swell the proceeds.

Napa—Napa No. 62 initiated a large class of candidates October 16, the ritual being exemplified by President Theodore E. Freitas and the officers. Entertainment and refreshments followed, the committee in charge being George Marino Jr., Woodrow Greene, Gordan Herrick and Dorien Levy. The Parlor's drum and bugle corps has been annexing more trophies. The corps sponsors a dance the fourth Saturday night of each month.

San Rafael—Joseph K. Hawkins, a former Grand Trustee affiliated with Mount Tamalpais No. 64, died September 29. He was a native of San Francisco, aged 62.

Santa Cruz—Santa Cruz No. 90 had an official visit September 29 from Grand Trustee Charles Spengemann, who told of the earnest efforts being made to advance the Order's interests. At the festive board, President James Griffin was the toastmaster, and among the speakers were Charter Member R. H. Pringle and District Deputy Horace Burkett.

Livermore—Las Positas No. 96 had initiation September 22, the ritual being exemplified by a team from Athens No. 195 (Oakland). Grand Trustee Edward Schnarr was among the visitors. The recently reorganized "side degree" team of Las Positas visited Athens October 10 and scored a tremendous hit. H. W. Anderson, John Rose, Dr. Donald M. Fraser, R. J. Ruetz, Wm. Twisselman and J. J. Kelly officiated.

San Diego—San Diego No. 108 had a splendid meeting October 11, the occasion of the official visit of Grand Second Vice-president Harmon D. Skillin. Among the many visitors were Grand Organist Leslie Maloche, District Deputy Walter Hiskey and delegations from Arrowhead No. 110 (San Bernardino) and Santa Ana No. 265. Four candidates were initiated.

(ADVERTISEMENT.)

Sonoma—Sonoma No. 111 will initiate a large class of candidates November 6, and a big night is planned. Napa No. 62 will be represented by a large delegation, including its drum corps. Sonoma has gone on record as opposed to the proposal of the Santa Rosa Chamber of Commerce to abolish Admission Day as a business holiday.

Oakland—As a benefit for its band, Piedmont No. 120 sponsored a Hallowe'en party October 28. Leader Herman W. Hulens and his splendid organization presented a program of concert numbers.

Santa Ana—Mrs. Martha J. Marks, mother of Secretary E. F. Marks of Santa Ana No. 265, died September 30 at Gardena, Los Angeles County, at the age of 82. For fifty-two years she made her home in Santa Ana.

BE A RECRUITER! Every Native Son knows someone who should belong to the Order, someone whom he would be glad to propose for membership, and who would appreciate the privilege of affiliation with an Order engaged in worthwhile activities for the glory and the wellbeing of California. Make the heart of the Grand President glad by wholehearted co-operation with him in his plan to supply the Order's outstanding need—increased membership. NOW, FOR ENTHUSIASTIC ENDEAVOR—THE FIELD IS RIPE FOR HARVEST!

PAST PRESIDENTS ACTIVITIES.

Oroville—At a special meeting of Fred H. Greely Assembly No. 6, hearty endorsement was given the forceful opposition of Junior Past Grand President Seth Millington to efforts to make present immigration restrictions more lenient for Japs and other ineligible-to-citizenship aliens. Frank O'Brien was toastmaster at the dinner, and other speakers included Past Grand President Fred H. Greely, Mayor Sam Marks, District Deputy Cyril Macdonald, Al Graves, Governor Peter J. Delay and Historian W. R. Parker.

Napa—Napa-Solano Assembly No. 11 had as a guest of honor October 14 Governor General June J. Longshore. A class of candidates were initiated, the ritual being exemplified by a team from San Francisco Assembly No. 1. A banquet, with Frank Harrison as toastmaster, was spread and several enthusiastic addresses were made.

bara No. 116, Sepulveda No. 263 (San Pedro), Hollywood No. 196, Compton No. 273, University No. 272 (Los Angeles) and San Diego No. 108 Parlors. Refreshments were served on all occasions, and Sepulveda Parlor preceded its meeting with an elaborate supper.

Vice-president Skillin's talks at all the Parlors were of a constructive nature, and were well received. He said they should work unceasingly to secure more members and should spread the gospel of Nativesonism. He urged every southland Native Son to secure at least one new member before the close of 1933. Just prior to his departure for home, Skillin requested The Grizzly Bear to thank the Parlors and their individual members for the hospitality shown him, and to extend to all of them his heart-inspired best wishes for unbounded success.—C.M.H.

PIONEER PARLOR'S ANNIVERSARY.

Los Angeles No. 45, the pioneer Native Son Parlor in California South, will celebrate its forty-ninth institution anniversary with a dinner-dance at one of the state's most unique cafes, the Paris Inn, 210 East Market street, November 16. The admission fee of $1.25 per plate includes dinner, entertainment and dancing.

The Parlor cordially invites all Native Sons and Daughters and their friends to join with it on this gala occasion. Reservations must be made in advance through Secretary Willard F. Allen, 4955 Los Feliz boulevard, or any member of the arrangements committee: Harry C. Davis (chairman), Walter Smith, Earl LeMoine, Herbert Leuschner, Michael Botello, Chester Staley, Frank Frank, President Roger M. Johnson and James F. Meehan.

The Parlor will devote November 2 to a discussion of history and landmarks under the guidance of William O. Gilkey. Officers for the January-July term will be nominated November 23, and November 30 being Thanksgiving Day there will be no meeting.

NEW MEETINGPLACE.

Long Beach—Long Beach Parlor No. 154 N.D.G.W. sponsored a surprise party September 25 at the home of Gussie Tabor, and in appreciation for the many pleasant evenings spent there presented her with a coffee pot. Refreshments were served under the supervision of Eugenia Smith and Margaret Birch. September 28 Deputy Letitia Sarciaux visited the Parlor and complimented it for its excellent work. Leola Temby was presented a baby spoon for her new daughter, Roberta.

Clara Fay headed the committee which had charge of the successful dinner and card party October 10. The thimble club met October 12 at the home of Mrs. Gerard and worked on a quilt. October 26 the club made aprons at the home of Lillian Lassiter. Hallowe'en games were played following the October 19 Parlor meeting, and refreshments were served by Alice Waldow, Lillian Lassiter and Leola Temby.

Since the March quake Long Beach has been meeting at the home of President Eleanor Johnson. Commencing November 2, the Parlor will meet the first and third Thursdays of each month in New Masonic Hall, 835 Locust avenue. A cooked-food sale, Johanna Reed chairman, is to be held during November.

OLD-FASHIONED SMOKER.

Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W. will stage one of its famed old-fashioned smokers November 13 at its meetingplace, 1089 North Oxford avenue. A classy floor show will precede a dutch supper, and various forms of amusement will be provided. All Native Sons are invited.

Daniel F. McSweeney, professor of law at Loyola University, affiliated with the Parlor last month. Superior Judge Joseph P. Sproul, a past president of Hollywood, was host to several members at the luncheon club meeting of October 20.

"SECRET SISTER" CLUB INTERESTS.

Santa Monica—The "secret sister" club, started by Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245 N.D.G.W. in September, has created much interest. During the year each member will exchange greetings and small gifts with a "secret sister" without knowing her name until it is revealed at a luncheon at the year's end. Chairman Helen Burke of the veteran welfare committee asked for donations of jams, jellies and cookies for Hallowe'en festivities at the National Military Home.

November 1, the Parlor will serve a spanish supper at 1431 Third street, Santa Monica, at 6:30 p.m. Price, thirty-five cents. Mms. Teresa Hennarty and Katherine Worsham are in charge. The sewing club met at the Mar Vista home of Mrs. Rhea Jones October 21 and worked on articles for a bazar. The November meeting of the club will be at the Venice home of Secretary Reta Smith. This will be a morning session, followed by luncheon, and garments will be made for the homeless children.

SPANISH DINNER DANCE.

Glendale—Glendale Parlor No. 264 N.S.G.W. will feature a spanish dinner dance at 222 South Glendale boulevard Saturday night, November 4, commencing at 6:30. Mrs. Phil Molen and Ione Gillett will be in charge of the cooking—a guarantee of good food, and plenty. Price, seventy-five cents. Capacity is limited, so reservations should be made by calling DOuglas 142 or addressing Phil Molen, 222 South Glendale avenue.

WORKING FOR NEEDY CHILDREN.

Most varied and pleasurable have been the activities of Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W. The bridge-luncheon at the home of Mrs. Oscar Schmidt September 28 will long remain a delightful memory in the hearts of the more than 250 who attended. Mrs. Ralph Tuttle was in charge, and a neat sum was cleared. The dessert sewing circle had charming parties October 2, 4 and 30, the hostesses being Mms. R. L. Hendricks, Russell Bassett and George Duvall. The sewing circle is working for the annual homeless children bazar, also for needy children, one little girl having been entirely outfitted for school. The history class, under the tutelage of Isabel Fages, is approaching the mission period.

At the October 10 meeting, Mrs. Charles Decker presented as speakers Judge Perry Wood and Earle Jensen. Members having October birthdays were honored with cards. Mary Foy was November 28 a large class of candidates will be initiated; applications may be secured from Ruth Parris.

TO HONOR N.S. GRAND PRESIDENT.

Santa Monica—In honor of Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell, Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W. will initiate a large class of candidates December 6. A committee—Judge Joseph Call (chairman), William James, Lindsay Dickey and Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz—has been appointed to promote interest in tennis among the Natives.

At the Grand Parlor session next year the Parlor will present Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer as a candidate for grand third vice-president. The Parlor sympathizes with Drum Major Bert Bair, who lost his father through death. The drum corps, which has made such remarkable progress since its organization the latter part of August, visited Arrowhead Parlor No. 110 (San Bernardino) and Santa Barbara Parlor No. 116 last month, and will appear in the Santa Monica Armistice Day parade.

BAZAR.

Glendale—Two affairs—a bridge luncheon and a bridge dinner—were sponsored by Verdugo Parlor No. 240 N.D.G.W. October 12 at the home of Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel B. Hansen. Ada Steele headed the luncheon committee, and Vera Carlson that for the dinner. The proceeds will be used to purchase a California State (Bear) Flag for Glendale's new postoffice building.

Once a week members of the Parlor meet at various members' homes to prepare for a bazar to be held November 18 in Masonic Temple. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m., and dancing will be in order at 8:30. Kathryn Burke, in charge, is being assisted by Ada Steele, Margaret Donlan (dinner chairman), Anna Alpi and Myrtize Tregea.

DANCE IN HONOR PAST PRESIDENTS.

Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. is staging its first dance of the season at Patriotic Hall, 1816 South Figueroa street, Saturday, November 25. It is in honor of the past presidents, all of whom are urged to appear in the grand march. Many novelties will be introduced. Admission fee, twenty-five cents per person. During October the Parlor added six new names to its membership list.

Other events on Ramona's November calendar are: 5th, caravan to Walnut, to visit Charter President R. F. DelValle. 10th, initiation. 17th, birthday dinner, in honor of those members born during the month of November.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Mrs. Rosina Hertzbrun (San Diego N.D.) is now a resident of Los Angeles.

Herman C. Lichtenberger (Past Grand N.S.) paid a visit last month to San Francisco.

Miss Emily Dierdorf was wedded to Jack Nelson (Santa Monica Bay N.S.) September 25.

Miss Florida Jean Craig became the bride of Paul Daniel McCormick (Hollywood N.S.) October 6.

Dr. William R. Maloney (Ramona N.S.) has been elected president State Board Medical Examiners.

GRIZZLY GROWLS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

QUOTAISTS OF CALIFORNIA INTERests operating as the California Council on Oriental Relations, and through the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and similar organizations dominated by dollar-seekers,—desire to let down the Federal immigrations bars so the Japs may, unhampered, complete their "peaceful invasion," and are resorting to condemnatory tactics to win public approval of the scheme. Here's one instance:

"The California Legionnaire" for October came out with a full-page, big-type advocacy of quota for Japs. At the bottom, in small type, is the notation, "Paid advertisement," the interests, of course, supplying the wherewith. The purpose of this was to deceive the public! Proof sheets of the story were sent broadcast, before the "Legionnaire" was circulated, to newspapers and organizations, in the hope of extensively publicizing an intimated change in sentiment on the part of the American Legion. This "dope" was called to the attention of the oversigned, who referred it to Past Grand President Seth Millington of the Native Sons, actively identified with the American Legion and a forceful, unafraid combatant of the quota advocates. Millington, October 14, wrote Homer Chaillaux, Commander American Legion, Department of California, as follows:

"In the last issue of the 'California Legionnaire' I find that the entire page eight is taken up by an ad in favor of doing away with the Asiatic exclusive features of the 1924 act. While down at the bottom there is in small type a statement 'paid advertisement,' it is my opinion that in view of the consistent standing of the Legion against amending or changing the 1924 act that the acceptance of this ad is a serious breach of not only Legion policy but also of courtesy to the unanimous act of the conventions both national and state for many years past.

"I think this ad should never have been accepted; it seems that the dollar means more to the paper than principle. The acceptance of this ad is entirely inconsistent with the Legion stand and I have already heard many expressions of resentment against the paper for printing such a thing, even though it were paid for. I believe that the next issue of the paper should come out editorially with an emphatic repudiation of any Legion connection with the thoughts expressed in the ad and I think that as a matter of policy ads of this kind should not be accepted, for the slight monetary help that they give is more than counteracted by the resentment of the members against such propaganda."

The American Legion has not swerved one iota in its opposition to the Japs! The quotaists,—the white-Japs—however, are so obsessed with a determination to aid the yellow-Japs they stop at nothing. They are hopeful of getting the quota for the Japs at the next session of the Federal Congress, and apparently have become desperate. Loyal Californians should, therefore, be constantly on guard!

Through Edward DeGroot, district governor for California, the quotaists have attempted to get Rotary Clubs to endorse the quota for Japs, and many Rotarians are furious. In a straight-from-the shoulder talk before the Gridley, Butte County, club, September 29, Seth Millington declared DeGroot sold out the Rotary organization and charged he had given the Rotary district mailing list to the California Council on Oriental Relations for publicity purposes. The Gridley club adopted a resolution condemning "the action of the district governor, Edward B. DeGroot, in advocating before the Rotary of the second district the program of the California Council on Oriental Relations." The action at Gridley probably has put a quietus on the attempt to use Rotary to further the interests of the Japs, white and yellow.

President Franklin Roosevelt, October 22, concluded another of his pleasing and enlightening addresses with: "I have told you the story of our steady but sure work in building our common recovery. In my promises to you both before and after March 4, I made two things plain: first, that I pledged no miracles, and second, that I would do my best. I thank you for your patience and your faith. Our troubles will not be over tomorrow, but we are on our way and we are headed in the right direction."

In the history of this nation, no man has been more faithful to the trust delegated to him, more solicitous of the welfare of his fellow citizens than is President Roosevelt. Of course he cannot perform miracles, but he is doing all that any human could possibly do, and much more than most humans would even attempt to do, to straighten out an awful mess. Every loyal citizen will be patient, have faith, and uncomplainingly follow his lead.

Strikes, a disgrace to those fomenting and encouraging them, are seriously interfering with the herculean efforts of the Federal Government to improve conditions generally. In California, many of the strikers and troublebreeders are aliens antagonistic to our form of government, here to cause trouble and to live off the bounty of citizens. Any person who refuses to work when the opportunity is given should be denied food and other relief at public expense!

And, too, if the Federal Government would supply, from the ranks of the unemployed, citizens, anxious to co-operate and work, to fill the places of strikers, and give them military protection, if necessary, the strike-obstacle would soon be removed from the path of the Blue Eagle.

While California's sales tax is decidedly unpopular, it is not likely to be repealed. Squandering of public funds by the state government —cleaning a substantial surplus out of the treasury and creating an enormous deficit—necessitated the tax, all claims otherwise notwithstanding. The now-hated sales tax will prove a Godsend, if it so arouses the citizenry that they will force a reduction of about fifty percent in the stupendous cost of government and will put into public office those who can, and will, bring about the necessary reduction.

Here's a mouthful of truth, from Novelist Rupert Hughes: "Many of our political rulers are directly in cahoots with the thieves. Our political corruption stinks to heaven and perhaps hell."

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

WHAT ABOUT THAT NEW WINTER coat? It is easy to tell this season, when you see a late thirty-three model, if it exhibits the new smooth shoulder line gadgets and has no epaulets. It concentrates all its fur trimmings in one place, such as sleeves, front closing or neck, but not all three places. It has a dropped shoulder line, and perhaps deep armholes. It emphasizes the new elongated line, best accented by using the fur trimming straight up the front from hem to neck. The new bow-tie of fur is popular. A long narrow scarf of fur which ties in a bow at the neckline has long ends that hang below the waistline. The safest bet for women of all sizes and shapes is the classic shawl collar, which lends a becoming "V" neck-line, but there are many collars besides the shawl model. Real Alaska seal in log-rolling brown, persian lamb and sable are used.

This year's coats are made of fabric, rather than all-fur models, and a trigly fitted waistline is essential if the coat is to be alluring. The little woman, by avoiding too much flare on the hem of the skirt coat below the fitted body, will find it more becoming. If it is to be a sports coat, look for bright colors in rough fabrics. A light fur, such as bleached wolf, is used on dark or bright colors. Raglan sleeves are most popular.

A series of new woolens in stone colors are simply divine. The color chart reads like a geological collection. Iron-quartz brown, caramine, azurite, cinnabar, red malachite and many other equally effective stones have been duplicated. Costumes of these woolens, with clips and brooches of matching stone, will turn any young girl's head. All fabrics resembling suede seem to make a firm bid for popularity.

A sports dress of red jersey brocade is unusual and striking, and celestial blue fashions another sports dress with matching jacket. A blue llama jersey suit for active sports has a divided skirt, short jacket and a white blouse with a high stock collar. Other knockouts in the sports line include a black and rose checked tweed suit trimmed in balboa ribbon, and a dark blue tweed suit with a collar and peplum of seal.

Sweater blouses and tweed skirts are reigning styles. That good old custom of assembling your own sports outfits goes on apace. Shirts and skirts and grand new sweaters are presented in dazzling array just now. To start with, you should lay the foundation with a couple of those correct tweed skirts seamed and stitched to the last notch, some with pockets and some with polo belts. You might select one in a tobacco brown and one in eel gray. Then add a wool blouse cut mannish style with a deep collar, pockets, buttons up the front and a bow tie.

To get down to business, invest in a twin sweater set, the soft angora knit slip-on style matching the ribbon-bound cardigan that buttons up to the chin. Then get a couple of odd sweaters. One may be violently striped and worn under the solid-color cardigan occasionally, and one may be polka-dotted in dizzy colors.

Admitting that the hand-knitted costume will always be in a class by itself, there is much to be said in favor of present-day machine-knitted garments. One of the outstanding novelties of the season is the lovely two-tone card-knit fabric. A stunning sports dress has a finger-tip length swagger coat of cypress green and white card-knit. The dress is tailored on the new bias lines and has a large detachable velvet bow collar.

Never let it be said that you have not a fall suit in your wardrobe. One should be hanging there now, ready to pop out at the first cold weather signal. It may be a woolen striped, checked or plain suit, definitely sporty, with some long-haired fur snuggling close to the neck. Or, it may be a furless suit with a foolish little dash of color in the shape of a scarf or kerchief knotted at the throat. It is really too difficult to classify any one type.

Luxurious and unusual fabrics are the mainstay. If fate forces you to be practical, get a good black town suit or coat, trimmed in black persian lamb. It will carry you safely through the fall, and into the winter for that matter. It may be tailored or elegant; both styles are being shown.

The suit with three-quarters coat and straight slim skirt is still proper, and the hip-length jacket is just as good as ever. There is the three-piece tweed suit, a fall classic with a straight, loose top coat. Perhaps this is trimmed with fox or skunk.

As to the elegant mode—that is something else again. It runs to smooth velvety woolens and broadcloths. The black suit is one of the smartest of the season. In the accessory line, a black velvet beret with a rakish red quill is worn with black velvet gloves, and the cuffs are lined with red—a stunning accent to the black costume.

Here is a trick for dressing up a last season's evening gown with velvet trimmings: take last year's white satin gown, which now looks a little insipid, and add shoulder-length gloves of bright green velvet, sandals of green velvet and a green velvet belt—and you will never recognize the good old dress.

The velvet jacket is important for both sports and evening wear, and it is hard to tell the two styles apart since both may be tailored. Corduroy velvet is one of the newest fabrics for fall coats and dresses, and the velvet evening suit with gorgeous lamé blouse and jeweled accents is one of the big noises of the season.

The more jewelry one wears today, the more fashionable one appears. Rhinestone and cut-steel shoe buckles are back in vogue once more. Jeweled clips are worn on gowns, bags, hats and belts, while the use of exotic costume jewelry such as bracelets, necklaces and earrings is considered smart.

The time is at hand to be planning for the holiday season, which will be with us before we know it. So, start your shopping early!

CALIFORNIA

(EVANGELINE CAREY.)

California means to me—
Rugged cliffs along the sea,
Golden fruit and blossoms white
Shining in the soft moonlight;

Desert sands, where some have tread
Miles to revere their past dead;
Ghost cities and miners few,
Under skies of vivid blue;

Missions heaped with history lore,
Golden Gate at my front door;
Sunsets that are orange and red,
Brilliant evening stars o'erhead;

Foggy morns and dewey nights,
Sunny days that are just right.
California is to me—
Just the place that I would be.

A Symbol

THE Yule log—symbol of Christmas through the ages. On the great holiday the lord of the manor threw wide the doors, and misery and squalor were forgotten in the cheer of the boar's head and wassail.

Customs change, but the Christmas spirit is ageless. Today millions express it by the purchase of Christmas Seals—the penny stickers that fight tuberculosis—still the greatest public health problem. Your pennies will help pay for free clinics, nursing service, preventoria, tuberculin testing, X-rays, rehabilitation and other important work such as medical and social research.

UNEMPLOYMENT IMMIGRATION, AND RECOVERY

SAN FRANCISCO—THE CALIFORNIA Joint Immigration Committee, representing the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, the California Department of the American Legion and the California State Federation of Labor, replied seriatim, November 15, to the fifteen points made in a public statement by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and the California Council on Oriental Relations in favor of opening the immigration gates to Asiatics. To the suggestion that this concession should be made in order to please Japan, improve trade relations and international understanding, and thus "set a good example," the Joint Committee replied as follows:

"That is the plea which has been made for many years whenever the United States was called upon by foreign nations, or by selfish American interests, to sacrifice itself at the demand or for the benefit of others. We scrapped our navy; we paid the war expenses of Europe, and are now asked to pay for the outlay she has made since the war in monstrous new war preparations; we have accepted for permanent settlement and citizenship during the past thirty years many undesirable elements of European immigration; we opened the gates wide to the entrance of two million unassimilable Mexican peons at the demand of employers of cheap labor, and as a 'friendly gesture to a neighbor.'

"We have, by such suicidal policy, contributed to unemployment in the United States many times greater than exists in any country we have thus mistakenly befriended. We have apparently earned, in addition, their contemptuous regard as a weakling. We have made thereby immeasurably greater the task which President Franklin D. Roosevelt faces at home and abroad. And now we are asked to open our gates to Asiatic immigration to avoid the displeasure of Japan.

"Japan very wisely excludes Chinese immigration under imperial ordinance No. 352, though in 1924 China made her seventh protest thereat, calling attention to Japan's inconsistency in enforcing such exclusion while demanding entrance for Japanese immigration into the United States. Let us act in immigration and in all other matters with the same scrupulous care for the national welfare as do other nations." The reply further states:

"Quota for Asiatics would defeat the intent of the naturalization law because it would encourage making citizens, through birth on the soil, of units not racially fitted for such citizenship. It would affect the intent of the alien land law by granting land ownership to those who, notwithstanding citizenship by birth, are not assimilable into American citizenry.

"Quota, if granted to Asiatics, would admit Asiatics under precisely the same terms as Europeans; and European laborers are not barred by law.

"If Japanese were granted the right of immigration, Japan would perhaps demand in time the right to send in as many immigrants as any other first-class power. Such a demand would be strictly in line with others she is now making.

"The Report of the Secretary of Labor for 1923, declares that between 1908 and 1923 Japanese total immigration into continental United States was 125,773, and emigration 41,781, a net gain of 83,992, during the period when the 'gentlemen's agreement' guaranteed practical exclusion of Japanese immigration. Regardless of feats of legerdemain that may be done with statistics of legal arrivals and departures,—usually by adding 'non-immigration' figures—the Japanese population of continental United States, and particularly California, has not decreased in the past nine years.

"There is a basic issue at stake. Shall we abandon the basic principle of exclusion of aliens who are ineligible to American citizenship, and in consequence unassimilable, and whose children, citizens by birth, have proved also unassimilable, a separate, undigested racial group? We certainly sacrifice a material interest if by repeal of the exclusion act we abandon the only plan suggested which will prevent an inflow of the unassimilable Asiatic races under all possible future conditions. And even in abandoning that safeguard we would not insure goodwill because the concession would only invite early demand for Japan's ultimate announced goal, 'racial equality,' the same rights in all matters for her nationals as are conceded to Europeans. It would in no case change Japan's already inaugurated plans for excluding the United States and other nations from trade with Asia and for invading such nations and supplanting their domestic trade with her own goods produced with modern machinery and a labor cost one-third to one-quarter that even of England.

"Japan seeks to dictate to us in this matter, and the urge in her behalf from various American groups, religious, commercial and other, for eighteen years past has been made at the suggestion of Japan and under covert threats of ill-will and loss of trade if we fail to make the concession.

"Yes, it is a question for Americans to decide; but for such Americans as hold that national welfare should guide their decision, rather than the demands of foreign powers or the interests of groups, sections or cults in our own country."

The two hundredth anniversary of the birth of Junipero Serra, founder of the chain of California Franciscan missions, was observed at Carmel Mission, Monterey County, November 24.

"He is richest who is content with the least; for content is the wealth of nations."—Socrates.

A Christmas Greeting
TO MEMBERS OF THE ORDER OF N.S.G.W.

Justice Emmet Seawell

(GRAND PRESIDENT.)

THE SEASON OF THE YEAR IS AGAIN approaching when this Nation and the peoples of all Christian nations with gladdened hearts will lift up their voices in prayer and in songs of praise in commemoration of the birth of the Christ who gave to a pagan and a despairing world the reassurance that there is an everlasting reward for those who have not been materially compensated here for the blessed services which they have rendered on earth. Perhaps every mortal has felt at some stage of his life that the sorrows and disappointments and burdens which have been his lot to bear have been disproportionate to those of others. But, after all, we only know our own sorrows; we do not know how heavy the cross is to weary mortals. However heavy may have been our sorrows and burdens of life, none can compare with those of the lowly Nazarene, the man of sorrows, who trudged through life to crucifixion.

During his mortal life He felt every torture of mind and body and He endured every pang of agony that the machination of the disbelievers of his day were able to invent, and yet by faith He went to the end, despised of men, doing his Father's will. Every crucial test, whether spiritual or of the flesh, was applied to him and He emerged victor over them all, including crucifixion itself. Century after century this human and divine life has gripped the heart and understanding of nations with increasing interest, until his birth has become universally celebrated by all the leading nations of the globe. Looking alone at his human side, no record of ideals formulated by man since the beginning of time is comparable to the record which He left the world as its guide and after which all men and women may well fashion and pattern their lives. His birth will always keep aflame the Star of Bethlehem as a symbol of God's promise of redemption through His son, the Christ. His parables, precepts and rules of human conduct have become the bases of the great legal principles which govern nations and the foundation upon which our moral laws are builded. They largely rule our daily life, and if they were universally observed many aching hearts would be made glad.

Brothers, let us celebrate the Savior's birth with a glad heart and with a peacefulness of mind which passes all human understanding. With charity towards all men, let us forgive men's trespasses against us, remembering the Savior's sermon upon the Mount: "If ye forgive not men their trespasses neither will your Father forgive your trespasses." With our lives made sweet with love for wife and child and home and friend, let us enter into the Christmas spirit with a joyful but steadfast determination to do good on earth, which is the only way to happiness here and to eternal happiness hereafter.

In the name of our beloved Order, I wish you all a joyful and merry Christmas, and a happy new year abounding in the spirit and grace of our Lord and Savior.

At Christmas Time

(MINNA McGARVEY.)

'Tis sweet to know that at Christmas time
The sun shines through the hours
In Bethlehem, in the Holy Land,
As in this land of ours.

That here the breezes as lightly blow
Through flow'ry tree and vine,
Amid the olive, the date, the fig,
As there in Palestine.

The star that signals serene on high
To the shepherd here on the hill,
Is the beacon Star of the long ago,
Its tiding flashing still.

The carols, drifting upon the night
But echo, far and wide,
The angel chorus, divinely sweet,
Of that first Christmastide.

The Wise Men, coming so swiftly on
Across the starlit plain,
Knew well the spirit of bringing gifts
That lives in us again.

'Tis sweet our land is so close akin;
As sunny, bright and mild
As that one, mystic, across the world,
That cradled the sleeping Child.

SHE HAD TO GO AWAY

(ELIZABETH COLE.)

"SO THIS LITTLE GIRL'S NAME IS Pauline?" asked Tommy's teacher, Miss Dean, as she stood in Tommy's mother's doorway. "Don't you ever call her Polly?" "Oh, my, no," emphatically answered Pauline's and Tommy's mother. "We couldn't do that." "No?" the teacher questioned further. "She's such a little girl for a big name like that." And she patted the three-year-old Pauline on the head.

"Why, you see it's this way," explained the mother. "She's named for somebody very special. She's called Pauline Brown Schmitt after a nurse—Miss Pauline Brown—who used to come here."

"Sure, I remember her," broke in Tommy. "She was a pippin, wasn't she, mother?"

"Is Pauline Brown Kelley in our room named for her too?" Miss Dean asked Tommy. Tommy nodded.

"Yes'm, Mrs. Kelley was the first to name a child for her and would you believe it, Miss Dean, there's fourteen children in the neighborhood called after her. There's Pauline Brown Cominsky, Pauline Brown Murphy, Pauline Brown Smith, Pauline Brown Jones, Pauline Brown Bachigaloopo, Pauline Brown Pappas, Pauline Brown Stevens, Pauline Brown Isaacs, and Pauline"—

Miss Dean's amused laughter interrupted Mrs. Schmitt's list. "That is a test of popularity. She must have been wonderful!" she exclaimed.

"You never saw her equal," Mrs. Schmitt's enthusiastic voice rang out. "A public health nurse she was, and a fiend for work. Supposed to find out cases of consumption 'n believe me she did, too. The tuberculosis society paid for her, but law, she did everything for this neighborhood. Took all the kids to a clinic. There they punched their arms and put in something to find out if they had tuberculosis germs—tuberculin test, she called it. Showed us how to feed our families. Got us all having fresh air at night, showed old Grandpa Schmitt how to spit in a cup'n keep his germs to himself, helped get Tony Bachigaloopo into a sunshine hospital where his legs got cured of tuberculosis—well, I can't tell you all." She stopped to take a deep breath.

"She must be wonderful," said Miss Dean. "I'd like to meet her some time."

"There, now, that's just what you can't do—and that's the fury of it." Mrs. Schmitt's black eyes snapped. "You wouldn't believe it, but she's not here any more. No, ma'am, there wasn't any more money to pay her salary and she had to go

GRIZZLY GROWLS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

RACKETEERING, ALONE, IS RESPONSIBLE for the ills that for many months have afflicted, and continue to afflict, this nation! This declaration has appeared monthly in these columns the past two years, and day by day trickery is being exposed to the light of public opinion, through congressional and other investigations, to prove the unqualified truth of the statement. All thinking persons conversant with public affairs, except the racketeers and those associated with them, know and readily admit this declaration to be a fact.

Racketeering came into being in this country at the time of the World War. It became deep rooted in government, where it so flourished and produced such a prolific harvest of material wealth it spread like wildfire into every field of activity—professional, business, financial, religious, educational, civic and fraternal. In fact, this nation became one of racketeers, for racketeers!

Then followed, as a natural consequence of the desertion of honesty and fair dealing, the downfall—and what mighty wreckage! Life savings of honest people gone, substantial businesses and their square-shooting owners forced to suspend operations, respect for law and decency at a dangerously low ebb, millions of good citizens thrown out of employment, and unknown numbers of them destitute in this land of plenty—this land which God smiled upon beneficently until the racketeers, who respect neither His inhibitions nor those of man, ascended the throne.

Propaganda by the newspaperload is being dished out about the gun-toting racketeer. But how about the political and other racketeers, protected and encouraged by government,—the most contemptible and the most dangerous of all the racketeering gentry? Not one single effort has been put forth to rid this country of them, and there is nothing to indicate any sincere effort will be made, unless The People make it. Sufficient evidence is available—and not one-tenth of the rottenness has been publicized—to justify the opinion that there are numerous high-powered racketeers, in and out of government, in this country who should be gracing the end of a tree-limb rather than enjoying their ill-gotten gains—and accumulating more while their victims starve!

The stupendous cost of government—federal and up or down the line, which ever way it is viewed,—is due solely to political racketeering. With the racketeers eliminated therefrom, government could be much more efficiently administered at one-half the present cost! You who are not in on the political racketeering know this to be true. Then why, in the name of the Almighty, do you not bring about a change in conditions, and thereby bring about a return of prosperity—employment, peace and contentment for the majority?

THIS IS ABSOLUTELY CERTAIN: THIS NATION POSITIVELY CANNOT REGAIN AND RETAIN ITS PLACE IN THE SUN UNTIL THE ROOT OF RACKETEERING, IN GOVERNMENT, IS THOROUGHLY AND PERMANENTLY DESTROYED! When, and not until, this is done, all the other numerous racketeering branches will cease to exist, from lack of sustenance and protection.

California has a superabundance of racketeers, in government and otherwheres. That's why the state cannot pay the salaries of its too-numerous employes; why investors have been mulcted of billions; why, in Los Angeles County, although the state has assumed school financing, 1933-34 taxes have been increased 6½ percent, which is in excess of the five-percent increase permitted by the new state law; why unnecessary and very expensive state and county bureaus and agencies have been, and are continually being, set up; why thousands of "E" autos, bought with taxpoyers' funds and operated at the public's expense, are used for private purposes; why the State Legislature at its recent session failed miserably to bring about numerous economies. Thousands of other outstanding abuses of government, due to the reign of political racketeering, could be instanced.

And now, a special session of the State Legislature appears imminent—to devise ways and means of extracting more funds from financially-wrecked taxpayers. The political racketeers must eat, even if others do not!

And speaking of racketeering in California, it appears, from testimony adduced in Los Angeles and San Francisco, receiverships have proven highly beneficial, financially, to those on the "inside," among others the receivers, their attorneys and promoters. The creditors and the investors? Well, they get what's left—generally nothing.

Here's just one instance of the receivership-racketeer rottenness: Owners of a well-known drug store chain "went through bankruptcy, bought the property at a bankrupt sale and now have their business back, but divested of onerous leases and divested of the burden of $6,000,000 in preferred stock." Government will not penalize this, and many similar, crooked outfits, but the public could, and should, by withholding patronage.

How long, honest citizens of California, oh, how long do you propose to permit racketeering to flourish in this state? Rest assured it exists and expands only through your inaction. And you're paying a terrible price for that inaction, being slowly but surely divested of your all. You can protest, via resolutions and mouthings, until doomsday, and the desired results will not be forthcoming. United, forcible action, aimed at expelling the racketeers from the temples of government, alone will bring about improvement in conditions!

President Franklin D. Roosevelt concluded his Thanksgiving Day proclamation with: "May we ask guidance in more surely learning the ancient truth that greed and selfishness and striving for undue riches can never bring lasting happiness or good to the individual or to his neighbors.

"May we be grateful for the passing of dark days; for the new spirit of dependence one on another; for the closer unity of all parts of our wide land; for the greater friendship between employers and those who toil; for a clearer knowledge by all nations that we seek no conquests and ask only honorable engagements by all peoples to respect the lands and rights of their neighbors; for the brighter day to which we can win through by seeking the help of God in a more unselfish striving for the common bettering of mankind."

The California Council on Oriental Relations—Jap quotaists—has succeeded in getting several university and college highlights to go on record as opposed to exclusion of Japs. Here's the bunch, in California, recently announced:

Ray Lyman Wilbur, Stanford; Robert A. Millikan, California Institute Technology; Rufus B. vonKleinsmid, University Southern California; James J. Lyons, S. J., Santa Clara University; Robert G. Sproul, University California; Tully C. Knowles, College Pacific; Ernest J. Jaqua, Scripps College; C. K. Edmunds, Pomona College, and Walter F. Dexter, Whittier College.

Probably they have been assured increased enrollments of Jap students in their institutions of "higher learning."

Official relations between the United States and Russia were resumed November 16, after a break of sixteen years. This was a "feather in the cap" for Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, one of the nation's few outstanding statesmen, who for several years advocated such a course.

Here's more good news: Glendale is forcing off the public payroll married women with able-bodied husbands gainfully employed. And there's a growing sentiment to prohibit, by law, nepotism in public office. If married-women labor be abolished and relatives of well-paid public officials be forced away from the tax-trough, jobs would be available for millions of married men, and the country would benefit in numerous ways. As to nepotism, the weeding out should start with the Federal Government and continue down the line through states, counties, cities and townships.

Well, old John Barleycorn may lawfully roam the country o'er, commencing December 5, the day the prohi amendment ceases to exist.

The California Supreme Court has rendered a decision which should put a stop to the assessment-district evil that has been worked overtime and overloaded property with tax liabilities. In a case from Lakeport, Lake County, the court held that that city must levy taxes to pay delinquent bonds of an assessment district. This means that all property in a community, not simply that in a specified district, is liable for bond payment.

The Three Forks Grange has petitioned the El Dorado County Board of Supervisors to adopt an ordinance excluding Jap labor from that county. It is contended White laborers are being replaced by Japs at lower wages. Such an ordinance, if adopted, would probably be declared illegal—in conflict with the treaty between this nation and Japan. The White people of El Dorado—and all other counties—can, however, if they will, get rid of the yellow-Japs by refusing to trade or associate with the white-Japs.

In its herculean effort to rout the depression and put millions of unemployed at work, the Federal Government is spending lavishly. November 15 the public debt exceeded $23,000,000,000, about $3,500,000,000 less than the record-high reached following the world war. We spent billions to carry on war promoted by the crooked minority, so why not now spend billions to promote the peace-time welfare of the honest majority? Certainly the financial crooks are howling, but they should be given no consideration whatever.

away. Just got started to get us healthy when bang, slam! no more money. Raised it with those little stickers they sell at Christmas. Know what I mean?"

"Why, of course I do, the tuberculosis Christmas seals," replied Miss Dean.

"Well, everybody in this neighborhood was selling and buying, but I suppose some of those high-toned folks on the other side of town didn't know what a public health nurse was, nor a thing about clinics and such things. Anyhow, we lost her. Don't seem right, but we did." And Mrs. Schmitt actually wiped a tear away with the corner of her apron.

"Do you mean to say they had to give up the clinic and let a person so necessary as that leave this neighborhood?" asked Miss Dean.

"Yes'm, I do," was the reply. "That was a sad day when she went—everybody was crying, Tommy and all the Pauline Browns. Tommy said even the cat was crying—she'd bandaged his paw once and he never forgot it. Oh, she was the worship of this place. And the pity of it! Nobody comes round now to see how we're all getting on. Don't you suppose something can be done when they sell the seals this year so's we can get her back? Everybody can't be so poor they can't spend some pennies."

Mrs. Schmitt's voice was so sincerely pathetic that the teacher determined she would take some strenuous steps toward making the December sale of Christmas Seals a big enough success to "get her back."

During these lean years there are far too many situations in countless neighborhoods similar to the one discovered by Miss Dean. The task of protecting children, so well started by the National Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated agencies, must be maintained if our future citizens are to be healthy. Can you resist the appeal to buy as many Christmas Seals as you can afford in order to keep such necessary work and well-loved workers as Pauline Brown in their respective communities?

OUTSTANDING PIONEER NATIVE SON JOURNEYS ON

(JOHN H. THOMSEN.)

HARRY ASHLAND GREENE, AN OUTstanding Pioneer Native Son of California, passed away at his Monterey City home November 14. He was a charter member of Monterey Parlor No. 75 N.S.G.W., and was a delegate to many Grand Parlors. He was the son of William and Anne Elizabeth Greene who, in 1849, came by the Isthmus of Panama to San Francisco. There, William Greene built a warehouse at the foot of a street which still bears his name, Greene, and established a shipping business. There, too, Harry Greene was born, in 1852.

In 1866, Harry Greene moved to Monterey City and planted his beloved garden facing the sea and built the home which is now one of the landmarks of that community. During his last years he rarely, if ever, left this beloved spot, spending hours among his rare plants and shrubs and there receiving his host of friends, both young and old, for this kindly son of the West was beloved by all who met and knew him.

He was an authority on reforestation, as well as plant and flower life in general, and organized the Federated Tree Growing Clubs of America. He was a strong advocate of the planting of seedlings in tin cans, and many years ago Governor George C. Pardee introduced him to an audience of foresters as "Tin Can Greene," so great was his admiration of this man who was doing so much for his own community and state.

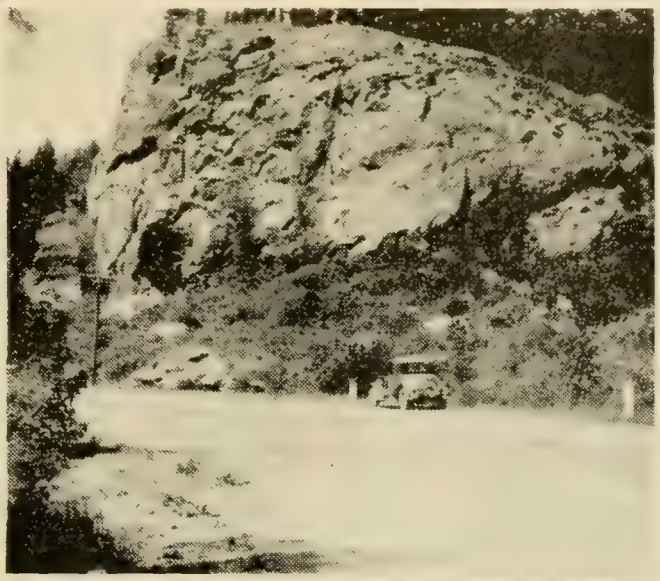
Harry Greene was part and parcel of the public life of Monterey City, and to him, more than to any other man, is credited the fact that Colton Hall, California's first capital, was not destroyed but restored to its original condition. This monument stands now, a living part of the past history of this great state. He also took an active part in the restoration of the Old Custom House at Monterey and other landmarks throughout California.

Practically every commercial and civic enterprise of Monterey for the past fifty years has felt the influence of this man, and it was largely through his efforts that the Monterey Breakwater was finally constructed. He was one of the leading members of the group which undertook the building of the Monterey-Fresno railroad.

Monterey and the State of California have lost a true and loyal son whose life and activities have left a beneficial influence. Surviving him are two sons and a daughter by a former marriage, William Greene, Harry Ashland Greene Jr. and Mrs. Houghton Saymer, and his widow, Isabelle Greene.

CAPITAL CITY SCHOOL BUILDING DEDICATED BY NATIVE SONS.

Sacramento—This city's new California junior high school was dedicated to Truth, Liberty, Toleration, by officers of the Grand Parlor of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, November 19. The most impressive ceremony, attended by more than one thousand, was preceded by a flag raising participated in by the drill team of La Bandera Parlor No. 110 N.D.G.W., the drum corps of Sacramento Parlor No. 3 N.S.G.W. and the Sacramento Firemen's band.



Irving D. Gibson presided at the program in the school auditorium. Rev. Newton E. Moats delivered the invocation, Monsignor Thomas E. Horgan the benediction, selections were rendered by the school orchestra, and Walter Leitch, accompanied by Cy Graves, sang "I Love You, California." Speakers included George G. Radcliff, Past Grand Lewis F. Byington, Mrs. Edna Briggs, Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell and Dr. A. M. Henderson. Mary Jeanette Didion gave the pledge to the flag.

The assemblage then adjourned to the main entrance of the structure, where the N.S.G.W. Grand Officers, headed by Grand President Seawell, conducted the dedicatory ceremony. Assisting, were Junior Past Grand Seth Millington, Grand First Vice Chas. A. Koenig, Grand Second Vice Harmon D. Skillin, Grand Secretary John T. Regan. Others in attendance were Past Grands Lewis F. Byington, Judge Charles E. McLaughlin, Clarence E. Jarvis, Hilliard E. Welch and Charles L. Dodge; also, Past Grand Dr. Eva R. Rasmussen of the Native Daughters.

The dedication committee included J. F. Didion (chairman), Irving D. Gibson, W. J. Weisman, T. W. McAuliffe, George A. Burns, John T. Stafford and President Ervin J. Beall, all of Sacramento Parlor No. 3 N.S.G.W. A large reception committee was made up of members of the five Native Daughter and the three Native Son Parlors of Sacramento City.

THE LEGEND OF PRINCESS ROCK

HUMBOLDT COUNTY IS FULL OF FASCinating places, with legends of interest connected with them. Princess Rock, located on the Redwood highway a short distance south of Trinidad, is one of the scenes of a tragic event. The story is, that in the year 1600 there was an Indian rancheria near Trinidad, the chief of the tribe being unknown. The chief had a daughter, who was to be compelled to marry an Indian brave, a member of a rancheria near Little River.

PRINCESS ROCK, DEDICATED TO ARCATA PARLOR NO. 20 N.S.G.W.
(Since this picture was taken, Arcata Parlor has erected an attractive marker at the base of the rock. The rock is situated about twelve miles north of Arcata, on the Redwood highway, and on clear days is visible from the south for a distance of several miles.—WILLIAM PETERS, Secretary.)

The Princess, however, was in love with an Indian from the north, and refused to marry the Little River brave. To escape the forced marriage, the princess climbed to the top of the rock and hurled herself from it, killing herself as she fell among the rocks below. From this time on the Indians have believed that evil spirits guarded the scene of the rock.

In the year 1800, the belief that evil spirits guarded this rock was imbedded deeper into the minds of the Indians. At this time an Indian by the name of Churi was chief. One night, when only the drumming of the ocean surf in the distance could be heard, a hostile tribe swooped down upon the village. Churi's daughter, who had wandered to the rock, was taken prisoner and carried away. It is told that after many years she returned to her tribe for a very short time, this time bringing with her a child. She left soon after.

For many years it was believed that a very rich treasure was hidden in one of the crevices of Princess Rock. The treasure was supposed to have been closely guarded by evil spirits which inhabited the rock. One day a mill owner of that locality closed his mill and had his men search the rock, seeking the treasure. Men were let down with ropes and lines, and the day was spent in a futile hunt. The Indians were firmly impressed, saying that the treasure was still there, but guarded by the spirits.

It is said that in days gone by the rock, viewed from a certain distance from the beach, would present a profile of a human being, one side having the appearance of a man, the other that of a woman.—Andrew Genzoli and Joseph Bognuda, in the "Arcata Union."

THE PASS OF HELL-FOR-SURE
(HIGH SIERRAS)

(CLINTON SCOLLARD.)

An old miner speaks:

About the dip of the day,
When the light was getting poor,
We started to make our dizzy way
Through the pass of Hell-for-Sure.

If you go there you will find
That it isn't a pass at all,
But a crazy trail that seems to wind
Round the neck of a mountain wall.

There was Billy and me and the Kid;
Billy was my old pard,—
He had one eye with a drooping lid,
And a smile that was never hard.

The Kid was a gamey mite
That some would have called a brat;
He had chummed with us since one wild night
At the mouth of the Smoky Cat.

We had a burro small
To carry our kit and pack,
And he hugged that dizzy mountain wall
With the Kid perched on his back.

Just how it came about
I vow I never knew,
But the Kid let out a screeching shout,
And over they went, those two.

We crawled to the crumbling edge,
And there, all snug and fine,
Smiling at us from a long thin ledge
Was the Kid in a scraggy pine.

A rope had fallen loose
When the dog-gone burro slid;
With shaking hands we rigged a noose,
And we lasso-ed up the Kid.

He never whimpered a bit
Though we hugged him fit to kill,
And when again that trail we hit
He led the way with a will.

As we drew to the end of the pass
And saw the sunset fade,
On a soft green stretch of mountain grass
I just sprawled down and prayed.

And I said in broken tones,
"Though the Kid is little and poor,
I'm thanking you, God, for saving his bones
From the bottom of Hell-for-Sure!"

CALIFORNIA FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

CHRISTMAS DAY, DECEMBER 25, 1883, came on a Tuesday. On account of the light rainfall, indications were the season would be a dry one in California. This made the dollar-wise anticipate a depression around the corner, and they became economical. There was no holiday spefiding jag.

But one mild storm during the month gave a rainfall of .44 of an inch, bringing the season's total to 2.92 inches. December 8 to 19 a chilly, damp fog settled over the valleys, giving the residents there a gloomy, somber sky aspect.

Dr. J. M. Frey, from his Newcastle, Placer County, orchard marketed for the holiday season large, sweet and juicy oranges, the first produced in that section of California. A carload of oranges from Riverside County sold in San Francisco for $5 a box.

Los Angeles was filling up with newcomers. There was not a vacant house in that city.

A colony of Seventh Day Adventists located at Saint Helena, Napa County.

The El Cajon Land Co., organized by California north capitalists, purchased 27,000 acres of San Diego County land to subdivide. The Guyuto ranch of 18,288 acres in that county sold for $3.50 an acre.

Two tons of cotton, produced by a Chinaman near Redding, Shasta County, and the first raised and sold in California north, brought 11c a pound.

An immigration of land buyers gave San Luis Obispo County a boom. Nearly $2,000,000 worth of real estate changed owners this month. The 24,000-acre Eureka ranch, the 20,400-acre Isabel ranch and the 45,000-acre Huerto Huero ranch were sold for over $400,000, and were to be subdivided. The Pacific and San Joaquin Valley railroad, to run from San Luis Obispo City to Bakersfield, Kern County, was being promoted.

The Haight cable street railway in San Francisco, extended to the Cliff House, opened December 3. An immense crowd, too big for the line to handle, gathered to make the trip, but many, unable to get aboard, were left standing. Thirteen thousand fares were collected.

A Boca, Nevada County, brewery had a string of refrigerator cars built. They were painted white, with a rampant grizzly bear on each side. The company intended to ship its product east and west to meet the summer demand everywhere.

A small meteor, with a ball of fire about two feet in circumference, fell December 8 at Brush and Thirteenth streets, Oakland, Alameda County.

Mono County had a heavy earthquake shock, preceded by a loud rumbling noise, at 1:50 a.m. of December 12.

Grangers Hall in Florin, Sacramento County, burned December 1, causing a $5,000 loss, and the Mussel Slough flourmill at Hanford, Kings County, burned December 20 with a $10,000 loss. In a fire December 24, Forest Hill, Placer County, lost three saloons and several other structures.

A seven-foot ledge with gold quartz paying $15 a ton was discovered at Poker Flat, Sierra County.

Alvin Porter, prospecting on the McCloud River in Shasta County, found a rich horn-silver lead.

The Loring & Leavitt mine near Quincy, Plumas County, struck a gravel deposit that yielded $50 in gold per bucket.

Nashville, El Dorado County, was experiencing a mining boom on account of rich discoveries made there.

A six-foot vein of good burning coal was found in the Coast Range near Saint Helena, Napa County.

A twenty-inch silver ledge in the Piru district of Santa Barbara County assayed 240 ounces of silver and 2 ounces of gold per ton.

The Marion mine at Whiskeytown, Shasta County, struck a vein of gold quartz that was paying $300 a ton.

The Bald Mountain mine in Sierra County obtained from 600 carloads of gravel $1,800 in gold, or $3 per carload.

A mine on Tunnel Ridge, Calaveras County, was named "The Lemon," because most of the chispas found there were of the shape and size of lemons.

The Yuba Tunnel Company finished the tunnel it had for three years been driving beneath a hill to turn the South Fork of the Yuba River from its channel and mine several miles of its bed around a curve.

Santa Paula Canyon, Ventura County, was now considered the crude oil center of California south. A sixteen-mile pipeline conveyed the oil to Ventura City for shipment. Some of the wells were producing fifty barrels of oil daily.

A counterfeit silver dollar was in circulation. Its design was true, but not its ring. In one day a San Francisco bank took in twelve of the spurious coins before discovering they were not genuine.

On the Glenn grain farm in Colusa County thirty men were employed to ride horseback and keep the hovering flocks of wild geese from alighting and devouring the sprouting grain.

S. C. Farnham, prominent shipbuilder who came to California from Maine in the '50s, died December 3 at Vallejo, Solano County.

Moses Andrew, who represented Placer County in the State Legislature of 1854, died December 9 at Auburn.

"Uncle Aug." Boas, who had kept the "Boas Stage House" on the road to Yreka, Siskiyou County, along the Sacramento River in Shasta County, died December 10. He arrived there in the '50s.

Cayetano Juarez, one of the oldest settlers in Napa Valley, died December 16 at the age of 75. He was born in California and settled in the valley in 1837.

How money goes around the world was shown by Australia sending to the United States Mint in San Francisco gold bars valued at $600,000. These were paid for in sterling, and the pound notes were sent to London to pay an Australian indebtedness in England.

Mrs. Catherine Martin, aged 80, was fatally burned at Dublin, Alameda County, while attempting to beat out a bonfire December 15.

Five-year-old Bobby Douglas was thrown from a horse and killed near San Andreas, Calaveras County, December 2.

Charles B. McLaughlin, San Francisco capitalist, was shot and killed by James B. Cox December 13. They had been in litigation since 1865 over a railroad building contract, and Cox took this method of settling the dispute.

Edward Barrett of Michigan Bluffs, Placer County, fell from a suspension bridge over the American River December 22 and was fatally injured.

Ah Lee was hanged in the Oroville, Butte County, jail December 17. His last words on the scaffold were, "I pleadee guilty."

A pie-eating contest at Woodward Gardens, San Francisco, December 1 had twenty-seven entrants, White and Black. The winner, of African descent, bit into his seventh pie.

Philo Jacoby, well-known San Francisco sportsman, bet $50 he could, with but a riata, run down and catch a hare within three hours in the Newark Club recreation ground. The chase began, and Jacoby won in forty minutes.

Homeless Children

A WORTHWHILE NON-SECTARIAN ENDEAVOR SPONSORED AND SUPPORTED BY THE ORDERS OF NATIVE SONS AND NATIVE DAUGHTERS OF THE GOLDEN WEST

THOSE WHO HAVE VISITED THE NEW offices of the Native Sons and Native Daughters Central Committee on Homeless Children, now situated in the Prescott Memorial Building, 998 Eddy Street, San Francisco, are enthusiastic over the change. The foster parents and members of the Order who have called comment over the comfort of available parking space without the time limit, the freedom from elevators and the fear experienced by the little ones who visit the office. Members of the Orders are asked to visit the offices at any time suiting their convenience.

While many of the Parlors have increased their contributions of last year, many more are not responding as generously and promptly as they should if they expect the homeless children work to continue. The statements regarding the need for funds are no exaggerations. It is necessary to emphasize the true state of affairs in order that those who have loved the work and felt pride in it may double their efforts to help, and in order that those who are indifferent so far as rendering assistance is concerned may not, at a later date, say, "Why didn't you tell us before it was too late that 'our' work was really threatened?"

The San Francisco joint committee—with its newly elected chairman, Walter Bammann; Kittie Mullaney, vice-chairman; Agnes M. Curry, secretary; Bertha Mauser, financial secretary; Martin H. Huber, treasurer; Matthew E. Brady (chairman), Eleanor F. Teeling and Joseph Rose of the finance committee, and Charles Boden as a fine publicity man—is making a valiant effort to make the annual benefit a profitable one. The meetings each Friday evening are well attended by a large number of enthusiastic members from the different Parlors, and by the time this article appears in print the monster show and ball given on Thanksgiving Eve will have proved a financial success.

The Los Angeles joint committee, with Irving Baxter, chairman, Annie L. Adair, secretary, and hard working assistants, is expecting valuable publicity and generous returns from its Thanksgiving letters sent to the members. A benefit ball is also planned for later in the season.

Sacramento's joint committee and San Jose's joint committee have notified the Central Committee that they are making every effort to interest their members and the public in their annual affairs.

There must be an INDIVIDUAL interest on the part of the members of both Orders throughout the state, and if that individual effort is not made and the support is not forthcoming we shall face the ignominious end to OUR Charity which was so auspiciously begun, universally cherished and well financed for twenty-three years by the Native Sons and the Native Daughters. Those who have worked hard are proud of their efforts, and those who have not worked are proud, too, because of the established reputation for a unique and well-done piece of work by the Orders to which they belong. This tragedy, should it come, could be accepted and tolerated along with other ills of the day, if it could not be stayed, but the POINT TO BE STRESSED IS, THAT IT IS NOT NECESSARY IF EACH MEMBER WILL DO HIS AND HER FULL PART AT THIS PARTICULAR TIME AND NOT DEPEND ENTIRELY UPON THE FAITHFUL FEW.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

HURRAH! HERE COMES CHRISTMAS. The best holiday plans are those laid early. The shops are bulging with gifts of every description. Modern clocks and lamps are most interesting.

We may as well admit that of all the various and sundry furnishings that constitute a modern home, none are as important as those two factors—time and light. Electric lamps have long since become an every-day necessity, and electric clocks have developed with amazing rapidity.

There never was a time when clocks played so important a part in the general scheme of things, for we virtually live by the clock. Clocks have taken on a new beauty of line. The late styles are adaptable to each and every room in the house. They are available for every style decoration and space. For holiday giving, what could be more practical than a double-faced clock? This is a new idea this year, and very modern. As a twin-bed alarm clock it is quite ideal, or it may be used to advantage in other rooms. These are lovely in chrome finish with radium dial, and most of them have the eight-day feature.

Give time, and you give pleasure! And as for light, where is the hostess that would fail to thrill in the possession of another lamp? Table lamps are having a decided vogue. Metal bases, copper, crackled and pottery, strike a smart note in lamps, and the shades are made of crackled parchmentized paper. Essentially modern is the urn-shaped table lamp with black enameled metal base and faille shade. These are decorated with cut-out stars of antique silver finish.

So many new ideas are given. For instance, do your embroidering over a metal flower form. The form is removed, and you have a lovely, fluffy, realistic yarn flower on your pillow, afghan, beret, scarf set or bag. A very pretty idea is to decorate your gifts with these fluffet forms. The treasured gift of a hand-worked tapestry is an heirloom complete when it is mounted on solid walnut carved furniture made especially for this purpose, such as an oblong stool, a round screen, a bench and many other such pieces.

SUNDOWN

(ARTHUR L. SMITH.)

The sun swings by through cloudless sky,
To set like a ball of fire;
It leaves me alone, for it's headed home
To the land of my heart's desire;
E'er it yields its light to dusk of night
It seems for an instant to linger,
While across the sky a shaft leaps high,
An insistent beckoning finger.

It is headed back on its age-old track,
To the sweeping valleys of gold
Where rivers run free to a sunlit sea
From snow-capped Sierra bold;
To chaparral hill where quail calls shrill
And the lordly eagles fly,
Where life goes on like an angel's song
'Neath a California sky.

Gifts may be made of silks, which come in a gorgeous array of colors. Printed french crepes are flowered or pasteled on white grounds and make attractive lingerie, gowns or pajamas. Lingerie satin is washable and available in luscious pastel shades, and triple voiles in all the pretty colors make lingerie the ever-popular. Chinese brocades for robes and pajamas are shown in an extensive array of pastel tones and high shades. This material makes up handsome house garments. Many flannels are available for robes as the cool mornings are approaching. French wool flannel comes in 54-inch width in popular darker shades for both men and women. The english tub flannel, in attractive stripes, is always smart.

Handkerchiefs are as lovely as ever. Monogrammed ones insure added value to a flattering gift, since they show forethought in the hemmed linen or hand-rolled corded borders. It is quite smart to make your own tie gifts for hubby or sweetie, as the most attractive silks for ties and scarfs are available in two-toned jacquard weaves and multicolored paisleys, stripes and plaids.

For women, we find the most glorious accessories imaginable. Go in with your eyes closed to make a selection, and you will not be disappointed. The most novel ideas in jewelry are shown in necklaces, earrings, bracelets, clips and novelty rings. You may also make a selection from gorgeous perfume bottles, powder and soap boxes, fancy puffs, combs, all sorts of hair ornaments, bags, gloves for street or evening wear, shoe ornaments, enameled cigaret cases, holders or lighters. Some of the newest gloves of black satin are topped with monkey fur and make a beautiful gift.

For children, you will find everything wanted. There are so many new novelties for boys and girls. "Mickey Mouse" and "Min" are still being featured and are always good for a laugh, as are also the three little pigs and the big bad wolf. Doll trunks are well made, with lock and key. Composition dolls have several outfits of clothes, and dolly also has roller and ice skates. The prices are quite reasonable this year.

Every known mechanical toy is shown, such as racers, trucks, wagons, trains and fire apparatus. Games of every description are to be had. Big-ten football games have only a few simple rules, and no technical knowledge is necessary to operate them. A surprising number of toys are intended for any child, either boy or girl, and are enjoyed as much by one as the other.

Building toys are both entertaining and instructive. The performing circus wagon may be taken apart and made into any number of circus acts. Modern speed boats are winning the hearts of boys of all ages. The hoot-nanny is an instructive toy arousing interest, and the banjo gun is a lot of fun. The "polo" pony is a thrilling riding toy for the small one. It is sturdily constructed of wood and the steel spring is adjustable to three different positions which give much action. Junior sport sets are for boys or girls and consist of archery, golf and tennis equipment.

Gift shopping has begun in earnest. It is going to take a strong-minded person to resist the urge to give recklessly this holiday season. A few fortunate youngsters already have seen Santa himself, for he has been taking an active part in entertaining plans for the holiday season.

OLDTIME WEEKLY TELLS OF GOLD FIND AND GRIZZLY BEARS.

A copy of an oldtime San Francisco weekly, "The Californian," dated March 15, 1848, recently found its way to San Diego and will be turned over to the San Diego Historical Society. Among the many interesting news items in the issue are these:

"Gold Mine Found—In the newly made raceway of the saw mill recently erected by Captain Sutter, on the American Fork [in El Dorado County], gold has been found in considerable quantities. One person brought $30 worth to New Helvetia [Sacramento City], gathered there in a short time. California, no doubt, is rich in mineral wealth, great chances here for scientific capitalists. Gold has been found in almost every part of the country."

"Grizzly Bear—Three young Indians on the Rancho of Sen'r. Armipo, in Suisun Valley, whilst absent on foot, were attacked and killed by one of those monsters. People should be careful not to travel on foot at this season of the year, in sections of the country which abound with these desperate animals."

CALIFORNIA EXHIBIT AT NOTED LIBRARY.

Exciting events in the history of California during the past four centuries are recalled by the new special exhibit of Californiana arranged at the Huntington Library and Art Gallery, San Marino, Los Angeles County. The romantic story of California's colorful past is featured in the exhibit through some of the identical maps, reports, letters, diaries and pictures on which historians have based their accounts.

LOS ANGELES ON WHEELS

A SHORT HISTORY OF TRANSPORTATION

(Compiled by JESSIE BROMILOW from studies made at the University of Southern California by Mabel Wright and Charles Schweitzer.)

"HERE, MISTER, HOLD THESE LINES a minute while I go back and collect them two fares what just got aboard. G'long, there you, Buck! Gittap, you Maude! If this rush keeps up, by the time this car gits to First and Main I'll have a crowd!"

Many an oldtime resident in Los Angeles can recall such familiar orders while riding on the street car. If it were in rainy weather and the old horse cars jumped the track, as they were wont to do, the male passengers were expected to jump out into the mud, no matter how deep it might be, and help in pushing and pulling the car back on to the rickety rails.

Since nearly everyone rode on horseback, early street car ventures in Los Angeles were far from a paying success. Neither was the existing uncertain and irregular schedule conducive to improvement in patronage. The first franchise ordinance was passed by the Los Angeles City Council July 3, 1873, being granted to D. V. Waldron "to lay down and maintain two iron railroad tracks to run cars thereon, propelled by horses or mules, and carry passengers thereon, commencing at a point where the present Main Street forms junction with Alameda, running south on Main to the city limits"—just south of the present corner of Main and Jefferson streets.

Competitive interest was soon aroused in the pueblo, and in December of the same year a franchise was granted to R. M. Widney for twenty years to operate a street railroad commencing at Spring and Temple streets, running south on Spring to First, thence west to Fort street,—the present Broadway,—south on Fort to Fourth, west on Fourth to Hill, south on Hill to Fifth, west on Fifth to Olive, up Olive to Sixth, and thence to Figueroa. For ten cents citizens could ride far, far out into the country, to the end of the line at Sixth and Figueroa streets! Unique among reasons for building this railway was that given by Judge Widney; it was not for altruistic purposes, as many promoters have asserted in regard to their lines, or even for a business venture, but for the benefit of Mrs. Widney. The judge explained: "We lived 'way out of town then—way out by Sixth Street, so I built the street car line so's she could get in and out of town without so much trouble." In 1880 he sold the rights to the Spring Street and Sixth Street Railway Company.

This latter company was also granted permission to extend its line to the Southern Pacific station, located about a quarter of a mile west of the Los Angeles River, in "Dogtown," the station bearing the name "River Station." From the description of one line of cars it is evident that frog ponds were not uncommon around the depot: " . . . on and along such portion of route as the track of the Southern Pacific runs, the track of the street railroad shall be laid from the center line of Main Street to a point six feet easterly of the telegraph pole standing by the willow stump in the swamp; thence in a straight line to the westerly sidewalk of the street; thence over the gutter along the sidewalk to such a point as may be necessary to cross (and across) the sidewalk on to private property to reach the depot."

By the Centennial year there was in operation the franchise which had been granted to William H. Workman and A. H. Judson for a single-track line of horse cars from Arcadia and Main streets to Soto street, by way of Arcadia and Aliso. The road was financed by W. H. Workman, W. H. Perry, J. E. Hollenbeck and D. F. Spence, the two latter president and cashier, respectively, of the First National Bank. The "rolling stock" of the company consisted of one car and a pair of mules. The schedule showed an hour and a half between trips. The line continued until the flood of the Los Angeles River in 1884 washed out the Aliso street and Downey avenue bridges. In 1875 the people in east Los Angeles were accommodated by a franchise granted to John S. Griffin for a line running across the river from "Dogtown," following San Fernando street to old Olympia.

Between 1873 and 1887 there were forty-three additional street car franchises granted by the City Council. In 1887, at the occurrence of the "big boom," the Los Angeles Cable Railway Company was organized with the following officers, who likewise acted as a board of directors: J. F. Crank, president; S. P. Jewett, secretary and treasurer; Charles Forman, general manager, and I. W. Hellman and S. C. Hubbell. Although it was the intention of this group to eventually operate a cable railway, it did not materialize until 1889. Before that time the mule and horse continued to serve. All together the company operated thirty-eight cars, including those on Buena Vista, Aliso, Olive and West Ninth streets. The "Blue Line," from the Temple block at the north juncture of Spring and Main, extended along the following route: Temple block, by way f Main to First, from First to Spring, along Spring to Ninth, west on Ninth to Pearl (Figueroa), south on Pearl to Washington, and west on Washington to the car barn on Vermont.

About 1888 the Temple street cable line was put into operation, running west on Temple from Spring street for several miles. The following newspaper account of this line affords a vivid picture of the trip: "As late as 1895 there were few, if any, houses along the last mile or so of track. Broad fields of wild mustard were much in evidence along the right of way, and jackrabbits and quail scuttled for places of safety when the slow-going cable car made its appearance. The road finally terminated in a grove of gum trees, a block or two east of Vermont avenue." From this terminus a little steam "dummy" connected with Hollywood, the trip ending at Laurel Canyon, a wild and desolate spot. The round-trip fare to the end of the line was twenty-five cents.

On Maple avenue an electric line was in operation in the early 1890s, running from North Main street at the Baker block, south to Fifth, east to Maple, and thence south to Adams, where it ended in the middle of an orange grove. The cars were exceedingly small, accommodating two passengers at both front and rear on outside seats, and from twelve to fifteen inside.

In 1888 the Los Angeles Cable Railway Company sold out to some Chicago individuals, who organized the Pacific Railway Company, which completed the lines and double tracked them. The company put into operation a line extending from the southwest corner of Evergreen cemetery, in Boyle Hights, to Grand avenue at Jefferson. A branch of the road extended north on Spring from First street, down North Main past the old Church of the Angels to Upper Main street, and into San Fernando street to the tracks of the Southern Pacific. A gigantic viaduct conveyed the cable cars over the railroad tracks for some fifteen hundred feet at College street to Ann street, the beginning of "Dogtown." At this point the tracks of the cable cars ran parallel to those of the steam road for several blocks to Olympia street, thence down to the Downey avenue bridge and across to Downey avenue. The line then extended up Downey avenue to the present site of the Lincoln high school and terminated against a steep embankment, since cut through for a street continuation.

The three principal early power houses were located in Boyle Hights, in East Los Angeles, and on the corner of Grand avenue and Seventh street. After several years of idleness, the power house on Seventh street was used as a temporary postoffice, while the Federal building was under construction.

Looking over the transportation problems in Los Angeles and its vicinity, one sees practically the same thing that has happened in other cities: the people first lived in a more or less compact settlement, then, as the population became congested, they found it more desirable to move out into the suburbs. It is at this point that the rapid transit system found its beginning; the local railway system could take care of the situation when the population was compact, but as people moved farther out it became necessary to find methods of carrying them back and forth rapidly, especially at the peak hours of travel. This was the service the Pacific Electric was formed to render.

The cable cars came into Los Angeles just at the time when their supremacy in other cities was over. This type of transportation had been very successful in the neighboring City of San Francisco, with its steep hills which the horse car had never successfully conquered, but their coming into Los Angeles was overshadowed by the development of electric lines. They operated intermittently to 1902, and when finally sold were a complete loss to their promoters. They had come too late to be of service to the community.

There was no clear line of demarcation between the different transportation systems. The period of evolution was gradual, but the horse cars had disappeared almost entirely by 1895 and the cable cars by the year 1900, although both were to be seen at later times. All development from that time on took the form of electric lines.

The first electric car to make a successful continuous run in the United States was regularly operated in Richmond, Virginia, beginning May 4, 1888. Reports state, however, that a crude electric line was temporarily operated in Los Angeles a year previous to that time, in 1887. This car was a curious looking specimen compared with modern electric cars. The motor cab was entirely separate from the passenger car, and the trolley fed from on top of the wires instead of underneath as at present. The trip was almost a succession of stops and starts, and it was not an unusual occurrence for a passenger, in case of a breakdown, to find it necessary to walk to town from the end of the run on Pico Hights. So unpromising was this adventure in railroading in Los Angeles that it was finally sold at a sheriff's sale and Mr. Howland, the promoter of the project, died in poverty.

Very soon after this first effort, successful electric lines were operated in Los Angeles. In 1890 General Moses T. Sherman raised capital, secured a franchise and built the Pasadena-Los Angeles railway. This line was built out to the Arroyo Seco at Avenue 66 and then the Pasadena Traction Company built down from Pasadena to that point, and finally the bridge was built, linking the two systems.

In 1902 Henry E. Huntington began transferring his interests to southern California. Los Angeles just at that time was recovering from the slump following the real estate "boom" of the late nineties and the time seemed ripe for expansion. During the period between 1902 and 1911 Huntington acquired fifty percent of the stock of the local railway lines, secured the franchises and built many other roads.

The next railway line to be built was the Los Angeles-Redondo line. This, constructed in 1902, connected with the Los Angeles-Pacific at Grand avenue near Jefferson street. That same year branches were built to Long Beach, Inglewood, San Gabriel, and the Venice short line was added to the Santa Monica route. The following year, 1903, a line was built to Monrovia and an-

LET'S BE LOYAL TO CALIFORNIA

California has a golden opportunity in the Central Valley Water Project to re-vitalize its business and industrial life, greatly reduce unemployment and largely complete the solution of its water problems for a generation to come.

It is an opportunity to put $170,000,000 in FEDERAL FUNDS into immediate circulation in California trade.

It is an opportunity to provide employment for more than 25,000 California workers for at least three years.

And it is an opportunity which is offered without a dollar of cost or obligation to California taxpayers. It is an

ALL-FEDERAL PROJECT—A Christmas Present from Uncle Sam of $170,000,000!

DON'T BE DECEIVED BY POWER TRUST PROPAGANDA!

The great power corporations are fighting this project because it will supply a billion and a half kilowatt hours of cheap electricity and power for California home-owners, California farmers and California industries.

But the time has come to break monopoly! It is time to vote for ourselves—VOTE FOR CALIFORNIANS!

Thousands of Californians who have helped to create and build our State are in desperate need of an adequate, fresh water supply. This project affords it—without any State expenditure.

More than 800,000 acres of highly-developed farm lands in the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta and in Fresno, Tulare, Madera, Kings and Kern Counties will be abandoned for lack of a fresh water supply if this project fails.

Native Californians, if we fail in our duty, will be forced from their lands and thrown into charity lines!

If we vote with the power companies in this election, we betray our own; in fact, we betray ourselves.

This project will conserve the surplus flood waters of California's two great rivers for summer use. It has the approval of practically every federal department and board of engineers. It can be and will be federally-financed.

other to Whittier. In 1904 a section was built to Glendale, and the Newport line was completed as far as Huntington Beach, and in the next year the Newport division was completed and a road built to Santa Ana. In 1906 the Newport line was extended to Balboa, a line was built to Sierra Madre, and a third route, known as the "Oak Knoll," was built to Pasadena. In 1907 the Monrovia road was extended to Glendora, and the Covina line was built. The following year a branch was built to La Habra, and during 1909 the Santa Ana line was extended to Huntington Beach. The last two sections to be built just before the general consolidation in 1911 were an extension of the Covina line to San Dimas and an extension of the La Habra line to Stern.

In the period between 1902 and 1911, when the consolidation of all the interurban lines took place, Huntington bought very heavily in local real estate and the railway was built looking towards the development of these holdings. Most sections of the country have had their outlying communities built up and then have had these suburbs beg for transportation, but the reverse has been true in southern California. For example, Huntington would buy a tract of land, build a railway to the tract and then would offer the lots in the tract for sale; he would, of course, reap a double harvest, because he not only had a profit on the land but he also had an interest in the railway which was serving the people who purchased the land. Naturally, he became immensely wealthy. Of course, the scheme would not have worked so well if he had not been fortunate in choosing a period of ten years in which the section he was promoting grew three hundred percent in population.

In September 1911 occurred the great merger, when sixty-three individual lines in southern California were united into one system. Many of these were very small, but major arteries. The newly consolidated lines were to be known as the Pacific Electric Railway and, according to the president, there was "to be free interchange of traffic over all of these lines." Immediately following the consolidation, the line to Burbank was completed, and the next year, 1912, the Covina line was extended to Pomona, and then, in 1914, it was completed to Riverside and San Bernardino. In 1913 the line which had been built to Hollywood in 1900 was extended to San Fernando and Owensmouth. These were the last of the major extensions of the lines.

According to the details of the plan of consolidation a strict differentiation was made between the city and interurban lines, and under the agreement the Pacific Electric, for its part, was to take all the interurban lines, while that portion of any of the consolidating lines operating within the city, and whatever city lines were already organized, were to be known as the Los Angeles Railway Company. At the time of the consolidation, Huntington transferred his share in the newly formed Pacific Electric Railway to the Southern Pacific Company and became sole owner in the newly-formed Los Angeles Railway Company, of which the Southern Pacific had owned fifty percent.

The period of twenty-eight years from the running of the first crude electric car on Pico street, in 1873, to the consolidation of the network of electric lines with a capitalization of $100,000,000 in 1911, had seen Los Angeles City grow from a community with a population of 100,000 to nearly 400,000. During this interval suburban communities had grown from barren ranchos to communities the size of Los Angeles when Widney ran his first horse car down Spring street. Any railway system would have to grow or be put out of business under these expanding conditions.

Beginning with the lumbering, rickety carreta of old Spanish days in Los Angeles, and following the successive developments of horse cars, cable cars, and finally the electric railway, one unravels a fascinating story of transportation paralleled nowhere else in the world.

AIMS AND OBJECTS of the
ORDER OF NATIVE DAUGHTERS OF THE GOLDEN WEST

To cultivate state pride.

To aid state development.

To advance state progress.

To promote the study of California history.

To preserve California's landmarks, relics and traditions.

To honor and keep in memory California's Pioneers.

To stimulate and inspire patriotism.

To assist in the work of americanization.

To encourage higher education for women, as evidenced by the Order's liberal college scholarship.

To guarantee social enjoyment, mental improvement and mutual benefit to members.

To care, conjointly with the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, for the orphaned children of California, of whatever class, color or creed, by placing them in permanent homes through legal adoption proceedings, thus engaging in the most humanitarian of public welfare work, that of improving the future citizenship of the state.

If YOU were born in California and believe in these principles, you should be a member of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West.

STATE PARK HOLDINGS INCREASED.

The State Department of Natural Resources announces the acquisition of three new state parks: Castle Rock, Shasta County, 925 acres. Mono Bay, San Luis Obispo County, 1,500 acres, with 20,000 feet ocean frontage and 25,000 feet bay frontage. Santa Cruz County, below Capitola, 3,350 feet beach frontage and 46½ acres upland.

"TO THE OFFICERS AND MEMBERS of the Subordinate Parlors, Native Daughters of the Golden West—Dear Sisters: The year Nineteen Hundred Thirty-three draws to a close—but one month remains. We are approaching the season of Peace and Good Will, the Holy Days, the holly days.

"The experiences of contact and travel enjoyed since my election at Oakland last June, convince me that our State is grand and great beyond the power of words to describe, that our country will continue to prosper and progress—and carry on to greater heights of achievements. I find that our members, despite periods of doubt and uncertainty are, in every section, from day to day becoming more and more certain in their conviction that California is truly the land of sunshine and flowers, the land of liberty, the land of privilege, the land of opportunity.

"The collective membership of the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West has always been a positive force. It has proven its capacity for splendid achievement. The history of the Order is a continuous record of its fine accomplishments. The spirited manner in which the members have engaged in the project work undertaken by the Order as a whole, proves that it is just as eagerly willing and as potentially capable as at any time in the existence of the Order.

"Secure in the knowledge of its permanency as an institution, the Native Daughters are preparing to assist in spreading happiness and good cheer during the Christmas season. Optimism, good will and appreciative consideration of the advantages that are ours, will insure a new year of worthwhile accomplishment. I sense a fine spirit in the minds and hearts of the members of our Order, an indomitable urge to overcome every adverse condition.

" 'Peace does not mean the end of all our striving,
Joy does not mean the drying of our tears;
Peace is the power that comes to souls arriving
Up to the light where God Himself appears'."

"May your continued effort help to insure throughout the land a Merry, Merry Christmas. Sincerely and fraternally yours in P.D.F.A.,

New Baby in Family.

Portola (Plumas County)—Las Plumas No. 254 was instituted November 18 by Grand President Irma W. Laird, assisted by Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Grand Trustee Alice Lane, Past Grand Emma Lou Humphrey and a corps of acting grand officers. The new Parlor, organized by Edith Leonardi Grother, has a charter list of sixty-two, thirty-eight of whom were present for the institution.

This is the first Parlor instituted by Grand President Laird, and she presented it with the Holy Bible. Plumas Pioneer No. 219 (Quincy) presented a silver-mounted gavel, and the Grand Parlor presented banners, regalia, and the United States of America and the California State (Bear) Flags. Mrs. Laird was the recipient of a gold nugget mined in Portola, and the other grand officers received boquets of chrysanthemums.

Officers of Las Plumas include: Edith Grother, president; Eleanor Duffy, past president; Theresa Harris, first vice; Irene Sorrocco, second vice; Juanita Janes, third vice; Dorothy Freeman, organist; Amelia Loasley, recording secretary; Rose Loucks, financial secretary; Veronica Reeder, marshal; Lois Hardy, treasurer; Rebecca Kovich, inside sentinel; Mayme Lofholm, outside sentinel; Sally Long, Ivy Roblin, Sylvia Thomas, trustees.

Six Parlors Join To Greet Grand President.

Sacramento—Califia No. 22, La Bandera No. 110, Fern No. 123 (Folsom), Chabolla No. 171 (Galt), Coloma No. 212 and Victory No. 216 (Courtland) joined November 17 in honoring Grand President Irma W. Laird on her official visit to the six Parlors. Native Sons Auditorium, beautifully decorated with flowers, greenery and flags, was the setting, and the banquet-rooms were converted into a garden scene, with poppies predominating. Oneida and Zitka Wilhelm had charge of the decorations, and a short entertainment program was presented under the direction of Edna B. Briggs.

Three hundred and fifty members of the Order were in attendance. The entrance march with ninety-six officers and sixteen acting officers, all in evening dress, will ever be remembered. Supervising Deputy May E. Lucas, general chairman of arrangements, was assisted by Deputies Lucille Huntoon, Anna Kloss, Martha Buckley, Helen Hanner, Alice Carpenter and Edna Brackley, and three representatives of each Parlor. Among the many visitors were Grand Secretary Sallie Thaler, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel Hansen, Grand Organist Clara Gairaud, Grand Trustees Florence Boyle and Alice Lane, Past Grands Carrie Roesch-Durham, Dr. Eva R. Rasmussen, Mary E. Bell, Mattie M. Stein, Esther R. Sullivan and Anna M. Armstrong. The Grand President commented on the Order's progress, and she was presented with a gift of china.

The evening was a wonderful success, but there was sadness because of the absence of Past Grand Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, who was seriously ill. Grand President Laird asked all to bow in silent prayer for her speedy recovery. [Dr. Heilbron passed away November 20.—Editor.]

"California" Gets Bear Flag.

San Diego—At the annual open meeting of the Pioneers of San Diego, November 17, San Diego No. 208 sponsored the program. The president of the society, Mrs. Herrit, welcomed the Natives, and Mayor John Forward gave a short talk. Mrs. Fern Cummins, program chairman, introduced President Marie James of No. 208, who presented a boquet to the oldest Pioneer present, Mrs. Emily Hastings, aged 89. Refreshments were served and dancing was enjoyed.

The morning of November 18 a committee representing the Parlor presented a California (State) Bear Flag to the flagship "California," U.S.N. In the course of a presentation address Chairman Marion Stough gave a brief history of the flag while the crew stood at attention. Following the presentation the flag was placed in a glass case along with the United States of America Flag, and the committee was escorted on a tour of the warship.

October 25, San Diego sponsored an entertainment at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium. The ancient Indian "Prophecy of the Discovery of America" which dates back more than five hundred years before the first appearance of Europeans on this continent was presented in narrative, song, dance and tableau by Chief Running Elk, assisted by Princess Waterfall. The "Prophecy" depicted the history of America, from the Indian viewpoint, from approximately five hundred years before the discovery of America to the present time. It was both educational and entertaining, alike to adults and children.

Interesting Programs.

Oakland—The literary committee of Aloha No. 106 presented two very interesting programs the past month. In commemoration of Columbus Day, the "Discovery of America" was read by Gladys Farley and a piano duet was given by Caroline Schulze and Edith Hoover. For Founder's Day in Oakland, a biography of Francis M. Smith was read by Caroline Schulze. October 31 a Hallowe'en party was enjoyed with Athens

No. 195 N.S.G.W. All came dressed in costumes and ducked for apples, grabbed doughnuts from a string and danced. Pie and coffee were served.

The annual turkey whist for the benefit of the poor kiddies' Christmas tree fund of Aloha and Athens was held November 14 and was most successful. Aloha's monthly whist was held November 24 at the home of Louise Hahn. A California State (Bear) Flag has been presented by No. 106 to the Jefferson school.

Two coming affairs for Aloha are: the "winter frolic," Saturday, December 2, at the Town and Gown Club, Berkeley, and the bridge tea at the home of Edna Steuer, Saturday afternoon, December 9.

Homeless Children Benefit Success.

Oroville—Gold of Ophir No. 190 entertained November 1 members of Argonaut No. 8 N.S.G.W. and their wives. Cards were indulged in, and entertainment features in charge of Grand Trustee Florence Boyle and Alta Baldwin were presented. At tables decorated in keeping with the harvest season, refreshments were served by a committee headed by Francis O'Brien.

The Parlor had an old stagecoach in the Armistice Day parade, and President Pearl Damon rode in state alongside the driver. A float depicting the Great Seal of State was entered in the November 18 NRA parade. Grand Trustee Boyle appeared before the Orland Women's Club, the Gridley Women's Club and the Thermalito P.T.A., at their request, during November and told them of the Natives' Pioneer Relics Museum in Oroville.

The card party given jointly by Gold of Ophir and Argonaut November 15 for the benefit of the homeless children attracted a goodly crowd, and a neat sum was realized. Chairman Dorothy Meader was largely responsible for its success; assisting her were Lauretta Ross, Florence Boyle, Verna Parker, Elice LaVoy, Pearl Damon, Hazel Scott, Frank O'Brien, W. G. Parker and W. K. Palmer.

Welcomed to New Home.

Placentia—Grace No. 242 had its first meeting October 19 in its new home, the Placentia Round Table Club, which was beautified with flowers sent by social and business organizations. Secretary S. H. Strathman of the Placentia Chamber of Commerce extended a welcome. Among the visitors were Deputy Irene Eden, President Mae West and a large delegation from Santa Ana No. 235, and Mary Noerenberg and Marybelle Chapman of Californiana No. 247; the latter entertained with several songs. Cards were played after the meeting, and President Erma Watts was presented with a birthday cake. Refreshments were served by General Chairman Helen Anderson and a committee.

The November 10 dance, Kate Hill chairman, was such a pronounced success it has been decided to make it an annual event. A beautifully decorated auto, driven by Virginia Anderson, was entered in the Orange City Armistice Day parade by the Parlor. Members of No. 242, their families and friends, November 16 enjoyed a dinner, followed by cards. Committees in charge were: dinner, Erma Watts, Lena Wagner, Lena Aspden; cards, Lucana McFadden, Christine McFarland, Marie Jacobsen.

District Meet.

Willows—Honoring Grand President Irma W. Laird, the district meeting of Glenn, Butte and Plumas Counties deputies will be held here in I.O.O.F. Hall, the evening of December 14 under the direction of Supervising Deputy Mae Houston. Louretta Ross of Oroville will preside as president.

NEWSY N.D. PARAGRAPHS.

Nevada City—Laurel No. 6 entertained in honor of Past Grand Alison F. Watt October 19, and the affair, a surprise to the guest, was an ovation. In the course of an address, President Helen Tredenneck told Mrs. Watt that she is held in the highest regard. Esther McCloskey sang "I Love You Truly." An outstanding feature was a parade of thirty-eight past presidents. As each passed Mrs. Watt she presented her with a huge red carnation; collectively they made a gorgeous boquet.

Grass Valley—An unprecedented number of members of Manzanita No. 29 were out November 7 to greet Grand President Irma W. Laird on her official visit. Among the other visitors was Junior Past Grand Anna Mixon Armstrong. A dinner, at beautifully decorated tables preceding the meeting, was presided over by President Ann Whiting. Favors were miniature goldpans lettered "Manzanita;" at the bottom of each were grouped several gold nuggets. At the Parlor session the ritual was exemplified, and the famed drill team appeared. Mrs. Laird was the recipient of a gift of silver, and at the conclusion of her address she received an appreciative burst of applause. Hilda Sandow was chairman of arrangements for the occasion.

Watsonville—Laden with appetizing "eats," forty-nine members of Junipero No. 140, San Juan Bautista No. 179, Santa Cruz No. 26, Aleli No. 102 and Copa de Oro No. 105 swooped down on El Pajaro No. 35 for a surprise visit November 7. The affair was suggested by President Alma Nyland of No. 179 and planned by Supervising Deputy Rose Rhyner. The conspirators assembled in the Plaza opposite the hall, waiting until El Pajaro's meeting had been called to order, and then entered in a body. At the close of the meeting the visitors provided a program of dancing numbers, stunts and games. During the serving of refreshments many interesting and enjoyable stories were related. The happy get-together was closed by the singing of "Good Night, Ladies."

Hollister—Choice spirits of the night held high revel at the October 26 meeting of Copa de Oro No. 105. Witches, black cats and hobgoblins were everywhere. On arrival at the Hallowe'en rendezvous, members were greeted by ghosts, and from then on there was never a dull moment and hilarity reigned supreme. One awesome contest followed another in quick succession. After the activity the members were refreshed with witch's brew, doughnuts served on broom handles and other food favored by Hallowe'en characters. The committee in charge included Alta Trowbridge, Erma Pivetti and Lila Melendy.

Calistoga—November 13 was recorded as a red-letter evening in the minutes of Calistoga No. 145—Grand President Irma W. Laird's official visit, initiation three candidates and the birthday anniversaries of President Grace Wolfe and Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen. The Grand President's message carried many inspiring thoughts and ideas, and other speakers were Grand Trustee Alice Lane, Supervising Deputy Wilna Mitchell, Deputy Lillus A. Kelley and Mrs. Thuesen. Refreshments were served, and at the festive board came the evening's surprise—the presentation of birthday cakes to President Wolfe and the Grand Marshal.

Chico—Grand President Irma Laird officially visited Annie K. Bidwell No. 168 November 9. The hall was cleverly decorated with autumn leaves and fruit. Two candidates were initiated. Mrs. Laird reported new parlors had been organized at Portola, Plumas County, and Los Banos, Merced County. The Parlor had a most successful benefit party October 26; heading the arrangements committee was Mrs. Charles Westbrook. A cooked-food sale October 28 was in charge of Mrs. Irene Henry. The Parlor has organized a building corporation and is erecting its own home, which will be completed April 1, 1934.

Oakland—Two hundred members were in attendance at the official visit of Grand President Irma Laird to Fruitvale No. 177 November 3. Mrs. Laird was escorted through a floral arch, made by members of the Parlor attired in nile-green frocks and carrying bronze chrysanthemums, and presented with a big brown bear. President Mae Franklin and her staff of officers exemplified the ritual. The Grand President complimented the Parlor highly and expressed great pleasure at the marvelous work it has done for the cripple class of Hawthorne school. Helen Cleu, chairman of the evening, presented a set of glassware to Mrs. Laird. Dainty refreshments were served at prettily decorated tables.

Georgetown—The annual dinner for the Pioneers given by El Dorado No. 186 was well attended. The honored guests included Mms. Georgia Knox, Florinda Francis and Dora Crawford; P. F. Morgan and E. W. Stanton. President Mary Morgan welcomed the guests, and Miss Ella Stanton was the toastmistress. Among the toasts, all given in clever rhymes, was one to Mrs. Margaret Roberts, who originated the pioneer dinner idea here in 1914. Entertainment, in the Hallowe'en spirit, was provided by P. F. Morgan, C. D. Hotchkiss, Mms. Will Breedlove and R. O. Murdock. Much of the success of the affair was due to the efforts of Mms. Irene Irish, Beatrice Luce and Flossie Francis.

"OBSERVATIONS OF THE GRAND President: There are more than three thousand dollars in the organization fund awaiting distribution among the members of the Order through the initiation plan. COME ON, MEMBERS, AND MAKE A FEW EASY DOLLARS. They are yours, with the exertion of very little effort. Come and get them!

"One full month remains for competition in the big prize contests for membership. It is not too late for any Parlor to capture one of the prizes. The contests are not decided, and every Parlor should make a try for a prize. You may be surprised later to learn how easy it was to win a prize. ORGANIZE AT ONCE AND MAKE AN EARNEST EFFORT TO PLACE YOUR PARLOR IN THE RUNNING! December is the most auspicious month of the year to win converts. A membership in the Order would make a very desirable Christmas gift.

"The Grand Officers are responding loyally to the call of the hour for increased membership. So, too, are the Subordinate Parlor officers and many of the Parlors of the state. It is the wish of us all that every Parlor in the state should HOLD AN INITIATION CEREMONY BEFORE THE YEAR CLOSES. There is an awakening all along the line, and it looks as if a new record will be made this year. The initiation of members is the best evidence of the life of a Parlor. LET US START NOW!

"Send in your good news of Parlor activities to The Grizzly Bear, if it is only a line. The membership generally are glad to hear from the Subordinate Parlors. We are all mutually interested in each other.

"EMMET SEAWELL,
"Grand President N.S.G.W.

"San Francisco, November 19, 1933."

EXCELSIOR SETS THE PACE THAT ALL PARLORS SHOULD FOLLOW.

Jackson—Under the leadership of President Thomas G. Negrich, Excelsior No. 31, which for nine years had not initiated a single candidate, November 15 added twenty-four new names to its rolls and is starting to sign up another class of twenty-five candidates. The meetingplace was crowded to overflowing. The banquetroom had been arranged to accommodate eighty, and one hundred and fifty-five were present. As a consequence, the Parlor's members besieged local merchants to open their establishments and supply additional food. Notwithstanding the unexpected large crowd and the natural confusion that followed all enjoyed the fact that so much interest was shown in the new life taken on by Excelsior. The initiatory ceremonies were conducted by the officers of Plymouth No. 48 in faultless manner.

Every Subordinate Parlor should hold an initiation during December. Every member can, from among the numerous eligibles, recruit at least one candidate, if he just will! Don't waste more time and energy inventing an excuse for inaction. A new member, secured through your efforts, is unmistakable evidence of your response to the Grand President's urge for action —of your loyalty to the Order!

Grand Trustee Henry Lyon headed a delegation of twenty-six from Placerville No. 9. Amador No. 17 (Sutter Creek) had a delegation of twenty, Ione No. 33 twenty, and Plymouth twenty-five. The Mother Lode Parlors inaugurated an excellent idea for the promotion of the Order's welfare, in that they visit with each other, suggest new ideas and fill the halls to capacity, thus leaving with new members a favorable impression. Ione needs stimulating, and it was agreed at this meeting that all the Amador County Parlors will procure candidates for No. 33, thus proving to the Ione section that the organization is a live and going concern.

Sacramento No. 3 was represented by its prize-winning drum corps and drill team and forty members. It is interesting to observe that these boys traveled from the Capital City to the Mother Lode section to lend support to the occasion and to create enthusiasm. The co-operative spirit of the visiting Parlors was so real and enthusiastic that the procuring of additional candidates by local Parlors is now but a matter of form.

The Parlors of Amador County are making the boast that they will have the highest score for new members, and they challenge any group of Parlors in any locality to enter into a contest with them. The enthusiasm in Amador County is so great that a very favorable and amazing improvement in the Order's progress will be observed within the next six months.

Six Initiated.

Modesto—With one hundred members of the Order in attendance, Modesto No. 11 observed its institution anniversary at a banquet November 1. Charles E. Tucker, master of ceremonies, introduced the following, who gave brief talks: Grand Trustees Thomas M. Foley, Eldred L. Meyer, John M. Burnett and Edward T. Schnarr, Grand Treasurer John A. Corotto, Grand Outside Sentinel Walter P. Rothenbush, George F. McNoble and David W. Tulloch. Entertainment was provided by Johnny Conn and his orchestra.

Following the feast, a class of six candidates were initiated by Modesto's officers, headed by President B. E. Munson. Mark Wilson was chairman of the dinner committee, while Clarence Tucker handled the program arrangements. Visitors were present f om ten Parlors.

Pioneers Provided for Free Schools.

Placerville—Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell paid a visit to Placerville No. 9, November 6, and was greeted by members of the Order from Sacramento, Placer, Amador and El Dorado Counties. The evening's festivities opened with a turkey supper, served by members of Marguerite No. 12 N.D.G.W., to which members of the local bar and press were invited. Grand Trustee Henry S. Lyon presided as toastmaster.

Relating briefly the history of El Dorado County, Superior Judge George H. Thompson said that one of the leading figures at California's First Constitutional Convention was William E. Shannon of Coloma, and suggested a marker to his memory. Justice Seawell, referring to American Education Week, pointed out that members of the First Constitutional Convention had laid the foundation for California's public school system when they provided for free common schools in this state.

On Placerville's behalf, Grand Trustee Lyon presented the Grand President with a nugget of native El Dorado County gold. Following the supper the ritual was exemplified by a team from General John A. Sutter Past Presidents Assembly of Sacramento. During the afternoon Justice Seawell visited the Marshall monument and other historic shrines of the county.

Every Subordinate Parlor should hold an initiation during December. Every member can, from among the numerous eligibles, recruit at least one candidate, if he just will! Don't waste more time and energy inventing an excuse for inaction. A new member, secured through your efforts, is unmistakable evidence of your response to the Grand President's urge for action —of your loyalty to the Order!

Fiftieth Anniversary.

San Jose—San Jose No. 22 celebrated its fiftieth institution anniversary October 23, and the honor guest was Edward Younger, sole surviving charter member. Many members of the Order from Santa Clara and Alameda Counties were in attendance, Observatory No. 177 being represented by a delegation of fifty, headed by Arthur Langford and Joe Desimone, who extended congratulations on that Parlor's behalf. Past president emblems were presented Joseph Sabatte and Arthur Davison.

Grand Trustee John M. Burnett was toastmaster, and presented a life membership in San Jose to Charter Member Younger. Other speakers were Past Grand Thomas Monahan, Grand Trustee Edward Schnarr and Grand Treasurer John Corotto. Fred N. Breeze and Clifford L. Kelley were in charge of arrangements. The Parlor has launched a membership drive and two teams are at work. At the drive's close the winning team will be feted at a banquet.

Grand Officers Exemplify Ritual.

Merced—Yosemite No. 24 celebrated November 13 its fiftieth institution anniversary, and the occasion proved most enjoyable. The affair started with a turkey supper attended by many members from the San Joaquin Valley Parlors. Following this a class of seven candidates, among them Assemblyman Ray Robinson, were initiated, the ritual being exemplified by the following:

Under good of the order, addresses were made by Secretary True W. Fowler, who briefly outlined Yosemite's history; Assemblyman Robinson, who spoke for the initiates; Grand Trustee Schnarr, who was making his official visit, and Michael Griffith. Four members of Modesto No. 11 recited "Out where the West begins, out where the East begins, out where the North begins, out where the South begins."

Every Subordinate Parlor should hold an initiation during December. Every member can, from among the numerous eligibles, recruit at least one candidate, if he just will! Don't waste more time and energy inventing an excuse for inaction. A new member, secured through your efforts, is unmistakable evidence of your response to the Grand President's urge for action —of your loyalty to the Order!

To Assist Santa Claus.

Livermore—Las Positas No. 96 celebrated November 9 its forty-seventh institution anniversary at a banquet. Among the guests were Past Grand Thomas Monahan, Grand Second Vice Harmon D. Skillin, Grand Treasurer John A. Corotto, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Marshal Gam Hurst, Grand Trustee Edward T. Schnarr and District Deputy H. E. Uebner.

Las Positas will have its annual Christmas party December 18 for Livermore Valley children who otherwise might be overlooked by Santa. Dr. Donald M. Fraser is the general chairman, and the various subcommittes are headed by J. J. Kelly, Carl Clarke, H. L. Wente, J. M. Beazell, John Rose, Peter Reuss, R. J. Ruetz, E. A. Wente, L. A. McVicar, Wm. Medau and J. M. Baughman.

NEWSY N.S. PARAGRAPHS.

Petaluma—Grand First Vice Chas. A. Koenig officially visited Petaluma No. 27 October 23. Two candidates were initiated. Santa Rosa No. 28 was represented by a delegation headed by President J. Brucker. Brief talks were followed by refreshments.

Antioch—General Winn No. 32's forty-ninth Thanksgiving masquerade ball was arranged for by a committee composed of F. J. Bigelow, Jack Welch, Jack Wallrath and Edmund Uren. Assisting were Marguerite Peters, Wilma Lilley, Blanche Garrow, Juanita Welch and Marguerite Flannery of Antioch No. 223 N.D.G.W. In honor of Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell, General Winn initiated a class of candidates November 22.

Grass Valley—At the third annual quartz gold discovery celebration sponsored by Quartz No. 58 and Manzanita No. 29 N.D.G.W., October 29, the speakers were Grand Trustee Henry S. Lyon, Past Grand Alison F. Watt and President Ann Whiting of Manzanita. Musical selections were furnished by the Grass Valley concert band, Dora Mitchell, Quartz Mill Billies, Lyda Talbot, Katherine Celio and Louis Hooper.

Auburn—Mrs. Jane Garity, sister of P. W. Smith of Auburn No. 59, died at Rocklin October 25. She was a native of Placer County, aged 70.

Every Subordinate Parlor should hold an initiation during December. Every member can, from among the numerous eligibles, recruit at least one candidate, if he just will! Don't waste more time and energy inventing an excuse for inaction. A new member, secured through your efforts, is unmistakable evidence of your response to the Grand President's urge for action —of your loyalty to the Order!

San Rafael—A big delegation of Fruitvale No. 252 (Oakland) members were, by invitation, special guests of Mount Tamalpais No. 64 October 28, and witnessed the initiation of a class of candidates. They expressed themselves as highly pleased with their reception and promised a return invitation in the near-future to feature a ritual contest. Other visitors were Grand First

Vallejo—Grand President Irma Laird officially visited Vallejo No. 195 October 18. The lodge-room was decorated with huge baskets of flowers. Two candidates were initiated. A dinner preceded the meeting, and refreshments were served at its conclusion. Grand President Laird gave an interesting address, encouraging each member to do her part in the Order's various projects. Among the many visitors were Past Grands Emma Foley, Mary E. Bell and Anna M. Armstrong, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Supervising Deputy Delphine Todt, Deputies Ruth Hickey, Lillus Kelley and Carrie Congrave.

Saint Helena—La Junta No. 203 enjoyed a turkey dinner November 7. The decorations were appropriate to the season, and a program was presented by the committee in charge.

Stockton—In the Armistice Day parade, Caliz de Oro No. 206 had a drill team, costumed in gold and white dresses with white hats. The marchers pulled a decorated trailer, indicating that the Parlor has adopted a veteran. The entry was awarded first prize.

Elk Grove—Happy times are here again, according to Liberty No. 213. A card party November 10 attracted thirty-seven tables of players, and it was one of the happiest and carefree assemblages to patronize the Parlor in some years. The gross proceeds of the undertaking, the only big event planned for the term of President Doris Gerrish, neared the $90-mark.

Petaluma—Mae Rose Barry night was observed by Petaluma No. 222. As an expression of the Parlor's affection for her, President Julia Perolini presented Mrs. Barry with a gift. An entertainment feature was a skit presented by members of Petaluma Temple No. 104 Pythian Sisters. At a table decorated in autumn blossoms a banquet was served by a committee headed by Julia Anderson. A public card party given by the Parlor October 20 was in charge of Mary Ceresa.

Antioch—The second in a series of house card parties for the benefit of Antioch No. 223 was held November 17 at the home of Mary Ross and Wilma Lilley. As sponsoring organization of Waussicket Camp Fire Girls, the Parlor is assisting the girls in assembling a library.

Santa Ana—Santa Ana No. 235 was represented in the Orange City Armistice Day parade by two decorated autos. Deputies Violet Hensilwood and Mattie Edwards were Parlor visitors November 13. Entertainment featured a one-act play, "How Girl Scout Laws Are Made," presented by Troop No. 1. The thimble club met November 16 at the ranch home of Chairman Myrtle Ellis. The next card party will be held ta the home of Mrs. E. U. Dickinson.

San Bernardino—Lugonia No. 241's Harmony Club had a successful bazar and food sale November 4. The drive for new members is on, and prospectives were guests at an open meeting November 8. With Marjorie Beck as chairman, a benefit dance was held November 16. The Parlor officers served another delightful dinner November 22; Deputy Gertrude Tuttle and Florence D. Schoneman were special guests.

Ontario—Ontario No. 251 sponsored October 19 ceremonies marking with a bronze tablet the first brick house erected in San Bernardino County. The dwelling, in the Cucamonga district, was erected by Colonel Isaac Williams in 1858. Mrs. Nelson VanFleet, president of the Parlor, outlined the history and aims of the Order. Special guests were President Dolores Malin and Past President Mattie Gara of Los Angeles No. 124.

In Memoriam

EDNA MONROE BUTLER.

To the Officers and Members of Calistoga Parlor No. 145 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our late beloved sister, Etta Monroe Butler, respectfully submit the following:

Again our Golden Chain has been broken and a loved member has crossed the bar. Always working for the best interests of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, her love of Country and devotion to our Flag will never be forgotten by those who knew her well. She lives with us in memory, and will forever more. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of Calistoga Parlor No. 145 N.D.G.W., extend to the bereaved family, in the loss of a devoted and loving wife, mother and grandmother, our sincere and heartfelt sympathy; that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family of our departed sister, that a copy be spread in full upon the minutes of our Parlor, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

Respectfully submitted,

KATIE BUTLER.
LILLUS A. KELLEY,
KATIE J. MOROSOLI,
Committee.

Calistoga, November 1, 1933.

LITTLE WANDERER

(N. H. DUNNING.)

Kitten! You wandered far
Before you crossed my path today
And won my pity with your timid cry;
Though small and weak, they cast you out to die.
I think some cruel act has left a scar
Upon their souls; because no deed
Of mercy they have shown.
So frail and worn, how did you find the way,
My Innocent, to me alone?
Did the great god of little "catlings" lead
You safely here to stay?
They failed to give you heed,
When you were sad,
And left you in the hour of need
Uncomforted to lie.
Kitten, those trials all are past,
And all is well at last;
So let them go their thoughtless way,—
Unheeding when we plead,—
For you and I are glad,
Yes, very glad indeed.

"Sympathy with animals is so intimately connected with what is good in character, that one may confidently affirm that he who is cruel to them, cannot be a good man."—Schopenhauer.

SAN FRANCISCO

GRAND PRESIDENT IRMA W. LAIRD officially visited "Pine Tree Parlor No. 1933" N.D.G.W. October 30. The gathering, which was held in Native Sons Auditorium under the direction of Supervising Deputy Ann Dippel, was attended by some seven hundred members of the Order, among the number being Grand Vice-president Gladys E. Noce, Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Treasurer Susie K. Christ, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Grand Trustees Florence Boyle, Ethel Begley, Willow Borba, Alice Lane and Orinda Giannini, Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel Hansen, Grand Outside Sentinel Alice Oldham, Past Grands Emma Foley, Mae Boldeman, Margaret Hill, Mae Noonan and Evelyn Carlson.

Twenty-four escort girls, dressed in lemon-colored organdy, entered the hall, followed by the officers costumed in a shade of orange and carrying muffs with Hallowe'en ideas. Nan Kelly directed the escort drill. Emily Ryan presided, and fourteen candidates were initiated for various Subordinate Parlors. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the ceremonies.

DELIGHTFUL OUTING.

The long-contemplated journey of Stanford Parlor No. 76 N.S.G.W. to Sacramento via river boat was a most delightful outing, enjoyed by 250. The steamer left San Francisco the evening of November 4. The moon was shining brightly, and the weather was warm. Arriving at the Capital City the following morning the visitors were welcomed by a delegation of Sacramento Natives, who took them on sightseeing trips. In the afternoon the visitors entertained aboard boat.

Departing from Sacramento the evening of the 5th, the voyagers arrived home, tired but happy, early the next morning. Entire credit for the success of the affair belongs to Frank Biedermann, who worked night and day to make this the outstanding event of the Parlor. The following grand officers and their families made the trip: Grand First Vice Chas. A. Koenig, Grand Second Vice Harmon D. Skillin, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Trustees Chas. H. Spengemann and Jesse H. Miller.

CHRISTMAS PARTY AT N.D. HOME.

The Sunday breakfast at the N.D.G.W. Home November 12 was largely attended. Speakers included Public Defender Gerald Kenney, Grand Trustee Thomas M. Foley and Grand First Vice-president Chas. A. Koenig of the Native Sons, Grand President Irma W. Laird and Past Grand Dr. Mariana Bertola. The latter's mention of the Home's needs brought the gift of a floor lamp from James Lick Parlor No. 220, and the promise by Orinda Parlor No. 56 of another. Dr. Bertola reported receipt of a shower donation of preserves from Contra Costa County Parlors, and expressed the hope the supply would be replenished by another group. Pot holders, she said, are also needed.

The N.D.G.W. Glee Club, in a surprise ceremony, presented the Flag of the United States of America, a gift of Mrs. Betty McAvoy of Mission Parlor No. 227 in memory of her son. Fred Zimmerman and Chas. Eugene Bried sounded taps and gave the flag salute, and the club hummed "Over There." Adeline Johnson Cuneo, Adam Schaeffer and Shirley Lombardero were heard in vocal selections, and readings were given by Maude Daly.

The Sunday breakfast at the Home December 10 will be in the nature of a Christmas party. Mrs. P. Conmy of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158 and Mrs. Gertrude LaFortune of Keith Parlor No. 137 will be the hostesses.

NATIVE DAUGHTER PARLORS DOINGS.

La Estrella No. 89 had a most enjoyable party November 22, which was attended by many friends of President Georgie Thierbach.

El Vespero No. 118 had a Hallowe'en party under the capable direction of Evelyn Simmen Cullen October 24. Many came in costumes, and those who did not paid fines which were applied to the baby fund. Prizes were awarded Margaret Kemme and Dorothy McGaa for, respectively, the most characteristic and the most beautiful costume. The arrangements committee introduced some new games and the participants learned the meaning of "walking on plates." The evening's most enjoyable feature was the rendition of "The Lay of the Kitchen Sink," by Anne Godfrey. After much merriment a typically Hallowe'en collation was spread. El Vespero will have a benefit whist party at Masonic Hall, Third and Newcomb, December 12.

Gabrielle No. 139 entertained its drill team and the members of Rincon No. 72 N.S.G.W. The annual benefit whist will be held December 5. Chairwoman E. Herman and her committee are working earnestly to make it a success.

Dolores No. 169 entertained October 25 Agnes McVerry of Calaveras No. 103, for many years its deputy, at a surprise Hallowe'en party. The Parlor presented her with a silk robe, and she was the recipient of many individual gifts. Musical selections were rendered by Lorretta Johnston, Betty Marquis, Miss Kay and Mr. Cate. Among the visitors were Deputy Pearl Wedde and Past Grand Mae Boldemann. A delightful supper was served. Past Grand Evelyn Carlson was in charge of arrangements. October 29, President Juanita Blanchfield and several members visited Letterman Hospital and dispensed Hallowe'en cheer among the veterans.

Castro No. 178 enjoyed Hallowe'en amusements November 1. Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel Hansen was a visitor, and Nelda Ehrhorn was chairman of the evening. A whist for the benefit of the Parlor's relief fund was held November 14. Ella Telling was in charge of arrangements.

N.D. PAST PRESIDENT CHIEF VISITS.

Mrs. Winifred Halter, chief president of the General Assembly of Past Presidents N.D.G.W., was entertained by Association No. 1 (San Francisco) November 6. Over two hundred members were present. Ten new members were received, among them Grand President Irma W. Laird. Vocal selections were rendered by Past Grand Estelle Evans and Ann Godfrey. Mrs. Halter was presented with an umbrella. Refreshments were served at tables beautified with autumnal decorations. Past Grand Evelyn Carlson was chairman of the evening, and planned a program enjoyed by all.

50 YEARS AGO IN CALIFORNIA.

A Saint Helena, Napa County, schoolgirl read the following composition: "HENS. My hen is a black hen. One day she went and stole a nest down to the next house and she brought it to my house and layed eggs in it. She has two wings and lots of lice."

A young man smoking a cigaret in the gallery of the San Bernardino City opera house dropped the lighted butt upon the hat of a woman sitting in the dress circle below. A blaze that destroyed the hat caused an exodus of the audience, and several were injured in the rush that resulted.

Some mischievous lads dropped an ounce wad of assafetida upon the hot stove of a Chico, Butte County, theater during a performance. The place was emptied, in a hurry.

A woman opened a barber shop in Nevada City, Nevada County. Her velvety touch on face and hair caused the editor of a newspaper to say: "Many will shave who never shaved before, and those who shaved will shave the more."

The Western Division Meeting of the National Chamber of Commerce will be held at Sacramento City, December 4 and 5.

Vice Chas. A. Koenig, Grand Second Vice Harmon D. Skillin, Grand Third Vice J. Hartley Russell, Harry W. Gaetjen of the Grand Parlor Finance Committee and State Senator Joseph Tracy. Koenig complimented the Parlor and its officers, and said all the Parlors in his district are showing increased membership. Chas. Redding presided at the banquet following the meeting, and Jack Cole rendered vocal solos.

Watsonville—With George G. Radcliff presiding, Watsonville No. 65 had an oldtimers night October 24. Grand Trustee Charles H. Spengemann was the honor-guest. After numerous short talks, a buffet supper was served. Large delegations attended from Santa Cruz No. 90, Santa Lucia No. 97 and Gabilan No. 132.

Colusa—Colusa No. 69 added six new names to its membership roll November 7. October 23 the Parlor entertained the members of Colus No. 194 N.D.G.W.

Ukiah—Grand Trustee Thomas M. Foley, accompanied by Chairman Walter Bammann of the Grand Parlor Control Board, officially visited Ukiah No. 71 November 6. Broderick No. 117, Lower Lake No. 159 and Alder Glen No. 200 were well represented. Five candidates were initiated, four for Ukiah and one for Lower Lake. Grand Trustee Foley gave a fine talk on the Order, and Henry Spurr and Keith Eversole told of the progress being made in arrangements for the 1934 Grand Parlor. With Francis Sanchez as chairman, Ukiah is arranging for a basketball team.

Every Subordinate Parlor should hold an initiation during December. Every member can, from among the numerous eligibles, recruit at least one candidate, if he just will! Don't waste more time and energy inventing an excuse for inaction. A new member, secured through your efforts, is unmistakable evidence of your response to the Grand President's urge for action —of your loyalty to the Order!

Calistoga—Rev. Thomas J. McKeon, past president Calistoga No. 86 and a California history authority, was the Armistice Day speaker at Suisun.

Ferndale—Ferndale No. 93 will have its annual turkey feast December 18. C. J. Olsen, George Becker and R. A. Grinsell compose the arrangements committee. The Parlor has donated a substantial sum to the homeless children committee.

Glen Ellen—Glen Ellen No. 102 sponsored a Thanksgiving turkey shoot November 19. A committee composed of C. Weise, L. Pagani, T. Cereghino, F. Kersch and C. Pagani lined up the sports for the big affair.

Every Subordinate Parlor should hold an initiation during December. Every member can, from among the numerous eligibles, recruit at least one candidate, if he just will! Don't waste more time and energy inventing an excuse for inaction. A new member, secured through your efforts, is unmistakable evidence of your response to the Grand President's urge for action —of your loyalty to the Order!

San Diego—New United States of America and California State (Bear) Flags, provided by San Diego No. 108, were hoisted November 10 with appropriate ceremony at the site of Fort Stockton where, in November 1846, the southwestern part of California was finally taken from Mexican forces. Four of the five bells that hung in the tower of the original San Diego de Alcala Mission are now hanging in the belfry of the restored structure. Albert V. Mayrhofer, leader in the landmark's restoration, witnessed their return November 17.

San Bernardino—Arrowhead No. 110 will have its annual New Year Eve dance at the Municipal Auditorium December 30. Lemar McGarvey is the general chairman. The proceeds will go to the homeless children.

Oakland—District Deputy Frank P. Smith of Piedmont No. 120 and President Emelda Mills of Bahia Vista No. 167 N.D.G.W. were united in marriage November 17. They will be at home to their many friends after December 1.

Willows—Thirty-five couples attended the dance sponsored by Willows No. 255 October 24.

Sutter—Sutter No. 261 entertained the members of South Butte No. 226 N.D.G.W. at a Hallowe'en party October 30. A snappy program was followed by games and refreshments. Matt Phillips and Scotty McLean were in charge.

MISSION FLOWERS FOUND BURIED IN OLD ADOBE BRICKS.

The most complete list to date of flowering shrubs and trees which grew in the gardens of the old Spanish mission of California a century and more ago has just been compiled by G. W. Hendry, assistant professor of the University of California's agronomy department. Early Spanish documents were of but little assistance in discovering the varieties of garden plants used by the mission padres, he states, because little attention was paid to this phase of life by the mission builders.

Professor Hendry's method of determining what flowers and shrubs were in use is to dissolve adobe bricks which form the walls of old mission buildings. From these are obtained numerous fragments of plant refuse gathered in the mission yards to bind the mud of the bricks together. Because the bricks were only sundried and not kiln-burned, the plant refuse has been preserved in almost perfect condition, and seeds, leaves, etc., may still be identified.

Among the plants which have been identified are white lilies, castilian rose, musk rose, tamarind, anise, camomile, cumin, jasmine, lavender, pennyroyal, almond, apple, apricot, cherry, grape, guava, orange, lime, peach, pear, pomegranate, quince, frijoles, horsebean, garbanzo, cotton, flax, hemp, maize, peas, rice, tobacco, wheat, artichoke, asparagus, beets, cabbage, carrot, garlic, lentils, melons, peppers, chicory and many others.

LOS ANGELES CITY AND COUNTY

THE NINE LOS ANGELES COUNTY Parlors of Native Sons—Los Angeles No. 45, Ramona No. 109, Hollywood No. 196, Long Beach No. 239, Sepulveda No. 263, Glendale No. 264, Santa Monica Bay No. 267, University No. 272 and Compton No. 273—will feature a joint class initiation in honor of Grand President Emmet Seawell, California Supreme Court Justice, the evening of Wednesday, December 6. The Los Angeles County N.S.G.W. Central Membership Committee, sponsoring the event, anticipates a large numebr of candidates from every Subordinate Parlor for this, the last 1933 roundup of eligibles.

Justice Seawell will be present to witness the ceremonies, which will be held at the meeting-place of Santa Monica Bay Parlor, Odd Fellows Hall, 1431 Third street, Santa Monica. Invitations to attend have been extended other justices of the Supreme Court affiliated with the Order and to the grand officers in various parts of the state, and many are expected to be on hand to welcome the initiates. The ritual will be exemplified by the following, under the supervision of District Deputy Walter E. Baskerville: Walter C. Richards (Sepulveda No. 263) and Charles E. Straube (Ramona No. 109), presidents; Eugene W Biscailuz (Santa Monica Bay No. 267), senior past; Bernard Hiss (University No. 272), junior past; Reed Young (Compton No. 273), first vice; Michael Botello (Los Angeles No. 45), second vice; Dr. R. C. Eshelman (Santa Monica Bay No. 267), third vice; William O'Meara (Hollywood No. 196), marshal; Phillip Molen (Glendale No. 264), inside sentinel; Robert Dunn (Ramona No. 109), outside sentinel; Roger Johnson (Los Angeles No. 45), organist.

Previous to the initiatory ceremonies, supper will be served at 6:30 p.m. at Laue's, 115 Santa Monica boulevard, Santa Monica. The visiting justices and grand officers will be guests of the Central Membership Committee, and all members of the Order are invited to attend. Following the ceremonies, entertainment and refreshments will be provided.

Don't fail, Native Sons! Remember the date, December 6, 8 p.m., and the place, 1431 Third street, Santa Monica, and each of you have your candidate on hand for initiation.—C.M.H.

EXCELLENT SHOW.

Under the auspices of its history and landmarks committee, Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W. staged "A Night in the Old Pueblo" November 22. More than two hundred attended, and thoroughly enjoyed the affair, one of the very best the Parlor has ever sponsored. The menu was appetizing, and the show, featuring the younger member, was excellent. A large crowd attended the November 8 card party, Kate Williams chairman. The sewing club spent a pleasant and profitable afternoon at the home of Phyllis Rooke; Juanita Porter was co-hostess. Delicious refreshments were served.

At the November 1 meeting of the Parlor, Past Grand Grace S. Stoermer spoke on the Order's progress in the south, and mentioned that two additional parlors are to be instituted in Los Angeles County, at Pasadena and Compton. A shower was given No. 124's latest bride, Letha Morton-Brooks, November 15. Evelyn Trautwein and Margaret Baldwin entertained with skits entitled "An Absent Minded Lover" and "A Lovely Honeymoon." The Parlor gave Thanksgiving baskets to veterans, and will provide Christmas baskets for poor families. Ann Schiebusch and Edna Trombator are chairmen of the respective committees.

Los Angeles' December calendar: 6th, exemplification of the new installation ceremonies, for the benefit of the southern Parlors, by No. 124's officers, headed by President Dolores Malin. 9th, visit to the Californiana exhibit at Huntington Library. 13th, monthly card party. 27th, Christmas party.

COURT SETUP FLAYED.

Addressing the Catholic Women's Club, November 1, Superior Judge John Perry Wood flayed the present Los Angeles County court setup, saying: "There is nothing so subversive to orderly and good government as to have the poor man go from the courts of justice and know that justice has not been done. This is the cause of much of the unrest in Los Angeles County.

"The work that is done in our courts could easily be taken care of by twenty-two judges, with greater economy and more efficiency. . . . There are too many judges in our court who don't know how, who are lazy, who are politically minded, who listen to whisperings and give personal judgments. . . . But the man against whom the judgment is given becomes a potential anarchist. And the expense to the taxpayer is continually mounting."

Los Angeles County taxpayers should give these statements serious consideration, and act accordingly. Consider this: in all of England there are not fifty judges, and England is one country in the world where real justice is administered, with speed.—C.M.H.

HOMELESS CHILDREN BAZAR.

December, the Christmas month, will be a lively and interesting time for Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W. The principal event will be the homeless children bazar, for which the dessert sewing circle has been working for some time at the members' homes. Delightful gatherings were enjoyed during November with Mms. Edward Taber, Ralph Tuttle and William Dobson. Mrs. Joseph Lukomski, chairman veteran welfare committee, plans Christmas cheer for the sick men adopted by the Parlor, and in order to raise funds took over the Gateway Players theater November 9 and cleared $30.

The folk lore committee, Marcella Wolfskill chairman, has planned a series of "bailes," the first to take place December 8; dress will be costume or formal, and a Mexican Christmas

Stretch

Your Dollars

Money is being stretched these days. You are getting as much as you can for every dollar you spend. And there are many ways and means of saving—particularly if you plan and budget your expenses. To help you, California Bank will gladly give you a household budget book . . . free . . . at any of its fifty-five offices. This book was developed with the help of Dr. Greta Gray, nationally known home economics authority, and is designed to be as simple, as helpful, yet as complete as possible. Drop in at any office of California Bank and get one of these books. It will help you to plan and budget your expenses—to "stretch your dollars."

festivity will be a feature. At the November 14 history class, Isabel Fages introduced Charles Amsden, who spoke interestingly on "The California Indians." In celebration of Armistice Day, Don Claflin spoke on "Veteran Legislation;" he was introduced by Mrs. Milo Aylward. At the luncheon this day twelve members' natal days were honored, including that of President Inez Sitton, whose lovely birthday cake was made by Flora Jacobson.

NATIVE SONS PARLORS NEWS BRIEFS.

Los Angeles—The celebration of the forty-ninth institution anniversary of Los Angeles No. 45 attracted a large crowd to the Paris Inn, November 16. President Roger Johnson presided. Earl LeMoine was master of ceremonies, and addresses were made by Past Grand John T. Newell and Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer. University No. 272 was represented by twenty couples. Clyde Harry Davis managed the successful and much enjoyed party. The Parlor will in future meet the second and fourth Thursdays in Knights Columbus Hall, 850 South Bonnie Brae, the first meeting in the new quarters to be held December 14.

Los Angeles—The program of Ramona No. 109 for December includes: 1st, election officers. 15th, birthday dinner for the December "boys" at 6:30 p.m., followed by entertainment and pictures; the womenfolks are specially invited. 22nd, initiation, the last chance to get candidates under the 1933 wire. There will be no meeting the 29th.

Los Angeles—The "good old days" show sponsored by Hollywood No. 196, November 13, drew a big crowd, and they stuck until the wee sma' hours. Very active in conducting the affair were, among others, Harold Thomas, M. U. Rosenthal, "Bill" Hortenstein, Edgar Black and Albert Sandoval

San Pedro—Sepulveda No. 263 is promoting a bowling league, with teams representing all the Los Angeles County Parlors. It is proposed to play all games at Compton, Monday nights. Grand Inside Sentinel William A. Reuter, Frank Bronson and Vincent E. Hopkins are active in making arrangements.

Santa Monica—Santa Monica Bay No. 267 will stage a gigantic amateur night entertainment December 20. George Green, Clayton Brandt, Ernest Reyes and Dewey Houghton are arranging the program. The Parlor's drum corps appeared in the local Armistice Day parade.

KINDNESS APPRECIATED.

Long Beach—Long Beach Parlor No. 154 N.D.G.W. had a surprise party October 30 at the home of Genevia Johnson, who was presented a check in appreciation for her permitting the Parlor to use her home as a meetingplace following the March earthquake. The thimble club had a special meeting at the home of Kate McFadyen, November 1. The club met again the 9th at the home of Genevia Johnson. In the evening a surprise party was held at the home of Lillian Lassater for Mr. and Mrs. Jim Waldow, the occasion being their tenth wedding anniversary.

The Parlor is now meeting in New Masonic Temple. November 16, a delegation from Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 (San Pedro), including Deputy Letitia Sarciaux and President Carrie Kuhlman, visited. Refreshments were served by Alma Morrow and May Giles. A cooked-food sale November 18 was in charge of Johanna Reed; an apron booth, in connection, was in charge of Alice Waldow.

STATE FLAG GIVEN POSTOFFICE.

Glendale—The dinner-dance and bazar featured by Verdugo Parlor No. 240 N.D.G.W., November 18, was attended by 125. The workers for the successful affair were Margaret Donlan, Betty Sanders, Vera Carlson, Kathryn Burke, Myrtize Tregea, Sarah Burleson, Ada Steele, Anna Alpi, Mary Miller, Berniece Biekerdike, Ione Gilbert and Martha Hawkensen.

November 21, Mr. Collett addressed the Parlor on "The Rights of Indians." Three Indians, in costumes, gave several dances. On behalf of Verdugo, Ada Steele presented a California State (Bear) Flag to Glendale's new postoffice.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Newcomb Condee (Ramona N.S.) has been appointed a municipal judge.

Miss Grace J. Norton (Los Angeles N.D.) was a visitor to San Francisco last month.

State Senator J. M. Inman (Sunset N.S.) of Sacramento was among last month's visitors.

Mrs. Sophia Stewart (Los Angeles N.D.) visited recently with relatives in San Francisco.

PAST GRAND N.D. PASSES

DR. LOUISE CAROLINE HEILBRON, Past Grand President of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West, passed suddenly away at Sacramento, November 20. She was born in the Capital City, December 14, 1873, and her life of usefulness was spent there and in San Diego City. She originally joined Califia Parlor No. 22 (Sacramento), but during her residence in the southern city she organized San Diego Parlor No. 208, becoming its charter president.

In the passing of Dr. Heilbron, the Order of Native Daughters has lost a most valued member. She was very active in the Grand Parlor, and served as Grand President in 1929 and 1930. As a member of the Grand Parlor Home Committee, she originated the "Loyalty Pledge," and through her untiring efforts the mortgage on the Home, in San Francisco, was liquidated in three years—a remarkable record.

Some thirty-three years ago, Dr. Heilbron was graduated in osteopathy and continuously since practiced in San Francisco, San Diego and Sacramento. In her professional life, she gave of her strength and service wherever wanted and needed, without regard to her own health or well-being and without concern as to her patients' ability to make return for services rendered. Her life was one continuous record of self-sacrificing, loving and devoted service to family, friends and those in need or distress.

Dr. Heilbron was an indefatigible worker, a genius at originating ideas. In addition to the Native Daughters, she was identified with several fraternal and civic bodies, and organized the Quota Club. She was a splendid woman, an asset to any organization, and an ever-faithful friend.

Funeral services, largely attended, were conducted at Sacramento, November 22, by the Grand Parlor N.D.G.W., Grand President Irma W. Laird, Junior Past Grand President Anna M. Armstrong, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen and Past Grand President Esther R. Sullivan officiating. Vocal selections were rendered by Past Grand President Estelle M. Evans, Miss Sullivan read a favorite poem of Dr. Heilbron, "Friendship's Road," and Grand President Laird pronounced a eulogy, which follows:

" 'In the measureless realm of Time, how brief is our earthly existence, yet how momentous its issues. Life's experiences coming thick and fast are the soul's appointed means of growth. Today we build our castles—tomorrow fickle fortune snatches from hope the promised joy. Today prosperity and the presence of loved ones fills our heart to overflowing, tomorrow adversity and sore bereavement cast us into the Valley of the Shadows.'

"Yesterday, our beloved Past Grand President, Louise Caroline Heilbron, was with us, apparently in all the vigor of life and health. Today, we who have been associated with her through a Fraternity bound by the golden cord of affection, have gathered with bowed heads to pay our sad tribute of love to all that is mortal of one whom we were privileged to call friend.

"She has approached that Great Throne where golden truth and fervid love abide forever. In her life, she exemplified the virtues of Patience, Duty and Filial Affection. She knew the beauties of Loyalty and Patriotism, and she directed her life according to the word of God, whose light leads us all to eternal salvation. She had learned a lesson from our Pioneer Fathers and Mothers, and was tolerant in all her dealings with mankind.

"We shall always think of Dr. Heilbron as one of God's noble women; able to face the world and to combine strength with gentleness, grace with dignity, modesty with refinement, and, with all, she had the enduring qualities of character. Generous to a fault, she often allowed her sympathies to overbalance her good judgment. She appreciated her heritage in having glorious California the land of her birth. She acquired the knowledge necessary to give a life of service. She appreciated the incomparable power that woman wields, and measured every act of her life with unfaltering conscience.

"Today we reverently thank God for our association of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, not because of its many achievements and its service to the public, but because of the joy and happiness it brought to our departed loved one, who was proud of her affiliation with our Order, and impressed with the duties of an exalted and patriotic womanhood.

"We shall meet, but we shall miss her; there will always be her vacant chair."

Among the many other Native Daughters at the obsequies were the following: Grand Vice-president Gladys E. Noce, Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Treasurer Susie K. Christ, Grand Trustees Alice M. Lane, Willow Borba and Ethel Begley, Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel B. Hansen, Past Grand Presidents Carrie Roesch-Durham, Emma Gruber-Foley, Mamie G. Peyton, Dr. Eva R. Rasmussen, Ariana W. Stirling, Amy V. McAvoy, Mary E. Bell, Sue J. Irwin, Mattie M. Stein, Evelyn I. Carlson and Margaret Grote-Hill.

Miss Letha May Morton (Los Angeles N.D.) and Orville R. Brooks (Ramona N.S.) were wedded November 11 at Santa Barbara. They will reside in Los Angeles.

THE DEATH RECORD.

Mrs. Louise Emme, mother of Harry F. Emme (Ramona N.S.), died October 24 at the age of 75.

Charles William Lyke, father of Charles W. Lyke (Ramona N.S.), died November 2.

Mrs. Olive Belle Mier, mother of Millard M. Mier (Ramona N.S.), died November 3.

Mrs. Anita Page-Variel, wife of William J. Variel (Ramona N.S.), died November 11.

Mrs. Carrie Louise Orfila, wife of Antonio Orfila (Ramona N.S.), died November 17.

INSIDE JAP INFORMATION.

A record-breaking crowd, eighty-seven, attended the November 24 meeting of the Native Sons Friday Luncheon Club at the Rosslyn Hotel. The attraction was Ralph Smith, recently returned from a trip to the Orient, who related some very interesting inside facts regarding the schemes of the Japs. He said it was the general opinion that Russia and Japan would be at war by February of next year.

Senator George Burns, not a native of California but a valiant worker in the endeavor to keep this state White, spoke briefly, commending the Native Sons for their loyalty and patriotism. Past Grand Herman C. Lichtenberger presided.

Frank G. Tyrrell gave a splendid talk at the November 17 club meeting, on the changing of street names, with particular reference to the frequent attempts to designate, in the interest of realtors, Temple street by some other name. Hitler has been suggested. Tyrrell said he would as soon go into a cemetery and chisel from tombstones the names of Pioneers as to change the titles of streets named in honor of those oldtimers who, like Temple, did so much for the community.

Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell will be the honor-guest at the club's December 8 gathering, and it is expected other grand officers and Native Son justices of the State Supreme Court will be among those present. Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer will preside.—C.M.H.

to inscribe lengthy diatribes on 'Buy American' to be printed on Canadian newsprint, is now at his favorite tactics of playing the game of the big interests against the common people of America," remarks the "Sutter County Farmer" of Yuba City, editorially. "Now he is again taking up the battle cry of special interests in opposition to the National Recovery Act. He is opposing the efforts of the American government to provide a new deal for long suffering American labor and the common people of the nation, long held subservient to the gilded dukes of finance and big business. . . .

"The principle behind NRA is bigger than William Randolph Hearst. It is bigger than any one man or group of men. It is the principle proclaimed two thousand years ago by the greatest Man that ever trod the globe. When Hearst says NRA will not work, he says that the Golden Rule will not work."

Seven defendants—so-called Americans, and Hindus—have been convicted in Imperial County of conspiring to violate the California Alien Land Law. Good news! Numerous convictions, for similar conspiracy, could be had in many other counties of the state if the district attorneys would do their duty and prosecute, without fear or favor, the law's violators.

A Federal Government curb on excessive salaries appears to be coming, and should not be delayed. The record proves that excessive—outrageous—salaries are, as a rule, based on ability to put over shady transactions.

Addressing the San Francisco Commonwealth Club, District Attorney Fitts of Los Angeles County said, among other things: "We need laws that will take the profit out of crime. . . . Why should all the burden be on the good citizen, and why should we continue to penalize honesty and put a premium on dishonesty in California?"

What we MOST need is public officials who will force racketeering out of government! The good citizen, then, would not be burdened, and honesty would get a square deal.

Vegetable poisoning, due to the use of arsenic spray of unlawful strength, has caused hundreds of people in the southern portion of the state to become violently ill. Jap gardeners are largely responsible. Perhaps this generous use of arsenic, a deadly poison, is hooked up with the "peaceful invasion."

With their eyes fixed ever and always on the almighty dollar, various sales organizations petitioned the President to change the date of Thanksgiving Day—to promote sales between that holiday and Christmas Day. The President, however, turned 'em down.

Nine of Los Angeles City's big taxpayers have appealed to the Supreme Court for relief from certain assessments. Would they but devote their time and money to forcing waste, incompetency and racketeering out of government they would get the tax relief they crave, and the city would be needfully benefited.

"The R-oyal family is growing, with election year coming on," says the "Bee" of Sacramento, referring to the Governor giving to his very special friends auto license plates with the letter "R," the number of which favored-few is 500 this year and next year will mount to 1,000. Just another instance of increasing government favoritism, at the taxpayers' expense, which the state legislators lacked the "guts" to eliminate. Good and efficient government favors no individual or class.

The New Ridge Route highway between Bakersfield, Kern County, and Los Angeles was dedicated and opened to travel October 29. It cost approximately $2,900,000.

CHRISTMAS GIFT SUGGESTION

FOR THE PARENTS OR FRIENDS OF WHITE NATIVE-BORN SONS OF CALIFORNIA

A Membership in the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West

THE OUTLAY IS LITTLE---THE RETURN WILL BE LARGE

N. S. G. W.

The Order of Native Sons of the Golden West is the only organization whose membership is limited exclusively to White native-born citizens of the United States of America. It is, in fact, a recognized state organization.

The Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, along with the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West, annually spends thousands of dollars to provide suitable homes for abandoned children, regardless of race, creed, color, or place of nativity.

The Order of Native Sons of the Golden West is non-sectarian. It teaches Patriotism, and preaches Loyalty to Nation and to State. It spends lavishly of its funds to promote the wellbeing of the State of California—for the benefit of all Californians, native and adopted.

The Order of Native Sons of the Golden West leads in the restoration and the marking of California's historic landmarks, and in the preservation of the romantic and resourceful history of California.

The Order of Native Sons of the Golden West stands as a bulwark against the opening of California's doors to races ineligible to American citizenship. If for no other reason than to be identified with a group of men willing to make any sacrifice for the welfare of California, every White native-born son should be affiliated with this Order.

The Order of Native Sons of the Golden West is, in reality, a Superior School of Loyal Citizenry wherein one may obtain needed and valued training in all those fundamentals that contribute to good citizenship and to success in the outer world.

AN IDEAL CHRISTMAS GIFT

BOOK REVIEWS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

"THE STORY OF INYO."

By W. A. Chalfant; Published by the Author, Bishop, California; Price, $3.00.

This revised and greatly enlarged edition of "The Story of Inyo," the original of which appeared in 1922, is another valuable addition to Californiana by W. A. Chalfant, author of "Outposts of Civilization" and "Death Valley: the Facts." Much new material appears in the enlarged volume, including a chapter on the first settlements, and an exhaustive account of Los Angeles' "Betrayal of Owens Valley." The new book has a wealth of first-hand material, and will be read with pleasure and profit by all Californians desiring authentic history. Quoting from the chapter titled "Inyo County Established":

"Records show that for a little time the Mormons had hopes of ruling the Great Basin as far westward as the summit of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, including the area now comprised in Inyo County. In March, 1849, they held a convention in Salt Lake City and (so far as they could) organized the 'State of Deseret.' It included the present Utah, Arizona, some of Colorado, some of Oregon, southern California south of Santa Monica, eastward and northward through half of the present Kern and Tulare counties, and across the Sierras. This took in our present county as well as others to the north. This liberal claim of territory was ignored, so far as California was concerned, by the Act admitting this State into the Union and ratification of its constitution prescribing the boundaries as they now exist. That the Mormons meant business in their claim was indicated by an invitation 'to the inhabitants of that portion of Upper California lying east of the Sierra Nevada Mountains' to participate in their convention. Needless to say there was no response from any of the country south of Lake Tahoe, at least.

"How the eastern line of California, which later became also the eastern line of this county, was set as it is was part of the history of the anti-slavery and pro-slavery factions in the State constitutional convention. Angling the line southeasterly through hundreds of miles of utterly unknown desert can be attributed to nothing better than a compromise between contending views. When people of western Nevada held a mass meeting at Genoa August 8, 1857, and prepared a petition asking Congress to organize a new Territory, separate from Utah, they looked on the Sierras as the natural boundary, and suggested that the range be made the western line of their soon-to-be Nevada. This too was disregarded in defining the lines in the Nevada enabling act.

"The great part of the present Inyo County was within the lines set in 1852 for Tulare, and up to 1866 that county exercised a shadowy jurisdiction over Owens Valley south of Big Pine Creek. Owens Valley north of that stream had been allotted to Mono when in 1861 it was created from 'those portions of Calaveras, Mariposa and Fresno Counties lying east of the summit of the Sierra Nevada Mountains.' In the original laying out of county lines, all this region was included in Mariposa; part of it was put into Fresno in 1856, then into Mono.

"The unsuccessful effort to establish Coso County has been set forth. Owens Valley's scattered settlers memorialized the next Legislature, and on February 17, 1866, Assemblyman J. E. Goodall introduced a bill to establish Inyo County. It passed without opposition, Tulare parting with the valley willingly, according to the press, because of fear of expense. Boundaries of the new county were the same as had been set for Coso County—the Sierra summit and the State line on the west and east, Tulare's southern boundary and 'down the middle of Big Pine Creek to its mouth, thence due east to the State line' for the other limits. . . . Another boundary change was made in 1872. The southern line, as inherited from Tulare, ran northeasterly from the Sierra Nevadas to the State line. The new code description changed it to a straight east and west line. While the old boundary had never been surveyed, it intersected the Nevada boundary almost directly east of Independence, excluding from Inyo part of Panamint Valley and all of Death Valley south of Stovepipe Wells, which territory was added to this county by the change."

"When the chapter on 'Los Angeles Aqueduct' was written for the first edition," says Author Chalfant in his foreword, "there was expectation that Owens Valley development would not be ended, and that its communities would continue as free, ambitious and progressive entities. The subject was treated from that standpoint. But absolute disaster impended, more complete than the most pessimistic then dreamed. It is well that there should be preserved an authentic record of these happenings and consequences without parallel." So, quoting from chapters 34, 35 and 40:

"Residents still hoped for the continued development of Owens Valley when the first edition of this book was published, eleven years ago. The Los Angeles blight had checked the growth but had not yet brought paralysis, nor did it for three or four years thereafter. Within that period Bishop constructed a quarter-million dollar high school, an American Legion hall, a Masonic temple. Hopeful co-operative associations continued; one built a large warehouse at Laws, from which to ship its anticipated future crops. Other communities likewise added to their advantages.

"The valley has since been driven to a status unique in California—that of facing a hopeless future. It is unbelievable that such a valley can revert to primitive waste; but the evil already done was equally unbelievable a dozen years ago, and changes are continually for the worse. Private greed combined with municipal ambition to needlessly ruin one of the most attractive homelands of the West. Inyo has been made a sacrifice to maladministration, incompetent plans and management, evil intentions and performance. It is entitled to have the facts known.

"Apologists for Los Angeles point to the great development that has taken place in San Fernando Valley through Owens River water. It has a number of fine towns where once was little more than desert. Its agriculture runs into millions of dollars value, and its worth, according to ex-Commissioner W. P. Whitsett, has increased $300,000,000. They tell us it was necessary to sacrifice Owens Valley to bring that about. THAT IS UNTRUE. The same results could have been attained without ruining Owens Valley.

GRIZZLY GROWLS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

PRESIDENT FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, speaking in Washington, D. C., December 6, said, in part: "This younger generation is not satisfied with the exposure of those in high places who seek to line their own nests with other people's money, to cheat their Government of its just dues or to break the spirit of the law while observing its legalistic letter. This new generation seeks action—action by collective government and by individual education, toward the ending of practices such as these.

"This new generation, for example, is not content with preachings against that vile form of collective murder—lynch law—which has broken out in our midst anew. We know that it is murder, and a deliberate and definite disobedience of the Commandment, 'Thou shalt not kill.' We do not excuse those in high places or in low who condone lynch law. . . . The judicial function of government is the protection of the individual and of the community through quick and certain justice. That function in many places has fallen into a sad state of disrepair. It must be a part of our program to re-establish it.

"From the bottom of my heart I believe that this beloved country of ours is entering upon a time of great gain. That gain can well include a greater material prosperity if we take care that it is a prosperity for 120,000,000 human beings and not a prosperity for the top of the pyramid alone. It can be a prosperity socially controlled for the common good. It can be a prosperity built on spiritual and social values rather than on special privilege and special power."

The President's reference to "collective murder" followed the San Jose lynchings, and has been generally interpreted as a deserved rebuke of the Governor of California because of his mutterings following that affair. There is no question but that those lynchings were the natural result of the non-administration of justice in this state. The people have, not without sufficient cause, lost faith in the public officials, responsible for bringing this disgrace on California. Did justice—swift, certain and impartial—prevail here, those lynchings would not have occurred, and there would be few crimes of major importance committed. Here are some California comments on the lynchings:

"No incident could better take the measurement of the type of government a state has, and the extent to which laws are upheld and order maintained in that state, than the handling of a deplorable affair such as that in San Jose."—MRS. WILLIAM L. HONNOLD, president Women's Law Observance Association of Los Angeles. "It [the lynching] should, but will not, lead to the impeachment of Governor Jas. Rolph. The Governor has executed a complete about face in his attitude against kidnapers, his leniency toward criminals throughout his term of office having done as much as any one influence to encourage the very things which happened at San Jose—both the kidnaping and lynching."—LIVERMORE, Alameda County, HERALD. "Probation and parole are a great source of political patronage and extremely valuable to the politicians of this country, and make these conditions possible."—JAMES E. DAVIS, Los Angeles police chief.

Speaking against the proposed quota for Japs, Robert H. Fouke told the western division of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in session at Sacramento: "This is not a question of race prejudice, but rather one of self-preservation. It is well enough to consider your neighbor, but first you must consider yourself. You can't have rigid restriction of immigration and a quota." He also attacked Samuel J. Hume of the pro-Jap California Council on Oriental Relations for disseminating false propaganda quoting organizations as favoring the quota.

The quotaists received another beautiful blow last month, when Edward DeGroot of Los Angeles, governor of the second district of Rotary International, comprising California, Nevada and Hawaii, was rebuked by President John Nelson of Rotary International, for his stand in favoring immigration quotas for Orientals. DeGroot, influenced by Hume, it is generally believed, in endeavoring to have Rotary Clubs endorse the proposed Jap quota, has also been forced to address letters of apology for his activity to the 163 clubs in the district. In that letter he stated: "I deeply regret past developments and shall abide by both the letter and the spirit of the communication from President Nelson." Seth Millington of Gridley, Past Grand President N.S.G.W., was most active in opposing DeGroot, within Rotary.

"Those who are able to pay their taxes promptly should do so, and resort to other means than a tax strike to obtain justice and force government officials to stay within reason in their toll upon the public," remarks an exchange. Perhaps so, and perhaps not.

We opine that, so long as the taxpayers dig up they can hope for no justice, for the best and quickest way to get rid of the political racketeers is to shut off the tax revenue. It might not be a bad idea—and would certainly hasten a cleanup of governmental rottenness—to force the state and the several misgoverned county governments into bankruptcy.

Three New York clergymen have asked legislators of that state to reduce "the excessive privilege of tax exemption now granted to churches, synagogues, and other welfare organizations," saying, "we feel that the special economic privileges of the church in the field of tax exemption have been abused and that they should be curtailed."

Similar tax-exemption abuses exist in California, also, and they should be curtailed by abolishment of the special favor entirely. In fact, no individual or organization, except those actively serving the army and the navy, should be exempt from taxation.

Superior Judge Fletcher Bowron, addressing the Los Angeles Native Sons Luncheon Club, stated that the State Prison Directors, in fixing the time of servitude for persons convicted of crimes, do not consult the committing magistrate or study the evidence, and that no one is privileged to attend a session of the State Parole Board, except on invitation of that board.

The evils of the secret parole system have been sufficiently publicized. The privileges of that board should be considerably lessened, and its methods corrected. The pardoning power of the governor, also, should be materially curbed. And the indeterminate-sentence law should be abolished!

The judge who hears the evidence and is, in addition, guided by the jury's findings, is the only person sufficiently qualified to give society a "square deal" in the punishment of a convicted criminal, and no lessening of the term fixed by him should be permitted. Correct the faults of the state's criminal procedure, and California will be a much safer place in which to reside.

Press dispatches last month featured the seizure in Honolulu of profusely illustrated "fiction," originating in Japan, describing an American-Japanese war in 1936 and the Japs' capture of Hawaii. This propaganda is not new; similar "fiction" has been coming in quantities to this country from Japan for years and given extensive distribution.

As to capturing Hawaii, the Japs have already succeeded in doing that very thing, through peaceful invasion, as they now vastly outnumber all other nationalities combined in the islands. And they will be successful, too, in their plan to possess the Pacific Coast of the United States, if the Federal Congress heeds the plea of the California Council on Oriental Relations and grants quota to the Japs.

The Congress of the United States of America convenes at Washington, Tuesday, January 3, 1934. Those citizens interested in affairs of government—and every good citizen should be—will watch carefully the proceedings in the National Capital.

Hurrah! The Sacramento Chamber of Commerce's directors have voted unanimously, after an exhaustive study of the question, against any change in the present immigration exclusion policy of the United States in regard to non-assimilable aliens ineligible for citizenship. In other words, against the proposed Jap quota. It certainly is good to know this chamber of commerce has not been blinded to California's welfare by the yellow-dollar film.

"Actions speak louder than words," says the "Chronicle" of Livingston, Merced County. "Since repeal, prosecutors and judges innumerable have broadcast dire threats of what severe punishment will be in store for drunken drivers. But samples, to date, haven't lived up to those warnings."

These threats have for years been made ever so often, when the citizenry become overly incensed, but the drunken auto murderer continues on his course, unprosecuted for the crime committed and unjailed. When arrested, justice is forgotten, and in most cases the murderer is prosecuted for a minor offense and, if found guilty, given probation. Of the hundreds in California murdered by drunken auto drivers, how many of the murderers are in the pen? A dead citizen casts no vote, and law-enforcement officials must have votes!

Hiram W. Johnson, California's outstanding and fearless representative in the United States Senate, discussing the national recovery program, said, in Washington: "Either we are going through with this program that levels up the merits of human beings, or we are going to hell economically. That's the big thing in Mr. Roosevelt's program, the levelling process. The country is going through an economic and social revolution. The revolution came so quickly that few of us who were in it know fully what happened.

"The gods of 1929, whom you have seen marching in disarray before the senate banking committee, have been stripped so bare that no longer are any of them to be reckoned with at all. They furnish us with just one consolation—that is, while we have known only a little about finances, we know now that the great leaders of finance know nothing at all about it."

EVERY YEAR

(ALBERT PIKE.)

Life is a count of losses,
Every year;
For the weak are heavier crosses,
Every year;
Lost springs with sobs replying
Unto weary autumn's sighing,
While those we love are dying,
Every year.

. . . . . .

There come new cares and sorrows,
Every year;
Dark days and darker morrows,
Every year;
The ghosts of dead loves haunt us,
The ghosts of changed friends taunt us,
And disappointments daunt us,
Every year.

. . . . . .

Ah, how sad to look before us,
Every year;
While the cloud grows darker over us,
Every year;
When we see the blossoms faded
That to bloom we might have aided
And immortal garlands braided,
Every year.

To the past go more dead faces,
Every year;
As the loved leave vacant places,
Every year;
Everywhere the sad eyes meet us,
In the evening's dusk they greet us,
And to come to them entreat us,
Every year.

. . . . . .

Too true life's shores are shifting,
Every year;
And we are seaward drifting,
Every year;
Old places, changing, fret us,
The living more forget us,
There are fewer to regret us,
Every year.

But the truer life draws nigher,
Every year;
And its morning star climbs higher,
Every year;
Earth's hold on us grows slighter,
And the heavy burden lighter,
And the dawn immortal brighter,
Every year.

JAMES WILSON MARSHALL AND HIS GOLD

Frances Fairchild

EIGHTY-FIVE YEARS AGO, JANUARY 24, 1848, the world was set aflame by the news that gold had been discovered by James Wilson Marshall, at Coloma, El Dorado County, California. Peoples of every nation, from every walk of life, started for the golden mecca. Seeing through roseate glasses, they visioned fortunes for themselves, wives and sweethearts, if they could only get there. The hills and dales were laden with the precious ore. They must start at once—the golden metal beckoned. They rubbed their dazzled eyes—"and westward swept the tide of men gone mad with lust to hold the wealth that earth supplied." They traveled by land and sea. Before many months, California was teeming with humanity—with but one thought, gold. They journeyed without heed to the riches of field and wood,—the beauty, the glory, soft mist-lit haze of distant hills, blending into the molten gold of sunset.

In the meantime, events had happened in California. The Spaniards had established missions along the coast of Lower and Upper California. Other important events took place prior to 1845. In this year Mexico was on the eve of war with the United States. General John A. Sutter had built a fort of defense on the Sacramento River against attacks of Indians. June 14, 1846, the Bear Flag was hoisted at Sonoma, as a warning to Mexico that Americans were determined to hold the country. July 7, 1846, Commodore John Drake Sloat raised the United States Flag at Monterey, saving the country from the English, who were supposed to want possession. There was a controversy as to governmentship of the territory. Richard B. Mason became ex-officio Governor of the Department of California, May 31, 1847, and American forces held possession of the territory. In this same year immigration started to increase. The rush for gold was in 1848.

These immigrants, unbeknown to themselves, were making colorful history for California as they traveled toward Sutter's Fort and Coloma. The former historical place is where General John A. Sutter received James Wilson Marshall in his private sanctum and proved with "aqua fortis" that the metal he found was gold. Coloma, the mother of all towns in California, is forty miles north of the Fort—situated on the south fork of the American River and where Marshall discovered the gold.

The finding of that gold—and the treasure taken from the earth thereafter—was not only unparalleled to the interests of the Pacific Coast, but maintained the Federal Government's credit at home and abroad through the course of the Civil War. Strange to say, this momentous discovery was given but fifty-five words in the second volume of the "Californian," a San Francisco publication of March 15, 1848. The heading was, "Gold Mine Found."

Now, after nearly a century has passed, mooted questions arise: Was J. W. Marshall the first discoverer in California? If history be true, the answer is no! As early as 1510, a romance of California was written. The author called California an island, supposed to be situated at the right of the Indies, where no metal but gold was found. In 1816, a Scotchman published a book in Edinburgh in which he said: "On the coast of California there is a plain fourteen leagues in extent, covered with alluvial deposits, in which lumps of gold are dispersed." Chalfant of Inyo County tells of Jedediah Smith finding gold in 1825. As the year of his arrival in California is questioned, the date of this discovery is somewhat hazy.

In the California State Library are documents stating that gold had been taken from California soil in 1841. For this, Los Angeles County got the credit, as it was found twenty miles northwest of San Fernando. John Bidwell said of this: "The yield was not rich; indeed, it was so small that it made no stir." March 1842, one Francisco Lopez discovered gold about thirty-five miles northwest of Los Angeles at a place called San Francisquito. Seven years later a rush was made for this place. Recently the point was marked with appropriate ceremonies.

Again, Bidwell speaks of a man by the name of Baptiste Ruelle, employed by Sutter. One day he showed Bidwell a few "particles of gold," saying he found them in the American River.

JAMES WILSON MARSHALL.

That was in 1843. A discovery to which Bidwell attached much importance, was made in 1844 by Pablo Guitterrez. He found gold on the Bear River. Pablo insisted on Bidwell going with him to look the situation over. Prior to reaching their destination, the Mexican decided he must have a "batea" or bowl to wash the gold. They returned to the Fort, but before they could get started on their return journey a revolt broke out which ended the venture of Bidwell and Guitterrez as participants in search of gold.

There are many more alleged rumors of gold discoveries to be found in Bancroft's "History of California," volume 35, some fictitious and some wild creations. All of these discoveries are recorded in history, but it was Marshall's find that started the hurrying thousands. Within nine months, 42,000 came overland; 549 ships sailed through the Golden Gate; 60 a month docked in the harbor and were soon deserted by the sailors who, just then, would rather be gold diggers than sailors on briny seas. The ships, in most instances, rotted where anchored. In the summer of 1850, there were 525 vessels in San Francisco Harbor, and 100 more docked at Benicia, Stockton and Sacramento.

Marshall's discovery was the forerunner of the birth of a new state, and with its birth the dawning of a new era. California, the unknown territory and still a part of Mexico, in two years became an important addition to the American Union. The finding of the Marshall nugget proved to be one of the most vital events in the history of the state. Telegraphy was unknown in the West; ocean cables had never been thought of; the press had given it scant mention. The import of this discovery of gold to the destiny of California and the Union can scarcely be reckoned. Later it brought about colorful, romantic stories and traditions of the Golden West.

One year after the discovery, 1849, the shipments of gold amounted to $5,000,000. In nine years they totaled $319,000,000. Chunks of the precious metal were picked up—some of the largest gold nuggets in America were found amounting to fortunes. November 1854, a nugget was found at Carson Hill, Calaveras County, that measured 15 inches long, 6 inches wide, 4 inches thick, and weighed 195 pounds troy. Its value was estimated at $43,000. The next largest was found at the Monumental mine in Sierra County, and weighed 133 pounds troy. Many others were uncovered, valued at from $5,000 to $10,000.

And with historical facts to prove the unvarnished truthfulness of those all-important events, there are yet unbelievers—or, are they only perverse? Recently, the date of Marshall's discovery of gold has caused considerable comment in the press and in the minds of many. That date will never be settled!

Marshall's own statement, as given in "Hutching's California Magazine," is: "About 7 o'clock on or about the 19th of January, I am not quite certain of the day, but it was between the 18th and 20th of that month, 1848, I went down as usual, and after shutting off the water from the race, I stepped into it, near the lower end, and there, upon a rock, about six inches beneath the surface of the water, I discovered the gold. I was entirely alone at the time. I picked up one or two pieces and examined them attentively; and having some general knowledge of minerals, I could not call to mind more than two which in any way resembled this—sulphuret of iron, very bright and brittle, and gold, bright and malleable; I then tried it between two rocks, and found that it could be beaten into a different shape, but was not broken. I then collected four or five pieces and went up to Mr. Scott (who was working at the carpenter's bench making the mill wheel) with the pieces in my hand, and said, I have found it.

" 'What is it?' inquired Scott. 'Gold,' I answered. 'Oh, no!' returned Scott, 'that can't be.' I replied positively, 'I know it to be nothing else'." Every one working at the mill at the time told the story with many variations.

T. A. Rickard, a prominent mining engineer of Berkeley, told in an article printed May 12, 1928, in the "University of California Chronicle," a scientific journal, that the date of Marshall's find was January 19, 1848. Quoting from a letter written by James Burke of Steamboat Springs, Nevada, who mined with Marshall in California, who was a personal friend of his and whose brother wrote and published the "Life of Marshall": "The last my brother wrote about Marshall was to set right the date of the discovery—it was published on the 24th, it should have been on the 19th of Jan. 1848, at eight o'clock in the morning. Those were Marshall's own words."

To settle the controversy, which has been waged from time to time, and no one ever positive about it, Governor W. D. Stevens appointed a committee to fix a date that would prove free from doubt. John S. Hittell wrote to Henry W. Bigler, who at the time was living at St. George, Utah, a man who worked with Marshall at the mill in Coloma and who kept a diary, and asked regarding the date of discovery. His answer was, "The date was the 24th and not the 19th."

From Bigler's Diary (quote): "Mon. 24th. This day some kind of mettle was found in the tail race that looks like goald. First discovered by James Martial the boss of the mill." This diary is now in the Bancroft Library at Berkeley and a facsimile of it is also in possession of the California Pioneers. So, for all time, the date of Marshall's gold discovery will be known in history and to historians as January 24, 1848. This date was officially confirmed by the committee appointed, and was approved by the State Legislature of 1917.

MARSHALL'S CABIN, COLOMA.

COLOMA STREET SCENE.

ORIGINAL BLACKSMITH SHOP OF MARSHALL.

Another phase of argument is, whether the gold picked up by Marshall was a flake or a nugget, its value and what became of it. Many conflicting stories are current. To quote Marshall ("Hutching's Magazine" Vol. 2 p. 201): "The first piece of gold which I found weighed about fifty cents. Mr. Wimmer having bought a stock of merchandise some time about May or June, 1848, and Mrs. Wimmer, being my treasurer, used four hundred and forty dollars of my money to complete the purchase; and among which was the first piece of gold which I had found. Where that went, or where it is now, I believe that nobody knows."

Mrs. Wimmer called it a nugget. T. A. Rickard of Berkeley says: "Marshall found gold dust and not a nugget." Leinhard, a man working at Sutter's Fort at the time of the discovery, called it gold dust. The Sacramento "Bee" of September 1884 published a short article about Marshall. In regard to the gold find, the editor says: "Marshall, remembering gold was malleable, placed the nugget on a flat stone and began striking it with another. The substance did not break or flake off, but simply flattened under the blows." Quoting again from the letter of James Burke, Marshall's partner: "The first piece found was a scale—the second was a piece worth about $4—they were lost." For many years Mrs. Wimmer asserted she owned the first piece found and that Marshall gave it to her. In Marshall's statement he said, "The first piece found weighed 50 cents." Mrs. Wimmer's piece was worth five dollars and twelve cents. To quote Bancroft: "It is safe to conclude that the destiny of this first piece of gold is lost to history." There have been other assertive statements as to the ownership of the first nugget, but they have been disproved as presented.

To Phil B. Bekeart, president of the State Historical Association, belongs the honor of establishing the fact that the first gold discovered by Marshall is safely tucked away in the mineral department of the Smithsonian Museum, Washington, D. C., and with this gold is a letter written by Captain Joseph L. Folsom.

To conclude: "The roots of the present lie deep in the past, and nothing in the past is dead to him who cares to know how the present comes to be what it is." Gold, that talisman of the ages, brought beauty, power—the majestic sweep of the stream of human life across the continent into California. What Utopian dreamer could have dreamed that men of different creeds, of various tongues, bred in different social conditions, would combine and co-operate for the general good of the achievements of our glorious state?

Need it be said, the basis of it all was the nugget of gold Marshall found! "Lest we forget," let us recognize, in mind and print, the man who was the source of that great and far-reaching "find" that changed the condition and affected the international relations of the whole human race.

ORDER OF NATIVE SONS COMMENDED AS "A WORTHY ORGANIZATION."

"The Order of Native Sons of the Golden West," said the Jackson, Amador County, "Dispatch" of November 17 editorially, "is a potent factor in the preservation of the history and the landmarks of this state, and the fact that it has existed in Amador County during many years is a matter for commendation for those who have been zealous during those years in following the precepts of the obligation that they took when entering the fraternity.

"It is a happy coincident of history that the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West should have been instituted in this city, and from here extended its activity throughout the Golden State. It is also a happy coincident that the Jackson Parlor of Native Sons should bear the numerical designation of '31,' in view of the fact that the territory of California was the thirty-first unit of the great Union of States.

"Amador County has been the cradle of pioneer activity and history. On every hand we have an evidence of the activity of the Argonaut, whether he was in search of gold or a future home. We have here landmarks that are still reminders of those early-day Pioneers who came to carve a republic that has taken a prominent position in the constellation of states that compose our great union. We should not be forgetful of the work that the Order of Native Sons is accomplishing throughout this state, and it is certainly a matter for commendation that Amador County has several Parlors of this great organization that will prove worthy of their efforts to future generations."

THE COVERED WAGON

James Noble Hatch

The dust-cloud hung along the winding road,
Where weary feet went dragging through the sands,
The oxen tugging at their creaking load,
The loud-mouthed drivers shouting their commands;
One after one the prairie schooners came
And wound across the sagebrush covered plain.

In ashen gray the leafless, lifeless waste
Stretched quivering out toward the lowering sun,
Toward the sunset resolutely faced,
The pondrous train was moving slowly on;
A rock-walled butte had shown since day had dawned
So close it seemed yet ever just beyond.

But till the butte was past a mile or more
Nor stream nor spring was found in all the plain,
And many weary miles still lay before
The plodding canvas-covered prairie train
Ere it would reach the chosen camping ground,
Where water and green grasses could be found.

So when a halt was called and every wheel
Had come to rest upon the parching plain,
'Twas no surprise that everyone should feel
That some strange mishap was upon the train;
And anxiously the questions and replies
Were spoken with alarm and grave surmise.

But soon 'twas whispered all along the line
The reason that the sudden halt was made,
And when the captain gave again the sign
That once more started on the cavalcade,
'Twas then the reason could have been divined
Why, of the wagons, two were left behind.

Like derelicts upon the sandy sea
The two white-covered craft lay on the strand,
While all the oxen having been set free,
Were driven forward with the caravan,
For dangerous indeed would be delay
Till water had been reached at close of day.

A little distance from the dusty road
The canvas-covered wagons stood apart,
But not abandoned were they, for their load
Was not removed, nor freight nor human part;
By busy hands a camp was being made,
A tent was stretched beside the wagon's shade.

Within the tent two women hurried round
Arranging things and setting them in place,
While on some blankets spread upon the ground,
A little creature with a girlish face
Was lying quietly, that none might see
How fear and patience strove for mastery.

Not far away arose the camp fire smoke,
And savory odors floated o'er the plain,
For supper must be had ere twilight broke
And darkness came with undisputed reign;
A supper made of cakes and bacon strips
And coffee, just enough to wet the lips.

For one small keg of water which the train
Had left with them, 'twas known would scarce avail,
Until a party could get back again
From where the train would camp along the trail;
So cup by cup was portioned out with care,
That everyone could have his equal share.

In all, eight persons had remained behind,
Four men, well armed stood guard by two and two
And watched with well-trained eye that none should find
Them unprepared should foe come into view.
And as the darkness settled o'er the plain
The reign of silence filled the vast domain.

Within the tent a lantern dimly shown,
Screened by the wagons from a distant view,
Beside the wagon one man sat alone,
Rolled in their blankets lay the other two
And slept, until the second watch, when they Should then stand watch until the break of day.

But he who sat alone slept not,
But waited in the darkness thoughtfully
The weary hours of travel all forgot
In anxious thoughts of what was soon to be;
The shadows on the tent moved here and there
But silence held dominion everywhere.

The night grew chill as midnight reached the plain
And little breezes puffed across the sand,
The sage brush rustled in a sad refrain,
A lonely requiem to a lonely land;
While over all in glittering splendor shone
The wondrous lighting of the starry zone.

The sentries scanned the plain with careful eye,
And watched, themselves concealed, for any move
That might be seen against the distant sky,
Or sound that might a danger signal prove;
But nothing marred the sense of sound or sight
Nor beast nor man disturbed the lonesome night.

The watch was changed but he who sat alone
Still waited while the stars went slowly by,
The light within the tent still dimly shown
And traced the moving shadows on the fly;
And like the writing on the wall of old
Each shadow seemed some mystery to hold.

Alone he watched and listened. All was still
Save for the breathing of the sleeping men;
When, suddenly, he started with a thrill,
Yet stopped and listened carefully again;
A tiny cry came clear from out the tent,
He hurried on well knowing what that meant.

The first gray streak across the Eastern sky
Foretold the coming of the desert dawn,
The sleeping sentries roused up with a sigh
Yet sighed relief to know the night was gone,
Half waking wondered what the day might tell
Then listening heard, and knew that all was well.

The distant butte blazed out in crimson hue
And nearer seemed than at departing day,
And with the daylight soon appeared in view
A little dust cloud on the western way,
And gladness reigned in every weary breast
To see relief returning from the West.

With breakfast o'er the wagons were again
Prepared to move along the weary trail
And as they rolled out on the dusty plain
From one was heard an infant's lusty wail,
As if in protest that it thus must be
A birth-place should be lost to history.

(James Noble Hatch, now of Alameda City but formerly of Pasadena, has contributed many other excellent poems to The Grizzly Bear. Accompanying "The Covered Wagon," here presented, was the following statement. "My mother came across the plains with my grandfather and his ox teams in 1850. I was always fascinated by the stories that she told of the experiences on the trip. She was about thirteen at the time they came through. I resolved years ago that if I ever could arrange it, I would follow over the same old trail. Circumstances arranged it that I lived east of the Mississippi River from 1888 to 1927. During those years I traveled all over the United States and learned all I could about the old trail both from observation from a car window and from reading all the accounts of the trip I could find. In 1930 I found the opportunity to make the trip by automobile from St. Joseph, Missouri, to Sacramento over the old trail. It was one of the most fascinating experiences of my life. I took about 150 photographs along the way and have written a book of my trip which I hope to have published."—Editor.)

Native Sons of the Golden West

"There's a new foot on the floor my friend,
And a new face at the door my friend,
A new face at the door."

—Tennyson.

"WE STAND UPON THE threshold of a new year, confident that it will bring new opportunities for a larger and better life. Each morning marks the beginning of a new life. We should not repine that the opportunities of yesterdays slipped through our outstretched hands. It is a tragic mistake to embrace the philosophy that opportunity knocks at our door but once. Opportunities have come to us many times, and they will come again, for such is the experience of life.

"Every American boy who has made his way against adversity and in spite of a lowly station to a commanding position in our industrial, commercial, economic or political life, is a protest against the disheartening doctrine that opportunity knocks but once. The development and going forward of the race, and the changes of processes which follow, must inevitably keep the door to opportunity widely open. Nature itself has ordained that there should not be placed stumbling blocks before the door to opportunity.

"Faith, hope and patience are the qualities of mind and soul which count most in getting the best out of our lives, and they will carry us a long way on the journey to a satisfactory and reasonably successful life.

"The privilege of enjoying the beautiful of this life, and to cherish the hope of life eternal, is vouchsafed to every man, woman and child. God has never foreclosed to us the right of enjoying the things that He has made. While the plan of creation may be mysterious and beyond our understanding, let us go cheerfully to the end, abounding in the grace of well doing.

"With new hope, and a stronger determination to solve the problems of life which are common to us all, let us carry on the best we may and welcome the new year as an open door to new and better opportunity for achieving a greater measure of happiness for all. Courageously and hopefully we face the new year and bid it welcome!

"EMMET SEAWELL,
"Grand President N.S.G.W.
"San Francisco, December 20, 1933."

Twenty Initiated.

Centerville—Washington No. 169 celebrated its forty-third institution anniversary by initiating a class of twelve candidates December 12. The ritual was exemplified by the officers of Fruitvale No. 252. At the conclusion of the ceremonies a birthday supper was served. Judge Allen G. Norris was the toastmaster. F. T. Dusterberry welcomed the guests, and Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell was the principal speaker.

Among the large number present were Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Treasurer John A. Corotto, Past Grand Thomas Monahan, Grand Trustee Edward Schnarr, District Deputy Edw. J. Wren, and Chairman Joseph Rose of the Grand Parlor Finance Committee.

A Total Surprise.

Downieville—Downieville No. 92 had the pleasure of entertaining a dozen members of Quartz No. 58 (Grass Valley) November 27. The boys from No. 58 had visited several times previously, on one occasion exemplifying the ritual for the benefit of a class of candidates presented by No. 92 and Hydraulic No. 56 (Nevada City). This time they presented the Parlor with an illuminated map of the State of California. The gift was a total surprise, and was accepted by President Earl Rickard.

District Deputy Thomas, also of Quartz, donated a neat Native Son emblem, to be disposed of for the benefit of Downieville's social fund, and it was awarded to Frank Paggi. A social session followed, with a couple of big pots of Sierra County raised beans as the principal item on the menu.

One Hundred Percent Increase.

Hayward—With the initiation of another class of candidates November 28, Eden No. 113 had increased its membership one hundred percent since the beginning of the 1933 Grand Parlor year. The ritual was exemplified by Fruitvale No. 252's officers.

A banquet, with Edmund J. Graff as chairman, followed the ceremonies, and among the speakers were Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell and Grand Secretary John T. Regan.

Many Parlors Represented.

Antioch—Fifteen Parlors were represented at the meeting of General Winn No. 32 November 22, when Grand First Vice-president Chas. A. Koenig paid his official visit. Three candidates were initiated. At a banquet served by Antioch No. 223 N.D.G.W., Past Grand Charles L. Dodge was the toastmaster, and the principal speakers were Grand First Vice Koenig, Sheriff R. R. Veale and Past Grand James F. Hoey.

Among the others in attendance were Grand Second Vice Harmon D. Skillin, Grand Third Vice Hartley Russell, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Marshal Gam Hurst, Grand Trustees Thomas Foley, Jesse Miller and Edward Schnarr, District Deputy Felix Robson and State Senator William R. Sharkey.

Past Presidents Meet.

Colusa—Fred H. Greely Past Presidents Assembly No. 6 met here as guest of Colusa No. 69. H. L. Schmidt, elected governor, will be installed along with other officers of the assembly at the January meeting, to be held in Roseville.

A repast was served following the business session. Warren G. Davison was the toastmaster, and among those responding to his call were Governor Peter Delay, Henry Stinchfield, M. E. Reed, Barney Barry, E. W. Clements, Harry George, Albert W. Graves, Phil Humburg Jr., H. L. Schmidt, R. G. Power and Erwin Burtis.

Seven Initiated.

Santa Cruz—Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell, accompanied by Grand Secretary John T. Regan and Grand First Vice-president Charles A. Koenig, visited Santa Cruz No. 90. Seven candidates were initiated, among them being Superior Judge James L. Atteridge, District Attorney Frank J. Murphy and Sheriff Arthur T. Dresser.

Also in attendance were Past Grand Thomas Monahan, Grand Treasurer John A. Corotto and Grand Trustee Charles H. Spengemann. At election of officers, James E. Sloan was selected for president.

SAN FRANCISCO

"MONEY IS OF COMPARATIVELY RECENT origin," said J. Clem Bates—for thirty years secretary of Halcyon Parlor No. 146 N.S.G.W. (Alameda City) and for twenty-six years connected with the United States Mint in San Francisco—in a recent talk at the Alameda Kiwanis Club. "The talents and shekels mentioned in the Bible were not coins, but measures of goods. In 1000 B.C., Homer described a woman as being worth three oxen, or a copper bar of a certain length."

In the eighth century B.C., Bates declared, the Greeks, tiring of measuring the same metal bars over and over in computing values, evolved the idea of imprinting the weight, value and fineness of the metal they contained upon them. Various symbols, standing for certain countries, such as the elephant for Africa, also were impressed upon the monetary bars. Spanish pieces of eight were the first coins in the United States, being divided into eight bits. Hence the modern terms, two bits, four bits, etc. In 1662 the famous Pine Tree shilling was coined. Later, Colonial paper currency was used; during the Revolutionary War it became worthless, giving rise to the expression "Not worth a Continental." The first United States Mint was established in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, he said, and it now produces the largest amount of money in the country. Other mints are in San Francisco, and Denver, Colorado.

SANTA CLAUS WAS THERE.

At the annual Christmas breakfast at the Native Daughter Home, December 10, Mms. Emilene Conmy of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158 and Gertrude LaFortune of Keith Parlor No. 137 were the hostesses. The tables were decorated with red and green streamers, tall candles and miniature trees. Vocal selections were rendered by Mrs. Elsie Dethlefsen, Miss Aide Luther and the San Francisco N.D. Glee Club, and violin solos by Jack Cochrane. Speakers included Superior Judge I. Harris, Chas. Koenig, Grand First Vice-president N.S.G.W., and Grand President Irma W. Laird. Out of respect for Past Grand Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, lately deceased, the assemblage stood in silence for a moment.

Santa Claus presented to the Home boxes of jams and jellies from the hostess Parlors and linen from the San Francisco Subordinate Parlors. Mrs. Claire Lindsey (Golden Gate No. 158) presented a supply of sauces and syrup, and Judge Harris gave a complete volume of Elliott's "Harvard Classics." Among the many others present were Grand Trustees Alice Lane and Orinda Giannini, Grand Outside Sentinel Alice Oldham, Past Grands Eliza Keith, Dr. Mariana Bertola and Evelyn I. Carlson.

N.S. GRAND PRESIDENT HONOR GUEST.

The Native Sons Friday Luncheon Club had its annual Christmas dinner at the Union League Club, December 21. Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell was the guest of honor. The affair, always looked forward to, drew a large crowd, and those who anticipated loads of fun were not disappointed.

One needs but turn a corner
And blossoms will be found.

The streets of San Francisco
Run up the hills and down,
And carry with them fame enough
For any western town.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS PARLORS NEWS.

Alta No. 3 enjoyed a Christmas tree party under the chairmanship of Thelma Flake, December 26. It was a merry affair, the members exchanging gifts, and singing Christmas carols and oldtime songs. Gifts were sent two charter members unable to attend on account of illness —Financial Secretary Elizabeth F. Douglass and Mary Mulholland.

La Estrella No. 89 had its annual holiday dinner December 11. A large number attended, including seven charter members, and Deputy Ann Godfrey was the honor-guest. The table was beautifully decorated with holly. The centerpiece was a gift-laden sleigh, hauled by four reindeer, with Santa Claus driving. The delightful repast was prepared by La Estrella's famous cooks, and the Parlor is quite proud of them. On return from an extended Eastern trip Margaret Riordan was tendered a surprise.

Genevieve No. 132 received an official visit from Grand President Irma W. Laird who, with many other visitors, was extended a cordial welcome by President Olga Kastellic. The meetingroom was artistic in holiday attire. Eight uniformed members of the drum corps stood at attention while the Grand President was being introduced, and Nora Scheflin sang a welcome song composed by her. The drum corps then formed an arch through which Mrs. Laird was escorted to her place of honor. The ritual was exemplified in a most excellent manner, four candidates being initiated. Gifts were presented Grand President Laird, Past Grand Genevieve Baker, for whom the Parlor was named, and Deputy Edna Bishop. The San Francisco Glee Club, directed by Ruby Bried, favored with popular selections, and at the meeting's conclusion refreshments were served. Among others in attendance were Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Grand Outside Sentinel Alice Oldham, Grand Trustees Orinda Giannini and Alice Lane, Past Grands Dr. Mariana Bertola, Margaret Hill, Mae Boldemann and Evelyn Carlson.

Santa Claus visited Castro No. 178 December 20, when a party for the members' children was given. December 22 a holiday season party was held at Letterman Hospital for the veterans. Little patients in tubercular wards at San Francisco Hospital and Russian children of the Potrero Hill Neighborhood House were also remembered at Christmas time. No. 178 has been sponsoring, jointly with Castro No. 232 N.S.G.W., monthly whist parties at the members' homes. Officers of No. 178 will be publicly installed January 17, and a committee is formulating plans for observance in January of the Parlor's twenty-third anniversary.

The official visit of Grand President Irma Laird to James Lick No. 220 was the outstanding event of the term of President Julia Owen. Many were in attendance. Vocal selections were rendered by Adeline Cuneo and the Glee Club. One candidate was initiated. With Edna Bishop as chairman, delicious refreshments were served. An interesting work of the Parlor members has been the making of scrapbooks. Irma Collins arranged the distribution of the books Christmas morning to children in hospitals. The Parlor's Christmas tree party, directed by Corinne Kevie, was a huge success. The entertainment of dancing kiddies was enjoyed by all.

The Annual Auto License renewal season starts January 2, 1934. The new plates will have "California" across the top instead of the bottom.

Deer Ride—More than 150 surplus deer in Yosemite Valley were "taken for a ride" in Uncle Sam's trucks, because they were devastating flower gardens.

The Institute of World Affairs held its eleventh annual session at Riverside City, December 10-15. The program was devoted to current international conditions.

N.D. PAST PRESIDENTS NOTES.

Sacramento—Carrying out an annual custom, Association No. 4 played hostess December 11 to girls from the Sacramento Orphanage. Following a 6:30 turkey dinner there was a Christmas tree ladened with gifts, candy, oranges and apples. Santa Claus was there, too. A pleasant hour was spent, with singing, stunt dancing and talks. Ann Tilden has been elected to head the association for the ensuing term.

Oroville—The December meeting of Association No. 5 was held at the home of Grand Trustee Florence Boyle the 9th. The Christmas spirit was carried out in both table decorations and refreshments. Santa Claus (Betty Boyle) greeted the guests and presented each with a small gift.

JUST THANKFUL

(WILLIAM COLFAX MARKHAM.)

Thankful for home and sky and sea,
They're all but a part of you and me;
Thankful for meat and daily bread,
Even as the blessing's said.

Thankful for kin and friendships true,
Scattered the busy wide world through;
Thankful for mind and heart and soul,
From which no debauch has taken toll.

Thankful for hope and trust and faith—
Our greatest treasures while facing death;
Thankful are we for the Morning Light
And we smile as we say the last goodnight.

In Memoriam

MAUD COGSWELL.

To the Officers and Members of Brooklyn Parlor No. 157 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of regret and respect, on account of the death of our dearly beloved sister, Maud Cogswell, respectfully submit the following:

Whereas, Our Dear Lord, in His infinite wisdom, has taken from our midst one of our loyal members, our beloved Sister Maud Cogswell; and whereas, in the death of our beloved sister, Brooklyn Parlor No. 157 N.D.G.W. has lost one of its honored members, the community one who was loved by all who knew her and whose loss is deeply felt by all. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That while bowing in submission to the will of our Heavenly Father, we do sincerely mourn the loss of Sister Maud Cogswell; be it further resolved, that Brooklyn Parlor No. 157 N.D.G.W. extend to the bereaved family their sincere sympathy in the loss of a loving wife and mother; be it also resolved, that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this Parlor, that a copy be sent to the family of the deceased sister, and a copy to The Grizzly Bear.

Native Daughters of the Golden West

"TO THE OFFICERS AND MEMBERS, Native Daughters of the Golden West —Greetings! The date for a new year was not chosen at random from an almanac. Nature herself recognized this time as a new starting place. It was natural to begin shedding winter garments and frozen habits—preparing for the spring.

"We mortals, who depend upon nature fundamentally, should follow her habits closely. Shedding old frozen habits is not an easy task, but becomes more natural after practice. It took nature millions of years to acquire her habits. In our short life-span, we should also begin to shake off our ice sheets and prepare a warmer, friendlier world for those who follow.

"Our fraternity provides, in addition to companionship, a line of mutual thought. We know through our work, meetings, conventions and other gatherings the things expected of the Native Daughters of the Golden West. World improvements in all pursuits must begin with the individual, and the individual must begin with a new day and a new year. So, when the sun rises upon the New Year at hand, let us promise ourselves to shed our frozen habits and replace them with a sunny countenance.

"To the retiring officers, I express my sincere appreciation of their earnest and wholehearted support, my commendation for the results achieved, and the hope that, as a reward for faithful service, each of them will see her fondest hopes carried out by her successor. To the officers-elect, I desire to extend my hearty congratulations upon the trust reposed in them, renewed assurance of my desire to establish and maintain cordial relations, and best wishes for a record of successful accomplishment.

"It is my hope that the installation ceremonies will be conducted in such a befitting and dignified manner that the newly-installed officers will take their responsibilities seriously, and especially the necessity for an impressive exemplification of the ceremony of initiation upon all occasions.

"To the membership at large, I desire to make an especial appeal. Encourage your newly-elected officers by attending the regular meetings of your Parlor, and particularly the initiations. Realize that this is your Order, and all that you put in to it in service will be reflected to the honor and glory of its achievements. Remember that by the condition of your Parlor will be measured the fraternal and civic spirit of your community. It is by your co-operation that the Grand Officers and the officers of the Subordinate Parlors will be able to continue to ascend the pathway to the mountain tops of Idealism.

"Not the least among the joys that come to the Grand President of the Order is the shower of Christmas greetings which put in appearance at the holiday season from members in all parts of the state. I have enjoyed each one in turn, and take this means of expressing my sincere thanks for the kind attention.

"Let us resolve to greet 1934 with optimistic eyes! Let each Parlor resolve to excel in some one line of endeavor; to gain a rightful share in any honor that may come to the Order; to operate on a balanced budget; to co-operate with the Order, of which each Parlor is but a single unit; to uphold the fair name of Native Daughter on every occasion, and to work together in happy friendship so that the bond which unites us as the daughters of a happily favored state will grow stronger through the coming years.

"Sincerely and fraternally yours in P.D.F.A.,
"IRMA LAIRD,
"Grand President N.D.G.W.

Continuing Good Work.

"As chairman of the Grand Parlor Veterans Welfare Committee," writes Past Grand Stella Finkeldey to The Grizzly Bear under date of December 16, "I am very happy to report a very fine response, to date, from 131 Parlors, making it possible for continuance of the work for the year. The hospitals in Arizona were contacted, and Dr. James at Tucson and Dr. Allee at Whipple were pleased to know we would again carry on the program of the past two years—furnish the prizes for the card parties at Tucson and candy for the holidays at Whipple. Forty card prizes have been sent to Tucson, and candy for Hallowe'en, Thanksgiving and Christmas has been sent to Whipple."

Another Link Added to Chain.

Los Banos (Merced County)—Lomitas No. 255, organized by Past Grand Bertha A. Briggs, was instituted here November 27, thirty of the forty-four signers of the charter list appearing for the ceremonies. Grand President Irma W. Laird officiated, and was assisted by the following: Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Grand Trustee Alice Lane, Past Grands Bertha A. Briggs, Margaret G. Hill and Evelyn I. Carlson, Supervising Deputy Mae F. Givens, Mary Vogt as acting grand outside sentinel, Ida Mesquite as acting grand vice-president, Alma Fowler as acting grand organist. Officers of Lomitas, installed by Grand President Laird, assisted by Grand Secretary Thaler, Grand Marshal Thuesen, Grand Trustee Lane, Past Grands Briggs and Hill, and Mae Givens, Edna Butterfield, Rachel Maroni and Harriet Hooten as acting grand officers, include:

Rose Romaso, charter past president; Velda Negra, president; Josephine Marchese, first vice; Rose King, second vice; Rose Souza, third vice; Violet Roselli, recording secretary; Marie Mazzini, financial secretary; Theresa Amabile, treasurer; Julia Toscano, marshal; Theresa Imperatrice, inside sentinel; Gertrude Schour, outside sentinel; Lelia Negra, organist; Minnie Morton, Peggy McEwea and Flora Negra, trustees. Deputy Lois Roach sang the installation ode. Presentations were made as follows: United States of America and California State (Bear) Flags, Grand Parlor; Holy Bible, Past Grand Briggs; linen tablecloth, Veritas No. 75 (Merced).

Grand President Laird, in the course of an address, expressed appreciation for efforts expended in organizing such a fine Parlor, and thanked Past Grand Briggs for the service rendered the Order. She announced the appointment of Lucile Cunningham of Veritas No. 75 as deputy for Lomitas. The following deputies were introduced: Mae Warring, Ethel Enos, Ida Mesquite, Mary Vogt, Lois Roach, Hazel Laverty, Zelphia Thomas and Evelyn Carlson. Previous to the institution ceremonies a bountiful turkey dinner was served by Las Banos No. 206 N.S.G.W.

"Constitution" Given Mission Picture.

San Diego—San Diego No. 208 presented the U.S.S. "Constitution" a picture of Mission San Diego de Alcala December 8. President Marie James briefly outlined the mission's history, and in his acceptance address Lieutenant Commander Louis J. Guliver stressed the importance of preserving the old relics and landmarks of history. The visiting group—Mms. James, Doris Hoffner, Edith Barngrover, Elsie Case, Sara Miller, C. M. Ralston, Sprague, Louise Miller, Merlene McLain and Evelyn Wurzell, and Miss Ruth Miller—were then escorted on a tour of the ship.

December 15 the Parlor sponsored a cooked-food and apron sale. Marie James, Elsie Case, Doris Hoffner and Louise Miller visited Los Angeles No. 124 December 6 and witnessed the exemplification of the new installation ceremonies.

Forty-sixth Anniversary.

Sacramento—With President Esther Mulligan presiding, Califia No. 22 had a most interesting meeting December 12 in honor of its forty-sixth institution anniversary. The hall and banquet-room were very pretty in holiday attire. There were many visitors. Officers were elected, Maude Cook being selected president, and initiation was held.

Charter members were guests of honor, and as each responded to the call of her name a candle was lighted. The charter members are may Colegrove, Annie Luther, Ella McCleery, Lillie Evans, Lizzie Griffen, Mary Griffen, Laura Kirn, Lottie Stevens, Ella Folger, Daisy Hawley, Alice Madeley, Fannie Miles, Frankie Greer, Margie Griffith, Carrie Lovell. The committee in charge of the affair included Bessie Leitch (chairman), Maude Cook, Alma Craze, Alice Artz, Sulene Cowan, Clara Kenny, Dora Maltby, Edith Kelly, Vivian Hall, Ruth Renschler, Minnie Hopley, Lula Gillis, Ada Cochrane, Ruth Assalena.

More'n Hundred Cleared.

San Jose—Vendome No. 100 had a Thanksgiving card party November 22, and more than a hundred dollars was cleared. Mms. William Kady and Herbert Stockton were joint hostesses, and Joseph Lawrence of San Jose No. 22 N.S.G.W. was the official announcer. At the election of officers Anita Moore was chosen president; installation will be held in January. A large class initiation is being planned for spring.

A Christmas party for the children of members and other little guests was held December 13, and a juvenile program, games, gifts and refreshments were hugely enjoyed. Ella Graham was the general chairman. A holiday benefit card party was held December 27.

Birthday Night.

Hollister—November 25 was birthday night at Copa de Oro No. 105, and those members whose birthdays occur in August, September, October and November were honored guests and were presented with corsages of carnations and ferns. Messages and telegrams were received from out-of-town members unable to attend. A huge lighted birthday cake graced the center of the attractive table at which delicious refreshments were served by the committee headed by Edna Butterfield. Amusements carried out the birthday thought. An entertaining dramatic skit, entitled "Moth Balls," was presented by Past Grand Bertha A. Briggs, Elma Chandler and Rose Guilhamet, directed by Alta Trowbridge.

December 14 a new name was added to the Parlor rolls, and the annual Christmas festivities were enjoyed. Santa Claus distributed "gifts" from a cheery tree, holiday games were played, and particularly appetizing refreshments were served at the pleasingly decorated table with its adornments in green and red. The committee in charge consisted of Rose Guilhamet, Nettie Hoyle and Mildred Marcheski. The Parlor planned the arrangement of a Christmas basket for a needy family.

Anniversary Celebrated.

Santa Ana—Santa Ana No. 235 celebrated its eighth institution anniversary at a largely attended dinner December 8. The tables, arranged in "U" form, were beautifully decorated with ferns, berries and Christmas novelties. Seated at the table centered by a huge birthday cake were President Mae West, Supervising Deputy Nellie Cline, Deputies Violet Henshilwood, Mattie Edwards and Marion Crum, and Florence Dodson-Schoneman. A splendid program was presented by talented youngsters, and congratulatory talks were enjoyed.

After the dinner cards were in order, the birthday cake and a doll set, both the work of Deputy Edwards, were disposed of at auction, and home-made candy was sold for the benefit of the homeless children. The arrangements committee included Muriel Bray (chairman), Gladys Edwards, Elizabeth Marsile and Myrtle Ellis. The Parlor is again meeting in K. C. Hall, remodeled since the March quake, and the present officers have been retained for the January-July term.

State Flag Given School.

Oakland—Aloha No. 106 enjoyed a Thanksgiving program November 28, numbers being contributed by Johnina Lindblad, Caroline Schulze, Eda Steuer and Thelma Rogers. The winter dance frolic December 2 was a social and financial success. A bridge and whist tea at the home of Eda Steuer December 9 was greatly enjoyed.

The Parlor December 14 presented a California State (Bear) Flag to the Albany junior high school. At the homes of various members December 16 a telephone whist and bridge was held, and Edith Hoover, president-elect, was victorious. The proceeds were used for the annual poor kiddies' Christmas tree party, which was held December 19. The committee rounded up seventy-five children from around the city, and they were entertained with a program and remembered by Santa Claus.

Seven Initiated.

Placentia—Grace No. 242 initiated a class of seven candidates December 7, and re-elected for the new term the same corps of officers, headed by President Erna Watts. Deputy Irene Eden was a visitor. Christmas donations were made to the Fullerton and the Placentia Welfare Associations. Refreshments were served by Mae Lemke, Sarah Donald and Alice Davis.

The Christmas party December 21 featured one of the Parlor's famous potluck dinners for members and their families. Gifts, including toys and filled stockings for the children, were distributed from a tree. The affair was in charge of the social committee, Lucana McFadden, Christine McFarland, Marie Jacobsen and Grace Herigoyen. Sixteen members of the Parlor journeyed to Los Angeles December 16 to witness the new installation ceremonies so beautifully done by Los Angeles No. 124.

NEWSY N.D. PARAGRAPHS.

Stockton—Grand President Irma W. Laird officially visited Joaquin No. 5 November 14. At a dinner preceding the meeting President Lottie Boyd was toastmistress. Among the out-of-town guests were Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Past Grands Mattie Stein, Pearl Lamb and Evelyn Carlson, Supervising Deputy Clarice Cook, Deputy Bess Jackson, Edna Briggs and Nellie Nordstrom. While in Stockton Mms. Laird and Thaler were house guests of Past Grand Carrie Roesch-Durham.

Merced—Grand President Irma Laird officially visited Veritas No. 75 November 21, a dinner preceding the meeting. The hall was beautifully decorated with marigolds. Mrs. Laird's address dealt chiefly with the Order's accomplishments. Among those present were Supervising Deputy May F. Givens, Deputies Lois Roach, Hazel Laverty and Zelphia Thomas.

Lodi—Ivy No. 88 elected officers December 7, Mary Meehl being retained as president. A benefit card party November 21 netted a neat sum, a portion of which goes to the homeless children fund.

Oakland—Fruitvale No. 177 celebrated its twenty-fourth institution anniversary with an elaborate banquet December 6. Six charter members were present. Guests of the evening were Theresa Randall, "mother" of the Parlor, Agnes Grant, President Mae Franklin, Lorretta Kidd and Deputy Louise McDougall. The banquetroom was beautifully decorated under the direction of Chairman Helen Cleu, assisted by Francis McGovern and Chrissie Harrison.

Oroville—Gold of Ophir No. 190 had a fun night December 7. Mrs. Augusta Grandeman spoke on earlyday San Francisco history. Refreshments were served by Rosa Crum, Dorothy Meader, Mae Mitchell, Frances Forbes, Minnie Hedge, Hattie Clark and Alma Crum, and entertainment was in charge of Alta Baldwin, Grand Trustee Florence Boyle and Maebelle Bills. Twenty members went to Willows December 14 to attend the district meeting, which was most enthusiastic and inspiring.

Vallejo—Vallejo No. 195 had a social card party December 6; Grace Birchmore chairman. Ellen O'Brien had charge of an Armistice Day program November 15.

Modesto—Morada No. 199 was officially visited by Grand President Irma Laird November 22. The hall was beautifully decorated, and six members in Puritan costumes escorted Mrs. Laird to her station. Eleven candidates were initiated. Among the many in attendance were Past Grand Mamie Peyton, Supervising Deputy Harriet Corr and Deputy Ethel Enos. Pearl Gordon was chairman of the decoration committee, and Mildred Anderson and her social committee supervised the banquet served at the meeting's conclusion.

Santa Rosa—Grand President Irma W. Laird officially visited Santa Rosa No. 217 and Petaluma No. 222 in joint session here December 7. A dinner, served under the direction of Deputy Ann Beach, preceded the meeting and was enjoyed by eighty-five. The ritual was exemplified by a picked team from the two Parlors, and three candidates were initiated for Petaluma. In attendance were Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Grand Trustees Orinda Giannini, Ethel Begley,

MOONLIGHT IN THE MOUNTAINS

(MILDRED HARRIS.)

Oh, it's magic in the mountains,
For the moon is in full bloom,
Just above the peak's horizon,
Coming from another room
Shining with its golden radiance
And its smiling, happy face,
Upon all the hills and valleys
With its beauty and its grace.

How the crags above us glisten
In its soft and mellow light!
How the lake below us beckons
As a jewel in the night!
With a rippling path across it,
Silver in the moonlight's ray,
With a loveliness far fairer
Than we find it in the day.

And moonbeams through the pine trees,
Streaming down in glorious rays
Cast a benediction o'er us
That will bless us all our days.
And we know that God is with us,
And we lift our hearts in praise,
In the moonlight in His Mountains
Where we witness of His ways.

(The above lines came to The Grizzly Bear from Mrs. H. M. Rouat at Fresno with the notation. "I happened to see the manuscript of this poem and thought it so typical of California I would ask you to use it in The Grizzly Bear. This young woman, Miss Harris, writes poetry about everything she sees, but has never had anything published. Think it would encourage and help her if I could show her this in print."—Editor.)

FAITH

In spite of the Leaders who fail to lead,
In spite of Bribery, Graft and Greed,
In spite of the men who, day by day,
Pile on the taxes we have to pay,
I still believe in the U. S. A.

In spite of the Note with interest due,
In spite of an Income cut in two,
In spite of the Bond that fails to pay,
In spite of the Dividend gone astray,
I still believe in the U. S. A.

In spite of the Gang and the Racketeer—
Hell-fire whiskey and weak-kneed beer,
In spite of the lawyer that knows the way
To serve the crooks by the Law's delay,
I still believe in the U. S. A.

In spite of the Banks and Foreign Loans,
Frozen as hard as the Arctic zone,
In spite of the cotton we hold today,
In spite of the wheat we've stored away,
I still believe in the U. S. A.

In spite of the Hell we're passing through
There's still a fight in me and you—
It may be hard, but we'll find a way,
It's bound to help if you grin and say—
"I still believe in the U. S. A."

LOS ANGELES CITY AND COUNTY

"WE ALL KNOW THAT GOVERNment is costing too much: yet all we do is froth at the mouth with vain vaporings and perform no action to back them up. Officials laugh at all protests and objections, knowing full well that the wave of indignation will subside for lack of sensible leaders and corrective measures that will improve conditions.

"Perhaps, if we had a 'Brain Trust' to lay out a course of action we might be able to get a start. THERE ISN'T A DEPARTMENT HEAD IN CITY GOVERNMENT, FROM MAYOR DOWN, OR IN THE COUNTY, FROM THE CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS DOWN, WHO HAS THE NERVE—OR EVEN THE DESIRE—TO CUT DOWN SUCH EXPENSES AS WILL DISTURB THE FINANCIAL STATUS OF PUBLIC EMPLOYEES, TO REDUCE UNNECESSARY ACTIVITIES IF IT THROWS PUBLIC EMPLOYEES OUT OF JOBS, TO WIPE OUT NEPOTISM ESPECIALLY WHERE HUSBAND AND WIFE BOTH RECEIVE SALARIES, OR IN ANY WAY TO CURTAIL EXPENSE THAT HOLDS TOGETHER THEIR POLITICAL FRIENDS WHO MAINTAIN THEM IN OFFICE.

"What we need now is some one or some groups who will show the voters how 'to do it with ballots' and gradually change the entire order of things. Let us pray for such guidance as will show us how to obtain results."

The above timely, truthful and plain statement appeared in the Los Angeles "Independent-Review" of December 14 and, of course, refers to conditions in the "chemically pure" community. Along this line, Gordon Whitnall, co-ordinator for the Governmental Efficiency Committee, told the Hollywood Women's Club just recently that "400 machines [governmental departments], instead of one that is properly designed," are operating, at enormous expense to taxpayers, in Los Angeles County.

The 400 machines are the creations of, and fine for, the political racketeers, with which the county is overloaded. Certainly one machine, if operated honestly and efficiently, would render far better service at millions less cost. What Los Angeles needs, however, is not a "Brain Trust," but an honest "Government Trust" that will show the voters how "to do it with ballots" by financing and promoting a general recall! The political racketeers must be routed, by cleaning up the county and the city governments from garret to cellar. A new deal locally is surely needed. Why not force it right now?—C.M.H.

GRAND PRESIDENT N.S. HONOR GUEST.

Justice Emmet Seawell of the California Supreme Court, Grand President N.S.G.W., was guest of honor at the December 8 Native Sons Luncheon Club gathering, and a crowd of close to two hundred gave him a great welcome. Other guests were Chief Justice William H. Waste (Berkeley Parlor No. 210), Justice William H. Langdon (Modesto Parlor No. 11) and Justice Jesse W. Curtis (Arrowhead Parlor No. 110) of the State Supreme Court, and Governor James Rolph (Hesperian Parlor No. 137). Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer presided, and also introduced several city and county officials.

Justice Seawell paid tribute to California and its Natives, and the other guests spoke briefly. Joe Scott, a non-native, delivered the "pep" address of the occasion, and urged the Natives to crowd the Order to the front and to shout the glories of California everlastingly. He said that if the spirit of earlyday California prevailed today there would be no need of a community chest or other relief agency in any community. "The Natives can, and should, revive and perpetuate that spirit, so necessary to the welfare of California," he said.

Other chairmen at the luncheon club during December were Charles Bryant, Richard Bird and Superior Judge Ruben Schmidt. The club meets every Friday at 12:15 noon at the Rosslyn Hotel. Brief, worthwhile programs are always featured.

RESPOND!

Deputy Grand President John J. Ford of the N.S.G.W. December 15 addressed the following to all Los Angeles County Native Sons and Daughters on behalf of the local Joint Homeless Children Committee:

"Your attention is again called to the homeless children Thanksgiving letter. This work is in great need of funds at this time. The response to the Thanksgiving letter has fallen short of our expectations. If you have not contributed, please send your contribution immediately, to the Secretary at 3924 Sunset boulevard, Los Angeles. Whatever contribution you can afford, large or small, will be greatly appreciated."

NEEDY FAMILIES REMEMBERED.

Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W. entertained large delegations from all the southern Parlors December 6, when the new installation ceremony approved at the Oakland Grand Parlor was exemplified under the direction of Deputy Marvel Thomas. Several interesting talks were made, and the work was highly praised.

At the December 20 meeting, splendid reports were given by Chairman Olinda Kerby of the history and landmarks committee, and Ann Schiebusch of the Thanksgiving commmittee; the latter said twenty-five baskets were presented disabled veterans at the National Soldiers Home, Sawtelle. Secretary Mary K. Corcoran told of the broadcast by Deputy Marvel Thomas of a homeless children article prepared by Annie L. Adair and Past Grand Grace S. Stoermer. President Dolores Malin thanked the officers and members generally for their hearty co-operation. A good time was had at the December 13 card party, Verna Wells chairman.

The Parlor had its annual Christmas tree party December 27, and it was heartily enjoyed. Santa Claus was there, and distributed gifts to everyone. Christmas carols were sung, and lovely refreshments were served. The Parlor, through its social service committee, Edna Trombatore chairman, distributed well-filled baskets to several needy families Christmas Day. Los Angeles' January calendar includes: 7th, visit to Old Plaza, under auspices history and land-

MONEY
When You Need It

You can have money when you need it. And this is NOT a fairy story. The only magic about it is the way your savings account in this bank grows when you deposit money regularly every pay day. That's half the secret of having money when you need it. The other half is to put your household finances on a business basis and budget your income, so that you will have money to put aside each pay day. California Bank will gladly help by giving you a copy of its household budget book, free, at any one of its fifty-five conveniently located offices.

FOURTEEN INITIATED.

Santa Monica—The class initiation in honor of Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell, sponsored by the Los Angeles County N.S.G.W. Central Membership Committee, attracted large delegations from all the Parlors. Following a supper there was a parade, headed by the drum corps of Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267, to the meetingplace. Fourteen candidates were initiated six for Compton No. 273, three for Santa Monica Bay No. 267, three for University No. 272, two for Ramona No. 109 by the select ritual team listed in The Grizzly Bear for December.

Grand President Seawell delivered a splendid address, directing his remarks particularly to the initiates. Among the more than 200 in attendance were Past Grands Herman Lichtenberger and John Newell, Grand Trustee Eldred Meyer, Grand Organist Leslie Maloche, Deputy Grand Presidents Walter Odemar and John Ford, District Deputies Walter Baskerville, Arthur Leonard, Edward Baldwin and Walter Fisher, and presidents of the following Parlors: Roger Johnson, Los Angeles No. 45, Charles Straube, Ramona No. 109, Henry Bodkin, Hollywood No. 196, Walter Richards, Sepulveda No. 263, Harvey Gillette, Glendale No. 264, Edward McCurdy, Santa Monica Bay No. 267, Maynard Garrison, University No. 272, and Ray Hecock, Compton No. 273.

MANY HOMES MADE HAPPY.

Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W. had its annual homeless children bazar December 12, and it was a complete success. Leila Taber was chairman, and Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel Hansen spoke on the children work. The sewing circle also participated in the affair, showing lovely garments. Additional funds were earned at a theater party December 19. The Parlor's philanthropies made many happy homes during the Yule period. Betty Lukomski took care of sick veterans, with money also from a theater party.

At the December 12 meeting, election of officers resulted in the retention of Inez Sitton as president. Eight candidates were welcomed into membership. At "Mary Foy's November harvest tea," as the end-of-the-month social gatherings are called, she told of the orchards and vineyards of oldtime Los Angeles, and Mrs. Edward L. Davis gave the names of the first winemakers and the extent of their holdings.

The first of a series of three "contradanzas," December 8, was a delightful affair, and Marcella Wolfskill and her California folklore committee were highly complimented. The dessert sewing circle met December 4 at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Owens. A number of lovely dolls for the homeless children bazar were dressed by Mrs. Owens. A Christmas tea was featured December 26.

VICTORIOUS!

Compton—Compton Parlor No. 273 N.S.G.W. was a year old December 6. It closed its first year of existence with fifty members, despite seemingly unsurmountable obstacles that had to be overcome. The Parlor is particularly grateful to Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 (San Pedro), District Deputy Edward Baldwin and Grand Trustee Eldred Meyer for assistance freely given.

Looking back over the past year the members of Compton are proud of results achieved as the result of hard work and concerted action, and particularly so because it would have been easy to let go following the earthquake. The first president, Dr. L. W. Cowan, did much to keep the Parlor in the running, and his successor, Ray Hecock, has carried the work on wonderfully. As a result of the co-operation of officers and members, Compton has come through victorious and will continue to grow.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

President Dolores Malin entertained the officers of Los Angeles Parlor N.D.G.W. at her home Demember 12.

William A. Reuter (Grand Inside Sentinel N.S.), who has been seriously ill at his Wilmington home, is well on the road to recovery.

Mrs. Earl Temby (Long Beach N.D.) of Long Beach spent the Christmas holidays in Sacramento with her mother, Mrs. Frances Horan.

THE DEATH RECORD.

Mrs. Laura B. Freeman, mother of D. C. Freeman (Santa Monica Bay N.S.), died December 8 at Gardena.

James J. Roche, father of W. P. Roche (Ramona N.S.), died December 13. He was a native of Ireland, aged 83.

Henry S. Hackstaff, father of Norman J. Hackstaff (Ramona N.S.), died December 16.

C. F. Lucas, father of Corliss B. Lucas (Ramona N.S.), died December 17.

Judge J. Walter Hanby, affiliated with Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W., died December 18, survived by a wife and two children. He was born at Visalia, Tulare County, July 16, 1872.

Samuel F. Arthur, affiliated with Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W., died December 19, survived by a wife and two daughters. He was born at Grass Valley, Nevada County, July 31, 1884.

LONG BEACH'S ACTIVITIES.

Long Beach—The thimble club of Long Beach No. 154 motored to Santa Monica November 28 and spent the day with Dolores Sykes, who was presented with a book. December 14, 15 and 16 the club had a bazar, with Alice Waldow in charge of the apron booth, and Josephine Pierson and Gertrude Riddle in charge of jellies and cakes.

The Parlor was visited December 7 by Deputy Letitia Sarciaux and President Carrie Kuhlman and a delegation of Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 (San Pedro) members. A Christmas party, with President Eleanor Johnson presiding, was held December 21. The past presidents, headed by Kate McFadyen, had charge of the entertain-

In Memoriam

DR. LOUISE C. HEILBRON.

Having been appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our beloved Past Grand President and member of the Grand Parlor Native Daughters of the Golden West Home Committee, Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, we respectfully submit the following

The golden chain of our fraternity has been severed by the loss of one who, in the prime of life and in the midst of pleasant activities and useful occupation has been called to a Better Home. The trials the sorrows the disappointments that come in every life, however sheltered, are ended for our faithful member, and her sudden passing is a shock to the members of the Home Committee, who hold her in deep affection and respect. And now her Heavenly Father comes to lay a soothing hand upon her brow, and to lift her spirit from the grim shadows into the light where there is no burden and where all sorrow ceases.

So with a nod of the head
And a wave of the hand
She has left us
To dwell in a Better Land.

While we pay loving tribute to her memory, we are not unmindful of the sorrow that has come to her loved ones, therefore, be it resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to her bereaved family with an earnest prayer that God, in His infinite mercy, will send peace into their hearts, that a copy be sent to San Diego Parlor No. 208 N.D.G.W., of which our departed sister was Charter President, that a copy be spread in full upon the Minutes of the Grand Parlor Native Daughters of the Golden West Home Committee, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

EVELYN I. CARLSON, P.G.P.,
MARY E. BELL, P.G.P.,
GENEVIEVE W. BAKER, P.G.P.
Committee.

Attest: DR. MARIANA BERTOLA, P.G.P., Chairman;
EMMA G. FOLEY, P.G.P., Secretary.
San Francisco, December 4, 1933.

DR. LOUISE CAROLINE HEILBRON.

To the Officers and Members of Past Presidents Association No. 4 Native Daughters of the Golden West: We, your committee appointed to draft a testimonial of condolence and respect on the death of Past Grand President Louise C. Heilbron, respectfully submit the following

To our Memory Garden has been added another Flower; and it is with deep sorrow we bow to the will of our Heavenly Father, Who has called from our midst a most worthy member who was devoted unselfishly to the good of the Order and who worked loyally and unceasingly in the promotion of the projects of the Native Daughters of the Golden West. In her passing our Order has lost a deeply revered and highly respected, devoted member and Grand Officer; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we extend our sincere sympathy to her bereaved relatives; and further be it resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to her sorrowing relatives, to San Diego Parlor No. 208, that a copy be spread in full upon the minutes of the Past Presidents Association No. 4 and that a copy be sent to the Grizzly Bear for publication.

Respectfully submitted to P.P.P.A.,
EVA R. RASMUSSEN
FLORA SCHMIEDEN
HAZEL LETCH,
Committee.

Sacramento, December 12, 1933.

DR. LOUISE CAROLINE HEILBRON.

To the Officers and Members of San Diego Parlor No. 208 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to prepare a testimonial of love and respect to the memory of our departed sister, Dr. Louise Caroline Heilbron, Charter President of San Diego Parlor, beg to submit the following Report:

Resolved, That San Diego Parlor No. 208 N.D.G.W. has lost our dear sister to the Heavenly Father and she has approached that great throne where golden tints and tender love abide forever. We bid her rest in our fraternity, and her many messages of encouragement in times of perplexities. Be it further

Resolved, That through these lines we extend to her bereaved relatives our sincere sympathy in their loss and also our appreciation of the noble life of our sister. And be it further resolved, that a copy of this memorial be spread upon our minutes, that a copy be sent to the family and one to The Grizzly Bear Magazine.

PEARL A. SIMPSON,
MABEL H. BURGERT,
ELSIE CASE,
Committee.

San Diego, December 18, 1933.

ZORAIDA B. TRAVIS.

Officers and Members of Grace Parlor No. 242 N.D.G.W.—The committee appointed to draft a resolution of love and respect to the memory of our departed sister, Zoraida B. Travis, hereby submit the following

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father has seen fit to call from our midst our dearly beloved sister, Zoraida B. Travis, a real pioneer of our district and a beautiful Christian character. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That the members of Grace Parlor No. 242 express their deepest sympathy and affection to the bereaved family in their great loss, and that a copy of this resolution be written into the minutes of this meeting, a copy be sent to the bereaved family, and a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear for publication.

Alice Lane and Willow Borba, Past Grand Emma G. Foley, Supervising Deputy Clytie Lewis, Deputies Gertrude Groskopf and Ann Beach.

Antioch—Antioch No. 223 had its annual Christmas party for members December 12, and the highlight of the affair was the exchange of gifts. Emma Lynn was the Santa Claus, and others who worked for the success of the affair were Louise Simonds, Mary Ross, Marguerite Flannery and Estelle Evans. Children of the members were entertained December 18, and gifts, candy and fruits were distributed. Alice Webster was in charge.

Hundred Kiddies Made Happy.

Stockton—December 10 was a red-letter day for children who were guests of Caliz de Oro No. 206 at its annual Christmas party. Each member brought guests, those having no children of their own bringing kiddies who otherwise would have had a very meager Yuletide. Each hostess provided for her proteges gifts distributed from a beautifully decorated Christmas tree by Santa Claus, and the Parlor furnished a bag of candy for each child.

Entertainment consisting of songs, dances, recitations and instrumental numbers was provided by the children, and refreshments were served. Committees responsible for the success of the affair, attended by a hundred children, included: Ada Javete, Mary Fay, Hazel Newman, decorations; Catherine Meroux, Kathryne Zink, Ina McDonald, Crealia Luchetti, entertainment; Frances Germain, Helen Ellis, May Fitzgerald, Lottie Hahn, Bessie Rowe, Florence Carlson, Lucille Riechmuth, refreshments.

CALIFORNIA FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

NEW YEAR DAY 1884 CAME ON A Tuesday. In California, the weather was warm and the sun shone brightly. Until the last week of the month, not a storm of consequence came during January. The rainfall for the month was 3.41 inches, bringing the season's total to 6.35 inches.

A number of the state's prominent citizens introduced an innovation by having New Year greeting cards delivered to their friends by messengers, instead of making the usual calls in person. The W.C.T.U. sent out a circular letter asking women not to serve intoxicating liquors to callers at their homes, and many of those appealed to refrained from doing so.

California statistics for 1883, published this month, revealed: 32,659,870 bushels of wheat and 19,000,232 bushels of barley were harvested. Salmon catch on the Sacramento River totaled 9,585,672 pounds; some 2,000 men were engaged in this enterprise.

Public schools enrollment totaled 171,611, boys numbering 90,237 and girls 81,374. Three hundred and fifty-seven newspapers were published. There were twenty-six Subordinate Parlors of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West.

Mining stocks were very dull at the beginning of the new year. From over $1,000 a share in the '70s, the bonanza stocks, Ophir, California and Con. Virginia, had dropped to, respectively, $4, 10c and 30c a share.

Henry George, California writer on political economy, published this month an article that received nation-wide attention. He said overproduction, through machinery, inventions and new methods, was causing a national depression that was throwing men out of employment and causing hard times. Was he ahead of his time?

Pons comet remained a sky attraction during the month in the northern heaven.

The Association of California Pioneers began the erection of a $150,000 hall on Fourth street, San Francisco.

A new theater, claimed to be the finest ever built in the state, was nearing completion in Los Angeles City.

The State Agricultural Society's new pavilion in Sacramento City, which cost $85,284, was dedicated January 29. Governor George Stoneman participated in the ceremony.

A meeting of prominent San Francisco citizens was held January 3 to organize for a world fair to be held in that city in the near-future. Governor Stoneman was elected president and ex-Governor George Perkins vice-president of a committee to raise $2,000,000 to finance the project.

Oranges gathered from Granite Hill, El Dorado County, trees brought from Japan by Japs who came there to raise tea, were this month put on the market. The fruit was large, sweet and juicy.

California lions, in search of food, became numerous in the Kern County foothills. Large numbers of buzzards congregated in San Benito County. A deer entered a home garden in Salinas, Monterey County, and in an attempt to jump a picket fence broke its neck.

Hy Downs, hunting in Alpine County, saw a flock of wild geese at rest on a lake. Creeping up cautiously, he prepared to shoot when the flock rose. The geese fluttered their wings, but not one took to the air. Their legs had become frozen in the ice that formed after they alighted. Downs bagged 128.

W. J. Archibald, a Galt, Sacramento County, hunter, fired both barrels of a shotgun into a flock of wild geese January 20 and killed fifty-four.

Judge Sawyer, in the United States Circuit Court, decided in favor of the farmers, and granted a perpetual injunction against operation of the Bloomfield hydraulic mine in Nevada County. This appeared to have settled the slickens controversy, and hydraulic mining as carried on in California was doomed.

An ordinance was passed by the Sacramento Board of Trustees giving a company a franchise to wire the city and sell electricity. The mayor voted for it, but characterized it as "a humbug aimed at depressing the value of gas stock for the purpose of buying it in at a low price to sell at a rebound."

The United States Mint at San Francisco placed an order for a large quantity of soapstone slabs, to be quarried at Ringgold, El Dorado County. They were to be used to line the mint's furnaces.

The ice harvest commenced in December on the Truckee River in Nevada County was very successful. Over 100,000 tons had been cut and stored for shipment during the summer season.

An Anaheim, Orange County, ostrich farm culled and sold during the holiday season plumes worth $1,500.

A telephone company laid a cable across San Francisco Bay January 10 from San Francisco to Oakland, Alameda County.

The first cremation society organized in California was incorporated at San Francisco January 8.

There being a small-change shortage in California, the U. S. Mint in San Francisco coined this month $50,000 in dimes, and brought $10,000 in nickels from the mint at Philadelphia.

Sacramento Parlor No. 3 N.S.G.W. gave its annual ball in the assembly chamber of the State Capitol January 18, and it was largely attended. On the arrangements committee were Ed. F. Cohn and John T. Stafford.

Sunset Parlor No. 26 N.S.G.W. of Sacramento was reorganized January 27, with C. K. Parsons as the president. At a banquet, the Golden West quartet—Ed. Cohn, Bert Kidder, Joe Wiseman and Richard Cohn—delighted those assembled.

A rich gravel deposit was found in San Antonio Canyon, near Pomona, Los Angeles County. The Standard mine at Bodie, Mono County, struck a big body of rich ore on the 700-foot level; this assured that town's prosperity for several years. The Red Rock mine in Inyo County struck ore milling $207 a ton.

The quartz mill at the Belmont, Placer County, mine burned January 1, with a $35,000 loss. The Empire foundry at Marysville, Yuba County, burned January 11, with a $5,000 loss.

The American Exchange hotel at Antioch, Contra Costa County, burned January 21. John Griffon, the owner's son, and Thomas Hines, a lodger, were cremated.

Captain William Galloway, who arrived at San Francisco in October 1849 and became interested in the navigation of California waters, died there January 5.

Charles Whitehead, editor of the Los Angeles City "Republican," in an altercation January 7 with a fellow employe, T. S. Harris, over ownership of a dictionary, was shot and dangerously wounded.

J. P. Burt, a Forty-niner of Modesto, Stanislaus County, January 16 had an epileptic fit, fell into a watering trough and drowned.

Freddy Noel, a Soquel, Santa Cruz County, lad, was killed January 15 by the accidental discharge of a shotgun.

John A. Burke, who came to California in 1850, was thrown from a runaway team in Sacramento City January 20 and fatally injured.

Charles Bauman of San Francisco was January 25 asked by an indigent for two bits with which to get a bed. Being refused, the beggar knocked him to the pavement and killed him.

E. M. Skaggs, who arrived at Sacramento City from Kentucky in 1850, fell down the stairway at his home there January 25 and was fatally injured.

January was a noose-tie month: Herman Schmidt was hanged at Oroville, Butte County, January 4, for killing his wife in Chico. Stephen Richards was hanged at Auburn, Placer County, January 11, for killing Tom Nichols in March 1883. George A. Wheeler was hanged at San Francisco January 25 for strangling his paramour in October 1880; he had been tried and convicted promptly, but appeals on technicalities delayed his execution; an immense crowd gathered in the streets about the jail, anxious to hear the news.

"Black Bart the Po-8" told the San Quentin Prison warden the following unique experience in his stage-robbing career: "After I had robbed a stage and was making my getaway I saw coming toward me on the road three horsemen. I had to hide quickly, so as not to be seen by them. Near the roadside lay a hollow cedar-tree log. Into this I crept. Near the other end of it was lying a skunk. I could not retreat, for the horsemen were passing. For a few minutes I passed some of the most excruciating moments of my life. But, the skunk did not resent my intrusion. It was either asleep or indifferent. I got out of the log as quickly as I could, safely."

Henry Damon, a Nevada City, Nevada County, miner half "shot," entered New Year night a saloon where a score of citizens had gathered to celebrate the advent of 1884. In his hand was a wriggling gopher snake, and as soon as the convivial crowd saw it they dispersed. Many believed it was alcoholic strabismus that caused them to see snakes, and not an actuality; visions of "snakes in their boots" probably flared. The barkeep, when he got wise, forcibly ejected Damon and his snake.

ment. Small gifts were exchanged among the members. Officers of Long Beach, with Alice Waldow as president, will be publicly installed January 4.

FAITH URGED.

San Pedro—Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W. was host—and a royal one—to Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell December 8. The festivities began with a delicious supper at Point Firmin Park, this being followed by the Parlor meeting. With President Walter Richards presiding, two candidates were initiated.

Grand President Seawell made an exceptionally fine talk. He said that opportunities for advancement are as plentiful today as ever. "This country of ours is builded upon a foundation that will withstand all onslaughts," he assured, and urged faith in governmental institutions, right thinking and right doing. Other speakers were Past Grand John T. Newell, Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer, Secretary Don Castillo of Compton Parlor, John P. Martin Jr. and Senator Henry E. Carter. Jack Lewis entertained with vocal selections. Also in attendance were Grand Organist Leslie Maloche and District Deputies Walter Baskerville, Arthur Leonard and Edward Baldwin. President Richards sincerely thanked Justice Seawell for paying a visit to Sepulveda, and assured him the Parlor could always be depended on to co-operate in any undertaking for the good of the Order.

NEWS BRIEFS N.D. PARLORS.

Glendale—Verdugo No. 240 celebrated its eighth institution anniversary December 12. A Christmas party for the members' children was held December 27. With Margaret Donlan as president, officers will be installed January 9 by Deputy Adele Frankish.

Santa Monica—Officers of Santa Monica Bay No. 245 will be installed January 10 at public ceremonies conducted by Deputy Beulah Van Luven. Katherine C. Worsham will become the president, and Ethel Michelson the recording secretary. At an officers' meeting December 20, arrangements were made to entertain Grand President Irma W. Laird on the occasion of her official visit to the Parlor January 29.

NEWS BRIEFS N.S. PARLORS.

Los Angeles—Los Angeles No. 45 had the first meeting in its new home, 850 South Bonnie Brae street, December 14. There were many visitors, the ritual was exemplified, and refreshments were served. In future, meetings will be held the second and fourth Thursdays. The annual Christmas tree was featured December 22. Among the guests were several less-fortunate children from the city welfare agency. Gifts and goodies were distributed by Santa Claus (Leslie Packard). Owen S. Adams was in charge of arrangements.

Los Angeles—The December birthday party of Ramona No. 109 was enjoyed by many, including the womenfolks. An interesting letter from Charter President R. F. Del Valle was read by the "official caller," Ernest Orfila. After the feed, prepared by "Chef" Charles Gassagne, entertainment and cards were provided. The Parlor's January calendar includes: 5th, installation, with Walter E. Odemar as president. 12th, initiation. 19th, birthday dinner at 6:30 in honor of the January-born members.

Santa Monica—Santa Monica Bay No. 267's drum corps sponsored a 1933-1934 dance December 30. A big crowd had a fine time.

Los Angeles—University No. 272 wound up its activities for 1933 by initiating a large class of candidates December 27. Entertainment and refreshments followed the ceremonies.

How? By the practical, sensible and far cheaper plan of conserving flood waters, instead of relying on taking the surface waters from Owens Valley. . . .

"The question is sometimes asked if there may not be an ultimate restoration, when Los Angeles gets its Colorado River water; if the city may not, by resale, restore farming and get back some of the millions it has spent. It seems incredible to the casual observer as well as to residents that a valley of such fertility, matchless climate and superb attractions shall be condemned to desolation. Only the future can reveal. The most optimistic cannot paint a future that will mean much to those who made Owens Valley what it was. If there is to be a coming back, it must be well into the years ahead when those who have given Inyo their devotion are beyond its enjoyment. . . .

"The dominant genius of the whole undertaking was William Mulholland, whose attitude was typified by his remark there expurgated) that there were not enough trees in Owens Valley to hang its people on. It must be said of him that he is not open to charges of deception. To him the Inyo people were outlander enemies to be conquered, he left the methods to competent subordinates. The nominally controlling water board served as his rubber stamp, up to the time when the chasms of different engineering failures came home to roost at his doorstep and when the tragedy of the San Francisquito dam sent out its flood to take hundreds of lives and to wash down to the clay feet of the city's almost deified idol. . . .

"The whole shameful perpetration is a crime against the people of Inyo County, against the people and taxpayers of Los Angeles, against the State of California, against the just administration of the nation's laws. Not because the city came to Owens Valley for more water, that could have been arranged, though little of such water finds its way past the lands which the foresighted promoters sold. All that was right could have been won at far less cost in millions and in good repute by a definite program of honest, above-board dealing. The campaign began with wrongful use of government functions, it continued in the engineering folly of creating a $25,000,000 aqueduct without surely providing for its supply, and it was carried on unscrupulously."

"COLONIAL HISPANIC AMERICA."

By Charles Edward Chapman; The Macmillan Company, Publishers, New York; Price, $2.40.

The author of "Colonial Hispanic America," Dr. Charles E. Chapman, professor of Hispanic American history at the University of California, was the first Native Sons traveling history fellow and, as Dr. Herbert E. Bolton says in the book's foreword, "Few if any scholars are better equipped than Dr. Chapman to write the history of Hispanic America. . . . His writings cover a broad range, and are marked by sound scholarship." Quoting from the author's preface:

"One of the greatest and most growingly important factors in the world today, especially prominent in the foreign relations of the United States, is Hispanic America, embracing the twenty republics of the Western Hemisphere south of the United States. To understand this region, which is so intimately and so essentially a product of its past, one must inevitably have a broad and somewhat detailed view of those times when it was made up of colonies belonging to Spain and Portugal. There has long been a need for a one-volume survey of this in English. That need the present work aims to supply. . . .

"Furthermore, I do not care for the encyclopaedic type of historical volume, which is primarily an accumulation, on a considerable scale, of names, dates, and isolated facts. Here an attempt has been made to discuss material broadly, with only incidental detail, except as interesting occurrences are adduced to lend color to the account. . . . Special attention is directed to the fact that this is a history of 'Hispanic' America. The incorrect term 'Latin America' is still used to some extent, but the word 'Hispanic' has been adopted by the Romance-languages and history professions, and ought to be universally employed."

EXCELSIOR NATIVE SONS PARLOR ESTABLISHES SPLENDID RECORD.

From President T. G. Negrich of Excelsior Parlor No. 31 N.S.G.W., Jackson, Amador County, The Grizzly Bear received the following:

December 20, Excelsior initiated more candidates, making a total of thirty-two new members received since July 1933. After the initiation the assemblage adjourned to the banquetroom, where a committee arranged for good "eats." Entertainment was also provided, and everyone had an enjoyable evening. More applications are on file, and Excelsior will continue to run up its batting average.

MILLIONS IN EXPENDITURES APPROVED.

At the December 19 statewide election, California voters approved the $170,000,000 "Central Valley Water Project." Bond issues approved included:

San Francisco, $3,000,000 for alteration of schools. Eureka, Humboldt County, $1,134,000 for the Mad River water project. Coalinga, Fresno County, $150,000 for a high school. Santa Ana, Orange County, $70,000 for a city hall. Orange County, $640,000 for a pleasure harbor at Newport Beach.

GRIZZLY GROWLS

Advising his congregation "to pay your bills and don't buy things you cannot pay for," a New York clergyman said: "I want to ask you to think of all that could be done, all that would be accomplished in a year if we could have for one year honesty—just that old-fashioned, common virtue of honesty."

"In a changing world, nations cannot remain bound forever by old agreements," remarked a Japanese naval authority the other day. At least, that viewpoint is consistent with the policy of Japan, except that "old" should be eliminated. For the Japs are bound by no agreement, old or new, when their plans demand evasion or ignoring of any agreement.

Speaking in San Francisco, October 16, Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for the presidency last year, said: "I think the American slogan should be co-operation with the world for peace, no co-operation with any nation or group of nations for war. We got into a lot of trouble to make the world safe for democracy. Having been once burnt, let us be twice careful. . . . I have always favored recognition [of Russia]. It is absurd that we haven't done it long ago. . . .

"The best thing about the new deal is that it gives labor a chance to organize. But if labor doesn't organize right, the codes are likely to be new instruments of serfdom. Maybe we will feed the cows a little better, but we'll still milk them. While the new deal has certain semi-socialistic features, it is in its essence state capitalism. . . . Roosevelt had to take the banks and put them in order but he gave them back to the bankers to see if they could do it again. The money changers are back in the temple. Maybe their faces are washed, but that is about all."

The Japs are now dumping tuna into this country, and are the California south packers enraged! From no imports four years ago, the Jap shipments pyramided to 600,000 cases the first ten months of this year. The California tuna packers have always opposed every proposed restriction against the yellow pests; now, they're paying for their folly, and it is well that they are. The only sure method of reaching dollar-worshipers is via the pocketbook.

"To sit in silence when we should protest, makes cowards out of men. . . . The few who dare must speak and speak again, to right the wrongs of many."

Openly charging collusion in the appointment of equity receivers of defunct concerns, William H. Neblett told the Lawyers Club of Los Angeles: "Over a period of approximately three years the federal courts of southern California, in 194 receiverships where unsecured claims amounted to $72,625,208, authorized payments to creditors of only $3,997,661. . . . This payment has occurred in very few cases, because in 90 percent of the cases general creditors have received nothing. . . . Meanwhile receivers and their attorneys have received the stupendous sum of $4,241,450."

Remarks the "Livermore Herald," editorially: "Neither newspapers, radio nor other means of spreading news are beyond making errors, unfortunately, but the printed word is by far the most satisfactory, largely for two reasons—the definite statement is there in front of you for checking or verification and is not a fleeting thing, gone forever as is the radio broadcast; and what we see makes a stronger and more lasting impression than what we hear, since we are still more eye-minded than ear-minded."

"Why Has Los Angeles So Many on Relief Rolls?", headed a December 1 Los Angeles "Times" news item. A sub-head answered the query: "Swindles, Investment Losses, Political Jobbery Main Causes." Incidentally, relief—for the deserving and otherwise—is costing Los Angeles County taxpayers the neat sum of approximately $2,500,000 monthly!

"Out of the shadows of night, the world rolls into light, and it is daybreak—everywhere!"—Goldsmith.

Homeless Children

A WORTHWHILE NON-SECTARIAN ENDEAVOR SPONSORED AND SUPPORTED BY THE ORDERS OF NATIVE SONS AND NATIVE DAUGHTERS OF THE GOLDEN WEST

HAPPY NEW YEAR TO THE MANY friends of the Homeless Children! May the year 1934 prove a better and brighter one, and hold health, happiness, fresh courage and faith for each member of the Orders of Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West. In spite of the worries and sorrows and disappointments which most of us have experienced during 1933, there comes a feeling of sadness when the old year dies and the new year comes with its unknown responsibilities and changes. Particularly does the shadow of uncertainty come to those who have met Life's stern realities and who are no longer under the spell of the exuberance of youth—blessed youth, which naught can crush or down!

Those whose days are spent with children and who know the spiritual and material blessings which have been denied many little ones are happy over the old year's record, showing hundreds of children made happy in foster homes under wholesome influences through the interest and the generosity of the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West.

At the time this article goes to print there will be a week before Santa Claus goes down the chimneys throughout California and finds the host of new arrivals awaiting his coming in the family circles, and during that week, no doubt, Native Daughters will continue to come in bearing gifts for the children. Those who have already brought in huge boxes filled with every kind of interesting Christmas toy are Buena Vista No. 167 (Oakland) and James Lick No. 220 (San Francisco). The latter has agreed to provide a Christmas for fourteen children, among whom are little ones who might have spent their first Christmas in a new home away from blood-parents and brothers and sisters, had it not been for the timely assistance provided by the Native Sons and Native Daughters at the parents' blackest time—when they considered adoption for their new-born because they could not immediately see their way clear to provide food for another child. Additional Native Daughter Parlors that provided milk for a baby during 1933 are:

Yosemite No. 83, El Vespero No. 118, Gabrielle No. 139, Twin Peaks No. 185, Bear Flag No. 151, Marguerite No. 12, Occident No. 28, Manzanita No. 29, Reina del Mar No. 126, Imogen No. 134, Clear Lake No. 135, Calistoga No. 145, Ramona No. 147, El Portal No. 162, Berreyesa No. 192, Donner No. 12, [illegible] No. 2, Golden Era No. 7, Santa Monica No. 31, La Estrella No. 241, Oliver parlor, Vallejo, Adams [illegible], Berkeley, Bonita, supervising and deputy [illegible] parlors, San Francisco, Cecile, Mt. and Mrs. Chase, Mt. [illegible], Golden Gate, Ina Coolbrith, Dora Brayton, San Mateo, [illegible] and deputies.

The Sacramento Native Daughters sewing club continues to contribute its beautiful layettes each month. Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245 N.D.G.W. sent to Annie L. Adair of the Los Angeles Joint Committee a wonderful supply of things which were needed. The sewing club of Oneonta Parlor No. 71 N.D.G.W. (Ferndale) sent a box of needed articles. Piedmont Parlor No. 87 N.D.G.W. (Oakland) continues to supply sweet and dainty dresses and slips, given by members and selected by Josephine Clark, and beyond doubt the members' pleasure in giving lies, to a large extent, in the realization that they are carrying on for Past Grand President Addie Mosher, who has been prevented by illness from doing the work for the children which she so wholeheartedly enjoyed for many years. District Deputy Augusta Huxsol, guardian of a Camp Fire group of girls, brought garments those girls had made for the children, and dressed two delightful soft rag dolls for the children who visit the Central Committee offices. Native Sons and Native Daughters Parlors that have to date contributed funds are:

NATIVE SONS—Stockton No. 7, Argonaut No. 8, Amador No. 17, Lodi No. 18, Arcata No. 20, Ione No. 33, Elk Grove No. 41, Hydraulic No. 56, Quartz No. 58, Auburn No. 59, Napa No. 62, Silver Star No. 63, Mount Tamalpais No. 64, Downieville No. 92, Ferndale No. 93, Las Positas No. 96, Santa Clara No. 109, Glen Ellen No. 162, San Diego No. 108, Santa Barbara No. 116, Broderick No. 117, Gabilan No. 132, Hideout No. 146, Cambria No. 152, Menlo No. 185, Liberty No. 193, Plumas No. 228, Willows No. 255.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS—Joaquin No. 5 and drill team, Santa Cruz No. 26, Occident No. 28, Manzanita No. 29, Angel Island No. 32, Chispa No. 40, Camelia No. 41, Ruby No. 46, Eltapome No. 55, Dardanelle No. 66, Oneonta No. 71, Reichling No. 97, San Andreas No. 113, Mountain Dawn No. 120, Fern No. 123, Oakdale No. 125, Imogen No. 134, Clear Lake No. 135, Junipero No. 141, Stirling No. 146, Nataqua No. 152, Anona No. 164, Ella Freitas of Argonaut No. 166, San Juan Bautista No. 179, El Carmelo No. 181, El Dorado No. 186, Colus No. 194, Marinita No. 198, Cabz de Oro No. 206, San Diego No. 208, Liberty No. 213, Phoebe A. Hearst No. 214, Santa Rosa No. 217, Plumas Pioneer No. 219, Petaluma No. 222, Tamelpa No. 231, Susanville No. 243, District Deputy Dora Brayton.

Joint contributions Native Sons and Native Daughters—Placerville No. 9 N.S. and Marguerite No. 12 N.D., Califia No. 22 N.D., La Bandera No. 110 N.D., Sutter No. 11 N.D. and Coloma No. 212 N.D., Fremont No. 44 N.S. and Copa de Oro No. 105 N.D., Mrs. W. W. Black and Mrs. Bertha Briggs of Copa de Oro No. 105, in memory of W. W. Black, deceased member Fremont Parlor No. 44 N.S., Calistoga No. 86 N.S. and Calistoga No. 145 N.D., Seaside No. 95 N.S. and Vista del Mar No. 135 N.D., Los Angeles Joint Committee.

The proceeds from the San Francisco Joint Committee have not yet been received by the Central Committee, but the Thanksgiving Eve ball was beautifully handled and well attended. A most gratifying amount of dignified publicity was given the San Francisco Joint Committee by the San Francisco papers relative to the work and the benefit.

So, the old year was kind to the cause, after all, and again, a prosperous New Year!

"THAT LIGHT"

(DELMAR H. WILLIAMS.)

The choice souls, the martyrs and the sages,
Send out a gleam across the sea of ages,
Downward streaming from a lofty eminence
It's ever, freely shed for our remembrance.

And though thoughtless millions never see
How that pure light is guiding you and me,
It's working on the darkness as a leaven,
And it will change this planet into heaven.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

THE WOMAN IS NEGLIGENT WHO IS not interesting herself in a holiday negligee. After the holiday season is over, tremendous good values may be found. Values in this field range from tailored cotton pajamas to the most glamorous of hostess gowns. Some designers are definitely interested in the empire silhouette for the hostess gown, and that means that it will be a country-wide success among the young girls who like to have that rather dramatic look.

A Hollywood version sponsors a train and has a brassiere outline to the bodice. A smart one seen has an attractive knee-length jacket fashioned of gray chiffon, bordered all around with bead embroidery. Skeleton type sandals are of matching gray. For the less-formal type very tailored designs are shown in double satins and velvets.

As a matter of fact, satin is figuring extensively in all branches of lingerie, gowns and pajamas that are hand-faggoted. Much attention in a recent lingerie display for warmth and lightness of garments was directed toward cunning little rabbit robes, with their washability featured. Old-fashioned bed jackets are also shown in crepe. The young girl clientele cling to pajamas, with a little lifting on the flannels. Tuck-in pajamas are shown in broadcloth of solid color pastels or feather printed patterns.

For the cocktail hour, a black velvet hostess gown in a simple tailored style is both effective and fashionable. Molded lines suggest accents of glamour. Rhinestone buttons are sewed in a row halfway down the skirt at one side, and a rhinestone clip is at the neck.

Long sleeves are tightly fitted, except for a gathered insert from the shoulder to the elbow in a soft draped effect. A train adds stately grace and is especially charming for a gown worn at tea or for informal dining. Two or three wide bracelets, generously set with rhinestones, are worn. The silhouette of this gown is dramatic with a graciousness especially appropriate to a charming hostess.

You might as well give in, even if there is snow in your own front yard, for fashion says it is time to think of spring, and unless you shut your eyes tightly little else save spring models will greet your eyes these days. Light furs are leading the way in the animal parade for spring. There is one, called blonde fur, which is shown on a smart spring coat and the collar is detachable.

Coats are going to extremes, beginning with the mannishly tailored plaid one and graduating with very little elementary work into pastel toned luxuriously fur-trimmed models. If you know what porcelain blue is, choose a slightly darker tone for spring. Brown and beige, after black and white, seem to be the hold-on combinations in fashion history. Neck lines are buttoning away over to the shoulder.

There is a lot of loveliness to be seen in the evenings. This is because of the new feeling for real, honest-to-goodness fashion, in the old sense of the word—fashion that means luxuriousness and richness. To create an impression of glamour in the evening this winter it takes a gown of one of the many new velvets, the slippery crushed satins, the velvety crepes or, best of all, the new lames.

These are quite different from the old harsh lames we used to know—the kind that glittered like radiator paint. The new ones are colored—pink, gray, red and blue—but they are soft and supple. They gleam, rather than glisten, and this is because of the way they are woven. Some of them are nothing but fine crinkled crepes in delicious colors with thin threads of gold running through them. Many of the loveliest are moires, threaded with thin metal strands. These have a slippery sheen, and these lame fabrics are not terribly expensive, strange to say.

Some of the newest evening necklines are paradoxical surprises, primly high in front and swooping away down in back. Evening gowns have extremely plain lines in floor length, and quality does the rest. Mirror clasps and sparkling accessories are used for trimmings.

Fashions build up on themselves every year. In the fall, one good idea becomes the basis for another, until at just about this season of the year a climax of development is reached. This season it rests with honor in all but one respect.

We should like somebody to tell us what has happened to hats. One shopping tour should be enough to convince any optimist that, to say the least, millinery is not what it used to be. One thing is certain, it cannot make up its mind about where it wants to go. Some hats are full and high of crown, but there are just as many of the pancake variety. Some tilt forward, some slide backwards, some are rakish and some are demure. This all may sound merely like a charming variety, but hats are going through another transition stage, trying to make the leap from down-in-front to down-in-back, and the process is painful. Presently things will adjust themselves and settle down again, but the interim is hard on the woman who needs a new hat now to go with an already full-fledged winter wardrobe.

Pleasant things are being done in the shoe field. Gold and silver pumps and basket weave pumps are some of the current hits. The strap sandal is studded all over with vari-colored mirror spangles. These are of the strike-them-between-the-eyes class. Shoe craft makes another suede-and-patent combination. This slim sandal is for those moments toward the end of the day when you put on your cocktail clothes. For the formal, we have the pumps or sandals of lame trimmed with silver or gold kid. For daytime, a high-cut single eyelet oxford is tied on with grosgrain ribbon. Another walking shoe has a built-up heel and is also high in cut and sturdy in effect.

WOMEN OF THE GOLD DAYS

Heroic women of the wilful days
Who stormed the seas with runaways
Or crossed the unknown plains with silent lips
And climbed the steeps with burdened hips,
You, with great patience and a flame of love,
Built homes on earth and faith above.
The elements of God—the nuggets true
Were treasures found in hearts of you.

Monograms are sprouting on everything a woman wears. The idea has struck the craze fad, and belongs to the younger generation. Some are done with tiny jeweled letters. A monogram is outlined in seed stitches, replacing the usual back-of-the-hand stitching for dressy gloves.

GRIZZLY GROWLS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

QUOTING FROM PRESIDENT FRANKlin D. Roosevelt's message to the Seventy-third Congress in joint session January 3: "Without regard to party, the overwhelming majority of our people seek a greater opportunity for humanity to prosper and find happiness. They recognize that human welfare has not increased and does not increase through mere materialism and luxury, but that it does progress through integrity, unselfishness, responsibility and justice.

"We have made great strides toward the objectives of the National Industrial Recovery Act, for not only have several millions of our unemployed been restored to work, but industry is organizing itself with a greater understanding that reasonable profits can be earned while at the same time protection can be assured to guarantee to labor adequate pay and proper conditions of work.

"I continue in my conviction that industrial progress and prosperity can only be attained by bringing the purchasing power of that portion of our population which in one form or another is dependent upon agriculture up to a level which will restore a proper balance between every section of the country and every form of work.

"Returning to home problems, we have been shocked by many notorious examples of injuries done our citizens by persons or groups who have been living off their neighbors by the use of methods either unethical or criminal. In the first category—a field which does not involve violations of the letter of our laws—practices have been brought to light which have shocked those who believed that we were in the past generation raising the ethical standards of business. They call for stringent preventive or regulatory measures.

"I am speaking of those individuals who have evaded the spirit and purpose of our tax laws, of those high officials of banks or corporations who have grown rich at the expense of their stockholders or the public, of those reckless speculators with their own or other people's money whose operations have injured the values of the farmers' crops and the savings of the poor. In the other category, crimes of organized banditry, cold-blooded shooting, lynching and kidnaping have threatened our security. These violations of ethics and these violations of law call on the strong arm of government for their immediate suppression; they call also on the country for an aroused public opinion.

"Disorder is not an American habit. Self-help and self-control are the essence of the American tradition—not of necessity the form of that tradition, but its spirit. The program itself comes from the American people. It is an integrated program, national in scope. Viewed in the large, it is designed to save from destruction and to keep for the future the genuinely important values created by modern society. The vicious and wasteful parts of that society we could not save if we wished; they have chosen the way of self-destruction.

"We have plowed the furrow and planted the good seed; the hard beginning is over. If we would reap the full harvest we must cultivate the soil where this good seed is sprouting and the plant is reaching up to mature growth."

The United States Supreme Court January 8, in a case involving the California Alien Land Law, reversed the judgment of the California courts. The action originated in San Diego County, where George Morrison, eligible to citizenship, and H. Doi, ineligible to citizenship, were convicted of conspiracy to violate the land law. The higher court did not, as has been claimed, invalidate any section of the land law; at least, that is our conclusion, after a study of the complete findings, which are most interesting. Quoting from the decision:

"Morrison and Doi are charged to have conspired, but Doi alone is charged to be ineligible to citizenship. . . . The California courts, however, have cast the same burden upon both; and both have been convicted. . . . It is impossible in the nature of things for a man to conspire with himself." As to the citizenship provision of the land law:

"This court in . . . a controversy as to the validity of Section 9b of the California Land Law, which . . . provides in substance that when it has been proved that the defendant has been in the use or occupation of real property and when it has also been proved that he is a member of a race ineligible for citizenship under the naturalization laws of the United States, the defendant shall have the burden of proving citizenship as a defense. We sustained that enactment when challenged as invalid under the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution. The State had given evidence with reference to the defendant, the occupation of the land, that by reason of his race he was ineligible to be made a citizen. . . . The ruling was not novel. . . . We approved the ruling of the Supreme Court of California (Peo v. Osaki) that Section 9b of the Alien Land Law casting upon a Japanese defendant the burden of proving citizenship after proof of his race had been given by the State was not an impairment of his immunities under the Federal Constitution.

"Possession of agricultural land by one not shown to be ineligible for citizenship is an act that carries with it not even a hint of criminality. To prove such possession without more is to take hardly a step forward in support of an indictment. . . . In the law of California there is no general prohibition of the use of agricultural lands by aliens, with special or limited provisos or exceptions. To the contrary, it is the privilege that is general, and only the prohibition that is limited and special. Without preliminary proof of race, occupation of the land is not even a suspicious circumstance. . . . The statute does not make it a crime to put a lessee into possession without knowledge or inquiry as to race and place of birth. The statute makes it a crime to put an ineligible lessee into possession as the result of a wilful conspiracy to violate the law. . . . We have pointed out before that a lease of agricultural land, unaccompanied by evidence of the race of the lessee, conveys no hint of criminality."

From the findings of the higher court, it appears, therefore, that the reversal resulted from a faulty indictment and error on the part of the California prosecuting authorities, and not because of any defect in the California Alien Land Law. They failed to produce necessary proof that Doi is of a race ineligible to citizenship, or that Morrison had knowledge of the disqualifications of his tenant.

Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California has before the Federal Congress a bill which should be enacted into law and then rigidly enforced: to prohibit financial transactions with foreign debt defaulters.

Where there is smoke, there usually is fire! The public press is overloaded with accounts of CWA abuses, indicating the political racketeers have invaded that field, also, and are profiting at the expense of the needy and distressed—a monstrous crime which should be combated with equivalent punishment. Charges of stupendous waste and outright graft are openly made. The sincere efforts of the national administration to relieve distress are nullified by such criminal and unpatriotic practices, and those guilty of them, being traitors of the worst type, should be speedily dealt with.

Again we say, there can be no general and lasting improvement in conditions in this country until dishonesty, in and out of government, is thoroughly and permanently eliminated. The sooner this fact is recognized by the powers-that-be, and the forces at their command are directed accordingly, the sooner—and not until then—will this nation re-gain its place in the sun.

The colossal crimes—originating in and out of government—against the masses that are being daily exposed, arouse the belief that the only hope for the preservation of the life of this nation is application of the Russian remedy—certain death for those unfaithful to their trusts.

The commander-in-chief of the Japanese navy is reported to have said: "If America had no such big navy, how much happier the world would be." What he meant was, had America no big navy Japan would be much happier, for the main obstacle in its invasion-path would not exist. Any way, the United States Navy, thank God, is to be enlarged and strengthened.

The United States attorney in San Francisco has sustained the discharge of Filipinos from CWA projects in the northern part of the state. How about the Mexis in the southern section? They, too, are mostly not citizens, and their services should be dispensed with and employment given to American citizens in their stead.

Despite the retrenchment and economy propaganda being dished out from Sacramento for political purposes, the California State Government is budgeted to spend some $59,000,000 more during the present (1933-35) biennium than was expended during the preceding (1931-33) biennium. "Fixed charges" are advanced as an excuse. The tax-bearers should put a stop to this spending orgy, for the tax-spenders will not, although the deficit in the state general fund mounts higher and higher, day by day.

Justice, as administered in Los Angeles County: December 28, a Superior Court judge—a former state legislator—gave a woman convicted of stealing $27,100 from her employer probation, and sent to prison a man convicted of stealing $1 from a pay telephone. Probation was granted the "big thief," who had been stealing for eight years and spending the money for luxuries, despite the recommendation of the probation officer that probation be denied in her case!

Little wonder faith in justice is fast diminishing, and respect for law and law-enforcement agencies is at a dangerously low ebb. The rec-

KNIGHT OF THE WEST

That was the day of the pick and the pan
Burro, a knife and a gun.
Eyes that knew desert, dry sage brush and hills,
Toughened by wind and the sun.

Faith in his pal, in his jack and himself,
Restless twelve months of the year,
Tramping the hills for new diggings of gold
Knight of the West, without fear.

Time never writes the romance of the hills
Destiny never explains,—
Only some scars on the old Mother Lode
Lure of bonanza remains.

CALIFORNIA FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

FEBRUARY 1884 WAS A STORM-RIDDEN month in California. Those who, in January, had prayed for rain to avert the affliction of a dry year, were said, by the ungodly, to have overdone the job. The storm beginning the 1st was termed by the weather observer not "unusual," but a "wrong presentation." During its prevalence the wind blew from the northwest. All well-regulated storms were preceded by a wind from the southeast and followed by one from the northwest. In succession, six storms came. Except on the 11th and the 12th, when a north gale blew and the temperature went down to 30 degrees below zero at Truckee, Nevada County, and to 21 degrees above in the valleys, there was no sunshine until the 21st.

While about five inches of rain fell in California North, twice as much dropped in California South. In the vicinity of Los Angeles City, five inches of rain fell in two days. The Los Angeles River overflowed its banks, swept away all bridges and more than fifty buildings, and made several hundred people homeless. The Southern Pacific was so extensively washed out in Soledad Canyon more than a month was required to repair the tracks. For the first time in twenty-two years, the Mojave River had a current, and the flood hight reached ten feet.

Snow fell and drifted in the Sierra so extensively the Central Pacific had to run snowplows pushed by ten locomotives. Snow sheds were caved in by slides, and hundreds of shovellers were sent into the mountains from the valleys to clear the tracks. The rainfall at Sacramento for the month was 4.46 inches, making the season's total 10.81 inches. All fears of a dry year were dispelled.

Washington's birthday, February 22, was fittingly observed throughout the state, and flags were everywhere displayed.

A meteor fell on the Rancho Rodeo las Aguas in Los Angeles County February 1, ploughed a long trench in the ground, and exploded.

A twenty-six-hour bicycle race in San Francisco, February 23, was won by John Higham, who made 286 miles and a world record.

Haggin & Carr were arranging to bring a hundred Negro cotton raisers from Texas to handle the cotton crop they intended to grow in Kern County.

Santa Rosa, having been made the permanent government seat of Sonoma County, was experiencing a boom. Forty new houses were in course of erection there.

John Shirley of Australia came to Los Angeles looking for camels. He was sent to Arizona to purchase the herd the Federal Government once used to transport supplies across the desert.

On General John Bidwell's rancho at Chico, Butte County, were flourishing 18,175 fruit trees, 63,000 grape vines and eight acres of blackberry vines.

A portion of a redwood log was found 400 feet below the earth's surface in a tunnel at Ferndale, Humboldt County.

Near Benicia, Solano County, the tusk of a mastodon was dug out of the ground at a depth of eight feet.

Land around Lancaster, Los Angeles County, was being colonized by immigrants from the East, and the county was to receive a colony of vegetarians from Germany.

By train this month, twenty-two families arrived for settlement in Shasta County, and thirteen families for settlement in San Luis Obispo County.

M. Kaltenbach, a rancher plowing a field near Grass Valley, Nevada County, uncovered a rich gold quartz ledge.

An oil well flowing 600 barrels of black gold daily was developed within the city limits of Los Angeles.

A five-pound gold nugget was found at the Bald Mountain mine in Sierra County.

Another rich strike was made in the Mammoth mine at Middle Bar, Amador County. Inside the tunnel 150 feet, a vein of black silica was cut that assayed $10,000 a ton, and a gold nugget sixteen inches long and eight inches in circumference was dug out.

The value of precious metals obtained in Nevada County in 1883 was reported this month: gold, $3,200,000; silver, $10,000.

Young women of Marysville, Yuba County, presented Marysville Parlor No. 6 N.S.G.W. with a banner costing $130.

The ferryboat "Sausalito" burned at the San Quentin, Marin County, wharf February 24; loss, $250,000.

The dry goods store of J. O'Brien in Santa Clara City burned February 7; $20,000 loss. A fire on "L" street, Sacramento City, February 27 destroyed five buildings; $10,000 loss.

The Enterprise mill and lumber yard on Spear street, San Francisco, burned February 5, causing a $200,000 loss. February 2 the plant of the Spofford Packing Co. on Clay street burned; a Chinaman was cremated, and the property loss was $50,000.

John Collins was hung in the Nevada City, Nevada County, jail yard during a rainstorm February 1. In 1879 he killed a banker named Cummings in a holdup.

The stage from Sonora, Tuolumne County, to Milton had the unique experience February 26 of being twice held up. The first time near Copperopolis, when the road agent took the express box, and the second time near Milton, when the highwayman got nothing.

Los Angeles City passed an ordinance making it a misdemeanor to throw orange peel upon the sidewalk.

Mrs. Sylvia Merrill died February 3 at Sacramento City. She arrived there in 1849 and built a log cabin on "K" street. Afterward she built a hotel upon the site and for a generation was its landlady.

John T. Roberts, who arrived in Grass Valley, Nevada County, in 1850, died there February 6. He was the captain of the first steamboat that went up the Missouri River from Saint Louis in 1819.

Mrs. Mary Brown, widow of "whose-soul-goes-marching-on" John Brown, died February 29 at the home of a daughter in Santa Clara City.

At Jesus Maria, an old Calaveras County mining camp, while sluicing the ground upon which stood a dance house in pioneer days, Paul Laucelle and John Platt washed out thirteen human skeletons. One skull had a bullet hole through it. Some thought the site was an old-time cemetery, while others believed the finds were relics of crimes.

A Digger Indian chief from Big Meadows drove through the streets of Chico, Butte County, a buckboard drawn by a span of bucks. Their large spread of antlers held the reins, and they carried a harness made of buckskin. This chief possessed five squaws, a herd of cattle and several ponies. He had captured the bucks when fawns and tamed them.

A new minister from the East preached his

Homeless Children

A WORTHWHILE NON-SECTARIAN ENDEAVOR SPONSORED AND SUPPORTED BY THE ORDERS OF NATIVE SONS AND NATIVE DAUGHTERS OF THE GOLDEN WEST

A LONG WAY UP IN THE VALLEY OF Carmel, Monterey County, is an attractive little home called "Solacita Courte." There lives Mrs. Mathilda Fry, a member of Aleli Parlor No. 102 N.D.G.W. Mrs. Fry is not able to attend every meeting of her Parlor in Salinas, twenty miles away, but her heart is there, and there is a sincere interest in every activity of the Order. She believes in the old adage: "Where there's a Will to help, there's a Way," and also, where there's a Well, there's a Wish. Into this Wishing-Well of hers the pennies are dropped by those who stop and gaze down at their reflections and wish. Some there are who visit the well who believe that their wishes will come true, and some who "ha' their doubts," but everyone knows that whether his wish comes true or not, his pennies will go to aid the Native Sons and Native Daughters in their work for the Homeless Children.

After her Parlor had reported Mrs. Fry's unique way of making money for the children's cause, Mrs. Fry wrote very interestingly of her Well and told of a little girl named Sallie to whom she had given a penny for a wish, and a second penny when Sallie came again, and of Sallie's answer to her question: "Did the wish you made last time you were here come true?" "Yes, it did," and Sallie hung her "diminished head" and hesitatingly went on: "I wished that I wouldn't have to go to school and I was sick in bed for four days."

Last summer a group of children from four to twelve years of age who were out on a birthday-party-treasure-hunt, lined up beside the Well to await their turns to wish. One was reminded of a child's first introduction to Santa Claus and his request for toys. There was the same intensity of emotion as some of them closed their eyes in an agony of effort to concentrate and decide which, of the many things they wanted most to have come true, to wish for.

Mrs. Blanch Taix of San Juan Bautista Parlor No. 179 N.D.G.W. also has a Wishing Well from which she takes the money to help increase her Parlor's contribution for the children.

Mrs. Louise Hutton, another member of Aleli Parlor, lives in the mountain section called "Calera Canyon," and annually gives a card party at her home, netting a generous sum for the work. This giving a card party is not so simple for Mrs. Hutton as one might think, as it necessitates the hauling of tables and chairs from Salinas, and the lamps must be rubbed up and filled with oil. Mrs. Hutton donates the numerous prizes, and serves a spanish supper which is well worth the price of admission every one who attends fully agrees.

In Hollister, a Spanish foster-mother was worrying over "Joey's" Christmas. His foster-father had been killed by an automobile and she feared that her boy "Joey" was going to be forgotten. One word of the state of affairs to Past Grand President Bertha A. Briggs, and she and twenty memebrs of Copa de Oro No. 105 N.D.G.W. played Santa Claus in earnest. They loaded the back of a car with groceries of all kinds, fruits, nuts, meat, poultry, rabbit, eggs, handkerchiefs, new shoes and toys, and in addition the splendid Good Will Club of young boys and girls filled a large box with toys and clothes, and on Christmas morning some of them called for "Joey" to take him to the Elk's Christmas tree and theater party and home again.

Doesn't it warm the innermost cockles of your hearts as your lips frame the words: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these ye have done it unto me"?

GONE BEYOND

ROBERT MULLINS FITZGERALD, PAST Grand President of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, passed away January 3 at his Oakland home, survived by his wife, Mrs. Laura Crellin-Fitzgerald, and three children, Mrs. William Ballard, Crellin Fitzgerald and Miss Kathleen Fitzgerald. He was born at San Francisco, January 7, 1858, and was affiliated with Oakland Parlor No. 50.

The boyhood of Past Grand Fitzgerald was spent in Sonoma County. He graduated from the University of California in 1883, and later began the practice of law in Oakland. He was prominent in the civic, professional and political affairs of Alameda County and the San Francisco Bay district, and in 1915-16 served as president of the California State Bar Association. At his obsequies, a touching eulogy was delivered by Rev. Charles A. Ramm, who attended the University of California with the deceased.

Past Grand Fitzgerald's first Grand Parlor, as a delegate from Oakland Parlor, was the Eighth (San Jose 1885) Session. At the Eleventh (Fresno 1888) Grand Parlor he was elected Grand Orator, and he was elevated to the Grand Presidency at the Fourteenth (Santa Rosa 1891) Session.

OLD ERA IS PAST---NEW EPOCH LIES AHEAD

Rev. Louis Schoen, O.F.M.
(SANTA BARBARA PARLOR N.S.G.W.)

"THERE IS DEEP WISDOM AND PSYchology in the maxim of the scholastic philosophers--nihil in intellecti, nisi prius in sensu—we have no knowledge except it come to us through our senses. For truly we are creatures made up of body and soul. We do not merely think and will, analyze and resolve in the abstract as though we were in a dark room or the frozen regions of the north pole, but we also feel and react, grow warm or cold, become enthusiastic or apathetic, as the world about us rushes in upon the citadel of our intellect and the fortress of our will with its ever changing and new impressions.

"Even though we be men or women who have outgrown the simplicity and spirit of childhood with its ecstasy of delight at the brightness, the beauty, the color of the toy that had been given to us; even though the knocks and disappointments of life have worn us down and made us sober, efficient and real—or better—hard, cold and calculating—still: 'Who is there with soul so dead who never to himself hath said—Excelsior'? Who has not been touched, thrilled and elevated by something or other as he rounded a turn on his way through life? Perhaps it was a flower, the bright eyes of a child, a courageous book, the beauty of a face or voice, the charm of a landscape, a sunrise or sunset—perhaps a kindly word or deed given or received—and the hard shell of encrusted reserve, of restraint, of bitterness fell away and the sweet kernel of joy, warmth and enthusiasm lay temptingly in our outstretched hand.

"Such a time installation may be. It is the springtime of the revolving cycle of a fraternal year, when new hopes are sown; a brighter sun is shining and the air about us is filled with the tang of the fresh earth of new resolves and plans and expectations. May I, then, add to the sheaf of well wishes of the newly elected officers of the Native Sons and Native Daughters the white heather of good fortune and palm leaf of victory as they turn their face and set their foot upon the path that leads into the brighter daylight of tomorrow. Incidentally, an installation, in the words of the realist, also means a New Deal. A new shuffling of the cards. And always there is in each of us the eager expectation, the brightness of the eye, that secret hope, that mystic something, that tells us that the New Deal will bring to us a greater measure of luck and success than we have enjoyed in the past.

"However, all have experienced in the larger game that we call life, that generally the New Deal was the same, if not worse, than the old deal. That, after all, it was not in the cards, the material things in our hands, in which the New Deal consisted, but that it was in ourselves —our attitude, our mental outlook, our snug complacency that influenced our playing of the game and brought about that thoughtlessness and rashness with which we overbid our hand. The cards were fair, but we were the cause of our discontent and failure.

"We might sum up the history of the world, the life of the individual as well as the course of nations, as a constant seeking for the New Deal in which each one, in his respective sphere, is looking for peace, for success, for happiness, and after they have failed to find the pot of gold at the end of the trail, because they were on a false quest and were following an elusive will-of-the-wisp in searching for peace, happiness and success in money or honors or aggrandizement or physical well-being only, they became discouraged and disgusted with the old deal and demanded and hoped for a New Deal.

"The New Deal in every age and nation has come only to and through the individual who has been keen enough—immaterial enough—spiritual enough—to sense and realize that the visible things about him, the physical comforts surrounding him that wealth and position and honors bring, are after all mute things, devoid of life and satisfaction unless they are correctly appraised, used and disposed by a mental attitude, a spiritual power of evaluation that looks higher and heavenwards and makes them means to an end but not an end in themselves.

"There have been outstanding new deals in the history of mankind. There is first of all that everlasting new deal when on the plains of Bethlehem the God-man descended from the realms of heaven to show a world, spiritually bankrupt and sunk in the hopeless despair of misery, slavery, materialism and idolatry, the way back to true happiness and teach them that the real touchstone to happiness lay in the perfect and spiritual interpretation and execution of His words: Blessed are the poor in spirit; for theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven. Blessed are the meek; for they shall possess the land. Blessed are they that mourn; for they shall be comforted. Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after justice; for they shall have their fill. Blessed are the merciful; for they shall obtain mercy. Blessed are the clean of heart; for they shall see God. Blessed are the peace makers; for they shall be called the children of God. Blessed are they that suffer persecution for justice sake; for theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven.

"Another such a new deal took place in the thirteenth century. Whatever may be our judgment of the beneficent place of the Holy Roman Empire in the history of Europe, whatever may be our judgment of the value of the feudal system and its necessity in the Middle Ages, in the time of St. Francis of Assisi, political conditions led to endless evils. The empire was in conflict with the church, in strife with the feudal lords. In the feudal system men were always unsettled, for they lived ever on their arms, every ready for war, and war is always hell. Owing to the crusades the towns of Italy had developed rapidly through the twelfth century and the burgher class became very powerful. The emperor sought their help against the barons, the barons against the emperor. The burgher in his new found greatness asserted himself in religion as well as politics and commerce, and the clergy of the towns showed little power in asserting the rights of the church, little power in dominating the town folk by the high ideals of Christian life and service; then, too, with the great and new wealth came luxury, and with luxury the moral sense ran low. The common people, oppressed by their masters, sought refuge in the cities and towns, where there was work, where there was wealth—and the old, old deal of poverty, disease, crime, unhappiness and despair was repeated.

"Then came Francis, the seer, who wanted a new deal; the mystic who reasoned not to his purpose as the philosopher would, but saw and followed. He saw the Christ poor, humble, loving the weak and outcast, suffering, conquering. He saw the men and women around him rich, proud, despising the poor, comfort seeking, failures. Christ and his apostles had triumphed and he, following their footsteps, pushed forward with a literalness that made even good men of his time despise and deride him. And this wonderful confidence in himself, his cause, his God, made him the teacher and idol of the people.

"Thus it was that Francis, clad in peasant garb and cowl, stepped into the complex drama of the thirteenth century with its wealth on the one hand and its poverty on the other, its feudal system of endless strife, its free living and licentiousness, and almost single-handed—as an all consuming fire that purges and cleanses and brightens—brought about a new deal, a change, a renaissance, a reconstruction in the religious, social and political order, that even today, after seven hundred years, is a potent and vital factor motivating the hearts of men.

"Time moves on. It is the year 1713. In the island of Majorca a peasant youth is born. In later days his statue will stand in the Hall of Fame at Washington, D. C., and he will be called the Father of Christianity and Civilization in California. He is the intrepid Friar, the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of whose death at Carmelo-by-the-Sea we celebrate this year — Fra Junipero Serra. Highly gifted and brilliant, noted as one of the most eloquent pulpit orators of Europe, great honors awaited him in Spain. But he wanted a new deal. To Mexico City he came. Again he met with disappointment and illusion. He found the old deal—wealth and luxury, and in consequence thereof apathy, coldness, indifference to things of the spirit. He asked for a new deal and was sent to the inhospitable districts of the Sierra Gorda and there labored until he made his mission the model of the country. Then came to him the vision of Alta California. With him came the new deal to California. For the most part little better than a barren, mountain studded, desert stretch, inhabited by a race of low mentality, indolent, lazy and satisfied with their acorns and native fish, the land under his guiding hand blossomed forth by means of irrigation and agriculture into a veritable paradise of orange and olive and lemon and lime, and in the midst of a cultivated profusion of shrub and flower there arose twenty-one stately missions which even today in their ruins speak eloquent tribute to the engineering and architectural skill of those that built them, and around the missions arose fields of grain and a cattle industry and a life and commerce that brought ships and trade from foreign shores. All this was accomplished in a comparatively short time by a lowly people awakened and quickened and made happy by the benefits of civilization and the blessings of Christianity that a courageous leader brought to them in his conviction and quest for a new deal.

"Today we are in the throes of a new deal. The age old story is being consummated before our very eyes; in fact we are, individually and socially, in its vortex whether we realize it or not. 'The older order changeth, giving place to the new.' The temples of the money changers have given no inspiration or happiness and have crumbled; the golden calf of money monopoly has toppled to the ground; the nightmare that mere material prosperity, money, machinery, efficiency mass production, physical convenience and luxury can bring us peace, security and happiness has been dispelled by the glaring daylight of poverty and misery and distrust and despair.

"Thank God, at the helm of our ship of state stands a pilot who—in spite of the rough seas of a national material readjustment and in spite of the squalls of the reactionary minded—has courage, undaunted, clear vision, unwavering faith and the firm conviction that the New Deal essentially lies not in the material things about us, but in the spiritual consciousness within us —in personal honesty, courage, knowledge, faith and vision.

"Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, in these times of transition when old organizations are failing or readjusting themselves to meet the exigencies of the present and building for the future, what is your attitude, your position? What part have you to play in the New Deal in California? Your great 'object' has been and is to perpetuate in the minds of all native Californians the memories of the 'days of '49' and to encourage a lively interest in all matters and measures relating to the upbuilding of the State of California. It is not for me to tell you how well you have succeeded. However, my friends, there is a difference between the California of today and yesterday. In the days following the gold rush, when men and women of every age and clime and race rushed in upon the New El Dorado, there was real danger that the native spirit and traditions would be submerged in the torrents of a new humanity that rolled down our eastern mountain slope and in the great swells of transients and adventurers that the waves of the Pacific piled up upon our shores.

"You were then the bulwark that shielded and protected the treasury, that sheltered and saved, the torch that kindled and lighted and kept alive the memories and sacred traditions of our Pioneers. Today, however, when the rush of immigration has abated, and there has grown up a generation indigenous to the soil in whose minds and hearts glow a genuine knowledge, and hence a warm appreciation and a deep love of the glorious heritage that is ours; when fiestas and pageants and poetry and novel and song herald and proclaim with singular warmth and charm the beauty and unique story that is ours; when adopted sons of this great State have become so entranced and carried away by the reality and vividness of those traditions that they

"EDITOR GRIZZLY BEAR: IT IS hard to realize that eight and one-half months have passed since we met in our last Grand Parlor session at Grass Valley. But three and one-half months stand between the Order and the next Grand Parlor, which will be held at Ukiah in May, 1934. WE YET HAVE AMPLE TIME TO AUGMENT OUR MEMBERSHIP. It will be an encouraging sign to the incoming Grand President, Chas. A. Koenig, and the others in line of promotion, if the next report will show that every Parlor in the state has held at least one initiatory ceremony. INCREASED MEMBERSHIP IS THE ONE SURE SIGN OF A PARLOR'S PROGRESS AND INFLUENCE in the community in which it exists. Many persons who could be brought into the Order have never been solicited to join. Two outstanding instances which occurred in different sections of the state have come to my personal notice within the past three months. One was a Congressman and the other was a Judge of the Superior Court of this state. Each, when called upon for a few words after initiation, openly stated that he had never before been invited to join our Order.

"I am of the view that our members too often hesitate through diffidence to solicit men prominent in civic, business and professional occupations in the belief that these men know their own minds, and if they desire to join will voluntarily take the step without solicitation. This is a mistake. NO MAN IN CALIFORNIA IS BIGGER THAN OUR ORDER. THERE IS NOT A MAN WHO WOULD NOT BE HELPED BY MEMBERSHIP IN OUR ORDER. Personal solicitation is the means by which they would, more often than not, be brought into the Order. Every eligible in the state should be personally invited to join. Personal contact assures them that the Order has taken an especial interest in them, and that fact makes them, in turn, friendly to the Order. It is the most successful plan of increasing membership that can be employed.

"Whatever increase that may be had from January 1, 1934, will go to the credit of our next Grand President, Chas. A. Koenig. Let us start him right by beginning now. First Vice-president Koenig has given six years of earnest, efficient official service to the Order. With the enthusiastic support of the Order behind him during his seventh and most important year of continuous service, he will go far in bringing our membership up to a deserved high numerical mark. Brother Koenig has the personnel, industry and administrative ability to give the Order a glorious administration. Let us begin now to help him. I believe that our Order faces a new and bright future. Fraternally yours,

"EMMET SEAWELL,
"Grand President N.S.G.W.
"San Francisco, January 18, 1934."

No applications, no new members to fill the ranks. And California needs more Native Sons! Today's responsibility of every member of the Order is to contact eligibles. Don't leave this important duty for "George" to perform.

GRAND PRESIDENT SEAWELL MEMBERSHIP PRIZEWINNERS.

Parlors initiating the largest number of members July 1 to December 31, 1933: EDEN No. 113, Hayward, first; membership July 1, 108; members initiated, 49. EXCELSIOR No. 31, Jackson, second; membership July 1, 114; members initiated, 32.

Parlors initiating the largest percentage of members July 1 to December 31, 1933: UNIVERSITY No. 272, Los Angeles, first; membership July 1, 68; members initiated, 29, 42½ percent. WASHINGTON No. 169, Centerville, second; membership July 1, 52; members initiated, 20, 38½ percent.

Fiftieth Anniversary.

Sacramento—Sunset No. 26 celebrated January 22 its fiftieth (golden) institution anniversary. Honored guests were the two surviving charter members, Presley B. Johnson and Jo H. Terry, who were presented with life certificates by William H. Devlin. The Parlor was instituted January 24, 1884, with thirty-one charter members.

Speakers of the evening, and their subjects, were: "Our Order," Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell; "California and the Spanish Archives," Rolland A. Vandegrift, state finance director; "California's Romantic History," Junior Past Grand President Seth Millington; "The Grand Parlor," Grand Trustee Jesse H. Miller; "Coloma and Sutter's Fort," Grand Trustee Henry S. Lyon; "Sunset Parlor in Retrospect," Past President Fred J. Johns; "Sunset Parlor in Prospect," President George E. Foote. The entertainment program included musical numbers arranged and directed by R. R. Gillette, and dedicated to the Pioneers and various members of Sunset.

The committee of arrangements included Assemblyman Percy G. West (chairman), James F. Clausen, Fred Boitano, E. A. Kuechler, Dr. June B. Harris, A. J. Nicoletti, President George E. Foote, L. W. Marvin, Arch D. McKinley and Howard E. Reese. Decorations for the occasion were arranged by Sophie Monteverde, Maude Young, Grace Schaden, Julia Noonan, Maude Cooke, Elsie O'Brien, Edna Briggs, Genevieve Didion, Nettie Harry, Hazel Leitch and Bessie Leitch, affiliated with the several Sacramento Native Daughters Parlors.

Father Coats Delighted.

Redwood City—Redwood No. 66 initiated December 29 Woodrow Wilson Coats, son of Thomas J. Coats, who came pretty near being a charter member of the Parlor, which was instituted August 15, 1885. Tom affiliated November 20, but would have been on hand institution night only it rained so terrificly he could not get over the mountains.

Three Coats brothers, sons of Tom, officiated at the initiation of Woodrow—Seneca R. Coats, president, Ransel Coats, first vice-president, and Past President Eroid Coats, acting senior past. Tom sat on the side lines, delighted with the addition of a fourth son to the ranks of Redwood. "This might be a hint," says Recording Secretary A. S. Liguori, "to other Native Sons who may have a few sons not members of the Order."

Grand Trustee's Itinerary.

Santa Monica—Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer will, on the dates noted, officially visit the following Subordinate Parlors in his district:

Seawell, charter member of No. 28, and it is hoped to have a class initiation, with candidates from all the Sonoma County Parlors. To raise funds for the birthday party a costume dance and high jinks will be held February 21.

Large delegations from the Parlor accompanied District Deputy Wesley Beach to Sonoma January 15, when he installed the officers of Sonoma No. 111, and to Sebastopol January 19, when he installed the officers of Sebastopol No. 143. Grand First Vice-president Chas. A. Koenig was also at Sebastopol, making his official visit. Several members of No. 28 plan to visit Glen Ellen No. 102 February 12, when Grand Trustee Edward Schnarr will pay an official visit.

No applications, no new members to fill the ranks. And California needs more Native Sons! Today's responsibility of every member of the Order is to contact eligibles. Don't leave this important duty for "George" to perform.

Son Installs Father as President.

Placerville—On the birthday anniversary of Benjamin Franklin, January 17, officers of Placerville No. 9 and Marguerite No. 12 N.D.G.W. were installed at joint ceremonies. Chris Orelli officiated for No. 9, and installed his father, A. J. Orelli, as president, and the latter had the pleasure of presenting, on the Parlor's behalf, his son with a past president emblem. William Wilkinson began his thirty-ninth year as trustee.

Deputy Nettie Leonardi installed the officers of Marguerite, Eva Shuman becoming president. Dora Woods and Ethel Van Vleck presented to the Parlor a California State (Bear) Flag. Among the many in attendance were Grand Trustee Henry Lyon and Supervising Deputy Beatrice Luse. Delicious refreshments were served. Placerville had its annual New Year dance December 30; George Fausel, Joe Leonardi and A. J. Orelli composed the committee in charge.

Hall Associations Elect.

Sacramento—At the annual stockholders meeting of the Native Sons Hall Association of Sacramento, January 15, the following directors were chosen: John J. Monteverde, J. Frank Didion, Roy C. Cothrin, Charles A. Root, Henry Witpen, J. C. Boyd, Irving Gibson, L. P. Ferron, Hugh Bradford, Al Schaden and Percy G. West. For the twenty-sixth consecutive time, Monteverde was elected president, and West secretary.

Napa—At the annual meeting of the directors of the Native Sons Hall Association of Napa, January 10, these officers were elected: Chas. McKenzie, president; Fred Flake, vice-president; H. J. Hoernle, secretary; A. J. Frommelt, treasurer.

NEWS BRIEFS SUBORDINATE PARLORS.

Sacramento—President A. Nicolosi of Sacramento No. 3 was honor-guest at a banquet sponsored by the Parlor's drum corps January 18. Plans for participating in the Admission Day, September 9, celebration were discussed. Earl Taylor is manager of the corps.

Marysville—Marysville No. 6 received an official visit from Grand Trustee Henry S. Lyon. At the same time, Fred H. Greely Assembly No. 6 Past Presidents met and installed officers, H. L. Schmidt (Rocklin No. 233) becoming governor. Among those in attendance were Past Grands Fred H. Greely and Seth Millington.

No applications, no new members to fill the ranks. And California needs more Native Sons! Today's responsibility of every member of the Order is to contact eligibles. Don't leave this important duty for "George" to perform.

Oroville—Officers of Argonaut No. 8 and Gold of Ophir No. 190 N.D.G.W. were jointly installed January 3 by Deputies Cyril Macdonald and Frances Snider, Frank W. Boyle and Corrine Gregory becoming the respective presidents. A past president emblem was presented Hattie Clark. A bounteous supper, with Grand Trustee Florence D. Boyle as toastmistress, followed the ceremonies.

Arcata—With H. A. Sundquist as president, officers of Arcata No. 20 were installed January 11 by District Deputy Ralph Jacobsen. For the Humboldt County Central Committee, Chairman I. C. Fleckenstein reported a schedule for a horseshoe tournament, with Humboldt No. 14 (Eureka), Ferndale No. 93 and Arcata participating, had been arranged. Play will start early in February.

Petaluma—District Deputy Louis Boesch installed officers of Petaluma No. 27 January 9, when Charles Tagliaferri became president. A past president emblem was presented Walter Christiansen. A resolution to rid Sonoma County of Filipinos was adopted, and a committee composed of E. L. Mangin, C. F. Fobes and Aaron Wengen was appointed to co-operate with other organiations in that endeavor.

Saint Helena—Grand Trustee Edward Schnarr officially visited Saint Helena No. 53 January 15, when officers were installed by District Deputy Harry N. Bunce, with William Bulotti as president. In attendance were Charter Members George Herdle, Walter Metzner, Harry Prouty and Joseph Galewsky of Saint Helena, and Sheriff John P. Steckter of Napa.

Nevada City—Frank Thomas Nilon, affiliated with Hydraulic No. 56, died January 15, survived by a wife and two children. He was born here March 23, 1862, and was a former superior judge of Nevada County.

Grass Valley—Officers of Quartz No. 58, Hydraulic No. 56 (Nevada City), and Downieville No. 92 were jointly installed January 8 by District Deputy John R. Thomas. Two candidates were installed for Downieville, which was represented by a large delegation.

Napa—Officers of Napa No. 62 were installed by District Deputy Harry Bunce, Dr. Marvin McCormick becoming president. The Parlor, in conjunction with Saint Helena No. 53 and Calistoga No. 86, plans a dance at Silverado Bowl, near Calistoga, March 17.

Calistoga—Officers of Calistoga No. 86 and Calistoga No. 145 N.D.G.W. were jointly installed January 8 at public ceremonies which were largely attended. L. A. Saviez and Deputy Lillus Kelley officiated, and Lucien F. Saviez and Corina Falleri became the respective presidents. Dancing concluded the ceremonies, and refreshments were served.

Livermore—Many members and visitors were in attendance at the joint installation of officers of Las Positas No. 96 and Angelita No. 32 N.D.G.W. January 18. Deputies H. E. Uebner and Katherine Walde officiated, and Louis J. Volponi and Mrs. Walter Block became the respective presidents. A past president emblem was presented Dr. Donald M. Fraser, and a highly enjoyable entertainment program was featured.

No applications, no new members to fill the ranks. And California needs more Native Sons! Today's responsibility of every member of the Order is to contact eligibles. Don't leave this important duty for "George" to perform.

San Diego—San Diego No. 108 had its first meeting of 1934 January 17, when President John P. Murphy and the ritual team initiated a class of candidates. Deputy Grand President Albert V. Mayrhofer, program chairman, introduced as a speaker Phil Swing, former congressman and a member of the Parlor. Dr. Louis Strohlmann showed moving pictures taken during a trip through the Indian country of Arizona and New Mexico. Joseph Kelley, Joseph Tighe and Peter Raske provided a lobster supper.

HORSE SENSE.

A horse can't pull while kicking;
This fact I merely mention.
And he can't kick while pulling,
Which is my chief contention.
Let's imitate the good old horse,
And lead a life that's fitting;
Just pull an honest load, and then
There'll be no time for kicking.

—Exchange.

America's motor vehicle industry stepped out with vigorous strides under the impetus of improved business conditions during 1933, production of cars and trucks increasing 43 percent over 1932. The combined wholesale value of cars and trucks was $970,200,000.

SAN FRANCISCO

"THE BEAR FLAG WAR OF 1846 HAS been revived by two gallant Californians," remarked the "Sonoma Index-Tribune" of January 12, William Chipman and President Phil B. Bekeart of the California State Historical Association. The fireworks started when Chipman wrote a letter to a San Francisco newspaper, which had a story, "Crashing Fortune," that brought in the name of General Vallejo. Bekeart took him to task for some of his allusions in the following spicy sallies from a letter sent the paper:

"I note Mr. W. F. Chipman's remarks regarding the article by Anna Sommer on Gen. Vallejo. I beg to differ from Mr. Chipman when he says: The so-called Bear flag was raised by that irresponsible and unauthorized Bear flag party.'

" 'The so-called Bear flag!' I would like to have Mr. Chipman give his authority for any name other than the Bear flag, for the emblem of this heroic little band of Americans. The Bear flag is the state flag of California. I know of no other name for it.

" 'Irresponsible!' It is pertinent to the subject to state that this 'irresponsible' band did not loot Sonoma, nor commit any crimes or murders, as did the Californians when they surrounded two young 'Bears,' George Fowler and William Cowie, who were ready to fight it out with ten times their number. The Californians promised them protection if they would surrender their arms. On doing so they were immediately seized, tied to trees, tortured, brutally mutilated and murdered. Query: Who is the irresponsible party in this case?

"Nor did this 'irresponsible Bear flag party' disregard the rules of civilized warfare, as did Capt. Fremont when he instructed Kit Carson and two others of his U. S. engineers to shoot in cold blood two young Californians, Ramon and Francisca de Haro (twin sons of the former Alcalde of San Francisco) and also the boys' companion, an old man named Jose de los Reyes Berryesa, a rancher of Santa Clara. Bancroft called this Fremont episode a brutal murder. Query: Who were the 'irresponsible' parties in the Bear flag war?

" 'Unauthorized!' Mr. Chipman may know of men that are empowered to legally authorize a rebellion against the constituted authorities. I would be glad to have him state the names of the men who could have legally authorized Merritt, Ide Semple and the other twenty-nine brave and honored men who comprised the original Bear flag party to act or not to act as they did."

PIONEER SOCIETY GETS EARLY-DAY RELIC

A hand-forged, 100-link chain, sixty-six feet long, used in the first survey of San Francisco, in 1846, was added January 3 to The Society of California Pioneer's priceless collection of historic relics. It was used by Jasper O'Farrell, early-day surveyor for whom O'Farrell street was named, and was presented by a grandson, Jasper O'Farrell, on behalf of his aunt, Elena O'Farrell, daughter of the pioneer surveyor.

MONTEREY

(EVANGELINE CAREY.)

Rugged, jagged, rocky coast
Hiding coves of emerald green
Where the sands upon the beach
Are the whitest ever seen.

Evergreens on rocky cliffs
Standing there like sentinels
Looking out onto the sea
Listening for the buoy bell.

Waves with crested breakers white
Lapping in onto the shore
Frightening as they break at night
Like a cannon at your door.

Sunrise after foggy dawn
Glistening on the crested waves,
Sunset with its colors bright
At the end of perfect days.

Sea and sky and jagged cliffs
Evergreens and emerald bays,—
Wondrous sights to be enjoyed
At historic Monterey.

The first Jasper O'Farrell was one of the earliest settlers in what became San Francisco. Born in Ireland in 1822, he arrived here in 1843, and in 1846 was commissioned by Magistrate Washington Bartlett and Alcalde George Hyde to undertake a survey of the townsite. To his vision, San Francisco of today owes the direction and the generous width of Market street.

N.D. HOME ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED.

The fifth anniversary of the N.D.G.W. Home was celebrated at a delightful breakfast January 14. Gladys Huber of Linda Rosa Parlor No. 170 and Alice Boldemann of La Estrella Parlor No. 89 were the hostesses. Breakfast was served 150 guests at tables beautifully decorated with a profusion of poinsettias and asparagus fern.

Judge Fletcher A. Cutler, Past Grand N.S.G.W., spoke most interestingly on California history, and Dr. Mariana Bertola, Past Grand N.D.G.W., told of the splendid work being done by the Home. J. Hartley Russell, Grand Third Vice-president N.S.G.W., Michael Patrick Brennan, Miss Aida Luther and the Native Daughters Glee Club delighted with enchanting music. Elizabeth James recited "The California Girl," and Grand President Irma W. Laird extended greetings in her usual sweet manner. A huge birthday cake was the gift of Past Grand May C. Boldemann.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS NEWS BRIEFS.

Alta Parlor No. 3 received an official visit from Grand President Irma W. Laird January 23. A banquet preceded the ritual and installation ceremonies. Mary Schultz is the new president. Grand Marshal Anna C. Thuesen was general chairman of the evening. A bridge-whist party, with Claire Bolman as chairman, was held January 20. The afternoon of February 12, for the benefit of the Parlor's relief fund, a bridge-whist party will be given under the chairmanship of May L. MacDonald.

At Yosemite Parlor No. 83's Christmas party for children only, those participating were dressed as children. Delicious refreshments were served. Catherine Smith was in charge.

Officers of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158 were installed by Deputy Alice Shirley, January 8, Anita Werner becoming president. Supervising Deputy Ann Dippel and members of several Parlors were in attendance. Claire Lindsey headed the social committee for the occasion. January 20 the Parlor celebrated its twenty-sixth institution anniversary at a largely attended dinner. Many charter members were present. Cards were enjoyed after the feast.

Officers of Dolores Parlor No. 169 were installed January 27 by Deputy Pearl Wedde, Ellen Rahill becoming president. Dancing and refreshments followed the ceremonies. At the annual Christmas party Santa Claus (Grace Castillo) distributed gifts, and dainty refreshments were served at beautifully decorated tables. The Parlor celebrated its twenty-fifth institution anniversary with a banquet which was attended by many members, including four charter members. Ellen Rahill, chairman of the evening, was assisted by Rose Spaelti.

James Lick Parlor No. 220's officers were installed January 17 by Deputy Loretta Cameron, Corinne Kieve becoming president. Delicious refreshments were served by a committee headed by Anne Ipswitch.

At the Christmas party of Past Presidents Association No. 1, Elizabeth Muller was chairman of the evening and Grace Castillo acted as Santa Claus. Entertainment was provided, gifts and candy were distributed and delicious refreshments were served.

Portola Parlor No. 172, in the true Christmas spirit, donated candy, and scrapbooks made by the members, to the San Francisco nursery for homeless children. The members' annual Christmas party, in charge of Josephine Kelley, concluded with a delightful supper.

Emma Nevada, silver-voiced soprano of several decades ago, in her own writing has settled the controversy over the place of her birth, says the Sacramento "Bee" of November 25. Writing from Paris, France, to Mrs. Belle Douglas of Nevada City, she fixes Alpha, Nevada County, California, as the place of her birth.

California's agricultural recovery last year is noted in figures of the California Co-operative Crop Reporting Service. The farm value of all crops, excepting livestock, for 1933 was $289,395,000, compared with $248,847,000 in 1932.

A Pioneer's grave was recently discovered near Auburn, Placer County. The slate marker records the death January 9, 1850, of Martin O. Finlay of Morgan County, Missouri.

THE OLD GHOST TOWN

(J. A. McARTHUR.)

We delved among the ruins,
All were tumbling down;
Decaying, bleak and hoary,
Was the fading old ghost town.

In the golden days of long ago,
When they feared not man or God,
Through these pitted grass grown streets
Red-shirted miners trod.

Now, through the sagging doorways
Of each deserted place
Gray-bodied horn toads crawl
And blue-tailed lizards race.

The head-boards in the graveyard
Sag in a broken line;
Dim names inscribed on some of them
Were famed in "Forty-nine."

We sit in retrospection
As the lengthening shadows fall
Upon the tottering timbers
Of the old-time gambling hall.

In the waning twilight
Ghostly shadows fall
O'er decaying floors and rafters,
And athwart each crumbling wall.

In our mem'ries of the long ago
We can see them once again—
The loved faces of Bret Harte
And the immortal Twain.

—Weekly Calistogan.

CALIFORNIA PIONEER OF 1849 HONORED BY FEDERAL GOVERNMENT.

Santa Ana—As a result of a petition sent the Federal Government by the Orange County Historical Society, a California Pioneer has been honored by having a mountain peak—three miles south of Santa Ana Canyon at the head of Ladd Canyon, and formerly known as "Sugarloaf Peak"—designated "J. E. Pleasants Peak."

A member of an ox caravan from Missouri, J. E. Pleasants, a lad of ten, arrived in California with his father in 1849. In 1856 he went to Los Angeles, and four years later established a home in Santiago Canyon, where he has since resided.

Native Daughters of the Golden West

"TO THE OFFICERS AND MEMBERS Subordinate Parlors Native Daughters of the Golden West—Dear Sisters: Two hundred and two years ago, on the twenty-second of February, an event took place which was destined to have large place in changing the entire course of human events, to advance the cause of human freedom, and to exert tremendous influence upon the beginnings of a nation marked to become a mighty force in world history. On that day was born George Washington, whose military genius, and whose superb leadership in time of peace, undoubtedly had more to do with laying the foundations of the United States than did the work of any other one man.

"Washington was a builder. There have been many other brilliant men who sought leadership and power, and many of them have been truly great, but not often has the world seen a man rise who could so thoroughly put all thoughts of self aside and devote all of his talents to the cause of his people. George Washington knew that confusion, trouble, misunderstandings and quarrels would follow even the successful termination of the war. He knew beforehand of the terrific responsibility attending an effort to weld thirteen war-torn and jealous colonies into one strong, efficient nation, yet he accepted the charge.

"Vision is the only answer. How magnificently Washington succeeded is known throughout the earth. So broad was his vision, and so carefully did he plan that even a century and a half later we find it unnecessary to change any of the fundamentals of his idea. It is no wonder that in love and veneration, we have come to call George Washington the Father of his country.

"Ten years after the death of Washington, and again in the month of February, another birth took place which was to play an important part in the affairs of this nation. On the twelfth of February, eighteen hundred nine, Abraham Lincoln was born, far to the westward in that new country of which Washington had dreamed. Typical of the land whence he came was Lincoln. Rough, rugged, lacking in the colonial policy that was Washington's, yet with eyes aflame with the same vision and a soul inspired with the same principles.

"Washington's had been the work of creation; to Lincoln fell the tremendous task of preservation when forces of destruction and dissolution were loosed. Lincoln was a man of destiny, a man brought forth in the hour of crisis to safeguard the ideals first set forth by Washington almost three-quarters of a century before.

"So it is this month we shall honor the birthdays of the two greatest Americans yet produced. By them was founded and preserved the world's greatest experiment in government, and we doubt if any other period of history will produce two men who have done a greater work for the good of mankind.

"Washington knew that the nation would spread westward and that the population would double many, many times. So do we know that our Order, the Native Daughters of the Golden West, will grow in strength and numbers. The foundations of our Order have been laid with vision, and to us falls the tremendous task of preservation and extension.

"May the lives of our two great men ever remind us that we, too, may leave 'footprints on the sands of time.' Sincerely and fraternally in P.D.F.A.,

"IRMA W. LAIRD,
"Grand President N.D.G.W.

ANOTHER LARGE LINK ADDED TO THE GROWING CHAIN OF PARLORS.

Stockton—At an outstanding affair January 17, Stockton No. 256 was instituted by Grand President Irma W. Laird, assisted by Grand Vice-president Gladys E. Noce, Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Grand Trustees Orinda Giannini and Ethel S. Begley, Past Grands Bertha A. Briggs, Pearl Lamb, Margaret G. Hill, Anna M. Armstrong and Estelle M. Evans, Supervising Deputies Clarice Cook, Anna Dippel and Dora Brayton, Deputies Ida Mesquite and Mary Vogt, and Esther Derien, Tessie Pierce, Inge Meyer, Grace Johnson and Catherine Maroo, acting grand officers. Following the seating of the grand officers the entire assemblage gave the salute to The Flag, and Past Grand Armstrong invoked the Divine blessing.

The Parlor was organized by Mrs. Caroline Curnow, and of the 130 charter petition signers 124 were present for the institution ceremonies. The ritual was exemplified by the officers of Caliz de Oro No. 206 (Stockton). Officers of the new Parlor, installed by Past Grand Briggs assisted by Grand Vice-president Noce, Grand Secretary Thaler, Grand Marshal Thuesen, Grand Trustees Begley and Giannini, Past Grands Armstrong, Evans, Hill and Lamb, include:

Esther Osborn, charter past president; Caroline Curnow, president; Constance Storms, first vice-president; Elvira Sanguinette, second vice-president; Anna Drais, third vice-president; Elizabeth Baker, recording secretary; Amy Worth, financial secretary; Marjorie McIntosh, organist; Zenith Stocker, treasurer; LaVerne Osborn, marshal; Algie Gossett, inside sentinel; May Smith, outside sentinel; Mattie Porter, Julia Griffith, Irene Schwall, trustees. Grand President Laird appointed Lottie Hahn as the deputy for Stockton.

The projects of the Order were explained by Grand President Laird, who stressed the necessity for co-operation and toleration at all times. Past Grand Briggs extended congratulations from the present and past grand officers, and Supervising Deputy Cook expressed happiness at the completion of this fine new Parlor. On the "baby's" behalf, baskets of flowers were presented the Grand President and other grand officers, and the Parlor authorized the sending of a basket of flowers to Secretary Ray Dorsey of Stockton No. 7 N.S.G.W., critically ill.

President Curnow of No. 256 instructed the secretary to send letters of thanks to the following for gifts received: George Sanguinetti, large flag; Marjorie McIntosh, gavel; Catheryn Buthenuth and Esther Osborn, tablecloths; Clara Hill Wenger, Bible; Stockton No. 7 N.S.G.W., Joaquin No. 5 and Caliz de Oro No. 206, baskets of flowers; Union Oil Company, ten dollars; Curnow Brothers, birthday cake. The grand occasion closed with refreshments.

A True Californian.

Placentia—A group from Grace No. 242 attended installation at Ontario No. 251. Returning to President Erma Watts' home, they were greatly surprised to find a lovely midnight luncheon, prepared for them by Papa Watts. January 18 the Parlor sponsored a very profitable and socially successful card party. Chairman Christine McFarland and her committee served home-made refreshments.

January 19, Mrs. Anna Lemke, pioneer orange grower of the Placentia district, was hostess to the homeless children sewing club of the Parlor. A potluck dinner was served at noon to thirty members. Special guests were Edna Gender, Mary Noerenberg, Marybelle Chapman and Nell Aldrich. Miss Johanna Lemke and Mrs. Chapman entertained with vocal solos while the members sewed on aprons and quilt blocks. Mother Lemke, though not a native, is a true Californian in her love for and devotion to the Golden State, and she is very proud of the fact that several members of her family are affiliated with Grace. Supervising Deputy Nellie Cline and her husband, Fred C., celebrated their thirty-first wedding anniversary New Year Day.

District Meeting Largely Attended.

Oakland—More than 600 were in attendance at the Alameda County district meeting January 13. At the opening ceremonies, Grand President Irma W. Laird and Founder Lily O. Reichling-Dyer were escorted into the room and presented, respectively, with shower boquets of Talisman roses and snapdragons. Then came the grand officers of the Native Daughters and the Native Sons, who were seated upon the platform and introduced.

The salute of The Flag was given impressively, Kathleen Dombrink, acting grand marshal, and assistant, Lottie Bischoff, escorted Gam Hurst, Grand Marshal N.S.G.W., who carried a huge Flag of the United States of America. All lights were extinguished, except a spotlight which shone on the flag as it was carried to the altar. Then the entire assemblage gave the salute, and Paul Weber (Piedmont No. 120 N.S.G.W.) sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

The main event of the occasion was the exemplification of the new installation ceremony by the Alameda County district deputies, with Supervising Deputy Dora Brayton officiating. Officers of Brooklyn No. 157, Encinal No. 156 and Bear Flag No. 151 were also installed by Deputies Martha Watson, Lurine Martin and Marion White. Following these ceremonies members of Fruitvale No. 177 presented a beautiful drill, spelling the name of Grand President Laird. As this was in progress, the deputies, gowned in white, individually extended a greeting and also spelled the Grand President's name by stepping forward with a large silver letter corresponding to the letter being formed by the drill team. Vocal selections were rendered by Marie Cordrey, Paul Weber and Bernard O'Brien.

The Parlors and deputies of Alameda County presented Grand President Laird with a beautiful painting, and gifts were also presented Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler and Supervising Deputy Brayton. Previous to the gathering there was a dinner, and among those present were Grand First Vice-president Chas. A. Koenig, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Trustee Edward Schnarr and Grand Marshal Gam Hurst of the Native Sons.

Bride Honored.

Hollister—Copa de Oro No. 105 honored Irene Hogue, latest bride, with a kitchen shower December 28. A wedding ceremony in pantomime was arranged, with the wedding party complete in every detail: bride, Edna Butterfield; groom, Elma Chandler; bridesmaid, Erma Pivetti; bestman, Jo Snell; flower girl, Mildred Marcheski; bride's father, Hilda Thompson; minister, Alta Trowbridge; jilted sweetheart, Rose Guilhamet. Kate McCray played the "wedding march," and Myrtle Palmtag sang "I Love You Truly." The hall was arranged and decorated as a church. Following the ceremony Rachael Maroney and Edna Hansen, attired in raincoats and carrying umbrellas, entered to the tune of "It Ain't Goin' To Rain No More" and delivered attractively wrapped gifts to the bride, in a tub. Refreshments were served from a dainty tea table with a bride as the centerpiece, and games appropriate to the occasion were enjoyed. The committee in charge was headed by Past Grand Bertha A. Briggs.

January 11, Myrtle Palmtag, Catherine Hooton and Maude Johnson arranged a most enjoyable New Year party. A fish pond formed the table centerpiece, and all tried their luck with hook and line. Awards went to those hooking the largest fish. Amusing resolutions for the new year were prepared and read by those present.

New Citizens Welcomed.

Oroville—January 10, the semi-annual program for the newly-made citizens of Butte County sponsored by Gold of Ophir No. 190 was held in the Superior Court. Grand Trustee Florence D. Boyle welcomed the citizens and spoke briefly on California history, urging them to make some study thereof. Each was then presented with a copy of "The American's Creed." Alta Baldwin was program chairman and also led in the singing of patriotic airs. One hundred and thirty-five members of the civics class of the high school were in attendance.

January 17 the Parlor, jointly with Argonaut No. 8 N.S.G.W., had a card party for the Pioneer Relics Building maintenance fund. C. F. Belding, Dorothy Meader and Florence Boyle constituted the arrangements committee.

Five Parlors Join for Installation.

Sacramento—Officers of the five Sacramento City Parlors were jointly installed January 15 by Deputies Anne Kloss, Martha Buckley, Esther Mulligan, Edna Brackley and Vera Hellinge. Edna Briggs acted as the grand marshal, and May Lucas headed the committee of arrangements. Presidents of the Parlors include:

Califia No. 22, Maude Cooke; La Bandera No. 110, Anna Kehl; Sutter No. 111, Audrey Browne; Coloma No. 212, Louise Finch; Rio Rita No. 253, Virginia Skeels. Dancing followed the ceremonies.

Anniversary Celebrated.

Alturas—Alturas No. 159 celebrated its twenty-sixth institution anniversary January 9. Honor guests were Grand President Irma W. Laird, Past Grand Catherine E. Gloster, and Charter Members Annie Estes, Eva Williams, Ella McGrath, Gertrude French, Dorothy Gloster. The women of the Alturas Civic Club served the banquet, and the birthday cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Laird.

President Mildred Smith extended a welcome and introduced the speakers: Grand President Laird, who told of her journeyings in the Order's interest, and Past Grand Gloster, who related an original story of her search for the cache of the Donner Party. The charter members were presented with gifts, and each told what the organization has meant to her through twenty-six years of membership. Instrumental numbers were rendered by Mrs. Laird and Irene Cummings, and vocal selections by Mildred and Lelah Boyd.

The Christmas ball sponsored by Alturas netted a splendid sum for the Parlor's charities. The usual basket of creature comforts was delivered Christmas Eve to the Modoc County Hospital. Grand President Laird left Alturas January 12 to resume her official visits. Her home leaving was saddened by the serious illness of her father, George E. Williams, who was stricken the second time since his daughter entered upon her official duties.

Live Awards.

Antioch—Antioch No. 223 and General Winn No. 32 N.S.G.W. had a joint card party January 24. A feature was the live awards—a pig, a turkey, a lamb, chickens and squabs. The arrangements committee included Juanita Welch (chairman), Marguerite Peters, Marguerite Flannery, Blanche Garrow, Jack Welch, George Rebstock and Edmund Uren.

As a benefit for the homeless children, the Parlors are planning a Saint Patrick's Day dance. Marguerite Flannery, the chairman, is being assisted by Marguerite Peters, Ramona Beasley, Wilma Lilley, Jack Welch, F. J. Bigelow Jr., George Rebstock, Amerigo Delulio.

Marin District Meeting.

Sausalito—The Marin County Parlors' district meeting will be held here in Perry's Hall, 50 Caledonia street, Saturday, February 24, at 8:30 p.m. All members of the Order are welcome. Grand President Irma W. Laird will be the guest of honor.

Past Presidents Install.

Chico—Association No. 5 met January 5 and officers were installed by Alta B. Baldwin, Verna Parker becoming president. This being the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Henry, the latter was presented with flowers. Bridge was enjoyed, and delicious refreshments were served.

NEWS BRIEFS SUBORDINATE PARLORS.

Red Bluff—Officers of Berendos No. 23 were installed January 15 by Past Grand Olive B. Matlock, Della Hottman becoming president. At ceremonies in the Tehama County Superior Court January 15, when three persons were admitted to citizenship, the Parlor, through Mrs. R. S. Godbolt, presented each new citizen with a California State (Bear) Flag. Members of Berendos are preparing a scrapbook of historical events in Tehama County for exhibition at the coming Grand Parlor.

Etna—The Christmas ball sponsored by Eschscholtzia No. 112 was held December 25 in a hall gay with holiday decorations. The grand march was led by Kathryn Pitman and Charles Holzhauser, and directed by Lottie Tucker and Lawrence Buchner. Trumpet and piano numbers were excellently rendered by LaVerne Timmons and Neil Fay. The ball was marked by an unusually large attendance, an indication that happier times are on the way. The fact that the event was not only a social success, but a financial one as well, was a matter of great satisfaction to the Parlor, as its contribution to the homeless children fund depends on the profit from this annual affair.

Richmond—Richmond No. 147 has organized a sewing club, with Maud Arnold as president and Maude Muller as financial secretary. It will meet twice a month at the homes of various members. At the annual Christmas party December 19 a delicious turkey dinner was served by a committee which included Maude Muller (chairman), Grace Curry, Winifred Schmidt, Roberta Buckley and President Adeline Fraser.

Standish—At public ceremonies January 17, officers of Nataqua No. 152 were installed by Deputy Lucille Skillern. A short program, dancing and a banquet were diversions of the evening.

Chico—Officers of Annie K. Bidwell No. 168 were installed January 11 by Deputy Loretta Ross, Hattie Jackson becoming president. A past president emblem was given Edna Byrd, and gifts were presented Catherine McEnespy and Deputy Ross. Three skits—"Learning To Drive a Car," "The Boy Friend" and "Feminine Wranglers"—were presented by the losing side in the membership drive, Laura Anderson captain. Refreshments were served. The Parlor had its annual Christmas tree for the members' children December 28; Olive Pearl, as Santa Claus, distributed gifts.

Saint Helena—La Junta No. 203 and Saint Helena No. 53 will have their annual dance for

In Memoriam

JOHN W. CAPPLEMAN.

Again we are called on to mourn for one who has passed over the Great Beyond to that bourne from which no traveler ever returns. Friday, December 15, 1933 the Infinite Ruler on High called Brother John W Cappleman to meet his reward.

Brother Cappleman was endowed with many good qualities and virtues which elicited admiration, respect and esteem from all those whose good fortune it was to know him. His kindness, his generality, his conscientiousness won for him many friends. Those with whom he was associated entertained for him unlimited confidence on account of his integrity, his honesty of purpose, his fa ithfulness to duty.

In his home life he promoted happiness and contentment, being a fond and loving husband, a kind and indulgent father. For many years he was a member of Fresno Parlor No. 25 Native Sons of the Golden West and was elected to the several offices of the Parlor, discharging the duties placed upon him with credit to himself and honor to his Parlor.

No more will Brother Cappleman be seen in his home, no more will he give directions and assistance in his school work, no more will he be heard in the councils of our Parlor, but all will hold the memory of him dear to their hearts. The removal of such a one from our midst leaves a sorrow and a shadow that cannot soon be dispelled. Be it

Resolved, That a copy of this memorial be spread upon the minutes of the Parlor, a copy be forwarded to the family of our departed brother, and a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

Respectfully submitted in Friendship, Loyalty and Charity.

F. M. LANE,
GERALD H. CATANIA,
ARTHUR H. DREW.

Fresno, January 5, 1934.

LUCIUS POWERS.

Officers and Members of Fresno Parlor No. 25 N S G W

Your committee appointed to draft a testimonial of respect to the memory of our beloved brother, Lucius Powers, respectfully submit the following:

In the tragic passing of Brother Powers to that Grand Parlor on High, on the 4th of December, 1933, Fresno Parlor and this community suffered a distinct loss. His was a full life, one accorded to but few. Beloved by his fellowmen, he was an aggressive leader in civic and private affairs, always ready and willing to do his full share and always in front for the public benefit,—a faithful, honest and courageous citizen, an ideal, dutiful husband and father. We extend to his bereaved family our most sincere sympathy.

Resolved, That a copy of this memorial be spread upon the minutes of this Parlor, a copy forwarded to the family of our departed brother, and a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

Respectfully submitted in Friendship, Loyalty and Charity.

F. M. LANE.
ARTHUR H. DREW,
GERALD H. CATANIA.

Fresno, January 5, 1934

MARGARET KANE.

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father, in His infinite wisdom, has called from our midst our beloved sister, Margaret Kane; though physically unable to attend our meetings, still she was in our thoughts and her memory shall be forever dear to us. Be it

Resolved, That the members of Veritas Parlor No. 75 N.D.G.W. express their deepest sympathy and affection to the bereaved family in their great loss; that a copy of this resolution be written into the minutes of this meeting, that a copy be sent to the bereaved family, and one to The Grizzly Bear for publication.

LOS ANGELES CITY AND COUNTY

DURING THE PASSING OF 1933 AND the coming of 1934, Los Angeles County was visited by torrential rains which caused floods that took a heavy toll of human lives—more than will ever be officially admitted, it is generally believed,—and caused property damage of thousands of dollars. Commenting on the flood in a front-page editorial titled "Something Must Be Done," the Wilmar, Los Angeles County, "Chronicle" of January 4 said:

"The women of the Wilmar Woman's Club took the leadership early Tuesday in severely censuring county flood control officials for their gross incompetence in lack of protective measures in this district. J. B. Redfield of South San Gabriel followed suit later in the day with a meeting at his home. . . .

"Nothing too harsh can be said of Los Angeles County officials, from the supervisor on down to the various sub foremen, who by their gross incompetence and criminal waste of flood control moneys are directly to blame for the enormous damage done in this district. Al Capone and his gang are feathered and winged angels compared to public racketeers who continue to take money and waste it in alleged flood control as has been done in this section of the county.

"For twenty years this writer has watched conditions go from bad to worse each year in this section, and we have seen as much damage here many times before with less rainfall in same period of time and each time we have been assured that it wouldn't have happened if it hadn't been unusual weather.

"We say to the supervisors, REMOVE THE MEN AT THE HEAD OF THE SURVEYING, FLOOD AND ROAD DEPARTMENTS AT ONCE, and employ competent men—and DO IT NOW!"

"Something must be done," certainly. Had it been done long ago, the taxpayers of Los Angeles County would have been saved millions of dollars. But nothing will, as usual, be done, except to conduct a whitewash investigation and to issue loads of "unusual" propaganda, unless the citizen majority do it. And the one and only thing to do, is for that majority to oust the political racketeers, the incompetents and the grafters from the Los Angeles County and the Los Angeles City governments. Make a clean sweep, from the cellar to the garret, otherwise there can be no relief from existant conditions. —C.M.H.

GROWS IN POPULARITY.

The Native Sons Luncheon Club, which holds forth every Friday at 12:15 noon at the Rosslyn Hotel, grows in popularity. During January, those in attendance were given inside information on conditions in the Orient and California's indeterminate sentence law by, respectively, Ralph W. Smith and Superior Judge Charles Fricke. January chairmen were Ellery E. Cuff, Bradner W. Lee, Louis P. Russill and Leslie A. Packard.

JOINT N.S. INSTALLATION.

At public ceremonies at the meetingplace of Los Angeles No. 45 N.S.G.W. January 11, officers of that Parlor, Glendale Parlor No. 264 and Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W. were jointly installed by District Deputy Arthur Leonard, who was assisted by Deputies Al Cron, Walter Baskerville and Walter Odemar, and Past President Howard Bentley. Frank Cotter, Municipal Judge Joseph L. Call and Albert Boeckman became the respective presidents.

Judge Call presided following the ceremonies, and among the many speakers were Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer, Superior Judge B. Rey Schauer, District Deputy John Ford, Mms. Baskerville, Meyer and Bentley. During the evening the drum corps of Santa Monica Bay Parlor presented an attractive plaque to Grand Trustee Meyer as an expression of appreciation for services rendered and encouragement given. Owen S. Adams read letters from the Los Angeles County Welfare Department and the Los Angeles City Social Service Department, thanking Los Angeles Parlor for bringing cheer, at its December 22 Christmas party, to numbers of children who otherwise would have had little during the Yuletide season.

FLOOD VICTIMS HELPED.

Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W. has been presented with a beautiful St. James version of the Bible, an heirloom in the family of Mrs. Mary Noerenberg, whose deceased father, Dr. William Brodbeck, was a collector of rare editions of Bibles. At the Christmas party, presided over by Miss Mary Foy, English Yuletime customs were featured. Mrs. Ora Evans, entertainment director, presented Miss Betty Boldrick, who sang delightful folk songs, accompanied by Miss Daisy Sinclair.

Deputy Mattie Edwards installed the Parlor's officers January 9, Mrs. Inez Sitton being retained as president. A delightful luncheon followed, at which a number of birthdays were celebrated. The day's speaker was F. G. Collett, who championed the cause of the Indians. Mrs Leila Tabor, homeless children chairman, reported help sent to flood victims, the "pantry shelf" having proved very valuable, while the sewing club provided from its store much-needed children's clothing. The homeless children theater benefit was a pleasant success. Mrs. Flora Jacobson entertained the philanthropy committee January 31, and Mrs. Mary Noerenberg was hostess to the dessert sewing circle January 15.

Members of Californiana are anxiously waiting the coming of Grand President Irma W. Laird, February 12, and interesting preparations are being made. She will also be guest of honor at "Las Contradanzas" February 2. Mrs. Augusta Weber will be hostess to the dessert sewing circle February 12, when there will be an exhibit of old quilts and laces. With Mrs. Harriett LeVitt in charge, the Parlor is arranging for a California history day at Catalina, April 14.

NATIVE SONS NEWS BRIEFS.

Los Angeles—Officers of Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. were installed January 5 by District Deputy Walter E. Baskerville, who was assisted by District Deputy Arthur Leonard and Past President Walter Slauson. Walter H. Odemar is the new president. The Parlor will have initiation February 9, and the monthly birthday

MONEY
When You Need It

You can have money when you need it. And this is NOT a fairy story. The only magic about it is the way your savings account in this bank grows when you deposit money regularly every pay day. That's half the secret of having money when you need it. The other half is to put your household finances on a business basis and budget your income, so that you will have money to put aside each pay day. California Bank will gladly help by giving you a copy of its household budget book, free, at any one of its fifty-five conveniently located offices.

dinner party will be featured February 23. Superior Judge Ruben Schmidt is chairman of the good of the order committee. The Doce Caballeros will sponsor an auction bridge party February 22 in Roosevelt Hall, Patriotic Building; prizes, refreshments and entertainment.

Los Angeles—District Deputy Walter Fisher, assisted by Deputy Al Cron and Ralph Harbison, January 22 installed the officers of Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W. Eugene W. Murphy, the new president, urged the members to cooperate in advancing the Parlor and the Order. Hollywood has in Imperial County a member who overlooked paying his dues. He was communicated with, and proved his worth by immediately forwarding his check for $150.

San Pedro—At its final 1933 meeting, Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W. initiated six candidates. Past President Joseph A. Pia was presented with an emblematic ring, Past Grand John T. Newell making the presentation address. Walter C. Richards has been retained as president for the January-July term.

No applications, no new members to fill the ranks And California needs more Native Sons! Today's responsibility of every member of the Order is to contact eligibles. Don't leave this important duty for "George" to perform.

Santa Monica—February 21, Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W. will have its sixth annual lobster feed—an event that attracts members of the Order from all the southland. The drum corps is holding a dance the last Saturday of every month, and as it is always "on the job," it deserves unstinted support. The next dance is billed for February 24.

Los Angeles—University Parlor No. 272 N.S.G.W. plans a dance the night of February 17, and efforts are being put forth to make it a tremendous social success. All Natives and their friends are invited. Maynard Garrison has been retained as president for the January-July term.

Compton—At impressive ceremonies January 23, the officers of Compton Parlor No. 273 and Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W. were jointly installed, J. Reid Young Jr. and Walter E. Richards being the respective presidents. Among those in attendance were Past Grand John T. Newell, Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer, Grand Inside Sentinel William A. Reuter, District Deputies Edward Baldwin, Walter Baskerville and Arthur Leonard. A buffet lunch was served, and dancing was in order after the installation. Compton is formulating plans for a series of monthly dances.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS NEWS BRIEFS.

Los Angeles—The tour of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W. around the historic Plaza January 7 was very interesting. A goodly number attended the January 8 card party; Miss Ann Schiebusch was in charge. The history and landmarks committee met January 11 at the home of Miss Rose O'Connor in Alhambra. The bridge luncheon at the home of Mrs. Ruth Traeger January 20 was a great social and financial success; Mrs. Ethel Kennedy, chairman, was assisted by a splendid committee. The sociable of January 24, with Miss Edna Trombatore in charge, was heartily enjoyed; delicious homemade cakes were thoroughly appreciated. The Parlor's February calendar includes: 7th, official visit Grand President Irma W. Laird; 6:30 banquet. 14th, monthly card party. 21st, potluck supper and speaker; 28th, theater party.

Long Beach—Deputy Letitia Sarciaux installed the officers of Long Beach Parlor No. 154 N.D.G.W., January 4, Mrs. Alice Young Waldow becoming president. Music and refreshments followed the ceremonies. The bridge club was entertained January 25 at Hermosa Beach by Delores Sykes and her mother, and Mrs. Clara Fay entertained members of the Parlor and sev-the benefit of the homeless children February 10. The joint arrangements committee includes Elise Metzner, Josephine Jacksee, Emma Navone, Inez Costantini, Mildred Griffith, Frank Harrison, Albert Griffith, Harry E. Prouty, Arnold Metzner, Edwin L. Paulson.

San Diego—A delegation from San Diego No 208 attended the birthday celebration of Mrs. Mary Flynn in her home at Flynn Springs; while not a member of the Order, she was born eighty years ago in Old Town. The first 1934 meeting of the sewing club was held at the home of Louise Miller. Helen Jourdin will be the next hostess. At a recent luncheon of the San Diego Advertising Club, Past Grand Grace S. Stoermer was the guest speaker; members of the Parlor attended and presented her with a corsage.

Bakersfield—Officers of El Tejon No. 239 and Desert Gold No. 250 were jointly installed January 5 by Deputy Evalyn Towne, Edna Hobson and Lucile Waters becoming the respective presidents. Members from all parts of Kern County attended, and a splendid program was presented. Georgia Sanders had charge of arrangements.

Santa Ana—The thimble club of Santa Ana No. 265 was entertained January 11 at the home of Olive Witt and began quilting a lovely quilt pieced by Myrtle Ellis. Their anniversaries being this month, Mms. Marsile, Hiskey, Cope and Ford were complimented. For the benefit of the Parlor's donation fund, the ways and means committee, Marion Crum chairman, sponsored a real spanish dinner January 22.

The grand sweepstakes prize was awarded the "Queen of the Beaches" exhibit of Long Beach at Pasadena's forty-fifth annual Tournament of Roses, New Year Day. This year's theme, "Tales of the Seven Seas," was carried out in many gorgeous floral floats.

"Be friendly and do your bit to make this old world a bearable place to live in."—Frederic B. Acosta.

"If you have knowledge, let others light their candles at it."—Margaret Fuller.

In Memoriam

MARY FRANCES MITCHELL.

We, the committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our late sister Past President and member of the Siskiyou Parlor, Vice President MARY FRANCES MITCHELL, report the following:

Whereas, Our beloved sister has passed from our midst by the Angel of Death, to her eternal home, and whereas the Grizzly Bear and Past Presidents N.D.G.W. mourn the passing of a member active, talented and loyal, made her worthy of honors conferred upon her, and whereas, her family and friends in bereavement had ever held her in loving thought for the welfare of each one, closed upon them and whose death in no their interests lightened their tasks, be it

Resolved, That a copy of this memorial be spread upon the minutes of the General Association, that a copy be forwarded under the seal of the General Association to the bereaved relatives, and that a copy be published in The Grizzly Bear Magazine.

EMMA G. FOLEY,
LEAH MAGNER WILLIAMS,
ANNA G. LOSER
Committee.

Attest: WINIFRED HALTER, Chief President
San Jose, September 3, 1933.

SARAH CLARK.

To the Officers and Members of Vallejo Parlor No 195 Native Daughters of the Golden West—We, your committee appointed to draft a resolution of respect to the memory of our departed charter member, Sarah Clark, respectfully submit the following:

Whereas, One of our beloved members, Sister Sarah Clark, has answered the call of our Heavenly Father, it is with deepest sorrow we bow in humble prayer, realizing our loss is the heavenly gain of our dear sister, and whereas, in her death our Parlor has lost a highly esteemed sister and our community a respected Pioneer citizen, therefore, be it

Resolved, That Vallejo Parlor extends sincere sympathy to her bereaved son and family, also, that this resolution be recorded in the minutes of our Parlor, that a copy be sent to the family of our deceased sister, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear for publication

"No one hears the door that opens,
When they pass beyond our call,
Soft as loosened leaves of roses,
One by one our loved ones fall."

Respectfully submitted in P.D.F.A.,

JULIET BLISS,
JULIA HILL,
MABEL THOMPSON,
Committee

Vallejo, December 29, 1933.

JULIETTE TEETZEL.

To the Officers and Members of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our late sister, Miss Juliette Teetzel, respectfully submit the following:

The Angel of Death has entered the portals of our Parlor and removed from our midst our enthusiastic member, who but lately wrote us and expected to be with us again; but it was not to be, and she can but live with us in memory only. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of Los Angeles Parlor No 124 N.D.G.W., extend to the bereaved family in the loss of daughter and sister our heartfelt sympathy; that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family of our departed sister, that a copy be spread upon our minutes, and a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear for publication

Respectfully submitted,

GERTRUDE ALLEN,
EDITH SCHALLMO,
EDNA HOLCOMB,
Committee.

Los Angeles, January 3, 1934.

ETHEL A. MORROW.

To the Officers and Members of Piedmont Parlor No. 87 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our dearly beloved sister, Ethel A. Morrow, who passed away December 18, 1933, submit the following:

Whereas, The Angel of Death has again entered our midst, and this time Ethel A. Morrow has answered the call of our Heavenly Father; and whereas, this Parlor has lost a true and loyal member and her family a devoted and loving daughter and wife, therefore, be it

Resolved, That Piedmont Parlor No. 87 N.D.G.W. feels most deeply the loss of its esteemed member, and that we extend to the bereaved family in this, their hour of trial, our sincere and heartfelt sympathy, and recommend them for consolation, to Him who doeth all things well, be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of our departed sister, a copy be spread upon the minutes of our Parlor, and a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear for publication.

JOSEPHINE CLARK,
ELLA MULLEN,
NELL REALY MOORE,
Condolence Committee.

CALCULATIN' CAL

Harry Oliver

CALCULATIN' CAL GOT HIS NAME FOR always calculatin' something, and it's always something no one's got any business to calculate about. For instance, he calculated that if hay was always kept on top of an adobe house, like he keeps his, and burros was always lookin' up at it like his do and wantin' it, it would take twenty-five thousand years for the burro to grow a neck like a giraffe to reach it or to sprout wings and fly after it.

Cal come to Borego Valley eight years ago and took up a claim because it had a hole that he said was a good start for a well. He calculated the hole would save him a week's diggin'. He dug down about twelve feet and hit a solid hunk of something that was so heavy he couldn't budge it. He tried to dig around it to get hold of it, but the hunk kept slippin' in deeper. He hit water then, and the boulder didn't interfere none so he left it where it was.

Accumulatin' Luke took the census this year. We picked him so's we'd make a showing. If we'd got Liminatin Lem on the job the valley would still be unpopulated like it was a hundred years ago.

When Luke set out on his official business he had a hard time roundin' up Cal. He went to his shack every mornin' but there wasn't hide nor hair of Cal anywhere. He could see where he ate and slept and knew he was okay on account of the regular addition to the coffee grounds on the dump heap. He knew right enough that Cal had no radio or a job, like it was up to him to ask him, but a census-taker must see everybody just the same. So one day he parked on the road from sun-up till after dark and sees a light about eight-thirty in the evenin'. He won't go over the stony trail to Cal's house because the side-winders, them pesky night-prowlin' rattlesnakes, is bad just then, and Luke's as keen on accumulatin' years as he is for other things.

Well, next day he gets Kashin and they go over to Cal's, and of course there's no one home, but they go in the house anyway and look around. Kashin picks up a newspaper clippin' from the table, reads it, then lays it down, sayin': "I know where we'll find him. In the well."

And sure enough. Cal was down there messin' around in the water, and for some reason he didn't take very kindly to visitors.

After Luke takes the necessary data and finds out for a swearin' fact that Cal ain't got no radio or a job, he and Kashin start home.

"Funny, your knowin' he'd be down in the well," says Luke.

"Easy!" says Kashin, professional-like. "I got the idea from that newspaper clippin' he'd been readin'."

"Oh, you did," says Luke.

"It told about one of them meteorite things and how they're fulla platinum. That's why he's been layin' low."

"What's that got to do with Cal?" says Luke.

"He thinks that's a meteorite he's got in his well," says Kashin. "And he's calculatin' on gettin' it out."

"Yeah?" says Luke. "You was readin' the wrong side of that clippin'. You missed the recipe for home brew. Cal's made him a new batch of beer on the sly and just naturally calculated that the well's the safest place he's got for coolin' things."

OLD ERA PAST

in their appreciation, love and deeds have outrun and outdone us who are 'to the manor born,' the time has come when we native sons should extend the welcome hand to all spiritually adopted sons in the realization that the old era is past and that a new epoch lies ahead.

"Let us then with hands extended in the warm handclasp of mutual understanding and sympathy build an triumphal arch to the memories of a glorious past and at the same time a new spiritual gateway to a greater California through which the bright sun of good will to all shall shine brighter than the noonday sun upon our hills and valleys; through which the good cheer of hope shall be more promising than the native green of our hills; through which the warm glow of kindness shall be more stimulating than the balmy mildness of our air.

"In Serra Year, may the spirit, courage, faith and vision of that first adopted son, but truly greatest spiritually native son, Junipero Serra, be our guiding star in developing on the traditions of the past a future California that materially and spiritually shall be the New El Dorado of countless souls who in search for peace and happiness are looking with wistful eyes towards God's earthly paradise on this sunset Western shore."

The above address was delivered in Santa Barbara, January 18, by Rev. Louis Schoen, O.F.M., of Santa Barbara Parlor No. 116 N.S.G.W., at the joint public installation of the officers of that Parlor and Reina del Mar Parlor No. 126 N.D.G.W. Deputies C. A. Dinsmore and Anna E. McCaughey officiated, and James Sloan and Marian Arroqui became the respective presidents. On behalf of the Parlors, emblematic pins were presented by Paul Sweetser and Edna Sharp to Philip Bradley and Mrs. Fred Acres, retiring presidents.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

first sermon in the Volcano, Amador County, Methodist church, his text being, "In my Father's house are many mansions." After the sermon an old prospector quietly informed several members of the church that the new minister was a liar. He knew his father back in Missouri, and he never lived in any other house than a log cabin.

In Quincy, Plumas County, an 8-year-old lad was told by his mother to inform a younger sister about his Sundayschool lesson. Sincerely he started, "In Jerusalem was a very good man named Jesus. He preached a new faith which many Jews did not like. They took him to a man named Pilate and wanted to crucify him. And damn me if they didn't do it!" The mother stopped him there.

A swain 83 years old was married to a younger bride at Salinas, Monterey County. This caused an editor to say: "It was like running a mile to get a start to make a 3-foot jump."

In Nevada County, miners sinking a shaft at the Live Oak mine tapped a flow of water. While it looked clear, it tasted like cider. On the watershed above the mine was an apple orchard of over two decades growth. Dropping apples, exuding their juice into the soil as they decayed, were believed to have given the flow its flavor.

GRIZZLY GROWLS

ord in the cases here referred to supports the contention that, if one wishes to engage successfully in thievery, be sure to get plenty. Incidentally, since this woman-thief was so leniently dealt with two similar cases, involving thefts of thousands of dollars from employers by a man and a woman, have come to public-light in the "Holy City."

Another racket,—Blue Eagle-ing Japan-packed tuna—when discovered, promptly brought an order to all customs collectors: "Refuse entry and delivery of any foreign merchandise bearing NRA emblem." The Federal Recovery Administration rightfully contends the Blue Eagle should be a symbol of production under the United States recovery code, and that foreign "blue eagles" are a fraud on the American people.

Addressing the San Francisco Commonwealth Club, State Senator David A. Bush declared: "The most chaotic thing in State government today is the salary setup. There are 24,000 state employes, and their payroll aggregates $70,000,000.

"To obtain real economy," he said, "we must first decide what are the proper functions of state and of local government, respectively. We must separate between the essential services and those merely desirable. We must eliminate fixed charges. And we must establish a real civil service and an effective salary control."

War rumors are in the air, from all quarters of the globe. In Europe, the prediction is made that within ninety days Japan will be at war with Russia. Along this line, here's a quotation from the Italian government budget committee's report:

CALIFORNIA'S 1933 MINERAL PRODUCTION

THE TOTAL VALUE OF THE MINERAL production of California for the year 1933 is conservatively estimated by the State Division of Mines to have been $205,525,000. There are more than fifty mineral substances on California's commercial list. The estimated total is an increase of approximately $6,239,000 over the value of 1932 production, which was $199,096,493. The largest 1933 increases in value of outputs over the previous year are shown by gold and cement, with lesser increases by miscellaneous stone, quicksilver, brick and hollow building tile, industrial materials and salines. The only important mineral substances which show decreased production and value are natural gas, copper, silver and lead.

The value of the petroleum output was approximately the same, although the quantity of about 173,334,000 barrels showed a decrease of 2.5 percent from that of 1932. Gold showed an increase in production of some 23,000 fine ounces over 1932. To place a value on the 1933 output is extremely difficult. At $20.67 an ounce, the statutory price, the output would be worth $12,452,000, but the value received was higher, probably averaging $24 an ounce, which would make the year's output worth approximately $14,218,000. The structural group showed an increase, headed by cement and followed by miscellaneous stone in lesser amount. This increase might be accounted for by the large amount of construction by public works. Both the industrial and saline groups showed a trend to increased values.

The estimated values for 1933 are: gold, $14,218,000; silver, $122,000; copper, $22,000; lead, $26,000; quicksilver, $292,000; other metals, including molybdenum, tungsten and zinc, $16,000; petroleum, $143,011,000; natural gas, $14,840,000; cement, $10,211,000; crushed rock, sand and gravel, $8,500,000; brick and hollow building tile, $1,800,000; other structural materials, including bituminous rock, granite, magnesite, marble, etc., $967,000; miscellaneous industrial minerals, $4,000,000; salines, including borax, potash, salt, soda, etc., $7,500,000.

Field engineers of the State Division of Mines report every gold-mining district in California showed greatly increased activity during 1933, as compared even with 1932, which recorded enlivened and renewed interest. Many old properties have been reopened and equipped, new producers added to the list, and large numbers of prospects are being developed.

A brief survey of these operations indicates a total of 514 mines and prospects added to those actively working, 3,119 men added to the payrolls, and an estimated $2,498,000 put into newly-installed equipment during 1933. These figures of "mines" and "men" do not include the large numbers of individual prospectors scattered through the hills working on their own, nor the thousands panning and sluicing for gold along the streams. It would thus appear that there are approximately 8,000 men "on payrolls" in the gold mines of the state, and there have been some 15,000 or more small-placer seekers during the past season.

CALIFORNIA LEADS THE NATION.

The Federal Mines Bureau January 18 reported the nation's 1933 gold production as 2,320,015 fine ounces, a decrease of 8,948 ounces compared with the 1932 production of 2,328,963 ounces. In California, which continues to lead as a gold state, production increased from 569,167 fine ounces in 1932 to 592,400 ounces in 1933.

"Japan today invades China. Inspired by race hatred, she will plan tomorrow against white men. . . . The vision of peace the whole world clamors for is receding into the distance."

William E. Borah of Idaho, chairman United States Senate foreign relations committee, advocates for this country a foreign policy which would leave the United States politically free from every other country. In a New York address he declared: "The hope that the world was to re-create a new world out of the shambles of the World War has in no sense been realized. I would instill anew the great truth that democratic institutions are the only hope for the personal worth, the dignity, and the individual liberty of the citizens."

Civic and fraternal bodies, including the Native Sons, have organized in Sonoma to rid that county of Filipino labor. May their efforts be crowned with success' Similar organizations should be formed in every county of the state, and the Japs and the Mexis should be included in the ridding. Ineligible to citizenship laborers are a menace to every county. Give employment to citizen laborers, exclusively and always.

"Mexico for Mexicans," is the new policy laid down by the Mexican government in its new labor code. Business concerns there are now compelled to employ 90 percent Mexican help, and in some cases the percentage is even higher. This Mexican policy is a sane and proper one, and it should be the policy of the United States.

eral guests at her home January 27. Grand President Irma W. Laird will officially visit Long Beach February 15, when the birthday anniversary of the Parlor will also be celebrated. An invitation is extended all members of the Order to be present. Having fully recovered from the earthquake, the bank failures, etc., of 1933, No. 154 anticipates 1934 will be a banner year.

San Pedro—Deputy Flora Holy installed the officers of Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W., January 8, Dorothy Markey becoming president. A group of children presented a wonderful program. Carrie Northway was chairman of the evening. January 24 the thimble club served a tamale lunch at the home of Lucy Guzman. February 5 the Parlor will entertain Grand President Irma W. Laird. All members of the Order are invited.

Glendale—Officers of Verdugo Parlor No. 240 N.D.G.W., with Mrs. Margaret Donlan as president, were installed January 9 by Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel B. Hansen, assisted by Past Presidents Clytelle Hewitt, Doria Phillips, Ida Gilman, Ella Mae Madden, Beulah VanLuven and Vera Carlson. Gifts were presented Mrs. Sarah Burleson, retiring president. At the conclusion of the ceremonies President Donlan entertained at a dinner in Altadena.

Santa Monica—At public ceremonies January 10, officers of Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245 N.D.G.W. were installed by Deputy Beulah VanLuven, Katherine Worsham becoming president. The hall was decorated with potted plants and flowers. Gifts were presented President Worsham and the outgoing president, Amada Machado. A most interesting program was presented, and refreshments were served. Among the guests were Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel B. Hansen and Eldred L. Meyer, Grand Trustee N.S.G.W. A potluck luncheon was served January 13 at the home of Marie Barnes, and the ways and means committee sponsored a cooked-food sale January 27. Grand President Irma W. Laird officially visited the Parlor January 29.

STATE FLAG GIVEN MALIBU COURTHOUSE

At a most impressive ceremony the evening of January 20, Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245 N.D.G.W. presented a large California State (Bear) Flag to the Malibu Township Courthouse, the occasion being the formal opening of the building. It was an outstanding social and civic event, attended by more than 300 citizens. The Spanish architecture and furnishings of the beautiful courthouse made an appropriate and romantic setting.

The flag was presented, on behalf of the Parlor, by President Katherine Worsham, and it was accepted, for the township, by Judge John L. Webster. Dr. Owen C. Coy, director of the California State Historical Society, gave a colorful address on early California history and the significance of the Bear Flag. Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz was master of ceremonies, and Leo Carrillo had charge of a most interesting program. In his inimitable manner, he gave a resume of his boyhood in the Malibu Hills. The evening's festivities closed with an elaborate buffet supper served by the women of Malibu Township under the supervision of Mrs. Webster.

The committee of Native Daughters that planned the presentation and carried out the details included Myrtle Borden (chairman), Willette Biscailuz, Mary O'Brien and Catherine Conterno. Among those present were Eldred L. Meyer, Grand Trustee N.S.G.W., Mayor Carter and the city commissioners of Santa Monica, Supervisor John R. Quinn, and many pioneer Native Daughters and Native Sons.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

PRINTS, WHICH TAKE A LEAVE OF ABsence in the fall every year, are back again and even nicer than usual. Largish patterns in definite colors are the first to be seen, but so far it is an even break between geometric designs and flower motifs. There is a lot of tangerine around, touched with paint-brush splashes of black, and also the good old field print.

There are swell trained dinner gowns, made of bright prints on white backgrounds, which are very showy indeed. There are dashing little black suits that display an eye-filling bright print blouse and a jacket which may match the blouse or the skirt. Either way, they are naturals for under your winter coats.

Printed satin shows a gaining popularity as one of the gayest fabrics for evening wear. Some of the smartest were seen wearing them New Year Eve, and that is usually a good way to gauge what will be worn for the remainder of the winter season. One printed satin seen on a lovely figure was in a mass floral design done in orange, black and beige on a rich dark brown background. It had the cartridge pleat treatment on the short sleeves, and a border of mink tacked to the shoulders. A little peplum jerked out in front, but the back was perfectly flat. This was one gown that seemed to say it did not care what was being predicted about shorter lengths. It trailed the floor in a full, uneven hemline.

In velvets, the smartest have mossy surfaces, with olive green chosen frequently to express this fabric. The clear velvets are reserved for black and the darker colors. Another type satin seen frequently at receptions and smart clubs is the hammered or crinkled variety, but their appearance is less frequent than the lacquered satin, especially in black.

The shops stress bright colors, and predict a colorful spring and summer. Yet we note a predominance of blacks. A most attractive black evening gown has extremely large and lively-toned flowers posed at the shoulders and by its side. In striking contrast, is a white lace gown, simple in design and pattern, but defiantly attracting most of the attention by the red flowers used as trimming.

No blonde or redhead could resist a satin gown of that soft smoky shade of blue that does such flattering things to fair skin, blue eyes and light hair.

Checks, flecks, ribs, diagonals, some plain and some enriched with fur, make the season's smartest new sports coats. With these, plain accessories should be worn, such as a black, brown or gray felt hat and classic kid oxfords.

The new footwear fads show the very smartest kidskin shoes. This season promises greater variety in form of zigzag stitching effects, fancy fagoting and stitchings over shiny bands of leather to decorate the newest operas and sandals.

Beneath your dark coat your dress should shine like a jewel. This is the newest vogue, and frocks in bright jewel tones such as amethyst, sapphire or emerald have a brilliant glamour.

Night life finds our young women starry-haired, judging from the vast number of little glittering stars that were sold for Christmas gifts this year. The little ones, given in pairs, seem to be more popular than the large ones. They glitter in their pointed way and have the extra added attraction of being extremely serviceable for that stray wisp of hair. Remember, when you use them, not too many please, and also place them where you find them most becoming.

There are no set instructions as to where fashion wishes to see her stars. Some are worn a-la-earrings, set in the hair so that the star points touch the ear lobes. Some are worn at perfectly spaced points at the temples. You may place them where you like them best. Bear in mind, too, that the ones fashioned like clips are two-fold in their service. The accessory designers are not just sitting back content, to see the popularity of tiaras. So popular has this headdress become that it is all they can do to keep us from looking like a uniformed tiara convention.

Clips have taken a new interest since the delicacy and the variety of their patterns have been emphasized. It is smart now to wear your bracelets and clips in pairs. Another ensemble featuring clips is that of clips worn on either shoulder and a matching buckle placed at the back waistline, emphasizing the decolletage. Have you seen or thought of the matching cigaret case and ring? There is a fine twin set in town comprising a black enamel cigaret case with silver monogram matching the initial on a black simulated onyx ring.

Spring is setting about in a pleasingly determined way to see that we have a crisp look during her season. Many of the new necklines are accentuated by flowerlike collars. Any winter dress or last year's spring number may be freshened with one of the perky bows placed under the chinline. For the most dressy, spring is sponsoring neckline and cuff touches of plain organdie. Deep cuffs are a nice trimming detail. A new pique set will give a real newness to the spring outfit. White accents crepes with a dull finish, giving a look of a lightweight wool.

Organdies are printed with checks, lines, plaids or stripes in clear, bright colors. Silk organdie is a material guaranteed not to lose its crispness. Organdie always suggests an old-fashioned tone. No color, as yet, predominates. We leave that to your vote. There are many blues, and a lovely golden yellow which is being combined with white and black in prints. It looks enticing enough to become popular in its own right.

White satin is used with a color touch, very effectively. The new bright brown is used as the sole touch of color on a severe white evening gown. It shows up in twisted shoulder straps. Printed slippers peep out to express the color tone in another solid white dress. Silvery blues, silvery mauves, mossy greens, slightly yellowed greens and leaf greens all make you stop and take a polite stare at them.

The necklines are generally pulled up under the throat in a line sometimes flattering. They are accented with crushed flowers. The back is usually bare. The fruit prints are very charming, especially the berry, apple and pear ones. Aquamarine is one of the smartest colors, and rust is the newest color for prints.

Little pleatings have come into the spotlight. They are used at the neckline, on the shoulders, on the sleeves, on the belts and at the hemlines. A raspberry red crepe is lovely to wear as a blouse under a gray or natural or navy spring coat or suit.

Warmer weather is ahead, so be prepared with plenty of casual daytime frocks in lightweight woolens. The soft-as-down angoras and other hairy type woolens are smartest. The frocks themselves must be youthful in line and detail, with interest above the waistline in the way of bows, jabots, buttons and bands.

Most important of all, is the velveteen suit, dark in color and boyish in cut. This is an excellent addition to any wardrobe, since it will take you smartly through spring. Two-piece frocks adopt gay combinations of bright velveteen and swagger plaid woolens, while both plain and patterned dresses take an added chic.

A CREED FOR 1934

"Into this year I will pour my energies and my hopes. I do not expect something for nothing. What I put into my labor, that I shall get back, and nothing more. I have faith in the sincerity of the Government, and I will oppose, therefore, those policies which I deem detrimental to the national welfare. I will not be a captious critic. I know that the recovery from the cataclysm of depression has begun abroad; I am convinced that we are traveling upward here. I look forward with assurance to the further development of this continent and to the onward march of its civilization. I take my stand on the side of integrity and honor and character. I will uphold the law and expect the law to uphold me. With faith in my soul and courage in my heart, I will not loiter but will do my part, content that I live in days so great and participate in events so momentous to human progress and happiness."—National Sphere.

PLACES OF HISTORICAL INTEREST CHOSEN FOR MARKING BY STATE.

The State Department of Natural Resources has selected these additional places of historical interest in California for marking, making a total of 136 such places selected since the law authorizing their marking was passed in 1931:

Colton Hall, Monterey City, where California's first constitution was drafted; Governor Pio Pico's home near Whittier, Los Angeles County; landing place of Sebastian Viscaino and Fray Junipero Serra in Monterey County; Fort Tejon, Kern County; Willow Springs stage station near Mojave, Kern County; Whiskeytown, Shasta County, famous early-day gold camp; Kernville, Kern County, scene of Indian massacre; Sebastian Indian Reservation, Tejon Pass, Kern County; Donner monument, erected by the Orders of Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West, near Truckee, Nevada County; Mission San Carlos de Borromeo de Monterey del Carmelo, Carmel, Monterey County; California's first theater building, Monterey City.

DEATH VALLEY, ONE OF CALIFORNIA'S MANY WONDERS, BEING CONQUERED.

Death Valley, whose tragedies date back to the California gold rush of 1849, is being conquered by the Civilian Conservation Corps. Two companies have built many miles of road, and new wells have been located in the desert at strategic points where in the past lack of water meant death for travelers.

According to the United States Geological Survey, Death Valley is 276 feet below sea level. Because of the intense heat, work cannot be carried on during the summer, so the CCC is attempting to complete the job this spring. The National Park Service expresses the belief it should be possible to establish a well every ten or fifteen miles across the valley.

California's gasoline tax apportionment for 1933 decreased 33⅓ percent, compared with 1932—the amounts being, respectively, $35,118,894.95 and $36,239,918.86.

A $600,000 civic auditorium is to be constructed at San Jose, Santa Clara County, the voters of that city having approved a $375,000 bond issue.

GRIZZLY GROWLS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

PRESIDENT FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT canceled air mail contracts, because of the crookedness brought to light by a Federal Senate investigating committee. That act is most encouraging, in that it indicates that the national administration really intends to get at the root of the depression—racketeering, in and out of government. If the President proceeds along that line, and insists on adequate punishment of the racketeers, big and little, we will, in reality, have a much-needed "New Deal," and one that will be lasting.

Howls of protest, of course, arose from various sources, inspired by those engaged in racketeering or profiting from the activities of racketeers. That was to be expected, for the racketeer gang have been in the saddle so long, and mulcted the masses of so many billions, they resent any attempt to unseat them.

Again we repeat, racketeering,—outright dishonesty and questionable practices—in and out of government, brought on the depression, and until such time as honesty is again enthroned there will be no substantial improvement in conditions. Had the root of the evil been attacked a couple of years ago, we would by now be well advanced on the road to complete recovery.

More power to you, Mr. President! Go after the racketeers, regardless of their wealth or station, and you will continue to have the undivided and wholehearted support of the masses in your efforts to make this nation safe for democracy.

The extravagance typical of the California State Government administration, which characterizes it as the most wasteful in the history of the state, is well illustrated in this, from the "Bee" of Sacramento: "The state department of social welfare is as nearly broke as it is possible for a state department to be. Mrs. Splivalo [the director of that department] now spends virtually all of her time in Los Angeles where, incidentally, she preaches . . . nearly every Sunday and Thursday, even though the headquarters of the department is in Sacramento. While she is in Los Angeles, Mrs. Splivalo draws down a flat expense allowance of $8 per day in addition to her $333.33 per month salary. If she was in the headquarters in Sacramento she would not draw this $8 per day.

"Attaches in the department do not recall that Mrs. Splivalo has been in Sacramento since the Legislature adjourned last July—at least not for more than a day. One economy, however, effected by Mrs. Splivalo is that she no longer is using airplanes to transport her around the state, employing her state automobile instead. Last July, the expense accounts show, Mrs. Splivalo flew from Sacramento to Los Angeles on a Saturday, back to Sacramento on Monday, back to Los Angeles on Thursday, preaching that week . . . Sunday and Thursday. Between July 1st and January 15th Mrs. Splivalo's expense accounts have amounted to $1,280.33, exclusive of the cost of gasoline and oil and rather extensive repairs to her automobile."

This bit of news refutes the political propaganda now being spread throughout the state by the administration, at taxpayers' expense, in an endeavor to create the impression that some cause, other than extravagance, waste, etc., wiped out the $30,000,000 surplus in the state treasury when the present administration ascended the throne and is responsible for the deficit of double that amount. The people of California should not again be fooled—that propaganda is "boloney!" The administration, judging from the spending orgy and other carryingson, does not yet know that there is, and for some time has been, a serious depression.

Reports from Washington, D. C., lead to the belief that the so-called "California Council on Oriental Relations" and its sponsors and supporters will be unable at this session of the Federal Congress to open the immigration gates for an influx of Japs via the quota. But, be always on guard, for the Japs and those Americans who are more interested in yellow-dollars than this country's welfare will continue their efforts.

United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson and the entire California delegation in the House of Representatives have, in communications to the President, gone on record as opposed to any tinkering with the Exclusion Act of 1924. "We regard the proposed quota system," said the congressmen's letter, "as only an entering wedge to destroy the exclusion policy and then to be followed by many years, if not decades, of agitation and contention to place Japan on an actual equality with favored European nations instead of the technical equality on which the quota basis is founded. We believe in an exclusion policy based on ineligibility to citizenship."

Also, the entire House delegations, except one, from Washington and Oregon have filed a protest setting forth, "We are vigorously opposed to the abolition of the exclusion policy and feel that even the revival of the agitation on the subject would be unfortunate. We believe in the exclusion policy based on ineligibility of citizenship as the wise one to be maintained and the one which, when accepted as a permanent policy, will contribute most to the maintenance of friendship between this country, Japan and other Oriental countries whose people are likewise ineligible to citizenship."

In California, the Stockton Chamber of Commerce has joined the growing forces of those opposed to the proposed quota for Japs. Its directors have unanimously adopted a resolution declaring "opposition to any changes in our present immigration and exclusion laws or policy."

Of course, the misnamed "California State Chamber of Commerce" is strong for the Jap quota, and has issued a statement: "It is time that we remove from our books the present discriminatory statutory clause which was a breach of mutual friendship of long standing with our Asiatic neighbors." Considering its guiding geniuses, no one could expect otherwise.

It is time this outfit had its wings clipped! Taxpayers' dollars, generously contributed by county boards of supervisors, keep it alive. The Order of Native Sons of the Golden West and other organizations concerned with California's welfare could engage in no more worthwhile civic endeavor than to have the "State Chamber's" sustenance cut off. It can be done, and now's the time to do it!

Apparently, the tax relief which California property owners have anxiously looked for, and were told would come, from approval of the "Riley-Stewart" law is not to be realized. The usual joker is in that law! The courts have affirmed that while the law limits the amount county and city governing officials may "EXPEND" to not more than five percent additional each year, the officials may "LEVY," and collect, as much more yearly as they wish, but the excess over five percent must be reserved for an "emergency."

So, anticipate a big increase in taxes! Public officials, generally speaking, have a penchant for collecting from the dear people, and freely spending, all the traffic will bear, and more. "Emergency" will be the excuse for opening wide the tax-door, but the restriction, once the funds have been garnered, will be ignored.

President Roosevelt, January 31, created, by devaluation, a new dollar, the gold content of which is 59.06 percent of that of the old dollar. Nearly a century ago, June 28, 1834, the gold content was set at 25.8 grains, and it was not subsequently changed until this recent action.

Sentencing a party convicted of driving—attempting to drive—an auto while drunk, the city judge of Oroville, Butte County, said: "Some day the public is going to rise up and string some of you drunken drivers to trees, and it will be a good thing."

Some day, too, the people, incensed at the too-common leniency extended drunk drivers, particularly if among the prominent, are going to summarily oust a whole lot of judges and other public servants, and that, also, will be a good thing.

The judiciary committee of the Federal Senate has reported favorably a proposed constitutional amendment to abolish the electoral college, provide for direct vote of the people for candidates for president and vice-president, and make it possible to nominate entirely independent candidates for those offices. This is an excellent proposal and, for the country's good, should be approved.

From the Federal Government in the national emergency, California has received $569,188,000 of the $7,040,635,000 total, the second largest allotment to any state. Those millions are, believe it or not, not a gift but an added incumbrance on property in this state, and must be repaid, some day, to the Federal Government.

Voicing a warning, H. J. Hagerman of the Western States Taxpayers Association recently declared: "How long can the wheel turn without crushing us? How long can such a system endure? Quite frequently shamelessly wasteful expenditures are approved locally, and even applauded, merely because they distribute new money in the community."

And he might well have stated, also, that quite frequently the Federal Government loans are approved locally to aid the political racketeers in keeping their fences in repair. Every dollar, from loans or taxes, turned over to them is a dollar contributed to perpetuating the depression. They have difficulty in putting over bond issues so, to keep the exchequer well filled, they negotiate loans, which do not require the sanction of the taxpayers. This flow of dollars should be stopped, until the political racketeers are cleaned out of government!

Paul Myron Linebarger, former United States judge of the Philippine Islands, declared in San Francisco, according to the "Chronicle" of January 31: "The situation as between Japan and the United States today is that this country cannot put a ship beyond Hawaii, if Nippon objects. The reason is that Japan has entrenched herself on the other side of Hawaii with a system of fortifications extending from Saghalien to Australia, even around and through the British Empire's Singapore base.

"Her system of slow but relentless penetration is such that today Japan's influence in the Philippines is fully as great as that of the United States. The difference between the two nations in Philippine waters, however, is this: we believe ours is the only influence and exercise it; Japan knows the extent of her own power in

SUN STILL SHINES

"EDITOR GRIZZLY BEAR: THE HOLIDAYS have come and gone, and the brief siesta which was the natural aftermath of the Christmas season has been succeeded by increasing interest in all the Parlors of the State. The Native Sons and Daughters are made of the same courageous metal as were their forbears, and when 'the going is the hardest' their determination to conquer always rises to the requirement of the darkest hour. Our Order is built upon the things that are eternal in the human heart. Friendship, loyalty and charity are the finest and most endearing qualities of mankind. They embrace all that is of life.

"Of all of the human virtues, it is written in Holy Writ that charity is the greatest of all, and of all charities to which men may devote themselves, the greatest is the care for homeless children. Even though we give but the pittance of the widow's mite, our charity is twice blest. It blesses him that gives and him that receives. We have definitely committed ourselves to this charity. The needs of those in charge of the homeless children program are urgent. The small contribution of fifty cents from each member of our Order, or even a lesser amount, would go far in relieving a serious situation.

"God forbid that any child be denied the opportunity of enjoying the blessings of a home life, if it can be done by small contributions made by each one of us without serious injury to ourselves or our families. We should take this matter to our hearts. It would be a matter of great satisfaction to ourselves and add much to our happiness if we should, during the two months remaining before the meeting of the Grand Parlor, swell the amount of our contributions to our fostered and blessed enterprise. Let us try. No amount is too small. The little ones need our help.

"I am pleased to say that a better spirit is pervading our ranks everywhere. We can within our ranks at least be happy. The sun still shines, and this land of beauty is our heritage. With best wishes to all, fraternally,

"EMMET SEAWELL,
"Grand President N.S.G.W.

INDETERMINATE SENTENCE AND PAROLE UNDER LAWS OF CALIFORNIA

Charles W. Fricke, LL.M., J.D., LL.D.

(Judge of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County, Former Assistant District Attorney of Los Angeles County, Past President of Southern California Academy of Criminology, Professor of Criminal Law and Procedure, Loyola University.)

FOR A NUMBER OF YEARS THERE HAS been growing a feeling of dissatisfaction with the indeterminate sentence law and the present parole system of this state. The Los Angeles Bar Association, the Southern California Academy of Criminology, the Chamber of Commerce and almost innumerable organizations have discussed and considered this subject with an interest which has become most acute since a paroled convict from one of our state prisons embarked upon a career of banditry and in the perpetration of one of his crimes brutally shot an innocent victim of his crime lust and destroyed her sight. In view of the interest in the question and the fact that the provisions of the so-called indeterminate sentence law and particularly the methods and practice used in its application are not but should be matters of common knowledge this article has been prepared so that The People, who are most interested in the manner in which the laws for their protection are applied, may know the facts and support the efforts of those who are endeavoring to bring about a change which will better protect life, limb and property.

A few preliminary remarks may assist in clarifying the subject. Prior to the adoption of what, for want of a more appropriate name, has been called the indeterminate sentence law, the law provided that when a person was convicted of a felony—that is, a crime which carries a state prison sentence as one of the possible penalties—the judge before whom the accused was convicted, in sentencing the accused to the state prison fixed the length of the sentence, thus determining in advance how long the period of imprisonment should be. In 1917 there was passed a bill which became section 1168 of the Penal Code, now called the indeterminate sentence law. This law, amended in some respects, is still in force. The principal result of the passage of this law was to take from the judge before whom a defendant was convicted all power to fix the length of the sentence.

In other words, except in cases where the death sentence is imposed by the judge, his sentence to the penitentiary amounts to no more than an order that the prisoner be taken to the state penitentiary. Regardless of how aggravated the case may have been or how many mitigating circumstances may have existed, nothing the judge can say or order determines how long the convicted prisoner shall serve. The question naturally arises, "Who then fixes the length of the sentences of convicts sent to the state prison?" Under the original law the length of the sentences and the granting of paroles was placed in the hands of the Board of Prison Directors, but several years ago there was created a board of three members known as the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles, which Board now has the supreme and sole power to determine how long a convict committed to the state prison shall remain there, subject to a few limitations and exceptions. Firstly, this Board cannot detain a convict in the state prison for any time longer than the maximum penalty for the offense or offenses of which he has been convicted. Theoretically, or perhaps we should rather say basically, they cannot release him until he has served the minimum term provided by law for the offense or offenses of which he has been convicted but, though they cannot fix a term of imprisonment less than that provided by law, their power to grant a parole can and often does reduce the time of imprisonment to less than the minimum term.

A brief definition of a parole may be of assistance in this discussion. In the first place, the word "parole" is entirely different from probation. Probation is granted by the judge before whom the defendant was convicted. Where a convicted person, found guilty of a crime which could have been punished by a sentence to the state prison, falls within the class wherein justice can be accomplished without sending him to the state prison, the judge may proceed under the probation law. The effect of placing a defendant on probation saves him from going to the state prison but does not at all mean that he entirely escapes punishment. In the first place, he is placed on probation for a definite term of years during which he must report monthly to the probation officer and conduct himself in a law abiding manner and comply with the conditions of probation. These conditions always include the duty of reporting and acting in accordance with the law, remaining away from bad associates and questionable resorts, and to these general conditions are added special conditions appropriate to the particular case. If in the perpetration of the crime property has been stolen or damaged or if personal injury has been inflicted the probationer is required as a condition of probation to reimburse or make good the damage resulting from his crime and where such payment cannot be made all at once such reimbursement is made payable in installments within the means of the probationer. The court may also require the probationer to serve a period of imprisonment in the county jail as long as the maximum term provided by law for his offense and may provide that all or a portion of this time be spent upon one of the county road camps and that his earnings there be applied to the payment of the reimbursement referred to above or devoted toward the support of his dependents. Also, probation may have as a condition the payment of a fine, and where the crime was committed through the unlawful operation of an automobile or if an automobile was used in the perpetration of the crime the court may revoke the probationer's license to drive an automobile or may suspend it for a period of time. If at any time a probationer breaks any condition of his probation he may be arrested and brought back into court, where the terms of probation may be made more rigid or probation may be absolutely revoked and the probationer sentenced to the state prison as one unfit to have the benefit of probation, in which event the prisoner is subject to the same imprisonment in the state prison as if he had been sent there in the first instance instead of having been given probation, with the single exception that any period spent in the county jail as a condition of probation is credited upon his prison term. In actual practice this credit should not be of much value, because a convicted person who breaks the terms of probation has little claim for leniency when it comes to the fixing of the duration of his stay in the state prison.

Parole, on the other hand, is something with which the judge has absolutely nothing to do, as it is solely under the jurisdiction of the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles. For brevity, this Board will be referred to hereinafter as the "Board." Parole is and can only be granted to a person sentenced to imprisonment who has served a part of his sentence in the jail or prison to which he has been sentenced. When, therefore, we speak of a paroled convict we mean a person who has served a part of his term as previously fixed but who has been released before he has served his entire term. The paroled convict is required to report regularly to a state parole officer and to conduct himself in a law abiding manner. If he violates the terms of his parole, he may be arrested and returned to prison to serve the unexpired portion of his term of imprisonment.

When a person has been convicted of a state prison offense and the case is one in which probation is either improper, or if it falls within the class of cases in which the law does not permit the granting of probation, the convicted person is sentenced by the judge to the state prison. The form of the sentence is substantially in the following form: "It is the judgment of this court that for the crime of which you have been convicted that you be imprisoned in the state prison at San Quentin for the term provided by law and the Sheriff is directed to execute this judgment and deliver the prisoner to the warden of the state prison at San Quentin." If the prisoner has previously served a term in a state penitentiary, he is sentenced to the state prison at Folsom. Following this there is sent by the judge and the district attorney to the prison a statement setting forth the crime or crimes of which the prisoner has been convicted and a statement of his past, including his occupation, habits, education, age, nativity, nationality, parentage, etc., but, since the personal history of the prisoner has to be secured from him, the difficulty of securing accurate information and the likelihood of the prisoner not being overly frank and truthful is apparent. The testimony of the witnesses given upon the trial of a person subsequently sent to the state prison is not sent to the prison or to the Board. This point alone has caused many people to remark that the judge who presided at the trial and heard all of the evidence and before whom the witnesses appeared in person is in a better position to fix a just and adequate sentence than some board which does not even read the testimony.

After the prisoner has served the minimum term of imprisonment applicable to the crime or crimes of which he has been convicted, or where the minimum term is more than six months, after the expiration of six months the Board is required to determine what length of time such person shall serve. For every state prison offense the law provides a maximum and a minimum sentence and in addition there are certain provisions of law which tend to increase the minimum normally provided for the particular crime. Thus, if a person commits a crime and was armed with a deadly weapon either at the time of the commission of the crime or a concealed deadly weapon at the time of his arrest, or if he has previously been convicted of a felony—that is, a crime punishable by imprisonment in the state prison—either in this state or elsewhere, the minimum term of imprisonment is fixed by law at five years and, if he was both so armed and had suffered such a previous conviction, the minimum term is fixed by law at ten years. If the prisoner was convicted at one trial of more than one offense and the sentences were ordered by the judge to run consecutively and the aggregate exceeded ten years, the law provides that the minimum term shall be ten years. Unless he forfeits them by misconduct, each prisoner is allowed a deduction from the sentence as fixed by the Board of two months for each of the first two years, four months for the third and a like amount for the fourth year, five months for the fifth and a like amount for the sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth years. For example: if the sentence of a prisoner were fixed at ten years, the time to be served, unless he forfeited his credits by misconduct, would be six years and six months. After the tenth year there is allowed a good time credit of five months out of each year.

When the time arrives for the Board to fix the term of imprisonment we would expect that the members of the Board have read and are familiar with all of the information sent to the prison by the judge and the district attorney as well as any other information, such as records in other states and jurisdiction relating to any past criminal record and the reports of the probation officers where, though probation was applied for, the defendant was sentenced to the state prison either upon a denial of probation or because of a violation of the terms of his probation. We would expect the Board to do this but, by their own admission appearing in their official reports, this is not their custom or practice. As stated by the Board in its reports, and the individual members of the Board do not deny this, the information gathered is turned over to someone else, whose duty it is to go over the mass of information sent in and then reduce the information to a short and concise statement which is known in the parlance of the Board as a "narrative." It seems obvious to the writer, in fact it should be obvious even to the members of the Board, that in the process of reducing the mass of material sent in for the use of the Board in fixing sentences and passing upon paroles much of the value of the information sent in is bound to be lost and the chances of important information being omitted is great.

This would seem inevitable even though the most highly trained experts were engaged in this task of reducing the mass of material to a narrative a hundred or two words in length. The fact becomes more startling when we learn from the last report of the Board that this important work is done by "Secretaries." And the fact becomes even more interesting when, upon consulting the law creating the Board, we find that the Board has only one secretary. This would lead us to the conclusion that when the Board said that the "narratives" were prepared by "secretaries" they meant that the work was done by stenographers or clerks employed by the Board. The report is significantly silent as to just who these clerks or "secretaries" are and what qualifications they possess to warrant their being intrusted with this technically difficult and important work of preparing the "narratives" upon which the Board depends in fixing sentences and passing upon paroles.

The writer is reliably informed by persons who have attended hearings at which the terms of imprisonment and paroles were passed upon, and by a member of the Board in person, that many of these "narratives" have been prepared by inmates of the prison, serving terms therein, who have been made "trusties" and assigned to this work. The situation is startling to say the least. It is almost unbelievable, but the fact remains. This condition and practice is not a new one. It has existed for years. It is said that at one time conditions resulting from the trustles making up the narratives became so acute that the practice was abandoned and no prisoners were allowed to have anything to do with the making of the narratives, but that a year or so thereafter, following a change of administration, the practice was reinstated.

Another interesting fact is that, although the law requires a notice of the hearing before the Board to be sent to the Judge who imposed sentence and the Sheriff and District Attorney of the county where the case originated, the notices sent out do not give the date of the hearing but only the month in which the hearing will be held.

Furthermore, the meetings of the Board and the hearings before it are not open to the public as are, for example, our court trials. The prisoner is permitted to attend these hearings, which, by the way, the Board calls "executive sessions," and may make a statement which is taken into consideration by the Board in making its decision. This statement is not required to be under oath. The person injured by the commission of the particular crime is not only not notified of the hearing but is given no opportunity of presenting his side of the matter to the Board.

And still further, according to the statement of the former President of the Board made before the Southern California Academy of Criminology in the presence of the writer, the Board in arriving at its decisions in the matter of fixing sentences and passing upon paroles takes into consideration letters and other communications sent to the Board and its members, which letters and communications are not required to be verified by oath or otherwise and which are kept secret and confidential and not made public.

Paroles cannot be granted to habitual criminals who have, after having three times previously been convicted of felonies resulting in three separate terms of imprisonment in a state prison and who were thereafter convicted and sentenced to state prison a fourth time after being adjudicated habitual criminals. If a habitual criminal has only two prior convictions and prison terms at the time of his third conviction he may be paroled after he has served twelve years, and a prisoner sentenced to life imprisonment cannot be paroled until he has served seven years, and a person serving two or more cumulative sentences or who has previously served a term in state prison must serve two years before he can be paroled. These are the principal exceptions to the rule of law which permits parole after the prisoner has served the minimum term of imprisonment or where the minimum term exceeds one year. "He may be paroled at any time after the expiration of one-half the minimum term of imprisonment provided by law for the offense of which he was convicted, with benefit of credits, and in any case the matter of parole may be determined by the Board at any time after the expiration of six months from and after the actual commencement of such imprisonment."

The foregoing information is given by the writer because of a belief that the law both as to indeterminate sentence and the granting of paroles is sadly in need of being changed. It seems quite obvious that under the present system there is all too great a likelihood of dangerous criminals being turned loose upon society when they should be kept in prison, to say nothing of the possibility that persons sentenced to prison may, under the system now used, be kept in prison long after all reason for their detention has expired. With an experience in the Los Angeles County Superior Courts—which are now handling some four thousand felony cases a year—covering over sixteen years, the writer has no hesitancy in estimating that fully one-fourth of the defendants now passing through the Superior Court have serious prior criminal records. The time has come to so change the law that The People will be protected.

LANDMARKS RECOGNIZED

PLACENTIA (ORANGE COUNTY)—IN the presence of an immense crowd, Grace Parlor No. 242 N.D.G.W. dedicated, February 1, a shaft and bronze marker designating the site of the first commercial Valencia orange grove in California, on the S. W. McColloch ranch in Placentia. Chairman Nellie M. Cline of the Parlor's history and landmarks committee presided. Grand President Irma W. Laird expressed delight at being able to participate in a tribute to the Valencia orange. President Erma Watts of Grace Parlor unveiled the shaft, which was designed by Ralph Modjeska, a student of Fullerton junior college. R. H. Gilman of Redondo, the 88-year-old pioneer grower who first planted the Valencia here, expressed appreciation for the tribute.

S. W. McColloch traced the history of the first commercial planting of Valencia oranges, saying in part: "On a bright sunny day, sixty-one years ago, a travel-stained covered wagon came up this road and turned in at this place. In the wagon was a young man of sturdy New England stock, who had sailed round the Horn as a youth, landed in San Francisco and then pushed on to new adventures. He later settled in Healdsburg, Sonoma County. At that early date southern California was sparsely settled and regarded as mostly desert. To this section came R. H. Gilman, the man we are honoring today, commissioned by a group of friends in Healdsburg to inspect the land, and if he found it favorable, to purchase a tract. In October 1872 Gilman purchased this property, 110 acres, at $17.50 per acre, and returned to Healdsburg to report to his associates on his action. He returned January 1, 1873, and began development of this ranch. Believing the soil and climate here adapted to the growing of oranges he early began to plant seedling orange trees. Seeking improvements wherever possible, Gilman learned of a new orange developed by Judge A. B. Chapman of San Gabriel, and secured buds with which he worked over about five acres of his trees. This was in 1883. The variety was known as Valencia late. From this small start Gilman laid the foundation for the great Valencia orange industry as we know it today, the greatest agricultural asset of California." A. D. Shamel, representing the United States Department of Agriculture, traced the history of the Valencia orange, showing it originated in England.

Right to left: MRS. IRMA W. LAIRD, Grand President N.D.G.W.; R. H. GILMAN, pioneer orange grower; MRS. NELLIE M. CLINE, chairman; RALPH MODJESKA, shaft designer.

"This site selected fifty-four years ago has proved to be the center of a Valencia orange production without a peer in the world," said Paul S. Armstrong, who stated that the Valencia orange production has grown rapidly, 34,000 carloads being shipped last year. "The Valencia," he continued, "has made Orange the leading county in the United States in orange production. California now has 107,000 acres of Valencias in bearing and 24,000 non-bearing, and practically half that acreage, 60,000, is in Orange County."

ONCE FAMOUS HOSTELRY MARKED.

Los Angeles City—Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W. placed and dedicated, February 4, a marker at the Pico House, historic landmark of this city on North Main street opposite the Plaza, built by Pio Pico, last Mexican governor of California. The tablet reads: "Pico House, built by Governor Pio Pico, 1869. Marked by L. A. Parlor 124 N.D.G.W., February 4, 1934." Father Marin pronounced an invocation, and speakers included President Dolores Malin, Olinda Kerby, Grand President Irma W. Laird, Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer, Past Grand President Herman C. Lichtenberger of the Native Sons, and Historian Marie T. Walsh of Los Angeles Parlor.

"Today we stand upon historic ground," said Miss Walsh in the course of her extended address, "with its memories of the past, and as we stand here there are some, no doubt, who will wonder why so much trouble should be taken to put a plaque upon a building which has seen the heyday of its glory. Tradition, love and respect for our landmarks are behind the motive of the Native Daughters in thus bringing to mind from the obscurity of years this historic landmark of another day. . . . It is not necessary to give here a biography of Pio Pico, for his name is well known in California's annals. . . . In 1845, Pio was formally pronounced Governor of California, with the seat of government at Los Angeles. His, perhaps, is one of the most maligned and misrepresented figures in California history. . . . On such a man fortune smiled, and finally frowned, until he was forced to lose, among other things, the Pico House. . . . Let us not scoff at the term 'elegant' as applied to the period of 1870-1890, but let us live again in our mind's eye those other days when our pueblo was building and finding itself and, as Don Pio said in his last message before the California Mexican Legislature: 'We find ourselves threatened by hordes of Yankee immigrants who have already begun to flock into our country and whose progress we cannot arrest. Whatever that astonishing people will next undertake I cannot say, but on whatever enterprise they embark, they will be sure to be successful.' How truly correct Don Pio's words have proved themselves, we have only to turn our heads to verify." Following the ceremonies Olvera street was toured, and in the evening Grand President Laird and the Native Daughters were honored guests of Los Fiesteros at a gathering at which goodfellowship prevailed and a program of volunteer talent was muchly enjoyed.

CABRILLO MONUMENT PLANS SPEEDED.

San Diego City—Plans for establishing a monument honoring Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo in Cabrillo National Park, Point Loma, were speeded by the arrival here February 5 of Colonel John R. White and other representatives of the National Park Service. Tentative plans, approved by White and the monument committee, composed of Native Sons and others interested in California history, call for a lifesize bronze monument to Cabrillo, restoration of the Spanish lighthouse as it appeared in 1855, etc.

Colonel White presented to San Diego this Cabrillo monument sign: "United States Department of the Interior, Office of National Parks, Buildings and Reservations. EL CABRILLO NATIONAL MONUMENT. This Monument was created June 8, 1906, to commemorate the landing of one Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo near this point on September 28, 1542, the first European to land on the Pacific Coast."

ADOBE OF 1790 PLAQUED.

Los Angeles City—Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W. marked with a bronze plaque February 16 the adobe "La Cienega O' Paso de la Tijera" (Scissors Pass) at the Sunset field golf grounds, 4201 Crenshaw boulevard. This old adobe, according to county records, was constructed in 1790.

Breakfast preceded the dedication ceremonies, which were arranged by Mrs. Dexter Monroe, history and landmarks chairman of the Parlor. Among the speakers were Grand President Irma W. Laird, Gertrude Tuttle and President Inez Sitton.

The imprint of a padre's foot, believed to be that of Fra Junipero Serra, has been found in an adobe brick unearthed at Carmel Mission, Monterey County.

A $2.50 goldpiece, dated 1836, was recently found near Pike City, Sierra County. The name of the mint at which coined is not indicated.

Eighty years ago—March 1, 1854,—Sacramento City was designated as the Capital of California.

Native Daughters of the Golden West

SANTA BARBARA—SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 11, leaders in state historical societies met at a breakfast under the sponsorship of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, the Native Sons of the Golden West, the Santa Barbara County Historical Society and members of the board of directors of the Mission Trails Association, the purpose being to launch statewide committees for the observance of Serra Year.

Speakers included Justice Emmet Seawell, Grand President N.S.G.W.; Mrs. Irma Laird, Grand President N.D.G.W.; Miss Grace Stoermer, Past Grand President N.D.G.W., who was responsible for the movement to place the statue of Junipero Serra in the Hall of Fame at Washington, D. C., and Rev. Father Felix, O.F.M., assistant to Rev. Zephryn Engelhardt, O.F.M., historian of the missions of California. He referred to the tribute to be paid Serra this year, remarked on the significance of the date on which plans for the year were being made, and recalled to mind the fact that it was under the administration of Abraham Lincoln that the missions of California were returned to the church. Mrs. Elmer Whittaker, state vice-regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, discussed the value of tradition and the place of California's missions as national shrines on the Pacific coast.

The meeting was presided over jointly by Miss Anna E. McCaughey, chairman of the restoration committee of the Native Daughters, and Paul Sweetser, president of the Santa Barbara County Historical Society and a Native Son. Guests included representatives of the county government, the mayor of Santa Barbara, representatives of the city and county schools, officials of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. L. Deming Tilton, representing Miss Josephine Seaman, president State Federation Women's Clubs, members of the press, the board of directors of the Mission Trails Association, the president and secretary of the Santa Barbara Chamber of Commerce, and John Steven McGroarty, poet laureate of California, who spoke briefly of plans for Serra Year.—A.N.

Carrying on Good Work.

From Past Grand Stella Finkeldey of Santa Cruz, under date of February 18, The Grizzly Bear received this request: Will you kindly place the following short report in the March number of The Grizzly Bear Magazine? I was very much pleased this evening, while I was at dinner, to see a copy of The Grizzly Bear on a table at one of our local cafes, the Town Clock. Here's the report:

As chairman of the Grand Parlor Veterans Welfare Committee, I am pleased to report that to date 147 Parlors have sent in their contributions to the veterans welfare fund, making it possible to carry on as generously as in the past years.

Letters of appreciation and thanks have been received from Dr. P. G. Lasche, Palo Alto; Dr. Frank B. Brewer, Livermore, and Dr. D. C. Farnsworth, San Francisco, California, for the usual renewal of magazines sent to the ex-service patients under their care.

Grand President Pays Surprise Visit.

San Jose—One of the finest events ever held by San Jose No. 81 was the joint installation of its officers and those of San Jose No. 22 N.S.G.W. The officers of No. 81 looked lovely in gowns of pastel shades, with corsages of white and green, while President-elect Ruby King was gowned in white and carried a shower boquet of red rosebuds. John Sullivan was installed as president of No. 22. Deputies Daloros Collett and Al Hansen officiated at the ceremonies.

The presence of Grand President Irma Laird was a genuine surprise to all except Secretary Nellie Fleming. About 200 members of the Orders and guests had assembled and they were wonderfully impressed with the interesting speech of Mrs. Laird on the activities sponsored by the Native Daughters and Native Sons. Other speakers were Past Grand Thomas Monahan and Grand Treasurer John A. Corotto. Grand Organist Clara Gairaud led in community singing, and duets were rendered by Sue Gilman and George Murray. Refreshments were served.

Civic Work Commended.

Grass Valley—January 29 was naturalization day at the Nevada County courthouse in Nevada City, and President Florence George and several members of Manzanita No. 29 went to the county seat, where they distributed United States of America and California (State) Bear Flags to each citizenship seeker who passed the examination. Superior Judge Raglan Tuttle complimented the girls on their wonderful civic work and wished the Parlor continued success.

Second Vice-president Verna Taylor was in charge of the Washington Birthday program, February 15. President George is perfecting plans for observance of Arbor Day, when trees will be planted at the Washington and Grant schools. Manzanita was instituted March 28, 1888, and its anniversary will be observed March 20 with a minstrel show and banquet.

Eleven Initiated.

Placentia—Grand President Irma W. Laird was an all-day guest of Grace No. 242, February 1. In the morning she was taken on a tour of Orange County, including a visit to San Juan Capistrano Mission. An afternoon tea was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas McFadden, beautified with peach blossoms; the hostess was assisted by Mms. Jesse Watts and Dean Hasson. At 6:30 a banquet was served at tables adorned with valentine motifs and sweetpeas; a Spanish trio entertained with song and music.

For the Parlor meeting, the clubhouse was decorated with gorgeous poinsettias and berries. President Watts presided, and eleven candidates were initiated. Grand President Laird, in her charming manner, accepted a gift presented by Supervising Deputy Nellie Cline, and a basket of oranges from Helen Anderson in memory of the day spent in Orange County as a most welcome guest of Grace Parlor. No. 242 is to adopt another baby, and plans are being made to present a California (State) Bear Flag to the newly-formed Valencia Union high school. Among the many other honored guests were Past Grand Grace S. Stoermer, for whom the Parlor is named, Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel Hansen, Supervising Deputy Marvel Thomas, Deputy Irene Eden and Bertha Hitt, organizer of Grace. At the meeting's close wafers and coffee were served by Rena Johnson, Mae Lemke and Helen Anderson.

Birthday Celebrated.

Oakland—Aloha No. 106 joined Athens No. 195 N.S.G.W. at a valentine party February 13. Members and friends greatly enjoyed the games and dancing, especially so the valentine mail box which the social committees of both Parlors prepared for their entertainment. Refreshments closed a most delightful evening.

Aloha's literary committee, Past President Thelma Rogers chairman, entertained No. 106 with a patriotic program observing the birthdays of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington. The Parlor's thirty-fifth birthday was celebrated at a banquet February 27. The affair was under the supervision of the social committee, Gladys Farley chairman.

Good Suggestion Heartily Endorsed.

Alturas—Officers of Alturas No. 159, with Katie Gloster as president, were installed at public ceremonies February 1 by Deputy Nettie McKenzie, who was accompanied by several members of Mount Lassen No. 215 (Bieber). Past president pins were presented Bertie Auble and Erma Elliott by Past Grand Catherine E. Gloster, and the Parlor's gift to Deputy McKenzie was presented by President Gloster.

Judge E. C. Bonner related historical data concerning the old town of Shasta, and invited Alturas' members to co-operate with the Masonic fraternity in promoting a trek from Alturas to that historic Shasta County place the latter part of May. He suggested that treks to many other places of historic or scenic interest in Modoc and neighboring counties might follow this initial one, to "Know Your State and Home

Tree Dedicated to Pioneer Mothers.

Santa Ana—Santa Ana No. 235 entertained in honor of Grand President Irma W. Laird, February 12. In the grounds of the Charles W. Bowers Memorial Museum, a native sycamore was planted and dedicated to the memory of the Pioneer Mothers of California. President Mae West introduced Matilda Lemon, chairman of the Parlor's history and landmarks committee, as chairman of the day. Speakers included Mrs. Laird, Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel Hansen, Florence D. Schoneman, President Ivan Harper of Santa Ana No. 265 N.S.G.W., Mayor Paul Witman, President Ball of the Orange County Historical Society and T. E. Stephen.

A dinner followed, the tables being especially beautiful in the valentine motif and red tapers. Piano and vocal selections were given, respectively, by Hilda Johnston and Ruth Kotlar. At the Parlor meeting, one candidate was initiated, and Grand President Laird gave an inspiring address on the Order's projects, mentioning specially the Home and The Grizzly Bear; she complimented the Parlor's officers, and stressed the need of increased membership. Among the many other visitors were Supervising Deputy Nellie M. Cline, Deputies Violet Henshilwood, Mattie Edwards, Adele Frankish and Marion Crum.

Landmark Re-dedicated.

Auburn—In memory of the Pioneers, Auburn No. 233 re-dedicated the Masonic Hall in Old Town, originally dedicated in 1860, by placing a bronze marker donated by Sadie Winn-Brainard of Sacramento. P. W. Smith related the early history of the pioneer Masons, and Gladys Whittemore, accompanied by Mrs. Vanderbilt, sang "I Love You, California."

A delegation from the Parlor accompanied Deputy Elizabeth Livingston to Lincoln, January 17, where she installed the officers of Placer No. 138, with Florence E. Grey as president. At the same time, the officers of Silver Star No. 63 (Lincoln) and Rocklin No. 233 (Roseville) N.S.G.W. were also installed, Edward A. Grey and Donald Schmidt becoming the respective presidents. At the banquet which concluded the ceremonies, Robert Dixon was the toastmaster and among the speakers was Sadie Winn-Brainard, Placer County supervising deputy.

Bear Flag Given School.

Bakersfield—Grand President Irma W. Laird officially visited El Tejon No. 239 and Miocene No. 228 (Taft) in joint session February 16. At a 6:30 banquet the tables were beautifully decorated with sweetpeas in the colors of the Order; the placecards were hand-painted little grizzly bears. At the meeting, six candidates were initiated, four for Miocene and two for El Tejon, and the officers of the latter Parlor were congratulated by the Grand President on their beautifully executed work. A splendid musical program was presented. In attendance were Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel Hansen, Florence D. Schoneman, Supervising Deputy Louise Herod and Deputy Evalyn Towne. Jewel Frame was in charge of arrangements for the evening.

Under the auspices of the history and landmarks committee, El Tejon Parlor presented a California State (Bear) Flag to the William Penn school February 20. Past President Gladys Cooper made the presentation address. March 2 the Parlor will have a public card party, and a cedar chest filled with lovely hand-made articles will be given away.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS NEWS BRIEFS.

Dixon—Dr. Charles H. Bell, husband of Past Grand Mary E. Bell, was killed in an auto accident February 7. Dr. Bell was a native of San Francisco, aged 68, and was affiliated with Stanford Parlor No. 76 N.S.G.W. of that city.

Ione—At a largely attended gathering, officers of Chispa No. 40 and Ione No. 33 N.S.G.W. were jointly installed by Deputies Cynthia Phillips and Thomas Davis, Eva Skeen and Herbert Bennetts becoming the respective presidents. A musical program was presented, and among the speakers were Grand Vice-president Gladys E. Noce, Supervising Deputy Emma Wright and Matron Laura Hawkins of the Home. A turkey supper was served under the direction of Mms. Gus Laveroni and Myrtle Tonzi.

Merced—A joint installation of officers of Veritas No. 75 and Yosemite No. 24 N.S.G.W. was held January 22. Deputy Lois Roach officiated for the former, and Mabel Doran became the president. A scrapbook was presented to Veritas by Deputy Zelphia Thomas. Marian Pul-

Passing of the California Pioneer

(Confined to Brief Notices of the Demise of Those Men and Women Who Came to California Prior to 1870.)

MRS. ALBERTINA D. BLANCHARD, native of Germany, 92; with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Labish, came to California in 1844 and settled in what is now Santa Cruz City, where she died; three children survive. She was the widow of Seth Blanchard, Pioneer of 1849 who came from Massachusetts.

Mrs. Sarah Alice McIntosh-Chamberlain, native of Kentucky, 84; came across the plains in 1852; died at Los Angeles City, survived by a husband and a son.

George Wilbert Stevenson, native of Indiana, 81; as a babe in arms, came via Panama in 1853 and settled in Amador County; died at Jackson.

Mrs. Mary Louise Loomis, native of Michigan, 86; crossed the plains in 1853 and resided in El Dorado and Fresno Counties; died at Kingsburg, survived by three children.

Edward Perine Gayetty, native of Wisconsin, 85; came across the plains in 1854 and resided in Alameda and Humboldt Counties; died at Fortuna, survived by eight children.

Mrs. Louise Schaefer, native of New York, 82; came via Panama in 1855 and settled in El Dorado County; died in Deer Valley, survived by a husband and four children.

Alfred M. Gunter, native of Indiana, 91; crossed the plains in 1855; died at Sacramento City, survived by seven children.

GIANTS AND PYGMIES

(A. L. SMITH.)

We cannot all be Giants in the earth,
We cannot all, in glory, lead the van.
Pygmies have their place, their task, their worth;
The afterguard may also be a man.
We cannot all attain the sun-drenched hights
To win the robe and scepter, crown and throne,
For some must labor in the valley's night
And be content with crust and bed of stone.

Learn then a lesson from the ocean sands
That baby hands, impatient, fling aside,
Yet every grain a part of rigid bands
United, holding back the surging tide.
Know also that the unknown mountain stream
Hid deep beneath the moss and leaves from sight
Is as important in the Master's scheme
As any graceful river's rolling might.

'Tis not so hard to play the Giant's role
When spurred by fellow creatures with cheers,
While History upon her open scroll
Inscribes our conquest for the coming years.
But oh, the courage of the Pygmy's toil
When strength of heart and body is 'most gone,
A courage springing upward from the soil
And crying to the beaten soul, "Go on!"

Judge not thy victory by the lofty hights
Where, all unfettered, heart and mind are free
And courage, matching eagle's soaring flight,
Brings greater laurels to thy hand and thee.
Judge first that courage needed where the road
Seems all so lengthy to the feeble might,
A courage jesting, laughing, 'neath its load
And singing fearless in the leaden night.

Oh Pygmy, weary with thy staggering task,
There is some where, some day reward for thee
Far higher than thy brightest dreams could ask
And endless as Eternity's great sea.
In that far day when Justice, like the sun,
Shall bring to life the things indifference veiled
I'd rather stand with Pygmies who have won
Than lie among the Giants—who have failed!

SAN FRANCISCO

ADDRESSING THE COMMONWEALTH Club of California at San Francisco on "Labor—and Tomorrow," Dr. John McDowell, national moderator of the Presbyterian Church, said: "Despite its defects, democracy on the whole has done well so far, and I am confident it will do better in the years to come. Four facts in the present situation are vital and stand out clearly:

"The first is the interdependence of all life - corporate, individual, national, international and economic. We have reached the place where the dinner pail philosophy is no longer a good working basis; but to admit that man does not live by bread alone is no justification for saying man can live without bread. We've got to have a sound economic basis for any life we have in America.

"The second is the interdependence of economic and human relationships. The crime and tragedy of the depression has been that a man could not get a chance to do honest work for a day's pay. Our human relationships are the things that have broken down. We are not going to get back to normal till we heal them—and they won't heal merely by an increase of money, productivity, or raw materials. Faith is the foundation for all commercial and industrial life. Without it, there is no credit; without credit, we cannot carry on the business life of America.

"The third is the interdependence of human relationships and religion. I have come to believe that every man, whether he declares it or not, has a religion—or philosophy—of some kind. Perhaps it is not mine, but it is his and it is a valuable asset. Practically every problem in America is a problem of human relationships, and therefore practically every problem is a religious problem, for religion works in the realm of human relationships. The difficulty with America is we talk a good deal about co-operation and never do anything about it. We've got to have a more equable distribution of what we create. You can't cripple the buying power of the laboring man and have anything in America except depression.

"The fourth is the dependence of religion today on men. We must develop a team play—I never saw a team win yet that didn't play together—and we must play to win, never to lose. We must make a sacrifice hit whenever it is necessary to push across the winning run."

BREAKFAST AT THE N.D. HOME.

At the February 12 breakfast at the Native Daughter Home, Supervising Deputy Ann Dippel (Mission Parlor No. 227) and Deputy Elizabeth Muller (Golden State Parlor No. 50) were the hostesses. The decorations were in keeping with Valentine Day. Speakers included Police Chief Quinn and Past Grand Dr. Mariana Bertola. Past Grand Eliza D. Keith paid a loving tribute to Past Grand Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, recently deceased.

Vocal selections were rendered by the San Francisco Glee Club, prettily attired in old-fashioned costumes, Master Frankie McCormick and Mr. Jennings. The latter was accompanied by J. Hartley Russell, Grand Third Vice-president N.S.G.W. The hymn, "God Protect Our President," words by Rev. Dennis Kavanagh, S.J., and music by Dr. Milton Francis Clark, was sung, and the Native Daughters are in hopes it will be universally adopted.

GOLD DISCOVERY DAY BANQUET.

The annual banquet of the San Francisco Native Sons in recognition of the famous gold find at Coloma, El Dorado County, in 1848, was held January 23 at the Grizzly Bear Club. Past Grand Lewis F. Byington was the toastmaster, and the speakers included Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell, President Shurtleff of the Society of California Pioneers, Governor James Rolph Jr., Mayor Angelo J. Rossi and Justice Jesse Curtis.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS NEWS BRIEFS.

Officers of Minerva Parlor No. 2 were installed February 7 by Deputy Adele Walsh, Jennie Nagle becoming president. Supervising Deputy Ann Dippel was in attendance.

Alta Parlor No. 3 is sponsoring a series of card parties under the chairmanship of May L. MacDonald, assisted by Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen. The first was held February 12, the second will be given March 12, and the third, an evening affair at the Home, is billed for April 11. During March the Parlor will celebrate its forty-seventh institution anniversary; Agnese Hughes heads the arrangements committee. At the official visit of Grand President Irma Laird to Alta January 23, referred to in The Grizzly Bear for February, there were many visitors, including Grand Secretary Sallie Thaler, Grand Trustees Willow Borba, Ethel Begley, Alice Lane and Orinda Giannini, Grand Outside Sentinel Alice Oldham, Supervising Deputy Ann Dippel, Deputies Ida Mesquite and May L. McDonald, Past Grands Eliza D. Keith and Margaret G. Hill, and Charter Members Inge Faure, Mary Howell, Evalyn Joly, Otille McLaughlin, Jennie McGivney and Minnie Spilman.

With Emma McClure as president, officers of Orinda Parlor No. 56 were installed by Deputy Mae Waring January 26. Among those in attendance were Grand Trustee Alice Lane and Past Grand Emma Foley, and the latter, on the Parlor's behalf, presented an emblematic ring to Gladys Bennett, retiring past president. Two candidates were initiated. The dramatic club, composed of Grand Trustee Orinda Giannini, Laura Spitzer, Madeline King, Mae Shea, Martha Neidlinger, Faye Curtis, Adeline Taxeira, Emily Fauda, Katherine Cobb and Dorothy Gunther, presented a play, "Menu Committee," which was greatly enjoyed. Vocal selections were rendered by Louise Kompf. Dainty refreshments were served. Grand Trustee Giannini was chairman of the evening. February 3 a daughter, the second child, was born to President Emma McClure of Orinda.

La Estrella Parlor No. 89 entertained Grand President Irma W. Laird January 22. Among the large number present were Grand Secretary Sallie Thaler, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Grand Trustees Alice Lane and Orinda Giannini, Grand Outside Sentinel Alice Oldham, Past Grands Evelyn Carlson, Margaret Hill and May Boldemann, Supervising Deputies Ann Dippel, Rena Mathias and Dora Brayton, Deputy Ann Godfrey and representatives of seventeen Parlors. Vocal selections were rendered by Ethel Deneri and the N.D. Glee Club. A very inspiring address was given by Grand President Laird, who complimented the officers of La Estrella on their splendid rendition of the ritual. Delicious refreshments were served at tables beautifully decorated with poinsettias.

Officers of Utopia Parlor No. 252 and Utopia Parlor No. 270 N.S.G.W. were jointly installed by Past Grand Evelyn I. Carlson and District Deputy Werner, January 23, Edna Higgins and Herman Oldelehr becoming the respective presidents. Anne Godfrey, accompanied by Betty Marquis, sang the installation ode. The new N.D. ceremonies were effectively exemplified by the officers of No. 252, who carried pastel shaded green muffs with bouvardia. Dancing followed the installation, and punch was served.

NATIVE SONS NEWS BRIEFS.

Stanford Parlor No. 76 January 16 adopted a measure which permits its members to "propose for membership of the non-beneficial class desirable candidates, the initiation fee to be paid out of a special fund created for that purpose." The candidate is required to pay but three months' dues in advance, and there is no age limit. The plan, which went into effect February 1 and continues until April 30, will, it is contended, fill a long-felt need.

Officers of South San Francisco Parlor No. 157 were installed by District Deputy Hubert Caveney, Erwin Dankwerth becoming president. A fine entertainment program was presented, and appetizing refreshments were served. Grand Secretary John T. Regan was the master of ceremonies, and there were several speakers, among them Grand Third Vice-president J. Hartley Russell.

PIONEER'S REMAINS TO BE RETURNED.

The body of San Francisco's first Catholic archbishop, Joseph Sadoc Alemany, O.P., D.D., is to be brought from Spain and reinterred in Oakland. He was born in Spain in 1814, came to the United States in 1848, and to California in 1850. June 30, 1850, he was consecrated Bishop of Monterey, and June 29, 1853, was made Archbishop of San Francisco. In 1884 he returned to Spain, where he died April 14, 1888.

California is first among the states of the nation in value of marketed agricultural products and livestock, according to the State Agricultural Department. Total cash income 1933, $567,693,000; per-acre value all crops, $81.14.

Sacramento City's annual camellia show will be held March 3 and 4.

Native Sons of the Golden West

THE FIFTY-SEVENTH GRAND PARLOR of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West will convene at Ukiah, Mendocino County, Monday, May 21, with Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell presiding. Sessions will be held Monday, Tuesday and Thursday in the grammar school auditorium, and Wednesday will be given over entirely to pleasure.

Ukiah Parlor No. 71 is in charge of arrangements for the Grand Parlor, in fact has been busy on plans since the 1933 session, and there will be plenty of entertainment. Among the features will be a reception Monday evening, a grand ball Tuesday night, and an all-day trip to Willits and Fort Bragg, via auto and train, Wednesday. Midway between these places, in a beautiful grove, a barbecue will be served by Broderick Parlor No. 117 (Point Arena) and Alder Glen Parlor No. 200 (Fort Bragg). In the evening, the Grand Parlor banquet. Other entertainment, particularly for the womenfolks, will be provided. Watch The Grizzly Bear for further and complete details.

Henry Spurr is the general chairman of Ukiah Parlor's Grand Parlor committee. Chairmen of the several subcommittees are: M. A. Gallow, housing; H. G. Zimmerman, badges; H. J. Zimmerman, banquet; Verne Kehoe, barbecue and outing; H. J. Zimmerman, hall; Fred Figone, registration; Henry Spurr, finances; James E. Busch, publicity; K. Phillips, music; Verne Kehoe, decorations; K. Phillips, ball; Rex Lieurance, transportation; K. Phillips, entertainment; Mrs. H. J. Zimmerman, reception; James E. Busch, program. Any information desired will be gladly forwarded by any subcommittee chairman.

CANDIDATES FOR GRAND PARLOR OFFICES

Unless the unusual and the unexpected happens at the Ukiah Grand Parlor, Grand First Vice-president Chas. A. Koenig will be advanced to the grand presidency, Grand Second Vice-president Harmon D. Skillin to the grand first vice-presidency, and Grand Third Vice-president J. Hartley Russell to the grand second vice-presidency without opposition. Automatically, Grand President Seawell will become the Junior Past Grand President.

Grand Secretary John T. Regan and Grand Treasurer John A. Corotto will be candidates for re-election.

For the other elective offices, there are rumors of several candidates. The Grizzly Bear, early in February, sent a letter to all the "rumored" aspirants, seeking direct from them definite information as to their intentions. The responses make possible the passing on of this lineup, which is confined exclusively to those who replied up to the time of going to press:

Grand Third Vice-president—Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer.

Grand Marshal—Grand Inside Sentinel William A. Reuter.

Grand Trustees (seven to be chosen)—Henry S. Lyon, incumbent; Thomas M. Foley, incumbent; Charles H. Spengemann, incumbent; Donald E. VanLuven, Arrowhead Parlor No. 110; Adrien M. Hynes, Piedmont Parlor No. 120.

Subordinate Parlors are required to elect delegates to the Grand Parlor the first meeting night in April. No doubt, some of the "rumored" candidates are awaiting results in their Parlors before announcing their candidacies. Any way, if the "dope" coming over the grapevine is at all wellfounded, there will be no dearth of candidates for Grand Parlor offices at Ukiah.—C.M.H.

There are thousands of fine eligibles just waiting to be extended an invitation to affiliate with the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West. Be a recruiter—extend the invitation today, not tomorrow!

WORK TOGETHER

Two fool jackasses—say, get this dope,—
Were tied together with a piece of rope.
Said one to the other, "You come my way,
While I take a nibble of this new-mown hay."
"I won't," said the other. "You come with me,
For I have some hay myself, you see."
So they got nowhere, just pawed up the dirt,
And oh, by golly, that rope did hurt.
Then they faced about, these stubborn mules,
And said, "We're acting like human fools.
Let's pull together; I'll go your way,
Then come with me, and we'll both eat hay."
Well, they ate their hay, and liked it, too,
And swore to be comrades, good and true.
As the sun went down, they were heard to bray,
"Ah, this is the end of a perfect day."
Now, get this lesson, don't let it pass,
Learn this one thing from the poor jackass:
We must work together,—'tis the only way
To put [the Order] on the map and put it to stay.

(This bit of advice appeared in the "Mountain Democrat" of Placerville. It applies to the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, as well as to all other organizations, so [the Order] has been substituted for "a town."—Editor.)

Anniversary Will Honor Grand President.

Santa Rosa—Santa Rosa No. 28 will celebrate Saturday, March 17, its fiftieth institution anniversary. An immense outpouring of members of the Order is anticipated, as the occasion will specially honor Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell, a charter member of No. 28. The festivities will start at 8:30 p.m. with a street parade in which neighboring Parlor drum corps will participate. Then will follow the initiation of the "Seawell" class of candidates, from every Parlor in Sonoma County; Santa Rosa expects to have the largest number of initiates in its history. A banquet will terminate the festivities. Wesley Colgan is the chairman and Leland S. Lewis the secretary of the celebration committee.

Twenty members of the Parlor accompanied President George Gilman to Glen Ellen No. 102 February 12, when Grand Trustee Edward T. Schnarr paid an official visit to that Parlor. So many neighboring Parlors meet on Monday, Santa Rosa has voted to change its meeting night to Thursday, in order that the members may make more fraternal visits.

Annual Speaking Contest.

Sacramento—The annual speaking contest on California history subjects sponsored by Sacramento No. 3 was held February 8. Ronald Gwinn presided, and the judges were J. C. Palen, George Linn and George Radcliffe. Vocal selections were rendered by the Sacramento high school trio—Elva Triplett, August Heilbron, Margaret Suber—and June Peters.

The prize-winning speakers and their subjects, announced by Archibald Mull, chairman committee in charge, included: Mary Louise Atkinson, "The Early Theater," first; Gordon Fleury, "California Agriculture," second; Albert Lazzerone, "James King of William," third; James Clayton, "Progress," fourth. Other speakers and their subjects were: Beth Stein, "Spanish Costumes in Early California;" Jack Hately, "Theodore D. Judah;" Kathleen Howell, "Californians;" Tom Perkins, "Empire Builders."

New Parlor in Prospect.

Oakland—A movement is well under way to institute here a new parlor to be known as Lakemont, and if successful it will embrace the membership of the present Brooklyn No. 151. No transfers from any other Parlor will be permitted. At a pre-institution meeting February 27, Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell and other grand officers explained the aims of the Order, and entertainment was provided.

Active in promoting the proposed parlor are Frank C. Merritt, J. H. Piepenburg, E. W. Cooney, W. J. Dieves, F. B. Perry, Paul Wuthe, Grant D. Miller, Jos Deasy, Edward J. Smith, Judge Herbert D. Wise, F. J. Sandy, W. H. McGrath, W. F. Brown and J. W. McNiece.

No applications, no new members to fill the ranks. And California needs more Native Sons! Today's responsibility of every member of the Order is to contact eligibles. Don't leave this important duty for "George" to perform.

Host to Native Daughters.

Sutter Creek—Five new names were added to the membership-roll of Amador No. 17, February 2, the initiatory team of the Amador County Parlors exemplifying the ritual. District Deputy Thomas Davis was honor-guest of the occasion, which concluded with refreshments.

The Parlor entertained the members of Amapola No. 80 N.D.G.W. February 10 at a turkey banquet. Dan Ramazzotti was master of ceremonies and addresses were delivered by Grand Vice-president Gladys E. Noce of the Native Daughters, Grand Trustee Henry S. Lyon, Past Grand Clarence E. Jarvis and Judge Charles P. Vicini. Dancing concluded a most enjoyable evening.

Re-organization of N.S.G.W.

Fresno—Fresno No. 25 was officially visited by Grand Trustee Edward Schnarr, February 2. Preceding the meeting, where he was extended the Parlor's welcome by Frank Lane, a reception and banquet were held. Members were in attendance from various San Joaquin Valley Parlors.

B. W. Gearheart spoke at length on a subject dear to his heart, "The Re-organization of the Native Sons of the Golden West." Fresno hopes Enjoyable Occasion.

Georgetown—A most enjoyable occasion, marked by splendid entertainment and an appetizing chicken dinner, was the joint installation of Georgetown No. 91 and El Dorado No. 186 N.D.G.W. officers, January 27. The banquet room was decorated in orange and white. The tables were in "T" formation, and the centerpiece was a replica of a well and an old oaken bucket. The dinner was prepared and served by the Native Daughters.

Deputies George Smith and Nettie Leonardi conducted the installation ceremonies, George Buehler and Ethel Francis becoming the respective presidents. Among the many in attendance was Grand Trustee Henry S. Lyon, district attorney El Dorado County.

There are thousands of fine eligibles just waiting to be extended an invitation to affiliate with the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West. Be a recruiter—extend the invitation today, not tomorrow!

Proud of Basketball Team.

Colusa—Colusa No. 69 had its annual valentine dance February 10, and it was an elaborate affair. The arrangements committee included Phil Humberg (chairman), J. V. Ferraiuolo, E. W. Clement, J. R. Manville, W. G. Davison, H. Stinchfield, W. L. Ayres, R. A. Gray and G. W. Jamieson. Officers of the Parlor and those of Colusa No. 194 N.D.G.W. were jointly installed January 23 by Deputies Elton Fitch and Bernice Spearbeck, Henry Stinchfield and Clara Abbott becoming the respective presidents. A banquet and program followed the ceremonies.

Grand Trustee Henry S. Lyon officially visited Colusa February 27, when several candidates were initiated. The drum corps, headed by Instructor P. J. Cook, met with the Parlor February 28 and discussed plans for participating in the Admission Day, September 9, celebration. The homeless children committee is arranging for a home talent minstrel show in April.

Colusa has a basketball team of which it is very proud. To date, it is leading the Sacramento Valley League. It is made up of members of the Parlor only, and is becoming one of the most-talked of teams in the valley. The Parlor has decided to again enter a team, of members only, in the local twilight ball league. Interest in Colusa County history is being promoted by No. 69 by awarding cups to school students for prize essays.

Professional Ice Hockey.

From J. J. Dignan of Oakland, under date of February 14, The Grizzly Bear received the following:

"Homeless children committee on arrangements of Piedmont No. 120 sponsoring the first professional ice hockey of the season, R. M. Hamb (chairman), J. J. Dignan, Frank Roemer, Arnold Halstead, Tom Palmer and John J. Allen Jr. A program of fancy skating and entertainment has also been arranged in addition to the big game. Piedmont's forty-piece brass band will also be on hand. Earl Warren of Oakland and Sue J. Irwin of Berkeley represent Alameda County on the Central Committee, which is statewide." [No date for the event appears in the notice.—Editor.]

No applications, no new members to fill the ranks. And California needs more Native Sons! Today's responsibility of every member of the Order is to contact eligibles. Don't leave this important duty for "George" to perform.

Grand Officers Visit Grand Parlor Host.

Ukiah—Ukiah No. 71 had as visitors, February 19, Grand First Vice-president Chas. A. Koenig, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Trustee Thomas M. Foley and Past President Elmer Robertson (Bay City No. 104). Five candidates were initiated by the Parlor's ritual team. A turkey dinner was served.

Ukiah will be host to the Grand Parlor, and the grand officers went to the Mendocino County government seat to talk over with No. 71 arrangements for the gathering in May. All details were given final approval.

NATIVE SONS NEWS BRIEFS.

Placerville—Placerville No. 9 was host February 13 to Marguerite No. 12 N.D.G.W. at a valentine party and dinner. A playlet, "A Perfect Trip," was presented, vocal selections were rendered by Lena Rantz and H. E. Dillinger, and an orchestra provided music. President A. J. Orelli was toastmaster at the dinner, prepared by the Sons, and addresses were made by Grand Trustee Henry S. Lyon, Deputies George M. Smith and Nettie Leonardi, and Superior Judge George H. Thompson. The success of the affair was due to the energy of No. 9's good of the order committee, Harry S. Brown chairman.

San Jose—President John R. Sullivan and his assisting officers initiated a class of candidates for San Jose No. 22, January 29. Notification was received from Superior Judge Martin I. Welsh of Sacramento, a past president of No. 22, that he would pay the Parlor a visit in the near-future.

Jackson—Officers of Excelsior No. 31 and Ursula No. 1 N.D.G.W., with T. G. Negrich and Catherine B. Swensen as the respective presidents, were installed February 1 by Deputies Thomas D. Davis and Cynthia Phillips. Gladys E. Noce, Grand Vice-president N.D.G.W., was among the many in attendance. A collation followed the ceremonies.

There are thousands of fine eligibles just waiting to be extended an invitation to affiliate with the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West. Be a recruiter—extend the invitation today, not tomorrow!

Elk Grove—The nineteenth annual oratorical contest for local high school students, sponsored by Elk Grove No. 41 and Liberty No. 213 N.D.G.W. to keep alive interest in the past history of California, was held February 16. First award went to Laverle Carlisle, whose subject was "The Modern Magi," and second award to Louise Engel, for her "The Living Tapestries of California."

Plymouth—Officers of Plymouth No. 48 and Forrest No. 86 N.D.G.W. were jointly installed February 3 by Deputies Thomas Davis and Marea Richards. Tom Stayton and Katherine Pool becoming the respective presidents. Among the speakers were Grand Vice-president Gladys E. Noce and Supervising Deputy Emma Wright. Refreshments and dancing concluded the ceremonies.

San Rafael—Officers of Mount Tamalpais No. 64 and Marinita No. 198 N.D.G.W. were jointly installed by Deputies Charles Soldavini Jr. and Myrtle Davita, Harold Joseph Haley and Bertha Watson becoming the respective presidents.

Calistoga—Grand Trustee Jesse H. Miller paid an official visit to Calistoga No. 86, February 19. Several members of the Parlor accompanied Lionel Saviez to Lower Lake, February 6, where he installed the officers of Lower Lake No. 159.

There are thousands of fine eligibles just waiting to be extended an invitation to affiliate with the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West. Be a recruiter—extend the invitation today, not tomorrow!

San Diego—San Diego No. 108 sponsored February 21 an invitational dance, which was largely attended by friends and eligibles. A group of San Diegans, including Deputy Grand President Albert V. Mayrhofer, visited the remains of the historic Vallecitos stage station February 11. It is planned to restore this landmark, for it was at Vallecitos Springs that Butterfield stage passengers of seventy-seven years ago refreshed themselves enroute from Saint Louis, Missouri, to San Diego.

San Bernardino—Arrowhead No. 110 had a winter stag party at its Crestline clubhouse February 10; Ralph Fredriksen, Jimmy Olevis and Hal Davies were in charge. February 14 was a big night at the Parlor—dinner, initiation and entertainment. Officers of Arrowhead and Lugonia No. 241 N.D.G.W. were jointly installed by Ralph I. Harbison and Deputy Gertrude Tuttle, Leslie Case and Mary Harris Johnson becoming the respective presidents.

Sonoma—There was a very large attendance at the February 5 meeting of Sonoma No. 111, when an official visit was paid by Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer, who gave an account of the Order's activities. The reception and entertainment committee for the occasion included President Louis Klapperich, Charles Bacigalupi, Bert Kerner, E. Andrieux, R. Barracchi, Dale Farrell and Angelo DeMartini.

Redding—James Orland Osborn, for twenty-three years principal of the Shasta Union high school, died February 5. He was born at Visalia, Tulare County, October 11, 1876, and was affiliated with McCloud Parlor No. 149 N.S.G.W.

No applications, no new members to fill the ranks. And California needs more Native Sons! Today's responsibility of every member of the Order is to contact eligibles. Don't leave this important duty for "George" to perform.

Pittsburg—Diamond No. 246 had a silver jubilee celebration February 7. Guests were Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer, who was paying his official visit, and Past Grand Charles L. Dodge, treasurer Contra Costa County.

Sutter City—Sutter No. 261 will initiate a class of candidates March 12. The ceremonies will be followed by a banquet in honor of Grand Trustee Henry S. Lyon, who will pay his official visit at that time.

PRACTICE RECIPROCITY BY ALWAYS PATRONIZING GRIZZLY BEAR ADVERTISERS

LOS ANGELES CITY AND COUNTY

MRS. IRMA W. LAIRD, GRAND PRESIDENT of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West, came to the south from her Alturas, Modoc County, home to officially visit, among others, the Subordinate Parlors of Los Angeles County. Numerous functions were arranged in her honor. She gave unstintedly of her time and, as one Native Daughter remarked, "Her bright presence, and worthwhile addresses in Native Daughter and other circles, made her brief stay here one long to be pleasantly remembered."

February 2, Grand President Laird was honorguest of the Soroptimists at a "California Day" program arranged by Past Grand Grace S. Stoermer, who presided. Many Native Daughters and Native Sons from southland Parlors were in attendance. The speakers included Mayor Frank L. Shaw, Amelia F. Johnson, Marion Parks, John Steven McGroarty, Mrs. Laird, Florence D. Schoneman and Francis Lederer. Marybelle Chapman was heard in vocal selections, and Joe E. Brown delighted with humorous remarks.

Grand President Laird's first official visit was paid to Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245 N.D.G.W., Santa Monica, January 29. Many other visitors were present, including Past Grand Stoermer and Grand Inside Sentinel Hansen. Mrs. Laird greeted those assembled with an inspiring address. Following the meeting a buffet supper was served in the banquetroom, where elaborate decorations carried out the valentine theme. Violin numbers were rendered by Eleanora Figueroa. Catherine Conterno and Myrtle Barden were co-chairmen of the evening, and Elfreda Kronberg was in charge of decorations.

Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W., San Pedro, was visited February 5 by Grand President Laird. At a dinner preceding the meeting the tables were arranged and decorated to represent a school-day scene. Special guests were Grand Inside Sentinel William A. Reuter of the Native Sons and President Walter Richards of Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W. Carrie Northway had charge of the decorations. At the Parlor session two candidates were initiated. Among those in attendance were Past Grand Stoermer, Grand Inside Sentinel Hansen, Deputy Flora Holy, Florence D. Schoneman, and thirteen of the Parlor's seventeen past presidents.

The visit of Grand President Laird to Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W., February 7, was preceded by a banquet at the Women's Athletic Club. The tables were beautifully decorated with flowers, and placecards made by Evelyn Howell. The meetingroom was a bower of yellow, green and white. Several candidates were initiated. The officers of the Parlor, in formal white gowns and carrying large old-fashioned boquets with long streamers of gold ribbon, made a pleasing picture. Ninety-five visitors from southland Parlors were in attendance. Addresses were made by Mrs. Laird, Past Grand Stoermer, Grand Inside Sentinel Hansen, Supervising Deputy Nellie Cline, Marvel Thomas and Deputy Marion Crum.

Grand President Laird visited Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W., Los Angeles, the afternoon of February 13. At a delightful luncheon, the decorations were significant of the honorguest's home county, Modoc. Mrs. Charles W. Decker was the toastmistress, and among the many speakers were Robert Allen, Judges McKay and Smith, Carl Wirsching, Dr. Charles W. Decker, Grand Inside Sentinel Hansen, Mms. Milo Aylward, Leland Atherton Irish, Florence Schoneman, Louise Ward Watkins, Betty Rodman and Varney, and Miss Mary Foy. Eight candidates were initiated at the Parlor meeting. Mrs. Laird praised the work of Californiana, and urged participation in world affairs of today. Other speakers were Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Marshal Anne Thuesen, Past Grands Cora B. Sifford and Stoermer, and Grand Trustee Jane Vick.

Verdugo Parlor No. 240 N.D.G.W., Glendale, was visited by Grand President Laird the evening of February 13. Acacia blossoms attractively decorated the hall. Three candidates were initiated. On behalf of Glendale Parlor No. 264 N.S.G.W., President Al Boeckman presented a boquet to Mrs. Laird. Among the many in attendance were Grand Secretary Thaler, Grand Marshal Thuesen, Grand Trustee Vick, Past Grand Sifford, Grand Inside Sentinel Hansen, Deputy Adele Frankish. Following the meeting a chinese supper was served in the banquetroom, decorated with spring blossoms.

AN OPEN FORUM.

"Armaments: Fact or Fancy," was the subject of a most intereseting and highly informative address delivered by Major Henry Carleton Newton at the February 16 meeting of the Native Sons Luncheon Club. Daniel F. McSweeney presided.

The February 23 luncheon was in line with the statewide observance of "Serra Year." Father Joseph Thompson eulogized the Christian, Junipero Serra, who founded California's chain of Franciscan missions, extending from San Diego to Sonoma, and related some of the Golden State's history. John F. Lieb was chairman of the day.

The Native Sons Luncheon Club holds forth every Friday at 12:15 (noon) at the Rosslyn Hotel. Any and every Native Son will be benefited by attending. An opportunity is there afforded to meet with sons of a "common mother, California," and to get reliable information, from competent sources, on worthwhile subjects. What's more, you can bring your friends, native or otherwise, as there's nothing secret about the club—just an open forum for those interested in the state and the nation.—C.M.H.

HOUSE WARMING PARTY.

Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 N.S.G.W. initiated five candidates February 8. Speakers following the ceremonies were Past Grand John T. Newell, Deputy Grand President John Ford, District Deputy Walter Baskerville and Rev. Henry G. Alker, the latter being one of the initiates. A past president emblem was presented Leslie Packard by Sidney Witkowski. Chairman William Gilkey of the Parlor's history and landmarks committee is doing splendid work.

February 22, the Parlor had an oldtimers night, and schooldays was the favorite topic of the many speakers. Past Grand Newell presided, and Tom Golding conducted the good of the order. A bountiful buffet supper was served prior to the talkfest, and the kitchen force included, among others, "Sid" Witkowski, Walter Smith, Walter Fisher, Clyde Davis, Howard Bentley, "Mike" Botello, Charles Lloyd, John Meehan, Al Cron and Chester Staley. Roger Johnson entertained with piano selections.

guidance of President Frank Cotter is progressing. March 22 a house-warming party will be featured, and all Native Sons and Daughters, their families and friends are invited. A big show of fine talent will start at 8 o'clock and will be followed by dancing. Delegates to the Ukiah Grand Parlor will be nominated March 8.

HOMELESS CHILDREN BENEFIT.

The Los Angeles-Orange Counties N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Homeless Children Committee is planning a ball for the benefit of the homeless children April 28. Mrs. Mattie Gara of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W. heads the arrangements committee.

PILGRIMAGE TO CHINATOWN.

Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. had a rousing good meeting after the birthday dinner February 16. Seemed like those old days, when Charles Thomas and others always had something "up their sleeves" for good of the order. Superior Judge Reuben Schmidt, as chairman of entertainment, is drawing the boys back to the fold.

After the meeting, the "gang," headed by Ray Howard, pilgrimaged to Chinatown, which will soon be no more, and were hospitably received by members of the United Parlor of Native Sons of the Golden State (California-born Chinese). Greetings were extended by Grand President Walter Lung and President Thomas Wong, and for Ramona the speakers were Past Grand Herman C. Lichtenberger, Leo V. Youngworth and President Walter H. Odemar.

Ramona's March calendar includes: 9th, initiation, and consideration of the report of the committee on new quarters; 16th, monthly birthday dinner, complimentary to the March "babies;" 30th, nomination of delegates to Ukiah Grand Parlor. Charles Straube has been confirmed as the fieldman for the Parlor.

"CALIFORNIA DAY" AT CATALINA.

The Mary Williams Club of Avalon, under the direction of the chairman of its California history and landmarks section, Mrs. F. B. LeVitt, is sponsoring a "California Day" at Catalina Island, April 16. An endeavor will be made to bring out much of the American life, customs, etc., of the 1800-1850 era. Mrs. LeVitt, affiliated with Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W., is enlisting the assistance of Native Sons and Native Daughters in the project.

"GENE MURPHY" NIGHT.

In honor of President Eugene W. Murphy, Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W. will feature a big initiation Monday evening, March 5. A splendid program is being arranged, refreshments will be served, and all Native Sons are invited to attend. Many of the old-time members of the Parlor have promised to be among those present.

Hollywood will celebrate its institution anniversary about the middle of April, and a committee headed by W. L. O'Meara has plans well under way.

JUSTLY PROUD.

Glendale The scout committee of Glendale Parlor No. 264 N.S.G.W.—G. W. Anderson, Loring Kent, Joseph Bellue and Louis Verdugo—presented Scoutmaster Willard E. Webber and the boys of Troop No. 3 with very unique and distinctive emblems featuring the golden bear, a red star and the name of the troop's sponsor—Glendale Parlor. They were received with much enthusiasm. The Native Sons are very proud of this troop of twenty boys, which was awarded first place at two courts of honor, and at the last one received the "AA" achievement banner and a President Roosevelt award.

Glendale will open its dancing season with a dance at the Masonic Temple, Saturday night, March 4. A good time is assured, and good music is guaranteed.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS NEWS BRIEFS.

Los Angeles—Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 has a committee, headed by Irene Eden, making elaborate plans for a Saint Patrick's Day dance, March 17, at I.O.O.F. Hall, Oak and Washington streets. Other events on the Parlor's March calendar: monthly card party, the 14th; "evening at home," for members, the 28th.

San Pedro—Carrie Rogers has succeeded Dorothy Markey as president of Rudecinda Parlor No. 230, the latter resigning because of illness. February 21 the Florencita Thimble Club had an enchilada dinner at the home of Irene Carrese; Lucy Guzman is president of the club. March 5, Rudecinda will celebrate its ninth birthday with a potluck dinner; the past presidents, with Margaret Kreider as chairman, will be in charge.

Glendale—As a guest of Verdugo Parlor No. 240, Grand President Irma W. Laird toured the city February 10, and participated in the recreation center program when two twenty-seven-year-old palm trees, planted by the Parlor last December, were dedicated; the trees were a gift

BERTHA WALDO BIDWELL.

To the Officers and Members of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our late sister, Bertha Waldo Bidwell, respectfully submit the following:

Whereas, It has pleased our Heavenly Father to take from our midst our beloved sister, Bertha Bidwell, on January 3, 1934, whose ever friendly presence will be sadly missed by all, from her accustomed place at our meetings; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of Golden Gate Parlor No. 158, extend to the bereaved family our sincere and heartfelt sympathy, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of our departed sister, one to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication, and also spread upon the minutes of the Parlor.

Respectfully submitted in P.D.E.A.,
SOPHIE SIEBE,
MARGARET RAMM.

CALIFORNIA FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

MARCH 1884 WAS ANOTHER STORMY month in California. In fact, it was a soaker, the state being dripping wet "from Siskiyou to San Diego, from the Sierra to the sea." Seven storms passed over, the heaviest one between the 3rd and the 8th. During the month there were seventeen days of rain, and not a cloudless day. All streams rose to flood hight, bridges were swept away, many towns were partly inundated, levees broke, farms were submerged, buildings were wrecked, and a score of people were drowned.

This was the wettest March since 1850, the rainfall for the month being 8.14 inches. The total for the season mounted to 18.95 inches in California north, and to more than 33 inches in California south. The Southern Pacific ran its first train in a month from Bakersfield, Kern County, to Los Angeles, March 17, but the service was intermittent, on account of slides, washouts and derailments, and travel between the south and the north was maintained via steamers.

A sharp earthquake shock, felt from Monterey County on the south to Napa County on the north, alarmed the residents of that section of the state at 4:40 p.m. of March 25. No damage was done.

The 4,000-acre grain farm of John L. Kaye in Yolo County was overflowed and the crop ruined.

The Allen & Olinger orchard in Butte County planted 12,000 Bartlett pear trees.

The California Fruit Growers Association met in San Francisco March 3 and selected A. L. Hatch of Solano County president.

Governor George C. Stoneman called an extra session of the State Legislature, to meet at Sacramento March 24. The purposes were: to remedy defects found in the new constitution which interfered with the collection of taxes from corporations, and to provide new sources of state revenue.

The government of Hawaii was evidently on a silver basis, for during the month it had the United States Mint in San Francisco coin 150,000 dollars, 300,000 half-dollars and 500,000 quarter-dollars.

There was a state-wide strike of Chinese cigarmakers for higher wages, and twenty-five factories were closed. It was proposed to bring 2,000 White cigarmakers from New York to take the strikers' places, and schools were established to teach youths and young girls to roll cigars. Before the month's end the Chinks capitulated and went back to work.

Sacramento Parlor No. 3 N.S.G.W. held its seventh institution anniversary banquet and reception March 22. Charles E. Addington was the president, and Robert T. Devlin and Valentine S. McClatchy were the principal speakers.

R. C. Dewitt, prominent citizen and politician of Siskiyou County, died at Yreka March 1. His six children were down with measles at the time.

George Pen Johnson, one of the early-day publishers of the San Francisco "Examiner," died March 4 at the Bay City.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Johnson, one of Sacramento's pioneer matrons, died at the Capital City March 9. Her husband, Josiah Johnson, was California's first railroad superintendent.

Leland Stanford Jr., only child of ex-Governor Leland Stanford and heir to his vast fortune, died March 12 at Florence, Italy. He was born at Sacramento, May 14, 1868. His demise brought about the founding of Stanford University, a memorial to his memory.

Hugh Fetherstone, aged 108 years, died March 18 at San Francisco.

B. F. Eggleston, who died in November 1883 at Downieville, Sierra County, was reported to have left a million-dollar estate. Joshua Eggleston, this month found working as a waiter in Schenectady, New York, was the nearest relative and inherited the estate.

John Fernandez, mining at Pilot Hill, El Dorado County, found a seven-pound gold nugget.

There was a mining boom in Nevada County caused by the Magenta mine making a rich strike of gold quartz. The property adjoined the Empire mine, a producer since 1852. As a result of the find, the North Star and several other mines, closed for several years, were re-opened.

Abe Triplett, a Colusa County hunter, this month killed and marketed 683 wild geese.

Two bucks, fighting in Shasta County, got their antlers interlocked. They were found, dead, at the base of a high bluff down which they had fallen.

Albert Charris of Petaluma, Sonoma County, was reported to have the largest horse in the United States—a Clydesdale weighing 2,700 pounds and valued at $5,000.

A mammoth locomotive,—claimed to be the largest built to date in the world—named "El Gubernador," was given a trial trip March 1. The Southern Pacific shop at Sacramento was proud of its achievement.

J. W. McCarthy, clerk of the California Supreme Court, was this month found to be $2,000 short in his accounts.

The fad of drinking a glass of hot water before meals, considered a sure cure for dyspepsia, was prevalent, and many eating houses served the drink without a preliminary order for it.

Francisco Perez was hanged in the Placerville, El Dorado County, jail yard March 27. He killed two brothers near Georgetown in November 1883.

John McDowell was hanged in the San Bernardino jail March 28. He killed a woman in January 1884.

Captain Richard B. Thorne, surveyor of Mariposa County, was drowned March 9 while attempting to ford Bear Creek.

Frank R. Jordan, a Sacramento lad, was accidentally killed March 11 while returning from a hunting trip.

Two boys, Harry Briggs and Frank Spring, teaching a dog to swim, upset their boat near Wilmington, Los Angeles County, March 19, and both drowned.

Thomas Stodden fell into a flume near Emigrant Gap, Placer County, March 19, was carried seven miles by the stream and drowned.

John Apperson, repairing a flume near Chico, Butte County, March 27, fell twenty-six feet, struck upon his head and was killed.

Wm. Scollard quarreled with Aleck Diedrichsen, a saloonkeeper, near San Leandro, Alameda

Homeless Children

A WORTHWHILE NON-SECTARIAN ENDEAVOR SPONSORED AND SUPPORTED BY THE ORDERS OF NATIVE SONS AND NATIVE DAUGHTERS OF THE GOLDEN WEST

MARCH 31, 1934, WILL END THE twenty-fourth year of the Native Sons and Native Daughters work for the homeless children. On the 10th of April the certified accountant will examine the books. Many members of the Orders are under the impression that the year ends at the time that the Native Sons and Native Daughters Grand Parlors convene—for this reason we are reminding of the exact date. April 1, 1934, we shall begin the twenty-fifth year of service for the homeless children, and those who are deeply zealous for continued interest and success in the work hope for increased understanding and responsiveness on the part of every member.

The expense from April 1, 1933, to February 1, 1934, has decreased over $4,000, due to a decrease in the number of children placed for adoption. There has been an increase, however, in the activities of the Central Committee, due to the effect of the hard times upon families and lone mothers who have been influenced by conditions to consider parting with their children and have sought the counsel, aid and consideration expected of a properly functioning child-placing agency.

If time and space would permit the relating of the individual problems, heartaches and griefs of those who come to the Central Committee on Homeless Children, the members of the Orders would understand, even more thoroughly than they ever have before, the breadth and scope and character of this charity which they so willingly support.

In the January issue of The Grizzly Bear additional names of Native Daughter Parlors contributing to the milk fund were listed. We must add the names of Marguerite No. 12, Twin Peaks No. 185, Colus No. 194. Parlors that have accepted the responsibility of adopting a SECOND child, choosing a girl instead of a boy and vice versa, are: Buena Vista No. 68, Amapola No. 80, Keith No. 137, Presidio No. 148, Dolores No. 169, Portola No. 172, Castro No. 178 (third child), Marinita No. 198, La Junta No. 203, Caliz de Oro No. 206.

Native Son Parlors contributing: Stockton No. 7 (additional), Santa Cruz No. 90, Sonoma No. 111, Sebastopol No. 143, Tuolumne No. 144, Lower Lake No. 159, Los Banos No. 206, Big Valley No. 211, Niles No. 250. Individual Native Sons: Geo. H. Atkinson (Santa Cruz No. 90), Walter C. Latham (Berkeley No. 210).

Napa Parlor No. 62 N.S.G.W., according to a letter from Financial Secretary Fred Flake, has taken the initiative in assessing each member fifty cents a year to be sent to the Central Committee for the work, which will make "Our Charity" a 100 percent Native Sons contribution from Napa.

Native Daughter Parlors sending contributions: Laurel No. 6, Eschol No. 16, Berendos No. 23, Veritas No. 75, Woodland No. 90, Aleli No. 102, Eschscholtzia No. 112, Placer No. 138, Alturas No. 159, Marysville No. 162, Ana Nuevo No. 180, Victory No. 216, Mary E. Bell No. 224, Lomitas No. 255.

Joint contributions: Ursula No. 1 N.D.G.W. and Excelsior No. 31 N.S.G.W.; Los Angeles County N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. joint committee (additional).

Joseph Doane, who kept a saloon near Modesto, Stanislaus County, was charged with harboring disreputable characters and notified by citizens to leave, but refused to do so. March 20 some thirty vigilantes insisted on his going, but he resisted, and in the melee was shot and killed.

The Mapleson opera troupe came from New York in a special train to give San Francisco an opera season. Adeline Patti, world-famous diva, was the star.

A Methodist Church organization at Sacramento began giving soap bubble socials, with prizes for the best blowers, and was meeting with success.

"Deacon" Robinson, pioneer miner on Auburn Ravine, Placer County, was found dying in his lonely cabin March 1. After his demise a search revealed $3,400 in twenty-dollar pieces hidden beneath the cabin floor.

A Chinaman applied to a superior court judge at Sacramento for a permit for a tong duel. His plan was to put ten highbinders on opposing sides and let them shoot out their grievances. This, he said, would for all time settle the differences existing between rival tongs.

At the potluck luncheon at the home of Rhea Jones, February 17, a shower was given for Helen Burke. President Katherine Worsham supervised a cooked-food sale for the ways and means committee February 28.

Los Angeles—Miss Mary Foy was hostess at a charming February tea sponsored by Californiana Parlor No. 247, and during the month Mrs. Russell Basset entertained for the philanthropy committee at dessert bridge.

LOBSTER FEAST DRAWS CROWD.

Santa Monica—The sixth annual lobster feast of Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W., February 21, drew an immense crowd from all the southland Parlors, and was a grand success. It was ably handled by Dewey Houghton, Bert Bair, George Green, Edward McCurdy and other members of the drum corps. A splendid entertainment program, of stellar attractions from the Ballyhoo Club, followed the feast. Among the many speakers were Past Grands Herman Lichtenberger and John Newell, Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz, Grand Trustee Eldred Meyer, Judges Schauer, McComb and Webster, and President Joseph Call of No. 267.

February 7, Joaquin Costello presented eight bugles to the Parlor's enterprising drum corps, so the numbers of that organization have been increased, and in future it will be known as Santa Monica Bay Parlor N.S.G.W. drum and bugle corps. Norman Manning has contributed $10 to the corps' uniform fund. The third monthly dance of the corps will be given March 31. The Parlor will, March 7, initiate a class of candidates.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Mrs. Flora Elder (Long Beach N.D.) has taken up her residence in Sacramento.

A native son arrived at the home of Municipal Judge Joseph L. Call (Santa Monica Bay N.S.) February 10.

The engagement of President Dolores Malin (Los Angeles N.D.) and Edwin Theodore Luckey has been announced.

Thomas R. Jones (Sacramento N.S.) of Sacramento was a visitor last month. He compiles "Fifty Years Ago" for The Grizzly Bear.

Native Daughter visitors last month were Grand President Irma W. Laird of Alturas, Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler of Oakland, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen of San Francisco and Irma Murray (Aloha N.D.) of Oakland.

THE DEATH RECORD.

Boyd W. Amberson, affiliated with Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W., died January 21, survived by a wife and a son. He was a native of Ferndale, Humboldt County.

Miss Mary Louise Dryer, daughter of George W. Dryer (Ramona N.S.), died February 5 at the age of 15.

Charles Albert Ducommun, brother of Alfred Ducommun (Hollywood N.S.), died February 6. He was a native of Los Angeles, aged 62.

Mrs. Mary Wells Webb, mother of Police Chief Clarence Webb (Santa Monica Bay N.S.), died at Santa Monica February 19. She was a native of New York, aged 80.

The eighth annual Almond Blossom Festival is to be held at Oakdale, Stanislaus County, March 3 and 4.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

ONE DAY SOON THERE WILL COME A balmy springlike morning, so let us talk about pastel woolens, the fabrics destined to make your first spring dress a complete success. The textures are varied, and are sometimes soft and melting as that incredible cashmere in the sweaters. Sometimes they have a sophisticated tree-bark surface, and sometimes they are sheer and loosely woven, as though loomed by hand.

The colors are clouded and dusty. Aquamarine is one of the smartest, and pale rust is another. Tender young greens, with a lot of yellow in them, are the newest shades to ride in on the crest of the spring season. These shades range all the way from sharp brightness to pale and delicate almond tones, and are very lovely and flattering.

The most eventful of the trimmings is taffeta matching taffeta. This is used to line, and at the same time to stiffen, neckline ruffs, loops and scarfs. Buttons and buckles are being done in dull finish—a soft cloudy gold, or dull silver that looks like aluminum. The accessories are brisk spots of dark color. The shoes, gloves, bag or hat may be dark, or they may repeat the color of the dress.

Many of the new hats are looking up. They have a high interest, and their crowns are smartly manipulated. So, look to your crown if you want to be up to date. Hats are more carefully designed, and more attention is given to detail than in the past. This state of affairs is highly gratifying to the woman who is fastidious about her headgear. "Off-the-face," say designers, and then they begin to regale us with brow revealing hats in a wide variety of styles and types such as halos, diadems and tiaras. Needless to say, few of us can wear the more extreme "off-the-face" models successfully, and it is good to know that flattering adjustments are now in progress.

We find the Mexican influence manifesting itself in some delightful models for cruise and resort wear. Large panamas roll up in back and droop in front, with a brilliant flash of color in the band. There is magic in the very words "spring millinery." Spring casts her first conscious spell upon every woman in the form of a new bonnet.

Hats are more than a hint of fashions, in their fabrics, their forms, their brims and their crowns. There are three distinct hat types, each of which has a definite bearing on the mode in general. Straws, fabrics and felts are carrying off the honors, with particular emphasis on fabrics, although straws, akin to fabrics, have reached a state of perfection never before attained. There are straw crepes, ribbed effects, and mossy and spongy textures. Hats, like dresses, are determinedly feminine. Even the new black sailor straws have decided to yield to this alluring influence, and are faced with pink in some instances and in others a faint hue of the dress may be reflected in underbrim expression. There is a strong showing for brims, extending into sports as well as the formal type.

Shoes for spring tend to look lighter, more graceful and daintier. Lines are sleek, with a glove-like trimness. Materials are beautiful, and color is a subject of major importance. As to styles and types, there is a seemingly endless variety from which to choose. The oxford continues to act as the dominant pattern influence, with one, two, three and four eyelet ties. Pumps, too, are high in style, and highly built. Trimmed styles and tongued pumps have one, two and three buckle fastenings. Novelty leathers have fine graining.

Sports oxfords in white calf have white pig trim. These also come in brown sports calf with beige pig trim and have perforated vamps and saddle leather heels. Another novelty cotton fabric shoe is a gay colored check which smartly complements the new cotton and linen fashions. An eyelet open vamp model has kid trimmings and perforated strippings. These are smart for early spring street or afternoon wear. Two eyelet ties in white, grey or marine blue kidskin have pin perforation cut-out motifs and ribbon ties.

Jacket suits and jacket dresses are a fashion factor to be reckoned with, whether in lightweight woolens or silks, and at the same time they are highly practical. Plaid silk tops on dresses of this character are decidedly a new note. The jackets match the skirts. Redingotes in a variety of chic interpretations are looked upon in the light of news, and some charming versions combine a lightweight wool coat with a colorful print dress.

Blouse news is going to be so far ahead of you that you will never catch up. Important in the new blouse batch of notes is the evening tunic, unbelted, short-sleeved and rather decided on having its neckline squared off by clips. The lingerie blouse in batiste and silk crepe shows lots of small tuckings and touches of lace. Satin has gone all tailored, but it is comprising with jabots and other frilly touches. Cocktail blouses are of soft crepe, in the sloping shoulder manner, and are buttoned up the back. This idea is flattering.

Jersey blouses are simply screaming about their high colors and high necklines, and it is high time you looked in on them. Taffeta will be seen with the spring suits. Two blouses seen on their debut were of the sweater variety. One was yellow and white, the white appearing in the ruffled collar and at the ribbed clinging waistline. The sleeves were short and had a small band of ribbing for the high cuff.

The shirtwaist frock is a perfect fashion for the campus class, business or sports. One suggests youth and action in its smart collar, the new drop shoulder line, and the still newer sleeves. The pockets are too clever for words. The frock would tailor smartly in sheer wool, heavy crepe, or one of the new woolly rough cotton crepes which are so attractive this season.

One of the swankier hotels opened its cocktail rooms the other afternoon and one of its features was a group of models displaying the proper dresses, and are they formal! They swept the floor, had jackets of shiny satin, and touches of beads, lace and feathers. Not all in one, you understand; but all in all it was pretty dazzling. The hats for these ensembles were most attractive, too. Little metal cloth bonnets had ostrich and bits of lustrous fabric trimming.

Quite often, a fashion expert comes along and devises the most intricate color schemes. When this momentous prediction gets under way we always look under the seraphic blues and the ocean greens to see if, somewhere under these shadows, these novelty colors are born. Besides grey, the smart colors for spring suits are blue, string beige and mixtures.

Do nothing about black at this time, for fashion is to be as colorful as can be, and do not think twice about a white blouse, for the same reason. Plan at least on two colors for your suit costume. Plan on three, if you are very sure of your ability to choose colors that will melt together and will not shriek at each other. Raspberry is lovely with blue. A blue suit has a raspberry linen blouse and raspberry straw hat. Or a blue suit has a blue hat and a blouse of pale water green, dusty pink or yellow. With any bright colored hat or blouse brown accessories may be worn.

The loveliness of the new cotton sheers is breath-taking. Printed voiles, organdies in prints, plaids or stripes and pique voiles are more diaphanous than ever and are beautifully printed in soft colors. Printed sateen has come to join piques. Ginghams and shirtings have first place in the first rank of sports things, and seersuckers are smart in rough, woolly, heavily crinkled plaids or checks. They are used for suits, dresses and beach wear. They are challenged by some very nautical designs.

The woman who is casting about for a dashing sports accessory can safely anchor her hopes to the linen scarf which will ride the high seas of fashion in any port. It is a large square of linen, striped in the center, and boasting large anchors in each corner.

The Imperial Midwinter Fair is billed for March 3-11 at Imperial, Imperial County.

There is now before the Federal Congress a bill—H.R. 7419—which deals with a most important, to California and the Pacific Coast, matter—fishing by aliens, particularly of the ineligible to citizenship variety. The bill, which should have the unanimous support of every loyal citizen, provides:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled: That the importation into the United States from any foreign country and/or the bringing into the United States by any Alien of fresh fish, frozen fish, fish in ice, salted fish, fish in cans, tuna fish, canned crab meat, lobsters, fish products of all kinds, fish oil, fish scrap, fish meal, and every kind of seafood products whether or not specifically named herein, is hereby prohibited excepting only fish caught by and transported in 'Vessels of the United States' owned, operated and fully manned by Citizens of the United States. Sec. 2. The provisions of this Act shall be deemed to be a part of the Tariff Act of 1930."

The enactment of this bill will "conserve the natural resources of food fish and control the same to the benefit of American citizens, assist in rehabilitating the American fishing industry, increase the employment of American fishermen, control the present over-production and waste, increase the price paid for these fish to American fishermen, and enable them to operate on a profitable basis."

Native Sons and Native Daughters, individually and collectively, should urge their representatives in the Federal Congress to give this measure wholehearted support. Do this NOW, for the wellbeing of the state and the nation.—C.M.H.

MEMOIRS EARLY-DAY SACRAMENTO VALLEY SETTLER ARE PUBLISHED.

In the memoirs of Theodor Cordua—the first settler of the Sacramento Valley north of Sutter Fort and the founder of Marysville, Yuba County,—just translated and published by Dr. Erwin G. Gudde of the University of California, another document of historical importance is added to the chronicles of the winners of the West. Cordua was born in Germany in 1796 and, after an adventurous career in the East Indies and Dutch South America, came to California in 1842, where he founded a colony at New Mecklenburg, in the fork of the Yuba and Feather Rivers. He lost his wealth during the days of the gold rush and left California in 1852, returning to Germany, where he died in 1857.

"Cordua's memoirs," says Dr. Gudde, "are especially interesting to us because we have very few contemporary diaries and memoirs of the period before the discovery of gold. His memoirs reflect the history of the epic years between 1842 and 1849, describing the beginnings of the great immigration, the Donner party, the Bear Flag revolt, the American occupation, and finally the discovery of gold and its consequences. Cordua was one of the few early pioneers who was a keen observer of nature. His memoirs give detailed information of the flora and fauna of those early days in California, and include much historical data on the Indian tribes of the state."

"To give when you are dead is lead—to give when you are sick is silver—but to share what you have when you are well and happy is golden."

GRIZZLY GROWLS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

THE CALIFORNIA STATE GOVERNment is making rapid progress in the "red." The deficit, now $19,000,000 should, by the end of June 1935, reach at least $65,000,000. So, the administration is looking around to see how and where more tax-dollars may be garnered, and an ad valorem tax on real estate is in prospect.

Public officials, as a rule, devote all their energies toward increasing the tax burden. They make no effort to reduce the burden, by lowering government costs. The people of California are paying more in taxes today than ever before, and the government spending orgy continues. Really, a general tax strike appears to be the only safe and sane course to pursue. And that should be followed by the putting into public offices, state and counties, of men competent to materially reduce the cost of government—men with no desire to build up political machines—men who are beyond the reach of political racketeers.

The decision of the California Supreme Court, permitting the state government administration to supplement legislative budget allotments with appropriations from the emergency fund, may be good law, but decidedly discouraging to those who would lower the excessive cost of government by eliminating waste and extravagance. The political racketeers, in whose behalf an overload of commissions, bureaus, etc., has been created, must have received that decision with renewed delight. The taxpayer? Well, he's the "goat," always.

"This situation," comments the State Controller, who endeavored to put a stop to the "emergency" appropriations, "would permit the governor to present a $100 budget and recommend a $340,000,000 emergency fund and operate the government as he pleased." That actually is the situation today. The Controller says, also, that although the 1933 State Legislature ordered substantial cuts in state departmental salary allowances, most of the departments continue to pay the old salaries. Yes, and in many cases, according to report, salaries of favored ones have been increased!

Well, perhaps some day the "goats," realizing their united power and tiring of being the perpetual burden-bearers of the political racketeers, will bring about a much-needed change in governmental conditions throughout California. The need is apparent, and the power is theirs! Hasten the day!

The recent discovery, in a cave near the Golden Gate, of a radio with wires running to a nearby "tea garden," aroused a bit of excitement in San Francisco. Officials investigated, and the operator, Akiro Omato, said it was used to receive news for Jap papers in San Francisco, Stockton, Sacramento and Los Angeles.

Who could have expected otherwise than that a reasonable explanation would be forthcoming? The Japs, when caught in a questionable act, have an excuse for everything; they are exceedingly well schooled in deceit. Some day, and it is not far away, this nation will pay dearly for permitting these yellow objectionables to do just about as they please in this country!

"I hope I shall always possess firmness and virtue enough to maintain what I consider the most enviable of all titles, the character of an 'honest man'," said George Washington. Were that the guide of every citizen of these United States, how surely and quickly would all economic and government ills vanish.

A Los Angeles County supervisor, in San Francisco browsing about the political field with an eye on the governorship, said: "I believe there is room for improvement in the state, particularly in taxation. The property of the state simply cannot stand further taxes." He could best demonstrate his ability and desire to improve government and lessen the property tax by rectifying conditions in his home-county, which is today more sorely afflicted than any other county of the state. In the coming election, voters should base their ballot-judgment on the established record, not on promises for future fulfillment.

The action of a Federal House of Representatives majority in voting for immediate payment of soldiers' adjusted service certificates, billions of dollars—despite the expressed wish of the President, is reprehensible. Every thinking person—and the House is supposed to be composed of such—knows the critical conditions in this country. Yet, that majority, undoubtedly influenced by the lobbying of an organized group, voted for payment. Which indicates that that majority have uppermost in their minds the "saving of their faces" at the polls. Their action may, however, prove a boomerang to their political aspirations, particularly so if the President takes this issue, also, direct to the people. Sorry to say, the California Congressmen are not in accord with the President's economy views; they are for raiding the treasury.

The Federal Government is a corporation, and the citizens of the country are the stockholders. They choose the directing head, the president, and the directors, members of the congress, of the corporation. The corporation has a President, elected by an enormous majority, who is honestly endeavoring to help the masses, not any particular group. The stockholders have much faith in him, and the directors should support his policies. In the matter of the bonus payment, however, a considerable majority of the directors assumed the attitude of preferring to wreck the corporation, rather than to co-operate with its directing head. So, for the corporation's good, the stockholders should retire the wreckers from the directorate.

From London, England, comes word, via the United Press, that the major points in Japan's demands for peace in the Pacific are: "Revision of the Japanese exclusion clause in the 1924 immigration law in the United States," and "United States abandonment of her naval and air bases in the Philippines." In other words, if the United States will do as Japan desires, and permit Japan to peacefully acquire the Pacific Coast of the United States, Japan will discontinue its war preparations.

These proposals appear to be a threat, on the part of Japan, that, unless the 1924 Immigration Act be amended to permit Japs to come into this country via quota,—to permit Japan to carry on its "peaceful invasion"—there will be war. Well, war or no war, the Federal Government should make no concession on the immigration question, regardless of the pleadings of the Federation of Churches of Christ in America and other pro-Jap organizations.

Terming as "legalized robbery" the prices industry is charging under NRA codes, United States Senator William E. Borah said, in the course of an address: "Any scheme which does not protect the individual citizen from unjust charges and prices, which fails to insure to him economic justice, and which fails to give small and independent business a fair chance in the struggle for existence is a libel upon government, a travesty upon justice and a brutal, indefensible system, regardless of whether you call it new freedom, old freedom, rugged individualism, or planned industrialism.

"Until we can increase the purchasing power of the masses, until they can buy more, not less as they are doing now, until they can make some savings, there can be no permanent prosperity. Prices should be kept down within reason and the price of labor raised and unemployment decreased."

The committee of the Federal Senate which last November investigated receiverships and bankruptcies in the federal courts of California has filed a report, in which United States district judges in Los Angeles and San Francisco, as well as receivers and trustees and their attorneys, are severely criticized and censured. In the 259 cases examined of which he knew were $12,992,000 in value, $4,161,662 paid receivers, attorneys, auditors and appraisers.

The report also held receiverships were "inefficiently administered, and also: 'For every dollar paid to a general creditor 96 cents was paid in receivership fees.' 'For the most part creditors had no voice in the appointment of receivers and were accorded little, if any, consideration after their appointment.' 'The receivers were, for the most part, inexperienced. In some cases, attorneys without executive training or any considerable knowledge of business were appointed receivers, and the effect was nothing more than the imposition of a highly expensive superstructure upon the business.'"

Emphasizing the committee's conviction that fees paid were exorbitant, the report sets forth that in three California cities, for a thirty-months period, the total fees and expenses allowed and paid amounted to $9,243,307, which is $1,460,907 in excess of the combined total amounts paid in salaries for a like period to the President of the United States, ten cabinet members, ninety-six senators, nine members of the United States Supreme Court, thirty-seven justices of the Circuit Court of Appeals, and one hundred and forty-five justices of the United States district courts. Referring to asserted original assets of companies ordered into receivership, the report says: "The recklessness with which the assets were asserted in the bills of complaint, and the total disregard of any scale of values set up on the books of the companies at the time of the application for the appointment of receivers," reveals "either an utter contempt for the truth of assertions set out in the petitions, which were verified under oath, an attempt to prove solvency in order to secure the appointment of receivers, or wasteful and incompetent management."

This report contains an abundance of most excellent reasons why the proposal to change the California law to provide for the appointment, instead of the election, of judges,—to be submitted to the electorate in November—should be turned down, decisively. Judges of the federal courts are appointed, not elected.

It appears that the bill proposed in the Federal Congress more than a year ago by Senator Hiram W. Johnson—to prohibit financial transactions with any foreign government in default on its obligations to the United States—will soon become a law. The bill makes it unlawful for any person in this country to deal in future-issued obligations of any such government. Facts unearthed at Senate investigations warrant the enactment, and rigid enforcement, of such a law.

The countywide citizens committee, including representatives of the Native Sons, is making rapid progress in replacing Filipino laborers with White help on Sonoma County ranches. The Japs and the Mexis, other ineligible-to-citizenship aliens, should also be included in the replacing program, and the citizens of every California county should emulate those of old Sonoma.

Judging from the quantities of whitewash applied to investigations, in and out of government, in California and otherwheres, the appliers of the cover-up must be enjoying uninterrupted prosperity.

"If we must have heroes and wars wherein to make them, there is no war so brilliant as a war with wrong."—Horace Bushnell.

"Be not deceived: God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap."—Bible.

For sacredly there falls a tear.

THINK THIS OVER!

The order of Native Sons of the Golden West is, we believe, with the exception of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West, the only organization that limits membership exclusively to NATIVE-BORN AMERICANS.

Knowing the serious conditions in this country today, this fact alone should impel every Native Son of California to immediately SEEK AFFILIATION with that American-born and American-operated institution, the man-power and wealth of which are pledged to the protection of American institutions in times of peace as well as in times of war.

CALIFORNIA FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

IN CALIFORNIA, APRIL 1884 WAS another freakish weather month. Thunder showers on the 8th were followed by almost continuous rainstorms until the 18th. The precipitation was heavier in the southern section of the state, and the flood-waters in Soledad Canyon again washed out the Southern Pacific tracks and blocked traffic for a week. Another heavy storm came the 26th. The rainfall for the month was 4.32 inches, making the season's total to May 1, 23.27 inches.

A frost came March 20 and badly damaged the fruit crop.

Easter Sunday, April 13, was religiously observed throughout the state.

The new town of Traver, Tulare County, came into existence with a town-lot sale April 7.

Suene—butter mixed with an equal quantity of lard—came on the market and many unsuspecting purchasers were buying it as a superior grade of butter.

Some San Diegans were making money capturing and selling horned toads.

Dr. H. W. Harkness, a leading scientist of the state, reported to the California Academy of Science that while on a hunt for the succulent fungus he had found truffles near Taylor Mills, Marin County, and also in the Berkeley, Alameda County, hills. The find was hailed as a valuable discovery.

The first strawberries of the season came on the market April 3 from Santa Clara County, and sold for $1.50 a basket. The first cherries came April 22.

A shipment of 2,000 head of cattle came by rail from Texas to the Charles Crocker ranch at Santa Margurita, San Diego County.

The Palo Alto, Santa Clara County, breeding farm of ex-Governor Leland Stanford was becoming overstocked. There were 275 brood mares, and over a hundred foals were born this season.

The extension of the California & Oregon Railway north from Redding, Shasta County, was stopped forty miles north of that point, and over a thousand Chinamen engaged in the grading were discharged.

To furnish electric light to all cities and towns of the Pacific Coast, the Pacific Electric Light Company was incorporated April 26. It placed its first light at the intersection of Fourth and "J" streets, Sacramento City.

A proposition was made to the San Francisco Board of Supervisors to illuminate that city with electric lights placed upon towers 150 feet high at street intersections.

Thomas Rutledge was elected mayor of Santa Rosa, Sonoma County, April 3, and William Settle was elected mayor of San Jose, Santa Clara County, April 15.

In a bicycle vs. trotting-horse contest at San Francisco April 13, Bicyclist Armando made 16½ miles and the horse 18½ miles in one hour.

A three-round prizefight with skin-tight gloves for $500 a side, between Jack Kelly and Denny Hayes, was staged April 20 at Newark, Alameda County. Both were badly punished, and Kelly was knocked out.

The steamboat "Senator," that plied the Sacramento River in 1850, was sold to a New Zealand company and was to be taken there.

Woodland, Yolo County, reported the arrival there from Australia of a "blue man." He was of a blue complexion, and had been so since birth.

The Seventh Grand Parlor of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West met at Marysville, Yuba County, April 14. There were fifty-three delegates from the twenty-three Subordinate Parlors then existing. John A. Steinbach of San Francisco was elected Grand President, and Henry Lunstedt of San Francisco, Grand Secretary. The election of a Grand Orator for the Admission Day celebration was provided for by resolution, and Robert T. Devlin of Sacramento was chosen. The session closed with a grand ball given by Marysville Parlor No. 6.

Joshua L. Turner, Pioneer of '49 who built and managed the first hotel in Nevada City, Nevada County, and served several terms as an assemblyman in the State Legislature, died at Oroville, Butte County, April 9.

William Friend, a Mexican War veteran, died April 14 at Oakland, Alameda County.

James Moore, who came in 1849 via Santa Fe, first mining in Mariposa County and a few years later engaging in farming and livestock raising in Yolo County, died April 16 at the age of 75.

Thomas Fowler, who served several terms as senator in the State Legislature from Tulare County, died at Visalia April 17.

Father Francis Sanchez, who came to Santa Barbara Mission in 1841, died there April 18, aged 71.

Rev. C. T. Mills, founder of Mills Seminary near Oakland, Alameda County, died April 22.

Clarence E. Parker, former Grand Secretary of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West and a prominent member of Sacramento Parlor No. 3, died April 22 at the age of 28.

George Cadwalader, who came from Ohio in 1849, died April 28 at San Francisco, aged 54.

Greenville, Plumas County, was partially burned April 27; loss, $20,000.

San Francisco had a $35,000 fire April 22, when the plant of the Averill Paint Co. and the Ghirardelli spice mills burned.

Frank Baumgarten, a San Jose, Santa Clara County, brewery employe, fell into a vat of boiling water April 20 and was scalded to death.

While painting the third story of a San Francisco house, April 2, Wm. Dettinger fell and was killed.

Snow crushed a woodshed at Summit, Placer County, in which a gang of Chinamen were working April 19, and six of them were killed.

While coming up the shaft of a mine at Nashville, El Dorado County, April 13, the cage upset. G. Pietro was thrown to the bottom of the shaft and his neck was broken.

Twenty-year-old John D. Cordero was, unnoticed, drowned while swimming in the Alameda City baths April 5.

Charles Griswold of San Francisco committed suicide April 20 by stabbing himself twenty-one times.

Ferrying the Cosumnes River near Elk Grove, Sacramento County, April 15, John Nelson was caught in a whirlpool that drowned him.

Felix Faber, inmate of the San Francisco almshouse for fourteen years, died April 3. In his clothing was found $183 in coin, and among his personal effects was a bank book showing he had $2,330 on deposit.

California has for sale 799,353 acres of land, located in forty-four of the state's fifty-eight counties. This acreage consists of school lands granted to the state by the Federal Government in 1853.

A statue of Chief Solano of the Suisunne Indian tribe will soon be unveiled near Fairfield, Solano County. The State Legislature appropriated $5,000 for the statue.

A navel orange pageant, celebrating the sixty-first anniversary of the planting of navel orange trees in southern California, is to be held May 4, at Riverside City.

Fruit acreage in California has ceased to expand and is headed downward, according to agricultural economists of the University of California.

THE HUMMING BIRD

(MINNA McGARVEY.)

The children watch his coming, with spellbound eyes a-shine
As he flickers o'er the garden to the honeysuckle vine,
While there amid the blossoms, sheathing deep his slender bill
He whirring hums and poises as he sips his dainty fill.

In summer sunlight glancing, he glitters like a gem,
Now hidden in a flower cup, then swaying on a stem;
He does not fear the children, knowing well that merry band,
For ev'ry day he flashes in that sunny fairyland.

Above their heads he hovers, to perch awhile near by,
Their frolic brightly sharing, he can play the game "I spy";
He waits until his happy mates are hidden in their play,
And when they peek to find him—he is twinkling far away!

MANY TREK TO FREMONT PEAK FOR FLAG RAISING ANNIVERSARY.

San Juan Bautista (San Benito County)—The eighty-eighth anniversary of the raising of the Stars and Stripes on Fremont Peak by John Charles Fremont, the Pathfinder, was observed March 4 with impressive ceremonies witnessed by fully 2,000 persons. Promptly at noon, against a background of clear blue sky, the large flag was raised to the top of the lofty pole while buglers of the Boy Scouts sounded colors. All joined in singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

Mayor George Abbe of San Juan introduced President George H. Moore of the Fremont Memorial Association, who has made twenty-eight successive trips to the peak for the annual flag-raising ceremonies, and he gave a very interesting talk on the early days of these ceremonies and the present governmental trend. Past Grand President Bertha A. Briggs of the Native Daughters spoke on the character of Fremont and his influence on the history of California, stressing the work done by the Orders of Native Daughters and Native Sons in the marking of historic spots. Boy Scouts gave a program of songs and stunts, accordion selections were given by Bill Morillo, and guitar numbers and songs by George Reinosa.

The weather was perfect, and the roads were in splendid condition. After the ceremonies the assemblage gathered in groups for luncheon and the enjoyment of the majestic panorama spread at their feet. This was undoubtedly the most impressive of the ceremonies held for the commemoration of this historic event.

HISTORICAL SOCIETIES OF SOUTH TO HAVE SAN DIEGO CONVENTION.

San Diego—A growing interest in historical matters in the southwestern counties of California is responsible for the calling of a historical convention at San Diego City, April 7, by Dr. Owen C. Coy, director of the California State Historical Association. Historians in San Diego, Imperial, Riverside, Los Angeles and Orange Counties are invited to attend. The convention will open with a business meeting at the San Diego Chamber of Commerce at 10 a.m. During this session permanent organization of a southwestern group which shall seek to unify the purposes of all interested in the study of California history and in the restoration and preservation of landmarks and important historic sites will be perfected.

At 2:30 p.m. a "pilgrimage caravan" will start from Junipero Serra Museum, Old Town, visiting the recently restored Mission San Diego de Alcala, and other historic sites at Presidio Hill, in Old Town and on Point Loma, "where California began." At 6:30 p.m. there will be a dinner, at which Dr. Coy will formally address the convention on "The Sacred Expedition of Galvez," and Historian Winifred Davidson of the San Diego Historical Society will speak on "San Diego Arrivals of 1769." It is expected this first annual convention will attract individuals who take pride in the development of the true facts relating to California's past.

The twenty-fifth annual picnic day celebration of the College of Agriculture will be held April 21 at Davis, Yolo County.

A California spring garden show will be held April 25-29 at Oakland, Alameda County.

MARKERS INDICATE HISTORIC SITES

AT TRINIDAD HEAD IS A GRANITE cross standing some 200 feet above Trinidad lighthouse and about 400 feet above the sea, near the site where daring Spaniards first erected a cross made of pine, proclaiming the land thereabouts the possession of King Carolus III of Spain. The cross itself is nine feet high, and is mounted on a granite base two feet high. A massive affair, its arms measure four feet six inches, and it weighs two tons.

June 9, 1775, Haceta and Bodega, accompanied by Father Campa, anchored in Trinidad Bay. They took formal possession, including the elevation of the Spanish standard and cross, followed by a mass and military salute, and gave the port the present name, Trinidad, the day being the feast of the Holy Trinity. The Indians called it Shoram. After a week spent in replacing a broken mast and in bartering with the Indians the navigators turned their eyes to the northward, and not again until April 1793 was Trinidad visited, this time by Vancouver. He reported having no difficulty in finding the wooden cross, hewn from a pine tree, that the Spanish had placed on the rugged headland in 1775. It was in a state of decay, but he was able to copy the inscription, which was "Carolus III Del. G. Hyspaniarum Rex."

Fort Humboldt, near Eureka, was "Occupied by U. S. Troops from 1853 to 1865. Gen. U. S. Grant was stationed here in 1853." This fort was established in early days because of trouble with the Indians. The site chosen is a plateau overlooking the bay, and the then thriving town of Bucksport. The barracks and officers' quarters were erected in 1853, in quadrangular form around three sides of the parade ground, leaving the west side open to the ocean. There were about a dozen buildings, and lumber was obtained from the surrounding forest. One of the buildings is still standing and has been given to the City of Eureka with sufficient surrounding land for a park.

The steamer "Northerner" left San Francisco, January 5, 1860, northward bound. When about two miles off Cape Mendocino the next day, January 6, it struck a hidden rock and from there drifted to the Centerville Beach. Seventeen passengers and twenty-one members of the crew lost their lives. In 1921, Ferndale Parlor No. 93 N.S.G.W. erected and dedicated a monument to honor the memory of those thirty-eight Pioneers who lost their lives in the disaster.

The monument is in the form of a cross, made of concrete, standing eighteen feet high on an eight-foot concrete base. At the base of the cross is a marble slab with the following inscription: "To the memory of the thirty-eight Pioneers who lost their lives here Jan. 6, 1860, by Ferndale Parlor No. 93 N.S.G.W. 1921." The monument stands on a knoll overlooking the spot where the victims of the disaster are buried. It is located at Centerville Beach, near Ferndale.

A bronze tablet on a granite monument marks the site of Camp Curtis, a mile north of Arcata. The tablet is inscribed to the memory of the military camp, the soldiers of the State of California, known as "The Mountaineers," who did yeoman services for the country during the troublous times of the Civil War.

SUGGESTS RETURN OF MISSIONS TO FRANCISCANS, IN TRIBUTE TO SERRA.

Editor Grizzly Bear: I am not a native son, but have been a loyal Californian for sixty-five years; my wife was a Native Daughter, and I am the father, grandfather and great-grandfather of Native Sons and Daughters of California, and I think that should entitle me to the privilege of making a suggestion.

If I am correctly informed, there are but three of the twenty-one Franciscan missions founded in Alta California now in charge of that order, and those three were founded after the death of Padre Serra 150 years ago. It seems to me that as an act of justice, San Diego, the mother mission of Alta California, and San Carlos, the official home of President Serra—both founded by him personally—should be restored to the Franciscan Order.

To my mind, no greater tribute could be paid the memory of California's first great apostle by the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West than adopting such a suggestion and prosecuting it to a successful finish. It can be done by concerted and vigorous action of two such influential organizations and 'tis fitting that they take the lead. Think it over. Respectfully submitted. JAMES A. JASPER.

Los Angeles, March 10, 1934.

THE EARLY THEATER

(MARY LOUISE ATKINSON.)

IT WAS THE YEAR 1849. GOLD DUST WAS gleaming in every jeweler's window. All of San Francisco seemed linked to its great bay by trains of men who were carrying cargoes of silks, shawls and tea into the warehouses on the lower streets. Ships lining the shore had been turned into shops and houses. Everything was in a great mass movement.

In Portsmouth Square lay the whole blazing life of a new San Francisco. Here gambling was the great public diversion, gambling and the theater. On a corner of the square stood the handsome building known as the Jenny Lind Theater, which had three times been destroyed by fire and each time was re-erected on the same site by Thomas McQuire, a cabman who could neither read nor write but who became famous through his great interest in theatricals. On Washington street was the gay little San Francisco Theater and below that, the extensive American. On a hilltop stood the Adelphi. Smaller entertainment houses were scattered near by. Gambling saloons were often turned into theaters for a night. The Bella Union, perhaps the most notorious of these, had already played an important part in the theatrical history of San Francisco.

MARY LOUISE ATKINSON

San Francisco was full of actors. They came from the showboats of the Mississippi, from New Orleans, Galveston and New York — even from England, France, Australia, Sweden and China. One company came from St. Louis by prairie schooner with a tribe of Sioux Indians as companions for part of the journey. Actors were coming, confident of fortune, knowing that the theater flourished in California with much vigor.

New companies seemed to come every day to give their plays to the willing audiences of California. Interludes of singing and dancing were popular on every stage. But the amazing circumstance was the spontaneous eagerness with which the Americans turned to the drama itself. Even the soldiers of Stevenson's regiment, who were in California before the discovery of gold, had been settled only a short time before they set about the business of theatricals. In theaters made of adobe houses, old English farces were produced and even Shakespeare was played.

An Englishman, Steve Massant, whose chief characteristics were his red face, a mop of curly hair and a proud bearing, gave one of the first public entertainments in San Francisco in 1849. He called himself Jeems Pipes of Pipesville, and his greatest accomplishment was burlesque. A band of minstrels appeared in San Francisco in '49, but their stay was a brief one. One of their members was killed in a brawl at the Bella Union, after which they immediately fled to the Sandwich Islands. A circus, Rowes', opened with a company of nine at a new amphitheater which seated over a thousand people. For a few weeks the place was packed nightly.

Then, at a sudden stroke in '49, San Francisco was empty. Everyone flocked to the gold camps. Many San Franciscoans came to Sacramento, which had formerly been a cluster of four houses but which now encamped as many as 10,000 people. Here, in October 1849, a complete theatrical performance was given at the New Eagle Theater, a canvas affair with a sheet-iron roof.

A short time later Sacramento was flooded, and washed clean of its buildings; theatrical companies rushed back to San Francisco. Miners followed them in search of amusement and were ready to scatter their gold dust freely. Dr. Robinson, a New Englander, opened the Dramatic Museum Theater, which was crowded from the opening night by theater goers. The Jenny Lind was re-established by McQuire. In rapid succession, full versions of "Macbeth," "Hamlet," "King Lear," "The Rivals," "Pizarro," and other English comedies were produced.

Theatricals came to a full and sudden bloom in San Francisco. Farces, minstrels, pantomimes were seen at many gambling saloons. Masquerades were in vogue. In the Adelphi, the first operatic performances were given. On a tiny stage lit by oil lamps, with dim scenery, and before a small audience, a little French and Italian troupe sang arias from the operas.

In 1851 San Francisco was again swept by fire. Everything was destroyed. However, shortly the theaters were again flourishing, this time with a greater vigor than ever before. Beauty was put into theater buildings. Theater management was beginning on a wide and enduring scale.

This setting in San Francisco was the scene of many joys and heartaches of the favorites of the day. Here, young Edwin Booth quarreled with his father. They parted, and Edwin remained in San Francisco to seek his career as an actor, creating there his great role of Hamlet. Ada Menkin, Lola Montez, Julia Dean, the Chapmans, all rose to fame on the gold coast.

Mingling with these established actors was the little Lotta Crabtree. Those famous persons of the stage hardly thought that Lotta was to become a favorite in California. She had a wider career and longer life than any of the actors who were then on the gold coast. Lotta Crabtree became the most prominent comedy actress throughout the entire United States and was a pioneer in extravaganza and burlesque.

Through the efforts of these famous figures there occurred an extraordinary activity in the theater. It developed and flourished under absolute freedom, as perhaps it never had before nor has since. It began a paved road over which many an actor of note was to travel at a later date. San Francisco was then developing that understanding and appreciation which makes it today the cultural center of the West.

(This is the prizewinning essay of the oratorical contest on California history subjects, sponsored annually by Sacramento Parlor No. 3 N.S.G.W., referred to in The Grizzly Bear for March 1934. The contest, held February 8, was participated in by several students of the Sacramento high school. Editor.)

THE CALIFORNIA POPPY

(LIDA E. LUDWIG.)

Wake up, sleepy flowers, your peaked nightcap doff!
Unfurl your yellow banner to the sun!
The last watch of the long, dark night is off,
Day dreams with the sound of the sunrise gun.

Marshal your forces on the south hillside,
Or in the sunny plain's moist field,
And seek not from the gaze of men to hide
The sheen of your golden shield.

At the noontide heat is your glory tide,
When the sunbeam you woo with delight,
While the soft breezes toss you from side to side
'Til you wrap you about for the night.

When your last hour has come and your garments wax old,
Do you dissolve like common clay,
Or are your petals transmuted to elixir of gold
And distilled in alembics of bay?

Howe'er that be, you no doubt to the gods are related,
For in myths classic and old 'tis contended
That a daughter of man to great Jupiter was mated
When to her in a shower of gold he descended.

—Mountain Messenger.

"EDITOR GRIZZLY BEAR: SUBORDINate Parlors everywhere are getting their houses in order for the Grand Parlor session soon to be held at Ukiah. There will be a full and representative body of California's splendid manhood present to shape the policies of the Order for the coming year under the leadership of the chair officers who will be stepped up one station nearer the top of the Order.

"The 'mother lode' section of the state has surpassed by far the interest shown for some years past. Initiations have been general and consistent throughout the pioneer settlements, which is an assurance that the spirit of the Order is growing in strength in those localities, which may be truly termed the birthplaces of western civilization. The valleys and the large centers of population have held well against the depressing conditions which have everywhere prevailed during the past few years.

"There is no doubt but that conditions are improving, and people are in a more hopeful attitude today than they have been for several years. Our Order has had a stabilizing influence in steadying the Ship of State when it was being lashed by the fiercest economic storm through which the Nation has passed since the days of our forebears. Loyalty and fraternalism, transmitted from a pioneer ancestry, stood the State and Nation well in need during our most threatening crisis. Such is ever the true American and pioneer spirit which will always come to the aid of the Nation in the darkest days of national peril.

"Saturday night, March 17, I visited my home-Parlor, Santa Rosa No. 28, and joined in the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Parlor. Brothers Thos. J. Hutchinson, William Irwin and myself are the remaining three charter members who have retained our memberships during all those years. Of the original thirty-two charter members, eight are living and the three above mentioned are still active. Space will not permit me to recount, even briefly, the many interesting and historical events which have become a part of the lives of the three remaining charter members. Friendships were cemented in the formative period of our lives which no force can loosen. Twenty-seven Parlors were represented. All of the Grand Officers were present but three or four for whom distance made it impracticable to attend. Speeches were made, and presents were given to several brothers as a reward for service or to memorialize some important Parlor event.

"Notably among the visitors were such pioneer Native Sons as Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan, Sheriff Veale, the dean of sheriffs, and Warden James B. Holohan of Watsonville Parlor. The crack Sea Point drum corps headed a long parade down the principal streets of the city. Other outstanding and loyal Natives were present. I would write more in detail but I assume you will have a more complete report from other sources than I am expected to give in my usual monthly article. The officers of Santa Rosa Parlor and its members certainly brought great honor to our Order, and the representatives of twenty-seven Parlors honored the celebration by their presence. Nineteen candidates were initiated. Santa Rosa, Petaluma and Sebastopol furnished the candidates.

"BROTHERS, DON'T FORGET THE HOMELESS CHILDREN! A small contribution by each of us will help.

Board Grand Officers Meets.

San Francisco—The Board of Grand Officers met March 3, in attendance being Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell, who presided, Junior Past Grand Seth Millington, Grand First Vice Chas. A. Koenig, Grand Second Vice Harmon D. Skillin, Grand Third Vice J. Hartley Russell, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Trustees Eldred L. Meyer, Henry S. Lyon, Charles H. Spengemann, Thomas M. Foley, Jesse H. Miller, John M. Burnett and Edward T. Schnarr.

Communications were received from: The San Bernardino Woman's Club, which has gone on record as opposed to any change in the 1924 Immigration Act. The Daughters of California Pioneers, which has protested against stores keeping open for business on Washington's Birthday, February 22, and Admission Day, September 9. The University of California regents, thanking the Grand Parlor for the $1,000 gift in support of the N.S.G.W. history fellowship fund.

A membership in the California State Historical Association was authorized, at a cost of $2.

Compton Parlor No. 273 was allowed a $150 supplies credit, it now having more than fifty members.

A request from a representative of Indians of California Inc., for assistance in certain phases of this work, was referred to the Grand Parlor.

Yosemite Parlor No. 24 (Merced) invited the grand officers to initiate a class of candidates for it April 9. The invitation was accepted, with the proviso that the class consist of not less than twenty-five.

Grand Trustee Miller, Grand First Vice Koenig and Grand Second Vice Skillin were appointed a committee to draft suitable resolutions on the recent death of Past Grand Robert M. Fitzgerald, to be submitted to the Grand Parlor.

It was ordered, that reports of grand officers to the Grand Parlor be limited to 1,500 words, and those of district deputies to 250 words.

Much other business of importance was transacted, and several matters of a routine nature were given attention. At 7:05 p.m. the Board adjourned to the call of the Grand President.

Fiftieth Anniversary Celebrated.

Santa Rosa—March 17, Santa Rosa No. 28 celebrated its fiftieth institution anniversary with three of its charter members—Justice Emmet Seawell, Grand President, Thomas Hutchison and William Irwin—present. There was a very large attendance, among the visitors being representatives of twenty-seven Subordinate Parlors, Past Grand Charles L. Dodge, Grand First Vice Chas. A. Koenig, Grand Second Vice Harmon D. Skillin, Grand Third Vice J. Hartley Russell, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Trustees Charles H. Spengemann, Thomas M. Foley, Jesse H. Miller and Edward T. Schnarr.

Twenty candidates were initiated, seventeen for Santa Rosa, two for Petaluma No. 27 and one for Sebastopol No. 143. The ritual was splendidly exemplified by a picked team from No. 28 drilled by Wesley Beach. George Eckman headed the ritual team, and President

INTEREST IN THE FIFTY-SEVENTH GRAND Parlor of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, which convenes at Ukiah, Mendocino County, Monday, May 21, is increasing. Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell will preside at the sessions, which will be held Monday, Tuesday and Thursday. Subordinate Parlors will elect their delegates at the first meetings this month (April), and then many things may happen, including, it is rumored, the shying of some new hats into the grand-parlor-office ring.

Ukiah Parlor No. 71 has charge of arrangements and entertainment for the Grand Parlor, and it has a large, active committee, with Henry Spurr as the general chairman, which has about perfected its plans. All visitors will be well taken care of, and there will be plenty of entertainment. From James E. Busch, the Parlor's publicity chairman, The Grizzly Bear received this outline of the entertainment program:

"Sunday afternoon, May 20, there will be a baseball game between Ukiah Parlor's team and the Parlor team of a neighboring county. After the game, there will be an informal reception in front of the Mendocino County Courthouse, at which the key to the City of Ukiah will be presented to the delegates.

"Monday night, there will be an informal reception in the grammar school auditorium, featuring dancing and other entertainment. The grand ball will be held Tuesday night.

"Wednesday, the barbecue. It will be held at Fort Bragg, on the Mendocino County coast about sixty-five miles from Ukiah. The delegates will be taken to Willits, twenty-five miles from Ukiah, by automobile. At Willits, they will board a special train consisting of flatcars and coaches. This trip by train to Fort Bragg will be one of forty miles through towering redwoods. I don't believe there is a more beautiful forty-mile trip in the whole United States. The

The Grizzly Bear has directed letters to all of the many rumored candidates for Grand Parlor offices, seeking direct from them definite information as to their intentions. Some have failed to respond, so no reference is, or will be, made to them in these columns. From information received, the following lineup has been compiled:

Grand President—Grand First Vice Chas. A. Koenig.

Grand First Vice-president—Grand Second Vice Harmon D. Skillin.

Grand Second Vice-president—Grand Third Vice J. Hartley Russell.

Grand Third Vice-president—Grand Trustee Jesse H. Miller; Grand Trustee John M. Burnett; Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer.

Grand Secretary—John T. Regan, incumbent.

Grand Treasurer—John A. Corotto, incumbent.

Grand Marshal—Grand Inside Sentinel William A. Reuter.

Grand Trustees (seven to be chosen)—Henry S. Lyon, incumbent; Thomas M. Foley, incumbent; Hubert J. Caveney of Stanford Parlor No. 76; Donald E. VanLuven of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110; Adrien M. Hynes of Piedmont Parlor No. 120; Charles H. Spengemann, incumbent; Edward T. Schnarr, incumbent.

Grand President Seawell will automatically become the Junior Past Grand President, and the incoming Grand President will appoint the Grand Organist and the Grand Historian.

Vallejo, Solano County, will, through the delegates from Vallejo Parlor No. 77, ask for the 1935 Grand Parlor. There may be other seekers for this honor.

What city wants this year's Admission Day, September 9, statewide celebration? Several have been mentioned.

George Gilman presided over the golden jubilee. Addresses were delivered by Grand President Seawell, Grand Trustee Schnarr, visiting grand officer for Santa Rosa, Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan (Oakland No. 50), Warden James Holohan (Watsonville No. 65), Sheriff R. R. Veale (General Winn No. 32) and Past Grand Dodge, treasurer Contra Costa County.

Emblems of the Order, showing fifty years' continuous membership, were presented Charter Members Seawell, Hutchison and Irwin, Chairman Wesley Colgan of the anniversary committee making the presentations on behalf of Santa Rosa Parlor. Frank Berger, on the Parlor's behalf, presented a beautiful emblematic ring to Past President Wesley Beach, in appreciation for services rendered. To make the evening complete, Grand President Seawell, acting for No. 28, presented an emblematic charm to Wesley Colgan; this was such a distinct surprise to "Wes," he was unable to respond. Prior to the meeting a parade led by the drum corps of Sea Point No. 158 (Sausalito) moved through the principal streets, and at the meeting's conclusion a buffet supper was served.

Big Crowd Greets Visitor.

Eureka—Members of the three Humboldt County Parlors—Humboldt No. 14 (Eureka), Arcata No. 20 and Ferndale No. 93—gathered here February 26 for an official visit from Grand Trustee Thomas M. Foley. It was the largest outpouring of Natives hereabouts in many months. The Grand Trustee gave a very instructive talk on the aims and purposes of the Order, and urged increased membership.

Activities of the Order in the county were related by David Wood, charter member of Arcata, Laurence F. Puter, William L. Lambert, James P. Mahan and Len Yocom. Elmer E. Robinson (Bay City No. 104) was also a speaker. Following a crab feast, there was a horseshoe contest between teams from Ferndale and Humboldt Parlors; the former was victorious.

Record-Breaking Event.

Nicasio—Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer officially visited Nicasio No. 183, March 7. While this Parlor is very small in numbers, 150 members of the Order from Marin, San Francisco and Alameda Counties assembled, in response to the Grand Trustee's invitation, extended while visiting other Parlors in the San Francisco Bay district. The meeting of Sea Point No. 158 (Sausalito) was adjourned, and fifty of its members went to Nicasio, accompanied by the drum corps. Two candidates were initiated, the following exemplifying the ritual:

Grand Secretary John T. Regan, president; Grand Second Vice Harmon D. Skillin, junior past; Past Grand Charles L. Dodge, senior past;

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

TO BE SMART, ONE NEED NOT BE beautiful, for a beautiful face is the least necessary item that goes to make up a fashionably dressed woman. Too many women do not keep abreast of the latest styles, but if they applied themselves carefully, regardless of their looks they would be outstandingly dressed; in fact, even more attractively than many pretty women. The average woman thinks she does not have the time to give to new styles and new fashions. Women must learn to spend more time on their clothes and the selection of them. When they do, they will be far better off.

Scent is an enticing thing in the hands of women. The seductive art of perfumery is a complicated one, which really merits much study. Since time immemorial women have used it, but some go to extremes. They use either a too exotic perfume or no scent at all. Still others know that musky heavy odors are for evening, and that the simple flower scents and fine odors are better for daytime. Most of us are not lucky enough to have a large collection of perfumes, and yet we do like to use them. For these there are sachets which may be tucked into the handkerchief and underlinen cases. Several perfumes have matching sachets. Among the best known is a blended odor. No woman should ignore the proper use of perfumes, and with sachets costing so little anyone can afford them.

Milady's figure has certainly come into its own. Designers have created soft slippery garments that would make anyone look like a greek goddess. In any of the leading stores are corsets, girdles and brassieres that are a joy to behold. No more of those ugly, bumpy "coats-of-mail" that used to be inflicted on the poor woman. Now, they all look like dainty lingerie. There are some that stretch both ways in the right places and not at all in others. These control the figure like nothing you have ever seen. They come in all sizes and shapes for every figure in the world. To go with those which have not their own attached, are brassieres that are so light and stretchy, and yet so very efficient, that they claim to give a second skin. All these garments are so smooth in fabric and construction that they make the tightest, sheerest dress look marvelous. Of course, the ones with the zippers are most convenient.

Nighties take on tennis frock lines, so look twice before deciding that the airy little sports frock is just that, for it's likely to be a nightgown. This must be quite a blow to the evening gown influence. Nighties are now shown in white, much like the tennis frock, with bow-knot shoulders. The edges are bound with bright colors. "V" necks are piped in red, green and all shades of blue. Prints are in this section, too, mostly in blues; otherwise, tea rose has the nightgown color lead. Handmade gowns show fagoting trims often expressed in a lace-like pattern. Sometimes the fagoting appears in a darker shade than the gown. We are back to scalloping, also. It is a nice change from the usual lace decoration, and if one would not care for anything like this, a pajama called "choir boy" is out for consideration. This has a surplice blouse and full cut trousers of plain colored broadcloth.

It really seems like the time has come to think of spring dresses. If anything sounds annoying it is the word "practical," yet we know it is a thing to be considered. Clothes, I think, have never been so individually styled, and so many things can be done to change a dress around. In fact, some of the smart shops are showing dresses with changeable neckwear.

A plain, well and simply cut navy blue crepe dress is a fine basis for working out this scheme. It lends itself beautifully to the more formal touches of lace and satin at the throat and wrists, and yet, smart tailored piques and even ginghams give a practical street dress.

Man-tailored coats are going to go over well. These are double breasted, and have slashed pockets fitted in at the waist. These coats may be worn over a dress with a well-tailored neckline, and are mostly belted in at the back. There are many coats with white pique collars. If you like them, they are "it."

The vogue for suits offers a splendid background for tailored jewelry, and when worn properly it does marvelous things in accenting the high points, or at lending a spot of color to relieve severity, which we very much doubt is becoming to anyone. The new leather jewelry is grand for sports things, and is a happy combination for the feminine or the tailored girl who has one or two good things rather than a closet full of things. The new jewelry is important. It gives a smart chance to indulge desire for a change.

Knitted wear is definitely for spring and has gone all flossy and formal, although the knitted active sportwear is quite severe, with turtle neck or high-rolled collar. One that is youthful and extremely attractive is of checked tweed and has a wide collar, split where the rippling lapels get going. It has two buttons and a fitted waist, with large patch pockets and cuffs.

There are two major divisions in sports clothes which are appropriate. One is the knitted costume, and the other is the blouse-and-skirt or the jumper-and-skirt combination. Two requisites in sports clothes are that they fit and that they have dash. It is the best chance a woman has to try out daring color schemes, and many a girl who looks commonplace in little dressy frocks has learned to favor the sports ensembles.

There is a lot of yellow in sports costumes for this spring. Dusty turquoise blue is another favorite. Lichen green, chartreuse, parma violet, bright clay and orange are equally good. The trick is, not to wear a get-up in one solid tone. A pencil blue flat silk or worsted scarf is worn on a red-brown suit. A cerise tie and broad suede belt complete a deep purple outfit, and other strange color combinations are new ideas.

Taffeta is receiving special treatment, not only for dresses and coats, but in accessories. There is a taffeta dinner dress with a white organdie top, and then comes along a taffeta jacket frock with just an organdie collar. Organdie is one of those things that constantly surprises, because for little thin girls it does nice billowy things. Another taffeta with white pin dots was greeted as a really formal costume. A luscious white taffeta evening coat, full length with large puffed sleeves, is the smartest thing in a warm weather wrap for formal.

A dinner frock must have the pastel crepe version, usually appearing in pale pink or blue, and is simply completed by a self-material cape or jacket trimmed with pale fox. The importance of the hat, scarf and bag ensemble is increasing all the time, with a greater variety of materials being used.

"A California Garden in Spring" is the theme for the annual spring flower show to be held April 12-14 at Pasadena, Los Angeles County.

Public schools week—designed to bring the public into closer relationship with the work of the schools—will begin April 23.

The California Congress of Parents and Teachers will meet in annual convention at Sacramento City, May 1-4.

The northern California musical festival, an annual event, will be held at Chico, Butte County, April 28.

The Sacramento County spring flower show will be held in the Capital City, April 21 and 22.

Passing of the California Pioneer

(Confined to Brief Notices of the Demise of Those Men and Women Who Came to California Prior to 1870.)

MRS. ANNA ELIZABETH COOK-WILley, native of Massachusetts, 86, came to California in 1851 via the Isthmus of Panama and resided in San Francisco, Sacramento and Alameda Cities, died at the latter city, survived by a daughter, Mrs. Florence Knott. Deceased was a daughter of Charles W. Cook, Pioneer of 1849, who engaged in the banking business in San Francisco under the firm name of Palmer, Cook & Co. An ideal Christian, an ever-faithful friend, Mrs. Willey was a most lovable little woman; her life was devoted to doing good, by word and by deed; no better woman ever graced this earth. "Sleep on, dear friend, such lives as thine have not been lived in vain, but shed an influence, rare, divine, on lives that here remain." C.M.H.

Samuel H. DeWitt, native of Kentucky, 81; came across the plains in 1852 and resided in Lassen, Tehama, Tulare and Los Angeles Counties; died at Alhambra, survived by four children.

Mrs. Nellie Mann-Mel, native of Ohio; came via Panama in 1850; died at Berkeley, Alameda County, survived by eight children.

George W. Oman, native of Illinois, 88; crossed the plains in 1852; died at Fresno City, survived by a wife and two sons.

Mrs. Charlotte Mount-Spaulding, native of Ohio, 91; came via Panama in 1852 and long resided in Napa City; died at San Francisco, survived by two children.

Mrs. Elotia Chauncey-Craddock, native of Illinois, 91; crossed the plains in 1855 and resided seventy-four years in Shasta County; died at Oakland, Alameda County, survived by four children.

Thomas Jefferson Wayne, native of Wisconsin, 85; since 1856 Siskiyou County resident; died at Fort Jones.

Mrs. Nancy Mears-Fisher, native of Illinois, 81; crossed the plains in 1856 and settled in Shasta County; died near Millville, survived by a son.

Zachary Taylor Finch, native of Missouri, 85; crossed the plains in 1860; died at Smith River, Del Norte County, survived by three sons.

Mrs. Anna Gofield, native of New York, 81, came in 1863; died at Stockton, San Joaquin County, survived by a son.

Charles Hogan, native of Tennessee, 75; came in 1864; died at Sonora, Tuolumne County.

Edward E. Bush, native of Iowa, 74; came in 1864; died at Hanford, Kings County, survived by three children.

Mrs. Virginia Sutliff-Cochran, native of Maryland, 76; came via Panama in 1864 and resided some time in Fresno City, died at North Sacramento, Sacramento County, survived by five children.

Harry Burr Needham, native of Illinois, 78, crossed the plains in 1864; died near Walnut Creek, Contra Costa County, survived by a wife.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Boynton-Peers, native of Maine, 88, came in 1864, died at Mayfield, Santa Clara County.

Mrs. Elizabeth Pearson, native of Missouri, 80; came in 1865; died near Dunnigan, Yolo County, survived by seven children.

Mrs. L. L. Aubrey-Derrickson, native of Vermont; came in 1865; died at Marysville, Yuba County, survived by four children.

Mrs. Caroline Augusta Chapman-Given, native of Michigan, 85; came via Panama in 1867 and resided many years in Trinity County; died at Sunol, Alameda County, survived by a son.

Mrs. Mollie Kincaid, native of Kansas, 74; came in 1867 and resided in Contra Costa and Kern Counties; died at Bakersfield, survived by four children.

Captain Thomas Longworth Perry, native of Massachusetts, 104; came in 1868 and for a quarter-century was keeper of the Point Conception Light; died at Vallejo, Solano County, survived by a daughter. He was a Civil War veteran.

Mrs. Martha Brown-Hollenbeak, native of New York, 99; since 1869 Shasta County resident; died at Fall River Mills, survived by two children.

NATIVE SON NEWS

Grand Trustee Jesse H. Miller, first vice; Grand First Vice Chas. A. Koenig, second vice; Grand Trustee Edward T. Schnarr, third vice; Grand Trustee Thomas M. Foley, marshal; Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer, inside sentinel.

Charles Redding, Marin County treasurer, presided at the meeting, and Grand Trustee Meyer gave a splendid talk on the Order's activities, in the course of which he referred to a matter of special interest to the Marin County Natives. Other speakers were the grand officers who made up the ritual team; President Harold J. Haley of Mount Tamalpais No. 64; President Tony Simao of Sea Point No. 158; the following Marin County public officials, members of the Order: Sheriff Walter B. Schnier, Auditor Eugene Connell, Assessor Augusto Pacheco Jr., Public Administrator J. Ray Kenton. After the meeting all assembled were treated to a supper of barbecued chicken, including the celebrated milk from the contented cows of Nicasio Valley. It was an occasion never to be forgotten—a record-breaking event in the history of Nicasio Parlor.

New Members Promote Athletics.

Hayward—President Fred Schaffer and his corps of officers have the distinction of leading the Parlor—Eden No. 114—that won the Grand Parlor award for most members initiated. The recruiting has not ceased, either, and another class of candidates was initiated March 27. The new membership has paved the way for athletics. The basketball team, Manager Leonard boasts, is the best in the Order, and tennis and horseshoes have their share of the limelight.

March 2, members of the Parlor promoted the first of a series of amateur boxing shows under the auspices of the A.A.U. The work of Chairman Dale Simpson and his committee, and the backing of the community assure a huge success. In promoting these bouts, Eden has placed itself in the boxing-eyes of the East Bay. These shows serve a dual purpose: afford the amateur boxer necessary experience before entering the professional ring, and the receipts will be used to promote a higher standard of general athletics in Hayward.

"Old California night" was held by the Parlor February 27, with Postmaster Harry A. Bradford as speaker. Research work on the old California missions is his hobby, and his rare picture slides of their original and present state are most interesting. The meeting closed with an informal dance at which members of Hayward No. 122 N.D.G.W. were invited guests. A committee has been appointed to make arrangements for the annual ball.

Support for American Fishermen Urged.

Santa Ana—Santa Ana No. 265 added five new names to its membership-roll March 19, the ritual being exemplified by the officers of Ramona No. 109 (Los Angeles), headed by President Walter H. Odemar. There were a large number of visitors, and much enthusiasm. Among the many who responded to President Ivan H. Harper's call for remarks were Past Grand John T. Newell, Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer, Grand Inside Sentinel William A. Reuter, Superior Judge Ruben Schmidt, President Walter Richards (Sepulveda No. 263), Deputies John Ford, Walter Odemar, Walter Baskerville, Arthur Leonard and Walter Hiskey. Refreshments were served.

Previous to the meeting Lail Kane gave a highly interesting talk, in the course of which he related some startling facts regarding Jap fishermen and fishing boats in California waters. He urged support for a bill now before the Federal Congress, —H. R. 7419—among the purposes of which are: "To conserve the natural resources of food fish and control the same to the benefit of American citizens. To control or eliminate the unfair competition of the alien in this industry who, on account of his lower standard of living and freedom from the responsibilities of American citizenship, escapes many of the financial obligations imposed upon the owners of 'vessels of the United States' and has an unfair advantage."

Anniversary Banquet.

Oakland—Some 200 Native Sons attended Piedmont No. 120's forty-sixth anniversary banquet March 8. Under the direction of Frank Smith, a splendid program was presented, and among the singers was Piedmont's own song star, Brother Weber. Several charter members were in attendance. A telegram of greetings was received from Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell, who was in Los Angeles.

The principal addresses were made by Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer, the Parlor's visiting grand officer; Grand First Vice Chas. A. Koenig, who spoke of the homeless children work; Grand Second Vice Harmon D. Skillin, who dealt with membership; H. Raymond Hall, historian of No. 120, and President Thomas Palmer of Piedmont. Other grand officers present included Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Treasurer John A. Corotto, Grand Marshal Gam Hurst, Grand Trustees Jesse H. Miller and Chas. H. Spengemann.

NATIVE SONS NEWS BRIEFS.

Sutter Creek—At a joint meeting of Amador No. 17, Excelsior No. 31 (Jackson), Ione No. 33 and Plymouth No. 48, February 23, Grand Trustee John M. Burnett delivered a stirring address on the founding and conquest of California, and

Native Daughters of the Golden West

"TO THE OFFICERS AND MEMBERS, Subordinate Parlors, Native Daughters Golden West—Dear Sisters: 'But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept.' (I Corinthians 12:20).

"Wise men tell us that the word Easter comes from an old Anglo Saxon word Eostre, the ancient goddess of Spring. The old Teutonic mythology and all other religions and myths in all countries where cold winter was followed by glorious spring, celebrated Easter in some manner. The season was looked upon as a resurrection of the Earth's life, green grass and flowers returning to the fields, leaves to the trees and life to the earth.

"We still connect Easter as the ancients did, with natural phenomena, Easter Sunday being with us the first Sunday after the full moon following the equinox, but with modern living conditions becoming more complex and the commercial trend of the times being forever in the foreground, we have come to be reminded of the approaching Easter more by means of the elaborate display of material finery in the shops than by the old method of equal day and night.

"Easter is purely a religious celebration and should remind us of the resurrection of Christ and the hope of the world. Easter is especially important this year because it does represent a dawning hope that does not die, but rises again to lead the way. All that we have waited for during the long winter comes back. Cold and snow disappear, flowers blossom, birds sing, and even the sun sets later, giving us a longer day for work and play.

"May every Native Daughter of the Golden West have renewed faith, courage and hope that the sunshine of prosperity will return with happiness and comfort and a returning confidence with the new life and energy of spring and a renewal of Nature's generous gifts.

" 'Tomb, thou shalt not hold him longer;
Death is strong but life is stronger;
Stronger than the dark, the light;
Stronger than the wrong, the right;
Faith and hope triumphant say,
Christ will rise on Easter Day.'
—Brooks.

Cook Book Delayed.

Dated Sebastopol, March 10, The Grizzly Bear received the following notation from Grand Trustee Willow Borba who, some weeks ago, met with an accident which resulted in the breaking of her right arm:

"The second edition of the Native Daughters' 'Loyalty Cook Book' has been delayed, due to an accident which made it impossible for Willow Borba to continue with the project. The book will be off the press early in May and will be mailed as soon as possible."

Marin County District Meeting.

Sausalito—Sea Point No. 196, Marinita No. 198 (San Rafael), Fairfax No. 225 and Tamelpa No. 231 (Mill Valley), hostesses, held a meeting here in honor of Grand President Irma W. Laird, February 24. Two candidates were initiated, the work being presented by: Dora Colley, senior past president; Margaret Valentine, junior past president; Myrtle Divitti, past president; Laura Proctor, president; Mary B. Smith, first vice; Irene W. Griffin, second vice; Mildred Wright, third vice; May Taylor, treasurer; Anna G. Loser, recording secretary; Esther McCarthy, financial secretary; Lillian Azevedo, marshal; Alyce Kientz, organist; Natalie Label, inside sentinel; Lorraine Azevedo, outside sentinel; Lolita Pitner, Mary Zappetini, Dorothy Thorndyke, trustees; Mollye Spaelti, Marguerite Brusatori, Helen Sullivan, marshal assistants. During the initiatory ceremonies Mrs. Antoinette Hecht sang "California." Among the large number in attendance were Grand President Laird, Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Grand Trustees Orinda Giannini, Ethel Begley and Alice M. Lane, Grand Outside Sentinel Alice M. Oldham, Past Grands Emma G. Foley, May C. Boldemann, Margaret G. Hill and Evelyn I. Carlson, Supervising Deputy Delphine Todt of Marin County, several visiting supervising and district deputies, and representatives of many neighboring Parlors.

Enlightening those assembled as to the Order's condition, Grand President Laird spoke most encouragingly of the membership increase and said three new parlors are in prospect in the south. The homeless children work is a challenge to the Order, she cautioned, and must be carried on. She urged the marking of historic sites, and said a Native Daughter scholarship is now available and that Past Grand Sue J. Irwin will, on request, give full information. "The Native Daughters," concluded Mrs. Laird, "always ask for the hardest tasks, and do them the best." Mrs. Thaler spoke for the grand officers, and Mrs. Carlson for the past grands. Supervising Deputy Clytie L. Lewis extended an invitation to attend the Sonoma County district meeting at Petaluma, April 20. A program of vocal selections, fancy dancing and readings was followed by refreshments, served at tables made attractive with marigolds and daffodils.

Spanish Days Lived Again.

San Juan Bautista—Old Spanish days were lived again in this historic mission town March 7, when Copa de Oro No. 105 (Hollister) and San Juan Bautista No. 179 entertained Grand President Irma W. Laird in joint session. A dinner was the opening event, with eighty-six members of the Order seated at the colorful table. Red and yellow tapers, in antique brass sticks, and the curved old candelabra from the mission shed a soft light over picturesque gowns, shawls, mantillas and high combs. At the plates stood alternate red and yellow roses, with nut cups in the same colors. A wandering troubador in Spanish dress entertained with songs and mandolin selections, three young girls sang a group of numbers, and Prof. Lewis rendered several piano-accordion selections.

Following the dinner, adjournment was made to the mission corridor rooms, where one hundred eighty members of the Order were gathered. Father Caffery gave a stirring talk on the history of San Juan Bautista Mission and commended the Native Daughters for their efforts to preserve these venerable buildings and for the high principles upon which the Order is founded. Six candidates were initiated, five for Copa de Oro and one for San Juan Bautista. The presentation of gifts from the two Parlors was made in a very clever manner; fifteen girls, attired as senoritas and dons, entered, singing a greeting song, set to Spanish music; Alta Trowbridge, accompanied by a guitar, sang a Spanish ballad, Blake Curley made the presentation speech in Spanish, and two pages advanced to Grand President Laird, bearing the gifts. A farewell song was sung as the group left the hall. Mary Gregory and Adele Wackerman entertained with typical Spanish dances.

The San Juan City Council honored the Grand President by illuminating the mission corridor and the cross upon the hill. On the altar of the meetinghall rested a leather-bound Bible, published in 1817, and a souvenir of the Donner Party. Grand President Laird made a particularly pleasing address on the projects and advancement of the Order. Representatives were present from many Parlors. Grand officers in attendance were Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Trustee Orinda Giannini, Grand Organist Clara A. Gairaud, Supervising Deputy Rose Rhyner, Deputy Alberta McCormick, Past Grands Stella Finkeldey and Bertha A. Briggs; all were presented with flowers.

Thirty-fifth Anniversary Celebrated.

Oakland—Aloha No. 106 celebrated its thirty-fifth anniversary at a banquet February 27. The tables were beautifully decorated with the Parlor's color, and a lei bracelet was at each plate. Cards were enjoyed after the sisters, according to seniority, related amusing bits of No. 106's history. Among those present were Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Supervising Deputy Dora Brayton and Deputy Pauline Cleu. March 6 a

GRAND PARLOR

THE FORTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL GRAND Parlor of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West will convene at Santa Cruz City, Monday, June 18, for a four day session. Grand President Irma W. Laird will preside, and at the conclusion of the deliberations will automatically become the Junior Past Grand President. The constitution of the Grand Parlor provides that Subordinate Parlors shall elect delegates the first regular meeting in May, and that "A delegate to Grand Parlor must be either a Present or Past officer of the Parlor."

Santa Cruz Parlor No. 26 has charge of arrangements for the meeting, and an executive committee has been named to look after the details. The committee is composed of Pearl Reid (chairman), Marjorie Dellamonica, May L. Williamson, Anna Linscott, Edith Dodge and Mary Gregory. A program of entertainment is being worked out.

CANDIDATES FOR GRAND PARLOR OFFICES

Unless past custom be reversed, Grand Vice-president Gladys E. Noce will, without opposition, be chosen Grand President at the Santa Cruz session.

For the other elective offices, there are rumors of numerous candidates—an unusually large number. The Grizzly Bear has sought definite information from the "rumored" candidates, and responses received make it possible to present this lineup:

delegation of twenty-one Alohaites attended the joint meeting of Laura Loma and Betsy Ross, the occasion being the official visit of Grand President Irma W. Laird to those Parlors.

Aloha's recent brides, Past Presidents Alice Roberts-McCarthy and Lillian Kreutzfeldt-Snow, were honored March 13 at a St. Patrick party. Irish ballads were sung by Inside Sentinel Marie Cordery and Past President Thelma Rogers, accompanied by Organist Eda Steuer. Gifts were presented to the brides by Past President Gladys I. Farley, social committee chairman. The veterans welfare committee, of which Organist Steuer is chairman, sent Aloha's three "adopted" veterans at Livermore Hospital attractive gift boxes for Washington's Birthday, each box containing handkerchiefs, candy, cigarets and a puzzle.

Striking Costumes at Fancy Dress Party.

Stockton—A most pleasing affair was the colonial fancy dress party of Joaquin No. 5, February 19, held in honor of the birthday anniversaries of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. Many anecdotes of the days of Lincoln were related, and there were a number of very beautiful costumes. President Charlotte Clark was gowned as a California poppy, and the day of the pantalettes was represented by Misses Grace Cowan and Marian Grondona. Past Grand Carrie Durham was stately in a gown created by an early-day Stockton modiste, and Past Grand Mamie Peyton, in yellow silk, represented Maxine Elliott. Hattie Ward and Lucy Lieginger impersonated George and Martha Washington. Others in striking costumes were Laura Roesch, Delia Garvin ard Hattie Corr. Community singing, the virginia reel and cards followed the "fashion parade."

March 19 the Parlor initiated five candidates, the ceremonies being followed by a Saint Patrick's party. Spring blossoms adorned the hall. Among the guests were Supervising Deputy Clarice Cook, Deputy Bessie Jackson and Past Grand Mattie Stein.

President Surprises Workers.

Santa Ana—Members having birthdays in February were honored by Santa Ana No. 235, February 26. President Mae West presented a lovely compact to each, and the Parlor remembered Deputy Mattie Edwards with a potted fern. A mystery box is being sponsored at each meeting, and the proceeds go to the Parlor's "adopted baby" fund.

March 6, the Parlor's card club held forth at the home of Ruth Kotlar, and March 15 the sewing club met at the home of President West. She surprised the workers with a turkey dinner, and those having birthdays in March were remembered with gifts. March 8, several members attended the breakfast at the Glendale home of Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel Hansen. The afternoon was spent in sewing.

Past Grand's Absence Regretted.

Oakland—The thirty-eighth anniversary of Piedmont No. 87 was celebrated with a banquet February 20. Deputy Thelma Schorrick, Past President Dorothy Hadlen, President Dorothy Davis and Charter Members Jennie Brown, Gertrude Bibber, Hattie Planer, Tillie Coulter and Annie Mohr were honor-guests. Regret was expressed by all present at the absence of the Parlor's beloved member, Past Grand Addie L. Mosher, who could not attend because of illness.

The banquet table was beautifully arranged with spring flowers, and favors in pastel shades. After the feast, cards were enjoyed. Grace Hadlen, chairman of the evening, was assisted by Marion White, Lillie Halsted, Katherine Ford, Margaret Reed, Kathleen Dombrink, Helen Ring, Josephine Clark, Dorothy Hadlen and Marcella Ford.

LOS ANGELES CITY AND COUNTY

THE NATIVE SONS AND THE NATIVE Daughters are making elaborate plans for their annual ball for the benefit of the homeless children, to be held at the Breakfast Club, 3234 Riverside drive, Saturday, April 28. Arrangements are in charge of a joint committee representing the following Subordinate Parlors of Los Angeles, Orange and San Bernardino Counties: N.D.G.W. —Los Angeles No. 124, Long Beach No. 154, Rudecinda No. 230 (San Pedro), Santa Ana No. 235, Verdugo No. 240 (Glendale), Lugonia No. 241 (San Bernardino), Grace No. 242 (Placentia), Santa Monica Bay No. 245 (San Monica), Californiana No. 247 (Los Angeles) and Ontario No. 251. N.S.G.W.—Los Angeles No. 45, Ramona No. 109 (Los Angeles), Hollywood No. 196, Long Beach No. 239, Sepulveda No. 263 (San Pedro), Glendale No. 264, Santa Ana No. 265, Santa Monica Bay No. 267 (Santa Monica), University No. 272 (Los Angeles) and Compton No. 273.

MRS. EARL GARA.

Mrs. Earl V. Gara is general chairman of the joint arrangements committee, and Clarence S. Hunt is the vice-chairman. Chairmen of the subcommittees are: Dolores Malin, entertainment; Mrs. Gertrude Tuttle and William L. O'Meara, music; Harold Thomas, refreshments; Miss Flora Holy, tickets; Mrs. Ella Steinbeck and Jack Lieb, publicity; Harry Davis, decorations; Mrs. Mary McAnany, checkroom; Miss Grace Norton, prizes; Mrs. Florence Dodson-Schonemann, invitations; Miss Marvel Thomas, patrons; Misses Mary Foy and Grace Norton, patronesses. A reception committee, headed by Mrs. Hazel B. Hansen, Grand Inside Sentinel N.D.G.W., will include the presidents and the past presidents of all the Subordinate Parlors of both Orders. Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz will be the master of ceremonies.

This ball should have the hearty support of all those interested in the wellbeing of abandoned and orphaned children, for the proceeds will be used for their benefit. For twenty-four years the Native Sons and the Native Daughters have carried on this home-finding work, and in that time, through their efforts, more than four thousand little ones, who would otherwise have been state charges, have been adopted into substantial homes. The Natives are interested in no institution for the care of children, and they are not influenced by race, creed or color. Their policy, by far the best, is to find permanent homes for children, where they may have a mother's and a father's love and supervision. Is not such a cause, in behalf of unfortunate little children, deserving of your financial and moral support? Then, don't overlook the homeless children benefit ball at the Breakfast Club, April 28!

Excellent music will be provided, and there will be a very brief entertainment program. Valuable prizes will be awarded. The permanent Joint N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Homeless Children Committee of Los Angeles, Orange and San Bernardino Counties is officered by: Irving Baxter, chairman; Miss Grace J. Norton, vice-chairman; Miss Flora Holy, treasurer; Mrs. Annie L. Adair, secretary.

ANNUAL RABBIT "FEED."

Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 N.S.G.W. had a housewarming party at its new home, 850 South Bonnie Brae, March 22, and there was a large attendance of Native Daughters and Native Sons from all neighboring Parlors. An entertainment program which included some very fine talent was presented under the direction of Sidney B. Witkowski. Following the program dancing was enjoyed, and the most pleasant evening was concluded with refreshments.

April 12, the Parlor will have initiation and elect delegates to the Ukiah Grand Parlor. April 26 has been set aside for the annual rabbit "feed," with Leslie Packard and assistants supplying the menu feature. All Native Sons are invited, and any that fail to respond will miss a "big" time.

RUMMAGE SALE SUCCESSFUL.

The Saint Patrick's ball of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W., March 17, was greatly enjoyed by the many in attendance; Irene Eden was in charge. The decorations featured shamrocks and other greenery. The "Gateway Players" evening netted over $20; Esther Rinne was chairman. At the March 14 card party, Bonnie Graffia chairman, Easter novelties decorated the refreshment table. The March 28 travelogue, for members and friends, was very pleasant; delicious refreshments were served. The March 30 and 31 rummage sale, directed by Flora Holy, was a successful undertaking. Ruth Ruiz entertained the sewing club at her Reseda home March 15.

The April calendar of Los Angeles includes: 11th, monthly card party. 18th, initiation. 25th, birthday party of the Parlor. The sewing club will meet at the home of Grace T. Haven, 516 Ralph street, San Gabriel, April 21.

ANNIVERSARY BANQUET.

Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W. had many visitors March 5 when, in honor of President Eugene W. Murphy, four young men were initiated. The ritual was exemplified by a picked team, with Harold Thomas as president. George Breslin delivered a splendid address, directing his remarks particularly to the initiates, and each, in turn, promised to take an active interest in the Parlor and the Order.

Hollywood is preparing to celebrate its fortieth anniversary at a banquet. The tentative date is Monday, April 16, and the place, the Hollywood Athletic Club. Henry Bodkin and Jack Gorman have been added to the arrangements committee, which is working hard to make this an outstanding event. Daniel F. Mc-

Sweeney heads a committee which is arranging a dance for May.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED.

San Pedro Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N D G W celebrated its ninth institution anniversary with a banquet March 5. Margaret Kreider, the chairman, was assisted by the past presidents. Among the guests were President Walter Richards and a delegation of Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W. members, and Deputy Flora Holy. Florence Dodson-Schoneman was the toastmistress. Carrie Northway, the Parlor's organizer, had charge of the novel table decorations, and she was remembered with a gift, Letitia Sarcioux making the presentation address.

March 27 the Parlor had a card party at the Y W C A. A costume party was held at the home of Rose Cantrell, who was assisted by Claudia Perez. Gloria Sorenson is good-of-the-order chairman for April.

BRIDGE LUNCHEON AND FASHION SHOW.

Glendale To Glendale's new postoffice, Verdugo Parlor No. 240 N D.G.W. presented March 3 a California State (Bear) Flag. Mrs. Ada Steele, chairman of the Parlor's americanization committee, concluded her presentation address with the California pledge: "I am a Californian, I love my native state, its mountains high, its valleys wide, its people, good and great. I love the dear old pioneers, who made us what we are, and gave to us our glorious state the nation's brightest star."

March 12 the Parlor had a Saint Patrick's party, and everyone was dressed in green. Old-fashioned games were played, and lovely refreshments were served. The decorations were in green and white. A school orchestra favored with several selections. Chairman Dorothy Ravn was assisted by Mayme Kirri. Among the visitors were Deputy Adele Frankish and a delegation of Ontario Parlor No. 251 members. Verdugo is sponsoring a bridge luncheon and fashion show at Masonic Temple the middle of April. The proceeds will go to the homeless children. Call Gussie Anderson, chairman, or Ada Steele —DOuglas 1029-W—for reservations.

INITIATION HONORS WORKERS.

University Parlor No. 272 N.S.G.W. had an open meeting, with eligibles as honor-guests, March 7. President Maynard Garrison was master of ceremonies, while M. Drown, Dr. Geo. Woods and Stan Parker constituted the committee in charge. A good program was presented, and refreshments were served. The initiation March 14 was in honor of Wesley and Willie Stillwell, two new members who take great interest in the Parlor's affairs. They, along with Bernard Hiss, Lucien Griffin and Tom Riley, were largely responsible for University annexing the $100 Grand Parlor award for percentage membership increase.

The Parlor's baseball team has several new members, including Nick Dumovich, Solly Smith and Stan Parker, and would like to hear again this year from the north's champions. Manager James Shorten plans a dance in April, the proceeds to be used to purchase equipment for the team.

AMERICANIZATION PROGRAM.

Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W. discussed March 13 its birthday celebration, which will be in charge of past presidents and be held June 12. The history class, directed by Isabel Lopez-Fages, was resumed. Mary Noerenberg of the program committee presented an americanization program, the speakers being Bruce Findlay, Alice Conway, Flora Dell Smith and Burr McIntosh.

Miss Mary Foy presided at the usual happy end-of-the-month tea. March 19 a jolly reunion was held at the Hermosa Beach home of Mrs. Charles Owens. March 20 and 21, Mrs. Amos Otis Evans was hostess at bridge luncheons. Misses Nellie and Lizzie Weston will be April 4 hostesses at a wistaria breakfast at their home. The folk lore committee of the Parlor will sponsor another of its gay dances at the Hollywood Studio Club, April 7. Mrs. Dexter Monroe of the history and landmarks committee is endeavoring to preserve the huge old rubber tree at East Twelfth street and Long Beach boulevard.

"JUDGES AND LAWYERS NIGHT."

Several members of Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. accompanied President Walter Odemar and the other officers to Santa Ana, March 19. The Parlor will feature a "judges and lawyers" night April 27; Superior Judge Ruben Schmidt will be in charge, and lots of fun is anticipated.

dent Irma W. Laird officially visited. Spring blossoms decorated the banquetroom, where supper was served, and the meetinghall. The initiatory work was very effectively put on by tableaux portraying the Order's projects. Grand President Laird gave a delightful talk, stressing the work done for the homeless children. Among the guests were Past Grands Mamie G. Peyton and Pearl Lamb.

A new drill team of sixteen members exemplified their work very beautifully. They were gowned in pale green dresses, with silver slippers, and carried garlands of poppies. At the conclusion of the drill a poppy archway was formed, and through this, singing "Only a Tulip for You," proceeded Miss Audrey O'Leary, who presented the Parlor's gift to the Grand President. Mrs. Ann Drais is captain of the team. Gifts also were presented to Supervising Deputy Clarice Cook and Deputy Thirza E. Hunt.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS NEWS BRIEFS.

Oakland—The seventh annual meeting of the Past Presidents General Assembly will be held Saturday, April 21, at the Women's City Club, with Chief President Winifred Halter of Association No. 2 presiding. There are eight associations in the General Assembly, and they will select their delegates the last meeting in March.

Placerville—Marguerite No. 12 held Arbor Day ceremonies at the home of Mrs. Ida Bailey, March 3. There was a large attendance and an interesting program, and appetizing refreshments were served. A cedar tree was planted, and dedicated by President Eva Schuman to 88 year old Mrs. Elaine Cora Ward, the mother of Mrs. Bailey.

Grass Valley—Manzanita No. 29 observed Arbor Day March 7 by joining with students and faculties in programs which included the planting of cedar trees at the Washington and the Grant schools. The tree at the former school was dedicated to Mrs. Annie Ford, one of Grass Valley's best known pioneer women, and Mrs. Florence George, mother of President Florence George, and that at the latter school to Past Grand Alison F. Watt.

Lodi—Grand President Irma W. Laird made her official visit to Ivy No. 88, February 21. Two candidates were initiated, a program was presented, and a team from La Bandera No. 110 (Sacramento) put on a very beautiful drill. Poppies and greenery were used in the decorations. Visitors included Past Grands Carrie Roesch-Durham and Mattie M. Stein, Supervising Deputy Clarice Cook and Deputy Edna Gormsen.

Hollister—February 22, Copa de Oro No. 105 observed Washington's Birthday and its thirty-fifth institution anniversary. The centerpiece of the dainty tea table was a cherry tree, under which stood George Washington with his hatchet; favors consisted of cherries and tiny hatchets. Two charter members, Ann Gould and Marie Rackliff, in colonial costumes, poured tea and coffee. A framed picture of Franklin Delano Roosevelt was awarded to Ann Gould for correctly naming the photographs of all the Presidents of the United States, and there were appropriate prizes for successfully solving other patriotic contests. A jolly feature of the evening was the dancing of the virginia reel. The hall was prettily decorated with baskets of pussy willow and almond blooms. More than forty guests, representing Aleli, Santa Cruz and San Juan Bautista Parlors, arrived on a surprise good-will visit. Supervising Deputy Rose Rhyner and Deputy Alberta McCormick were among the guests. With lights extinguished, a birthday cake with thirty-five lighted candles was carried into the room as Kate McCray played "Auld Lang Syne."

Etna—Eschscholtzia No. 112 entertained at a whist party February 28. The decorations were of a patriotic nature, and refreshments were served. Entertainment was provided by Mrs. Arthur Tucker, Helen Balfrey and Kathryn Pitman. During February, Grand Trustee Minna K. Horn made a hurried trip to Ashland, Oregon, to be with her son, Frank, during a serious operation; he is now well on the road to recovery.

Berkeley—Commemorating the institution of Berkeley No. 150, Past Grand Ariana W. Stirling entertained the officers and members of that Parlor at her home with a delightful luncheon, followed by games and bridge. Berkeley is one of the several Parlors instituted by Mrs. Stirling during her term as Grand President.

Oakland—Officers of Argonaut No. 166 gave a whist for the benefit of the homeless children March 20. April 14 the dramatic club plans an entertainment and dance, at which several one-act skits will be featured; Claremont No. 240 N.S.G.W. is a co-sponsor of the affair, which will be held at the Emeryville high school. Argonaut's basketball team reports a very good year, for the first attempt at this game. By next season, it is hoped, other Parlors will become interested so that there may be interparlor games. "Come on, Native Daughters, let's start a basketball league of our own."

Chico—Annie K. Bidwell No. 168 had the first of a series of monthly card parties February 22. The hall was decorated with flowering quince and daffodils. During the evening Mrs. Mary Wesbrook and Miss Antoinette Choisser were appointed captains of a membership campaign, and a program of music was presented. Refreshments were served by Misses June Wright, Zephyr Tull, Florence Bates, Antoinette Choisser and Flora Dedrick. March 8 the Parlor had a potluck dinner. Supervising Deputy Mae Houston was a visitor the 22nd, when initiation was held. District Deputy Hattie Jackson presided. Mrs. Olive Pearl provided entertainment and Mrs. Ethel Estes headed the refreshments committee.

Daly City—El Carmelo No. 181 celebrated its twenty-fourth anniversary February 27. President Louise Eliasen was the toastmistress, and honor-guests included Grand President Irma W. Laird, Grand Outside Sentinel Alice M. Oldham, Supervising Deputy Rena Mathias, Deputy Mona Thiesen, and Pauline Quirolo, organizer of the Parlor.

Vallejo—Vallejo No. 195 celebrated its twenty-second anniversary February 21. Mrs. Juliet Bliss was chairman of the evening. A schoolday skit was presented by the members, dressed in stressed the importance of preserving the traditions and landmarks of the Pioneers. Other speakers were District Deputy Thomas D. Davis and President Thomas G. Negrich of Excelsior.

Fresno—To raise funds for the homeless children, Fresno No. 25 and Fresno No. 187 N.D.G.W. conducted their annual poppy sale February 24. Poppy Day was originated in 1920 by Frank M. Lane.

Petaluma—Marcus Flohr, sheriff of Sonoma County, died March 13 at Santa Rosa. He was born here July 21, 1874, and was affiliated with Petaluma No. 27. A wife and four children survive.

Santa Rosa—Santa Rosa No. 28 will enter a baseball team in the twilight indoor baseball league; Jerry Marlar represents the Parlor at league meetings. A special train will convey a large delegation to San Francisco, April 27, for the reception to Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell. The Parlor has voted to enter its drum corps and a float in the Santa Rosa rose carnival May 17.

Suisun—Solano No. 39 had a visit March 20 from Napa-Solano Past Presidents Assembly No. 11.

Nevada City—Hydraulic No. 56 had as visitors March 6 several members of Downieville No. 92, who brought along three candidates for initiation. A supper and enjoyable social session concluded the ceremonies.

Ukiah—Ukiah No. 71 had as visitors, March 5, Leonard Stone and T. J. Simpson of Fort Bragg No. 200, who discussed the latter Parlor's plans for entertaining the Grand Parlor. Superior Judge W. D. L. Held and District Attorney L. I. Gibson of Mendocino County re-affiliated with No. 71. The Parlor has a winning basketball quintet of which it is very proud; the boys have a record of twenty-nine victories out of thirty-one games. Ukiah was represented by a large delegation at the March 17 festivities in Santa Rosa.

Calistoga—Calistoga No. 86 and Lower Lake No. 159, in joint session here February 19, were officially visited by Grand Trustee Jesse H. Miller, who spoke of the patriotic aims and purposes of the Order. President Lucien Saviez of No. 86 presided, and Mayor Andrew Rocca was among the other speakers. Supper was served under the supervision of Ted Tamagni.

Ferndale—The three Parlors of Humboldt County have been showing considerable life of late, due to a horseshoe tournament in which Ferndale No. 93 was the victor, winning five out of six games. For a year, it will therefore have possession of a beautiful trophy. Ferndale is again very active in rounding up eligibles. Thirteen applications are on file, and more are being signed up. A big class initiation is planned for April 16. A lively contest of horseshoes between the married and the single men of the Parlor resulted in a win for the latter, 9 to 7, in the first game. They are planning to enter a team in the town soft ball league.

San Diego—The fourth marker on La Playa Trail was dedicated to Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo by San Diego No. 108 and San Diego No. 208 N.D.G.W., March 10. Speakers included Judge Eugene Daney Jr., President John R. Murphy and Deputy Grand President Albert V. Mayrhofer of the Native Sons; President Marie James and Deputy Nellie M. Cline of the Native Daughters. The Bonham trumpet trio played appropriate selections.

San Bernardino—Arrowhead No. 110 initiated five candidates March 14. A supper preceded the ceremonies. Visitors and speakers included Past Grand John T. Newell, Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer and District Deputy Walter E. Hiskey.

Castroville—Robert H. Martin, for many years active in the affairs of Gabilan No. 132, being the recording secretary from 1904 to 1933, died February 7. He represented the Parlor at many Grand Parlors. "Gabilan will certainly miss 'Bob' Martin," says Secretary J. F. Gambetta. "No brother ever did more for his Parlor and his brother members than did he." His funeral services, under the Parlor's auspices, were conducted by Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Trustee Charles H. Spengemann, President James C. Jordan and M. L. Ferreira.

Sebastopol—Sebastopol No. 143, through Chairman W. S. Borba of its history committee, extends an invitation to attend the placing of a marker at Bodega, April 22, in conjunction with the dedication of the Sonoma County Coast Park. The Parlor takes an active interest in all civic matters and is well represented at all public meetings.

Roseville—Rocklin No. 233 had a large number of visitors February 28, including several members of Fred H. Greely Past Presidents Assembly No. 6. A banquet was enjoyed, and there were several addresses.

Oakland—Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer paid an official visit to Fruitvale No. 252, March 2. A wonderful banquet preceding the meeting was well attended. Two candidates were initiated in faultless manner. Grand Trustee Edward T. Schnarr, a member of the Parlor, introduced Meyer, who spoke on the Order's accomplishments. Other visitors were Grand First Vice Chas. A. Koenig, Grand Second Vice Harmon D. Skillin, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Treasurer John A. Corotto, Grand Trustees Jesse H. Miller, Charles H. Spengemann and Thomas M. Foley, and Past Grand Thomas Monahan.

Sutter City—As the result of a membership campaign conducted by two teams, Sutter No. 261 initiated a class of sixteen candidates March 12. Grand Trustee Henry S. Lyon was a visitor, and outlined the purposes of the Order. At an "irish" feast after the ceremonies, Stanley McLean was the toastmaster, and among the speakers were Past Grand Fred H. Greely, Judge Eugene P. McDaniel and Peter J. Delay. Among the candidates were Bert Ullrey and Desmond Winship, sheriff and district attorney, respectively, of Sutter County.

ginghams and hair bows; Ellen O'Brien, as the schoolmistress, conducted the class in merry fashion. The banquetroom was attractively decorated in gold and green, and a beautiful birthday cake with twenty-two candles was cut by Mary Claus, a charter member.

Modesto—Morada No. 199 had its annual Poppy Day March 17, when poppies made by the members at the home of Mrs. Clara Steele were sold for the benefit of the homeless children. Mrs. Mary Blaine is chairman of the homeless children committee. March 22 the Parlor's drill team sponsored a public whist.

Saint Helena—The homeless children benefit dance sponsored by La Junta No. 203 and Saint Helena No. 53 N.S.G.W. was a complete social and financial success. As a result, a check for $250 was forwarded the Central Committee.

San Diego—San Diego No. 208 sponsored a bridge luncheon March 6. The sewing club was entertained during the month by Emma Robinson and Isabel Young. The March 14 meeting was enlivened by a "kid" party for the members.

Antioch—Children of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades of the local public schools are working on essays relative to California history, following announcement of an essay contest by Antioch No. 223. It will close April 6, and awards will be made at a history day program April 20. Emma B. Lynn, history chairman, will preside, and Warren Cunningham will be the guest speaker. Members of Antioch and General Winn No. 32 N.S.G.W. are being congratulated on the success of the Saint Patrick's ball for the benefit of the homeless children.

Placentia—Grace No. 242 had a very successful cooked-food sale March 10; Marie Jacobser was the chairman. At a card party March 15 the auctioning of a large cake added much to the enjoyment and finances of the evening; Ollie Snell, Helen and Delilia Allec and Erma Marie Watts served refreshments. President Erma Watts entertained the sewing club at her home March 20.

San Jose—Past President Association No. 3 was officially visited March 13 by Chief President Winifred Halter, who was presented with gifts the presentations being preceded by a very pretty flower drill by ten members. There was a very large attendance, and several candidates were initiated. The banquet tables were lovely, the Easter season giving the inspiration for favors and decorations. Mrs. Alice Roll presided, and Mrs. Amelia Hartman, Mrs. Clara Briggs and Miss Lysette Faber were chairmen of the various committees which achieved the success of the evening.

In Memoriam

ROBERT H. MARTIN.

Whereas, The Supreme Ruler of the Universe has, in His infinite wisdom, removed from our midst our worthy and esteemed brother, Robert H. Martin, on Wednesday, February 7, 1934; and whereas, the high esteem in which he was held by his brothers of Gabilan Parlor No. 132 N.S.G.W. renders it fitting that we record our appreciation of him; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the removal of such a life from among us leaves a vacancy and a shadow that will be deeply realized by all our members, and will prove a serious loss to the community in which he lived; resolved, that we extend to his bereaved wife and family our heartfelt sympathy, and commend them to Him who doeth all things well; resolved, that our charter be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days, that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our records, and that a copy be forwarded to the family of the deceased.

Committee.

Castroville, February 15, 1934.

MATHILDE M. STEPHENS.

To the Officers and Members of Manzanita Parlor No. 29, N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft a testimonial of respect for our deceased sister, Mathilde M. Stephens, beg to submit the following:

We are called upon to pay our tribute of respect and affection to the memory of our esteemed sister—a sister whose kindly smile and helpful, cheerful words brought comfort and inspiration to many along life's highway. We regret the loss of our sister, Mathilde Stephens, but know that she has passed to a life of greater usefulness and of surpassing peace.

We extend to her bereaved relatives our sincere sympathy, and ask that a copy of our expression of regard be sent to them; we also ask that a copy be spread upon the minutes of this meeting, and also that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

ANNIE F. CONLIN,
MARGARET NOLAN,
ALICE DILLINGER,
Committee.

Grass Valley, March 8, 1934.

LOUISA POTTS.

Peaceful be thy slumber, sister,
'Tis sweet to breathe thy name.
In life, we loved thee dearly,
In death, we do the same.

In the passing away of Sister Louisa Potts, Santa Ana Parlor No. 235 N.D.G.W. sustained the loss of a true, loyal member. We bow to the divine will of God who giveth and will call back to Him, and extend our deep sympathy to her bereaved family.

Resolved, That a copy of the above be spread upon our minutes, a copy sent to the family, and one to The Grizzly Bear for publication.

Other events on Ramona's April calendar are: 6th, election Grand Parlor delegates; 13th, initiation; 20th, monthly birthday dinner.

GUESSING CONTEST FOR DUES CREDIT.

Long Beach—Mrs. Kate McFadyen entertained members and friends of Long Beach Parlor No. 154 N.D.G.W. at a bridge luncheon at her home March 7. Miss Eleanor Johnson was hostess for the thimble club March 29. The Parlor's lapsation committee is sponsoring at each meeting a guessing contest, and the winner is awarded a two-months dues credit. Mrs. Bertha Hitt is chairman of a membership drive during April and May.

OLD MISSION FEATURED IN DECORATIONS.

Santa Monica—Past President Amada Machado of Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245 N.D.G.W. gave a luncheon at her Baldwin Hills ranch home March 10. Guests were the officers who served with her last year. The table centerpiece was a replica of San Buenaventura Mission, with the padre's garden and the cemetery. March 14, Mrs. Grace Leip was hostess at a Saint Patrick's Day party.

For the benefit of the homeless children, a spaghetti dinner was served by the Parlor March 21. Mrs. Rhea Jones was the chairman. Miss Myrtle Barden was hostess at a potluck dinner at her home March 24. Native Sons and Daughters joined in this social affair, and cards and games followed the dinner.

GET ACQUAINTED.

Chairmen at the Native Sons Luncheon Club during March were Frank E. Cotter, Dr. John A. Schwamm, J. Deacon Taggart and John Haas. Speakers included a Mr. Christ of the Metropolitan Water District, President Dr. William R. Molony of the State Board Medical Examiners, Leslie Goddard and Percy Hammond.

The club gathers every Friday at 12:15 (noon) at the Rosslyn Hotel. All Native Sons and their friends, eligibles or otherwise, are welcome. Come up and get acquainted, and receive first-hand, reliable information on important public questions.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Spencer Thorpe (Ramona N.S.) was a visitor last month to Fresno City.

A native son arrived at the home of Carlos Drouet (Ramona N.S.) February 24.

Leon Leonard (Ramona N.S.) departed last month for Weaverville, Trinity County.

Mrs. Jennie Elliott (Los Angeles N.D.) and husband are enjoying a motor trip in Mexico.

Mrs. Lillian Lasater (Long Beach N.D.) of Long Beach was a visitor to Oakland last month.

Miss Elaine Cavenaugh and Robert E. Ford (Hollywood N.S.) were wedded March 1 at Las Vegas, Nevada.

Emmet Seawell (Grand President N.S.), associate justice California Supreme Court, was a visitor last month.

Mrs. Hattie Furman Stamps (Californiana N.D.) celebrated March 11 her seventy-fifth birthday anniversary.

Frances Nason-Leidig (Aleli N.D.) of Salinas was a visitor last month. She is a gifted singer of widely divergent types of music, and as an interpreter of early Spanish-California songs is said to have no equal.

Miss Marie Walsh (Los Angeles N.D.) has been decorated by the Pope for her writings on and work for the California missions. She is said to be the only woman to have this distinction conferred on her.

THE DEATH RECORD.

Alexander Griffith Page, father of William A. Page (Ramona N.S.), died March 1, at the age of 61.

Sam Graffia, the 16-year-old brother of Rose and Bonnie Graffia (Los Angeles N.D.), was accidentally killed March 18 while hunting near Lancaster.

ANNIVERSARY GOLD DISCOVERY.

Native Sons, Native Daughters and Pioneers to the number of a hundred went to Placeritos Canyon, March 11, to celebrate the anniversary of the first recorded discovery of gold in California, by Francisco Lopez, March 9, 1842.

Adolfo Rivera was chairman of the day, and Miss Dolores Malin had charge of the program. Mrs. Olive Lopez read a story of the discovery, written by Mrs. Francisca Lopez-Belderrain, descendant of the discoverer. Gabriel Ruiz led in an informal musical program, and a basket lunch was enjoyed.

"CALIFORNIA PROGRAM" AT CATALINA.

At Catalina Island, Saturday and Sunday, April 14 and 15, the Mary Williams Club of Avalon will sponsor a "California Program," consisting of costume plays, speaking, dancing, musical selections, banquets and religious services. Those attending are requested to appear in costumes of the early days. Mrs. Harriett LeVitt is directing the affair. Visitors will be met and welcomed by members of the club. Details may be obtained from Mrs. Alfred R. Sitton, president Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W., Los Angeles.

SAN FRANCISCO

AFTER A TWO-YEAR CONSIDERATION of the important question of government costs, the government finance section of the Commonwealth Club of California has recommended that the entire fiscal setup of the California State Government be overhauled. The section has made these excellent recommendations, which should have the wholehearted support of the taxpayers of California:

"Governmental units should be discontinued or combined, wherever feasible, to reduce employment and costs. Duplication of services by the federal government, the state, the counties or municipalities should be discontinued, even though the result be to reduce employment.

"Functions which clearly or chiefly benefit certain groups or industries, such as inspection services of certain kinds, should be made self-supporting and not supported by tax funds. The functions of budget control and expenditure of budgeted funds should be vested in different officials, one to check the other.

"A permanent tax research and expenditure research bureau, not subject to political control, should be established and required to render a complete report at the beginning of each legislative session. Special surveys should be made as to scope, necessity for and cost of all functions of government, particularly major functions such as highways, schools, etc.

"A study should be made as to reorganization of the entire fiscal set-up of the state government, involving the offices of Director of Finance, State Controller, Treasurer, State Board of Equalization, Franchise Tax Commissioner, etc. Fixed charges as set forth in the constitution and in state laws (schools, pensions, etc.) should be abolished and the funds for all functions of government be subject to appropriation by the budgeting body, out of the income of the year, on the basis of need, relative importance, and availability of funds.

"Political subdivisions should be subjected to state supervision and control with respect to uniform accounting and reporting. Moneys separately raised for special functions, such as highways, etc., affect the taxpaying capacity of the people. Expenditures of such funds should be approved and allocated by the state budgeting body at the same time and in the same manner as other state expenditures, due regard being given to need, relative importance, availability of funds, etc."—C.M.H.

RECEPTION FOR N.S. GRAND PRESIDENT.

The San Francisco Parlors of Native Sons will tender a reception to Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell in the auditorium of Native Sons Building, 414 Mason street, Friday evening, April 27. Elaborate preparations are going forward to make this an outstanding event.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS NEWS BRIEFS.

Alta Parlor No. 3 celebrated its forty-seventh anniversary March 15. Among those in attendance were Charter Members E. Joly, M. Sullivan, A. McDougold, I. Saurey, M. Powell and Minnie Stilman, Past Grands Eliza D. Keith and Margaret G. Hill, and Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen. A splendid program was presented by Mms. Agnas Hughes, Eilsen, C. Hartley, A. Vest, Marchand, M. Jordan, H. Maurei, Flake and A. Creighton, and Misses Mary Ring and Sadie Blake. A beautiful American Flag was presented the Parlor by Mrs. E. Joly. March 12 the Parlor celebrated Saint Patrick's Day with an afternoon card party, the second in a series being given for the benefit of the sick fund. Mrs. Mae MacDonald is the chairman of the able committee. The third party will be given April 11 at the N.D. Home.

Orinda Parlor No. 56 had a birthday party for members born in February. Each was presented with a gift, and Past President Emily Fauda was awarded the birthday cake, presented by Past Grand Emma G. Foley. First Vice Rose Van Look presided, President Emma McClure being at home with her baby native daughter, Beverly Edna, born February 13. Whist was played and delicious refreshments were served. February 14 and 22 the Parlor's children welfare committee, Grand Trustee Orinda Giannini chairman, visited the children's tubercular wards of the San Francisco Hospital and presented the little inmates with gifts. March 9 President McClure was welcomed back to the Parlor; also, Second Vice Dorothy Gunther-Palmer, who was wedded February 22. A surprise shower was given them.

Golden Gate Parlor No. 158 was officially visited March 12 by Grand President Irma W. Laird. She was escorted to her seat of honor by Marshal Edna Gray and members of the drill team. Among the other visitors were Grand Secretary Sallie Thaler, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Grand Trustees Orinda Giannini and Alice Lane, Grand Outside Sentinel Alice Oldham, Past Grands Dr. Mariana Bertola and Evelyn I. Carlson, Supervising Deputy Ann Dippell and Deputy Alice Shirley. Refreshments were served at tables beautifully decorated in green. Claire Lindsey was chairwoman for the occasion.

Grand President Irma W. Laird paid a visit to Dolores Parlor No. 169, March 14. Three hundred members of the Order were present to welcome the distinguished visitor, among the number being Founder Lilly O. Reichling-Dyer, Grand Secretary Sallie Thaler, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Grand Outside Sentinel Alice Oldham, Grand Trustees Orinda Giannini, Ethel Begley and Alice Lane, Grand Organist Clara Gairaud, Past Grands Dr. Mariana Bertola and Margaret Hill, Supervising Deputies Ann Dippel, Sadie Brainard and Alice Mathias, Deputy Pearl Wedde and twenty-five additional deputies. A dinner preceded the meeting, and at its conclusion refreshments were served at tables beautifully decorated with an abundance of spring flowers. Grand President Laird was presented with a picture. Members of the Parlor visited Letterman Hospital March 11 and brought Saint Patrick's Day cheer to the veterans there.

PUBLIC WHIST PARTY.

Stanford Parlor No. 76 N.S.G.W. was officially visited by Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer, February 27. Three candidates were initiated. Among the many in attendance were Grand Third Vice J. Hartley Russell, and District Deputies Hubert J. Caveney and Theodore Schmidt. Among the speakers were Meyer, Russell, Joseph I. McNamara, Arthur Poheim and I. M. Peckham.

With Frank Morris in charge, the Parlor will have a dinner dance April 7. A monster public whist party is to be featured April 17; Dave McCarthy heads the committee of twenty-one making the arrangements.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY CELEBRATED.

Following a custom of many years, South San Francisco Parlor No. 157 N.S.G.W. celebrated St. Patrick's Day March 14. This annual event, since its inception, has been under the direction of members of the Parlor of German extraction, who each year insist on doing honor to the patron saint of Ireland and to the members of No. 157 of Irish extraction. A meeting of the Parlor was held, at which time Grand Third Vice-president J. Hartley Russell, who was paying his official visit, made a splendid address on the activities of the Order and closed by giving a short history of the life of St. Patrick. After the meeting came the banquet, with about 350 members and guests in attendance. Corned beef and cabbage made up the main part of the menu.

Addresses were made by Grand First Vice Chas. A. Koenig, Grand Second Vice Harmon D. Skillin, Grand Marshal Gam Hurst, Grand Trustee Chas. H. Spengemann, Justice Wm. H. Langdon, Past Grands Judge Frank H. Dunne and William P. Caubu. Grand Secretary John T. Regan was the toastmaster. A splendid program of entertainment was presented under the direction of Carl Prignitz, chairman entertainment committee, assisted by Lionel Smith. It consisted of community singing, vocal selections by George Nilan, Lloyd Dornell, Bert Cuevas, Wm. (Nifty) Hyland, Carl Prignitz, Alfred Seligman, Ed. Keating and George Kendall of South San Francisco Parlor, Dan Tinney of Rincon Parlor, the quartet and Frank Woods of the San Francisco Fire Department, and the quartet of No. 157. Among the many public officials in attendance were Judge George W. Schonfeld and Assemblyman Thomas A. Maloney (South San Francisco No. 157), State Senator Roy Fellom (Stanford No. 76), Public Defender Gerald Kenny (Castro No. 232), Supervisor Warren Shannon (Balboa No. 234), Lieutenant George H. Richards, representing the San Francisco Police Department, and Captain William Murray, representing the San Francisco Fire Department.

CLUB QUARTERS RENOVATED.

The Grizzly Bear Club, gathering place of local and visiting Native Sons on the eighth floor of Native Sons Building, has been completely renovated, and the quarters are now among the most beautiful of any club in the city. The spacious library contains thousands of interesting volumes, as well as all current magazines and newspapers. There are also a fine social hall and a large room equipped with pool and billiard tables, etc. All members of the Order are invited to visit the club.

THE PAST IS VOLUME WE MUST READ, TO BE WISE IN MEETING TODAY'S PROBLEMS

Justice Emmet Seawell
(GRAND PRESIDENT N.S.G.W.)

ALL MEMBERS OF THE ORDER OF NATive Sons of the Golden West are turning their thoughts to the session of the Fifty-seventh Grand Parlor, which convenes at Ukiah, Mendocino County, on Monday, May 21, 1934. The revival of friendships formed many years ago, and the awakening of memories of comradeships of other years, and of those who thrilled us with their eloquence and charmed us with their wit and cheered us with their presence, flood our minds as the annual session draws near.

This year we assemble again in another historical part of California. In the year 1535, three hundred and ninety-nine years ago, Cape Mendocino was discovered and named in honor of the viceroy of new Spain, Antonio de Mendoza. The name Mendocino is a modification of the name Mendoza, who was the reigning viceroy at the time the Cape which projects far into the Pacific Ocean was discovered. Ukiah, a strictly pioneer city, is the county seat, or capital, of a remarkable expansive area of forest, valley, mountain and ocean shore. Immediately prior to the time when our first constitution was adopted, October 10, 1849, Mendocino County had been a part of Sonoma District, the magnitude of which may be visualized by the following description: bounded on the north by Oregon; on the east, by the Sacramento River; on the south, by the Bays of Suisun and San Francisco, and on the west, by the Pacific Ocean. It was given its territorial boundaries and created as one of the constitutional counties of the state on February 18, 1850. Its giant redwoods and forests and deep-hanging woods were then untouched by man's hand.

Mendocino County, like many other pioneer counties of California, has been the scene of romance and thrilling experiences of our early frontier life, where "man met man" according to the code which obtained in primitive American civilization. Mendocino County is a poem in scenic effect, its landscape fading from the soft and delicate colors which tint the dales and meadows into the tragic cliffs and crags of old San Hedrin, which rears its defiant head into the flurry of the winter's snows. Gushing springs of water, iced by nature far below the depth of cavern and canyon, many of which are impregnated with medicinal minerals, have widely spread the fame of Mendocino County. I have but imperfectly touched upon the gifts with which nature has bountifully endowed the county in which we hold our fifty-seventh session. The hospitality of the Mendocino pioneer, of which I can bear witness, is a legacy which has been passed from generation to generation, always abounding in the fullness of graciousness which turns away no man unfed, even though he be not fully worthy.

Brothers, we now turn to a brief review of what our Order has meant to California. Our Order, like the pioneers and discoverers of this western world, and much after the men and women who early landed at Plymouth Rock and Jamestown, represents every strain of blood which has carried civilization forward through the centuries that have passed. The personnel of our membership is composed of the descendants of men and women of vision, who were not to be denied in their undertaking of building for humanity and making secure the divine right of every man, woman and child to have an equal opportunity to make the most out of the life which God has given to each of His children. Friendship, loyalty, charity, tolerance, forbearance, kindliness, helpfulness, and justice to all are the eternal maxims of our Order, and these precepts have made our Order indestructible against whatever forces may for the day shake the faith of those who seem to have forgotten the inconquerable faith which carried the American soldiers to victory in the long war for the establishment of a government in which the people are the only sovereigns.

No one may read the thrilling words of Longfellow and not feel his faith grow stronger by his reassuring words that our American institutions will survive the tests of time. They rekindle in us every feeling of heroism which burned in the hearts of the American soldiers as they carried the banner of democracy through alternating success and defeat to final triumph at Yorktown. The inspiring words of America's immortal bard will continue through the ages to put new hope and courage into the hearts of all disciples of a free government so long as men love truth, and civil and political liberty. Let us refresh our minds, too heavy laden with false fears, with these words of assurance and courage:

"Sail on, O ship of State!
We know what Master laid thy keel,
What workmen wrought thy ribs of steel,
Who made each mast, and sail and rope;
What anvils rang, what hammers beat,
In what a forge and what a heat
Were shaped the anchors of thy hope!
Fear not each sudden sound and shock
'Tis of the wave and not of the rock;
'Tis but the flapping of the sail,
And not a rent made by the gale!
In spite of rock, and tempest roar,
In spite of false lights on the shore,
Sail on, nor fear to breast the sea!
Our hearts, our hopes, are all with thee,
Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers, our tears,
Our faith, triumphant o'er our fears,
Are all with thee, are all with thee!"

Brothers, our Order has heroically responded to the appeal of Longfellow and has gone forward, giving stout-hearted courage and enthusiastic aid in guiding the ship of state over a stormy sea of economic depression which was largely inspired by the "flapping of the sail, and not a rent made by the gale." It is only the false that has vanished; the substantial things of American life remain untouched.

EMMET SEAWELL, ASSOCIATE JUSTICE CALIFORNIA SUPREME COURT,
GRAND PRESIDENT OF THE ORDER OF NATIVE SONS OF THE GOLDEN WEST.

Our membership today is approximately 20,000. Thousands whose hearts are with us are standing outside, but near to the door of admittance. Many have felt the effect of the reign of fear which Longfellow above described, and are awaiting re-employment. Never in our history has the Order stood in better report with the people of California than it does today. For a number of years we have been growing in the good graces of the people of our native state because of the humane and public services we have been rendering gratuitously to the state.

Our Order has been honored not only by requests to conduct dedicatory services and mark state and municipal and school buildings with plaques, but we have been honored by requests to perform those services with respect to federal buildings, an honor that is rarely conferred upon any other fraternal organization. The public, as well as privately conducted schools of the state, are fast becoming, after long delay, to know our Order and we are taking first place in public attention. Our Order is coming to be regarded, as it should be, as an institution of the State of California.

While we rest our claim for recognition in no small way upon the spiritual background furnished by the Franciscan missionaries and the holy men of that society which brought the word of God and civilization to a barbarous race, and to the California Pioneer who afterwards followed, performing almost miracles in statecraft under conditions which have no parallel in the science of government, modern or ancient, we also lay claim to the right of survivorship because of the benevolent and patriotic services which we have rendered for a continuous period of fifty-eight years to our members and to the State of California.

At every spot in this state where an important event has been enacted or occurred in our state's development, our Order has, at its own cost, placed either a stone or bronze marker, or built an imposing monument worthy of the event which it commemorates. We have done a lasting work in the restoration of our missions, many of which would have been destroyed but for the action of our Order to save them from decay. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been paid to the sick and disabled of our membership who, by reason of their membership, were entitled to receive them. We have taken care that our dead have been properly laid to rest, and annually we hold services commemorative of their membership in our Order.

This Order and the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West jointly have maintained a bureau for the placement of homeless children for many years. We will not mention at what cost, for such a sacred privilege should not be spoken of in terms of money. Thousands of children, under the joint efforts of these two Orders, have been placed in worthy homes, rather than committed to orphanages, where they would have gone but for the broad charity of our two Orders. I have used "OUR" advisedly, for both Orders are engaged in a common work. The homeless child has become our child, and we have assumed the duty of preparing, as far as man may, a home wherein the unfortunate child may grow into the affections of foster parents and, perchance, feel what no man can describe, a mother's love.

We also maintain a fellowship endowment at the University of California, which has in the past enabled students proficient in historical research to visit foreign countries and to engage in research work bearing upon the settlement of the Pacific Coast and the entire southwest. There is no field in all the world so rich in historic interest as the southwestern portion of the United States. It has taken an important place in archaeological study and investigation, challenging in antiquity Egypt and the ancient countries of the Old World.

The past has made the present, just as the present is fashioning the future. The past is the volume we must read if we would be wise in meeting the problems of today and prophetic as to the future. We have come, step by step, from the primitive periods of creation to our present state, and it is by the experiences of past civilizations that we have been able to profit by their mistakes and to avoid the errors into which other peoples have fallen.

The friendships which we have made as a result of membership in the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West cannot be measured in any material way. Who among us would blot from memory any one from the long list of fraternal brothers that have come into our lives, be they weak or strong, through the portals of our Order? Who of us is able to estimate the help and inspiration received from fellowship with these sons of California, true unto death to ties of friendship and whose loyalty never fails?

California, you are indeed fortunate to have had during the past sixty years of our existence an organized Order such as ours, pledged to carrying forward to its final and glorious completion, under divine guidance, the work which the Pioneers of California commenced more than eighty-five years ago. While they did their mission here in the strain and stress of mortals of the flesh, their purposes were but a little less than divine.

The achievements of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West for more than a half-century present a glorious record of humane and patriotic service. Bravely, hopefully and confidently we will meet again at Ukiah to continue in our good work. The interest already manifested indicates a large attendance. Let us be of good cheer, abounding in the spirit of friendship and loyalty!

PLAQUE HONORING DONORS UNVEILED AT MOTHER MISSION.

San Diego—A bronze plaque bearing the names of the major donors to the restoration fund of the mother California Franciscan mission, San Diego de Alcala, was unveiled at that historic landmark April 7, climaxing a pilgrimage to Junipero Serra museum, Fort Stockton, La Playa, Fort Rosecrans and Old Town.

Among the names appearing are "S. D. Parlor No. 108, Native Sons of the Golden West. Grand Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West. S. D. Parlor No. 208, Native Daughters of the Golden West. Grand Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West." The plaque also records this deserved tribute: "Albert Vincent Mayrhofer, Chairman-Treasurer Restoration Committee, whose willing guidance, responsibilities of leadership and untiring services made possible the process of restoration of the Mother Mission."

Mayrhofer, a deputy grand president of the Native Sons, presided at the unveiling ceremonies, and the main speaker was Msgr. John M. Hegarty who, in referring to Junipero Serra and the padres who helped him plan and build the California missions, considered the thoughts that must have been in the minds of those men —thoughts so far removed from commercialism it is difficult for the modern man of business to understand their motives. Dr. Owen C. Coy, director California State Historical Society, was also a speaker.

The Jumping Frog Jubilee, Calaveras County's wellknown annual classic, will be held at Angels Camp, May 19 and 20.

CALIFORNIA DAUGHTER CALLED

(BERTHA A. BRIGGS, Past Grand President N.D.G.W.)

ONCE AGAIN THE SOLEMN HOUR has struck and, in response to the summons of the Grim Reaper, another highly honored and dearly beloved Past Grand President of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West has gone on before us to take her station in the Grand Parlor on High where the Supreme Grand President forever presides.

Gentle, lovable Addie L. Mosher has fallen in life's battle, yielding to a victor whom none can resist. In her departure, we deeply mourn for one who typified the highest ideals of womanhood, ever favoring that which is right and just. There has passed from our midst a rare and splendid soul, one possessed of a generous nature and superior qualities of mind and heart, with a cheery smile, a kindly word, a cordial handclasp that healed many sorrowing hearts and cheered discouraged souls in their journey over the rough pathway of life.

Hers was a happy, radiant stay in her native land, beautiful from beginning to end, full of good works, fragrant with gentle womanliness, crowned with patience, sincerity and devotion to others. By her gentle personality, she endeared herself to everyone, and few have been richer in friendships.

Her station in life was filled with unswerving devotion and loyalty to the exalted principles upon which our Order is founded—"Love of Home, Devotion to the Flag, Veneration of the Pioneers, and an Abiding Faith in the Existence of God." Ever exemplifying the steadfast qualities of our Pioneer Fathers and Mothers, and with a keen interest in the welfare of our Order and the furtherance of our noble projects, her life was assuredly as "broad, generous and beautiful as our own glorious Golden State." In her passing, the Native Daughters of the Golden West have suffered an irreparable loss, and a great void has been left in the hearts of those who loved her tenderly. Her wise counsel in our deliberations can never be adequately filled.

"We sigh for the touch of a vanished hand
And the sound of a voice that is still."

Days and months of suffering were patiently borne and, when the Heavenly Father laid a soothing hand upon her troubled brow, she passed from this earth as she had lived, full of faith; and went forth fearlessly down the pathway into the Valley of the Shadow of Death, with the earnest conviction that the new life upon which she had entered leads to realms of higher activities and a fuller and better existence.

Her kindly influence hovers as a benediction over all who were privileged to call her "friend," and her example will be an imperishable inspiration to all who came within her circle. Her name will be a revered memory, hallowed by sacred associations, and the remembrance of her virtues will reflect a shining luster beyond the portals of the tomb.

"Sleep on, dear 'Mosey.' Such lives as thine
Have not been lived in vain,
But shed an influence rare, divine,
On those that here remain."

MRS. ADDIE L. MOSHER,
Past Grand President N.D.G.W.

For those upon whom the blow falls heaviest in the loss of a noble wife and a devoted mother we breathe an earnest prayer that God, in His infinite wisdom and mercy, may send peace into their darkened homes and saddened hearts and bring them consolation.

Impressive funeral services were held under direction of the Grand Parlor N.D.G.W., participated in by Past Grand Presidents Sue J. Irwin Anna Mixon Armstrong and Bertha A. Briggs and Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen. Others in attendance were Grand Secretary Sallie R Thaler, Grand Trustees Alice Lane and Ethe Begley, Past Grand Presidents May Hime Noonan and Evelyn Carlson. Many members of the Order from various sections of the state were present. Paul Webber of Piedmont Parlor No. 120 N.S.G.W. sang "Sweet Mystery of Life," "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" and "Going Home," and a brief eulogy was delivered. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, testifying to the love and respect in which the deceased was held.

Past Grand President Addie L. Mosher, affiliated with Piedmont Parlor No. 87 N.D.G.W. passed away at her Oakland home April 11, survived by her husband, Howard N. Mosher, and two children, Mrs. Jessie E. Candlin and James N. Mosher. She was a native of San Joaquin County, and was elected Grand President at the Thirty-second (Santa Cruz 1918) Grand Parlor and presided at the Thirty-third (Berkeley 1919) session.

CALIFORNIA FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

PICNICKERS HAD A GALA TIME IN California during May 1884. With twenty-eight days of sunshine, some lodge, association or church sponsored an outing in the woods every day of the month. Showers fell on but three days of the month, and the total rainfall was only .06 of an inch.

The biggest picnic of the season was that of the Grangers, at Beach Grove, near Sacramento City, May 21. The farmers were happy, because of the outlook for big crops and high prices, and over 5,000 of them were in attendance. At a picnic near Woodland, Yolo County, a baby show was featured; following the announcement of the prizewinner there was a riot of mothers. A new wagon road, from Colfax to Forest Hill, Placer County, was dedicated at the former place with a picnic and grand ball.

At a Republican state convention in Oakland, Alameda County, May 1, sixteen delegates were elected to the national convention to be held at Chicago in June. They favored the nomination of James G. Blaine for president.

The extra session of the State Legislature, assembled in March, adjourned sine die May 13. It failed to accomplish the things it was called to do, and did not provide for a new revenue system.

Ex-Governor Leland Stanford announced that on his return from Europe he would found, as a memorial to his deceased son, an educational institution at Palo Alto, Santa Clara County.

A state irrigation convention at Riverside City, May 13, was attended by many interested in the state's water problems.

J. B. Haggin, who was raising cotton in Kern County, brought 200 Negro cotton pickers from Nashville, Tennessee, to join others he had in his employment there.

Decoration Day, May 30, was appropriately observed throughout the state. The parades and ceremonies in nearly all places were under the auspices of the G. A. R.

Golden Gate Parlor No. 29 N.S.G.W. was instituted by Grand President John A. Steinbach at San Francisco, May 2, with James I. Boland as president. Woodland Parlor No. 30 N.S.G.W. was instituted by Grand President Steinbach May 24 at the Yolo County government-seat with W. L. Browning as president.

Shipments of radishes by the carload were being made from Los Angeles City to Eastern points.

A San Diego hotel was featuring "boiled ostrich eggs," at one dollar per, on its menu.

Grasshoppers, moving in a five-mile front, were an invading and devastating horde near White Rock, Sacramento County.

The opening game of the state baseball league was played at Sacramento City, May 4, between the Eurekas of that city and the Haverlys of San Francisco. The latter won, score 13 to 3.

A fireman's tournament, with a big parade of visiting companies from neighboring towns, opened May 12 at Watsonville, Santa Cruz County.

A squaw at Bodie, Mono County, gave birth to triplets. The Piute tribe there were trying to decide which two should, according to tribal custom, be killed.

The cornerstone of the Sonoma County Court House was laid at Santa Rosa, May 7. General M. G. Vallejo was president of the day.

Dr. Lambert, a woman physician of San Jose, Santa Clara County, called as a witness in a trial, refused to testify on the ground that women were denied the privileges given men in the domain of citizenship. She was adjudged in contempt of court and sent to jail.

Sacramento Parlor No. 3 and Sunset Parlor No. 26 N.S.G.W. appointed committees this month to arrange for a grand celebration of Admission Day in the Capital City September 9.

The business section of Moore's Flat, Nevada County, burned May 2, causing a $50,000 loss. The hoisting works at the Imperial mine near Grass Valley, Nevada County, was destroyed by fire May 7.

Fire in Ross Valley, Marin County, caused a $5,000 loss May 3; the only Chinese washhouse was among the places destroyed, and nearly every family in the vicinity lost its week's laundry. Several Vallejo, Solano County, business houses were destroyed by fire May 4; loss, $30,000.

Wheatland, Yuba County, was experiencing a gold rush as the result of several nuggets having been found while sinking a well.

The Gold Hill mine in Calaveras County struck gravel that was yielding $50 a day in gold.

The Bald Mountain hydraulic mine at Forest City, Sierra County, cleaned up $12,000 in gold this month. A rich gold quartz vein was struck in the Columbo mine at Sierra City, Sierra County.

The United States Mint at San Francisco this month coined 63,000 twenty-dollar, 22,000 ten-dollar and 43,000 five-dollar gold pieces, and 300,000 silver dollars.

Six beautiful kiosks, similar to those seen in Paris, France, were constructed on as many Los Angeles City street corners. The only other city in the United States having kiosks was Chicago, Illinois.

May 8, the stage from Yreka, Siskiyou County, to Redding, Shasta County, was stopped by two highwaymen, who took the express box and robbed the passengers. John Williams and Owen Temple were traced, and a week later were arrested as the robbers at Rocklin, Placer County.

Near Madera City, May 10, the stage to the Yosemite Valley was held up, and the passengers were relieved of three watches and $600 in coin.

The stage from Cloverdale, Sonoma County, to Ukiah, Mendocino County, was stopped May 12 by three highwaymen, who carried off the express box and mailbags.

A lone road agent stopped the stage for Alturas, Modoc County, May 27, and took the express box, containing $1,000. A halfbreed Indian was found to be the highwayman.

John Garvin, a native of Ireland, died at Stockton, San Joaquin County, May 1, at the age of 111 years.

In the peace justice courtroom at Redwood City, San Mateo County, May 12, Henry Casey was being examined on a charge of having assaulted a maiden at a picnic near Belmont. John Sweeney, the girl's father, drew a pistol and shot three bullets into Casey, mortally wounding him.

A cavein at the Forest Springs mine in Nevada County, May 20, buried Joseph Hayes, Robert Wallace, James Lawrence and Coleman Chappelle.

Edward York, member State Board of Engineers, was accidentally drowned May 28 while crossing the Santa Ana River.

For committing a murder in Santa Clara County in 1883, Lloyd L. Majors was hung in the San Jose jail yard May 23. A great crowd that assembled declared the necktie party a most successful one.

In 1877, John Schroeder was found riddled with buckshot on Cow Creek, Shasta County. Amos Gibson, Thomas Gibson and John Hildebrand were convicted as the killers and sent to the state prison for life. This month Hildebrand confessed the Gibson brothers were innocent, and they were to be pardoned by the governor.

Modoc County was said to be short of spinsters. A young woman reported she had received eight offers of marriage during the two weeks she visited there.

C. J. (Lucky) Baldwin was married to Miss Lily Bennett at San Francisco, May 20. They went to New York on a wedding tour.

A lodging house proprietor in Sacramento City posted this unique sign: "Lodging 50 cents; with a bottle of whiskey $1.50."

Restaurant proprietors of San Francisco had a meeting and decided to serve no meal for a charge less than fifteen cents.

Tulare County farmers were fishing perch from the Tulare Lake inlets with pitchforks.

For some unknown reason, the annual salmon run up the Sacramento River did not materialize. As a result, the canneries were closed and several hundred fishermen were idle.

PLAN TO HUNT WATERFOWL? GET A GOVERNMENT STAMP.

The Federal Postoffice Department will issue a new one-dollar stamp, to be known as the migratory bird stamp. The law requires that, after June 15, a hunter of wild waterfowl must have this stamp, which cannot be used for postage, in his possession. The proceeds from the stamp sales will be used to establish rest havens for migratory birds.

To acquire the immunity that such a stamp will provide, the hunter must apply with a state hunting license to the local postmaster, who will, on payment of the dollar, affix the stamp to the license. Each year a new stamp is to be issued; the validity of each stamp expires June 30 each year.

HELPING HOMELESS CHILDREN

WILL CONTINUE NATIVES' CHERISHED PROJECT

AUGUST 27, 1910, THE NATIVE SONS and Native Daughters of the Golden West placed the first homeless child in need of their charity. During the twenty-four years since the first little baby girl was placed for adoption, 4,338 children have found permanent homes and 522 more have been re-placed.

Fewer children have been given to the Central Committee for adoption during the past year, due to the fact, no doubt, that Federal aid has been granted families in need, which enabled them to care for their own children.

When analyzing the work done by the Committee since 1910 it is well to keep in mind the full scope of the work and its requirements, and the standard set by the State and Federal Governments which must be met by every child-placing agency. When studying its cost, one must take into consideration the number of different children aided; the children placed once, twice, perhaps three times before the right home has been found; the children whom it has been necessary to place in institutions because of a physical or mental condition, or legal insecurity; the children whose parents or relatives have found a way to care for their own; the children who have died before placement; the children under six weeks of age who are awaiting placement and dismissal by physician. One must also give due attention, when computing the cost of the work, to the number of homes investigated and accepted, the number of homes visited and rejected, and the number of applicants interviewed who later withdrew their applications because of having secured a child elsewhere, or because of ill health or for other reasons.

There must be taken into account, also, the visiting of the children under supervision, for while the State Department of Social Welfare, which licenses the two child-placing organizations, recognizes the value of frequent visits to children by volunteer members living in the vicinity of the foster parents, it demands that adequate supervision be given by the trained workers responsible for the selection of the home and acquainted with the histories of the children. This year's record shows the total number of children upon whom effort and money have been expended to be 543. In addition, 148 homes have been visited and accepted.

The expenses for the year have been $22,-901.57, which are $4,115.59 less than last year. This decrease is due to less expense in the board of children, reduction in one-half of the year's rent and salaries, and to the lower cost of office supplies and printing as compared with the top-notch prices in the years 1927 to 1931.

Contributions from the Parlors and Joint Committees of the Native Sons and Native Daughters totaled $10,656.94; adding $2,027.28, received from the Native Daughters for the first six weeks' care of their adopted babies, brings the amount received from members of the Orders to $12,684.27. Friends of the Orders, refund on board, interest and other receipts bring the total ordinary income for the year to $18,-526.24.

An Alameda Native Daughter radio program was arranged in March by Grand Organist Clara Gairaud, and the sweet singers, with the various speakers, made it a very delightful program. Past Grand President Sue J. Irwin, as a member of the Central Committee, interviewed the Secretary of the Central Committee regarding the homeless children's work. Grand President Irma Laird suggested that the radio interview be published in the May issue of The Grizzly Bear, which Editor Hunt was willing to grant.

Question [by Miss Irwin]—Just what is this Central Committee?

Answer [by Miss Brusie]—Three Native Sons and three Native Daughters, and four members representing Catholic, Protestant and Jewish societies and the Associated Charities of California constitute the Committee.

Question—What is the exact function of this Committee?

Answer—The establishing of policies for the placing in permanent homes for adoption those children whose parents for one reason or another are unable to care for them; deciding procedure and considering all individual case problems presented; giving attention to communications of the Parlors and foster parents; auditing of bills and authorizing their payment.

Question—Do we accept children of all nationalities and religions whether born in California or not?

Mary E. Brusie

(Secretary Native Sons and Native Daughters Central Homeless Children Committee.)

Answer—Yes, if adoption is the best solution of the problem and legal control can be obtained.

Question—In placing a child do we take into consideration the nationality, religion and appearance of the foster parents?

Answer—Yes, we match up in nationality, religion and appearance. Sometimes, to be sure, we find blonde, blue-eyed applicants "preferring brunettes," and we cannot refuse them if all else is satisfactory, but as a rule foster parents want the child to resemble them in order that all comment may be avoided in the future.

Question—We advocate foster parents telling a child that he is adopted, do we not?

Answer—Yes, and telling him when he is young enough to grow up with the idea and not be shocked should others tell him of his adoption.

Question—Do we have any difficulty in finding homes for the children?

Answer—There never has been a time during the past fifteen years when there has not been from 800 to 1,200 waiting applicants who have filed the printed application and specified their requirements therein. This does not include the hundreds of applicants who come to the office to make inquiries and who do not file a formal application.

Question—With so many waiting applicants, I should think that we might be able to place the children as soon as they come into the custody of the Committee.

Answer—No child is placed until six weeks of age, as no child-placing organization worthy of the name will tolerate a hasty placement even though the expense would be reduced. Parents must be given time to decide, and six weeks' time is essential for a baby specialist to be reasonably sure of a child's physical condition.

Question—Are some of the children more difficult to place than other children?

Answer—Yes, the Oriental children and children of mixed Latin races, and the Colored children. Again there may not always be available the home of the same religious faith as the child's parents, and the child must be cared for until the corresponding home is secured. Some of the children are physically handicapped temporarily and must be cared for by a child-placing agency until they have improved or have been determined unplaceable.

Question—Does the Committee stand all of this expense for children relinquished to it?

Answer—During this period, the state pays $15 a month for the care of the child and the Central Committee pays $10 a month. Some of the counties meet the full amount of the board for the children who are their responsibility.

Question—How does the cost per child to our organization compare with that of the other societies?

Answer—From $50 to $75 LESS per child.

Question—What about the extent of office details and keeping up-to-date records of children placed or handled, reports of applicants, visits to references, supervision of children, case cards, etc., and the interviewing of parents and foster parents who come to headquarters?

Answer—No one unfamiliar with the records of this sort of work could have any idea as to the tremendous amount of details. No society would be considered worthy of its mission which is incapable of doing uniform and adequate case work.

Question—Do natural parents know where their children are placed?

Answer—No, they understand that relinquishment means relinquishment and that the child goes out of their lives.

Question—Do natural parents sometimes change their minds and want their children after giving them for adoption?

Answer—Very often, hence the need of the Committee's definite policy to go slowly before placing a child, in order that there may be no tragedies later. Through the help of the Committee twenty-nine parents who had relinquished their children for adoption were able to take back their children before they had been placed for adoption.

Question—This altering of parents' plans also entails effort and expense, does it not?

Answer—Yes, it requires the same effort and expense as the placed child, except for the actual taking of the child to the new home. In all cases friends and relatives of the natural mother are to be contacted, and whenever humanly possible the natural fathers are interviewed and the child's legal status definitely established before the child can be eligible for adoption.

Question—Is it necessary that this work be done by trained workers?

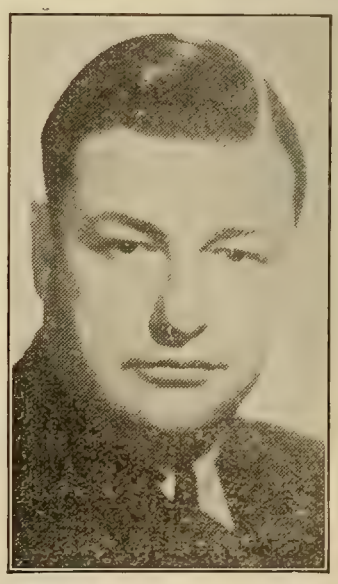
Answer—The state demands it and contends that the trained worker is familiar with the technique of approach in the investigations involving matters of an entirely personal nature and that the trained worker is acquainted with the available avenues by which assistance may be found for those in need.

Question—Do you think that the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West are manifesting the same interest in the work as inspired them in the beginning?

Answer—When Fairfax H. Wheelan of Pacific Parlor No. 10 N.S.G.W. suggested this constructive work for California men and women to do the response, as we all know, was electrical and the loyal Native Sons and Native Daughters who have given of themselves to carry on the work are legion. During the hard times of the last few years the members have made, and they are today making, a supreme effort in order that the work may be adequately supported and their cherished project unsubjected to a lesser place in the welfare work of California.

Miss Irwin—I know this to be true and I am glad to hear the warmth of your convictions. I know that I speak for the other members of the Central Committee when I most heartily commend the genuine interest of the members and prophesy that the work will continue to be a cherished project of both Orders and will be adequately supported and never relegated to community and state as long as loyal Native Sons and Native Daughters live to work for "Our Charity."

Raisin Week, an annual celebration featuring the raisin and grape industry, will be a Fresno City attraction, May 6 to 12.



Santa Rosa, Sonoma County, will have a celebration, May 17 to 20, featuring a rose show and a floral parade.

Alameda County is to have a new court house, bonds of $1,712,000 for that purpose having been voted April 4.

UKIAH READY FOR N.S.G.W. GRAND PARLOR

UKIAH, WHERE THE FIFTY-SEVENTH (1934) Grand Parlor of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West will hold forth for five days, commencing Sunday, May 20, is the government-seat of Mendocino, one of the original counties into which California was divided in 1850. Mendocino was not, however, organized as a separate county until 1859, being until that time united to Sonoma County for judicial, revenue and administrative purposes. Ukiah has been the county seat continuously since 1859, when the county government was first organized.

The waters of the Pacific Ocean wash the western boundaries of Mendocino County, which is divided into three great watersheds. The Russian River and its branches drain that portion of the county south of the Eel River range. In the north Eel River, with its numerous tributaries, carries the waters from the northeastern ranges. Between the Coast Range and the ocean through the redwood belt numerous rivers and creeks drain the western portion of the county. The water power of Mendocino is inexhaustible. Topographically, the county is mountainous to a great extent, the eastern portion being broken up into a chain of rich valleys, separated from the coast section by numerous timbered ridges. The largest of these valleys comprise the Ukiah, Redwood, Sanel and Potter, drained by the Russian River; Round Valley, Little Lake and Long Valley farther north, in the Eel River section, and Anderson and Hermitage Valleys in the basin of the Navarro River. Ukiah Valley is the most important in point of wealth and development. It produces luxurious crops of deciduous fruits, grapes, hops, grain and forage plants.

Ukiah, with some 3,500 inhabitants, is a city of homes surrounded by beautiful gardens. It has municipally-owned public utilities, a low tax rate, excellent schools and all modern necessities. According to Dr. J. W. Hudson, an authority on Indian lore, its name is of native origin and signifies "southern quail people." Its official flower, the lilac, is emblematic of springtide and strength. In the vicinity of Ukiah are many points of special interest.

Ukiah Parlor No. 71 N.S.G.W. has charge of the arrangements for and the entertainment of the Grand Parlor. A committee, with Henry Spurr as the general chairman, has for a year been at work on plans. All arrangements have been perfected, and the committee announces this

PROGRAM:

Sunday—10 a.m., registration Grand Parlor members begins. 6:30 p.m., arrival special train, which will be met by reception committee and the Ukiah high school band. 6:45 p.m., presentation keys of city to Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell in Mendocino County Court House Plaza by Mayor J. R. Thomas.

Monday—10:30 a.m., opening of Grand Parlor. 8 p.m., reception to Grand Parlor members, followed by informal dance, at Ukiah grammar school auditorium.

The tentative program for the reception includes: Selection, orchestra; introductory remarks, Henry C. Spurr, chairman Grand Parlor committee; address of welcome, J. R. Thomas, mayor of Ukiah; vocal selection; address, "Native Sons of the Golden West," Justice Emmet Seawell, Grand President; selection, orchestra; address, "Homeless Children Work N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W.," Judge Fletcher A. Cutler, Past Grand President.

Tuesday—8:30 p.m., grand ball, Ukiah grammar school auditorium, dancing until 1:30 a.m.

Wednesday—Scenic trip through many miles of beautiful redwood forests, and observation of practically all operations of the redwood industry. Auto caravan leaves Ukiah at 7 a.m. for Willits, whence special train will depart at 8:30 a.m., arriving at Fort Bragg at 10:30 a.m. There, the excursionists will be the guests of Broderick Parlor No. 117 (Point Arena) and Alder Glen Parlor No. 200 (Fort Bragg) and will be shown through the lumber mills; those so desiring, will be taken to Caspar, a few miles down the coast, where other lumbering operations may be observed. 12:30 (noon), barbecue at Indian Grove, Fort Bragg. 2 p.m., guests will entrain, and at 3:15 stop will be made at Shake City, to witness logging operations. 5 p.m., arrival special train at Willits, and return to Ukiah by auto. 7:30 p.m., Grand Parlor banquet.

The tentative program for the banquet includes: Selection, orchestra; introduction of toastmaster, Henry C. Spurr, chairman Grand Parlor committee; opening remarks, Keith C. Eversole (Ukiah Parlor No. 71), toastmaster; address, "Our Order," Justice Emmet Seawell, Grand President; vocal selection; address, "Historic Spots in California," Joseph R. Knowland, Past Grand President; selection, orchestra; presentation to Grand President, Seth Millington, Junior Past Grand President; vocal selection; address, "California," Leo V. Youngworth (Ramona Parlor No. 109); selection, orchestra.

For the visiting womenfolks, entertainment will be provided each day by the women's clubs of Ukiah. The

MENDOCINO COUNTY NATIVE SONS.

Mendocino County has three Subordinate Parlors of the Order of Native Sons—Ukiah No. 71 at Ukiah, Broderick No. 117 at Point Arena and Alder Glen No. 200 at Fort Bragg. A brief history of each is here presented:

Ukiah Parlor was originally instituted October 22, 1885, by District Deputy Grand President J. N. Davis with twenty-two members. George W. Salmon was the first president, and J. L. Whitton the first secretary. The charter was surrendered January 7, 1893, and the Parlor was reorganized by Grand Organizer Andrew Mocker, February 14, 1905. The charter was again surrendered in 1910, and the present Parlor was instituted by Grand Organizer James P. Cronin, September 5, 1921, with William Davis as president and Richard Andrews as secretary.

The present officers of the Parlor are: Kenneth W. Phillips, president; Henry G. Bucknell, senior past president; William Davis, junior past president; LaVerne Kehoe, first vice-president; Carol DeMotte, second vice-president; Clarence E. Wallett, third vice-president; Ben Hofman, secretary; A. D. Scott, treasurer; Winfred Church, marshal; William Brucker, inside sentinel; Irvin E. Ball, outside sentinel; Albert T. Bechtol, Arthur L. Tracy and Henry C. Spurr, trustees. Present membership, 47.

Broderick Parlor (Point Arena) was instituted January 9, 1888, by Grand President C. H. Garoutte with twenty members. E. Arthur was the first president, and Thomas Roseman the first secretary.

The present officers of the Parlor are: C. R. Von Arx, president; A. Seymour, junior past president; H. Byers, first vice-president; William E. Lawson, second vice-president; A. Talbot, third vice-president; C. J. Buchanan, recording and financial secretary; John Stornetta, treasurer; James Pellascio, marshal; Rex Halliday, inside sentinel; Elvin McMillen, outside sentinel; Ivan Lawson, Win Watrous and F. H. Warren, trustees. Present membership, 45.

Alder Glen Parlor (Fort Bragg) was instituted July 24, 1897, by Past Grand President John A. Steinbach with twenty-four members. F. S. Bowman was the first president, and F. N. Bowman the first secretary. Greenwood Parlor No. 209, instituted at Elk, Mendocino County, was consolidated with Alder Glen in 1907.

Fredson, inside sentinel; Adolph Hardell, outside sentinel; Tom Cooney, T. J. Simpson and Harold Bohn, trustees; Bert Enders, organist. Present membership, 109.

Writing to The Grizzly Bear under date of April 17, Secretary C. R. Weller of Alder Glen Parlor says: "Alder Glen's barbecue committee is going to considerable expense to entertain the caravan which will arrive at Fort Bragg about 10 a.m. of May 23. We expect to conduct the visitors through the local sawmill, also furnish them with automobile trips up and down the coast. About 12:30 we intend to serve a barbecue in the Indian Grove. The Fort Bragg Fish and Game Club has promised the barbecue committee abalone chowder for this event, and we surely know how to make chowder. We shall also serve a vegetable salad, barbecued meats and green peas—all locally grown. We are preparing for about 750 guests. At this time of the year the rhododendrons are in bloom and they are a beautiful sight. We have other scenic attractions too numerous to mention."

ELABORATE PLANS FOR SERRA YEAR OBSERVANCE GOING FORWARD.

In observance of Serra Year, a committee has been organized and is arranging for a pilgrimage, beginning July 1, of the Franciscan fathers of California along the path trod by Junipero Serra from San Diego to Sonoma. Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell represents the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West on the committee, and the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West is represented by Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer.

Other plans for observing Serra Year include: Presentation of a series of commemorative pageants, the first to be given in Santa Barbara. Requesting the Federal Postoffice Department to issue a special stamp. Issuance and sale of Father Serra statues, funds so obtained to be used for the restoration of missions. Establishment of August 26, the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the death of the renowned padre, as Father Serra Sunday, when all the churches of the state will be requested to devote the day's services to his memory.

A Far Western Wool Show, to be held at Sacramento City, May 23 and 24, is being sponsored by the California Woolgrowers Association.

A homecoming picnic, a reunion of homefolks and former residents, will be held May 19 at Ione, Amador County.

Stockton, San Joaquin County, will have its annual regatta, May 26 and 27.

Native Daughters of the Golden West

"TO THE OFFICERS AND MEMBERS Subordinate Parlors Native Daughters Golden West—May! the beautiful month of flowers, the month of love, the time of youth. The rosy dawn before the warmth of the day of Summer's sun. Not only the time of love, of flowers, of radiant youth, but most fittingly the month of memories—the sweetest, tenderest month of memories, the bravest and the truest memories. MOTHER'S DAY! MEMORIAL DAY!

"Friendship and love have varied forms, all of them expressions of the Divine in man, but none so pure, so unselfish, so true, unflagging and unfailing as Mother Love. This is pure love, holy and unalloyed. It stoops over the cradle, travels over mountains and into deepest valleys, through weal or woe, into palace or hovel, awaits at the prison gates and before the yawning jaws of death, then continues on after life itself has fled. It is one pure drop of God's own love nestled deep in the heart of creation's sweetest and most beautiful rose.

"The Native Daughters of the Golden West pay especial tribute and honor to the woman in the sunbonnet who laid the foundations for these far western homes, but every thoughtful mother, in every generation, is a pioneer, faced by new problems, beset by new difficulties, but experiencing the age-old joys peculiar to mothers. All honor to the Pioneer Mothers of every generation!

"It has been written that greater love hath no man than that he lay down his life for his friend, but he who gives his life to his country has given to friend and enemy alike. We live in this wonderful, glorious country of ours today because it was bought for us with the lives of thousands who went before, watering the earth with their blood for us whom they could never know. Eternal shame and disgrace upon us if we forget!

"Let the Native Daughters of the Golden West be the first on Memorial Day to wreathe these graves in blossoms sweet and by word and deed tell to the world that they are not forgotten.

"Sincerely and fraternally in P.D.F.A.,

"IRMA W. LAIRD,

"Grand President N.D.G.W.

JUNE.

4th—Snow Peak No. 176, Truckee. Regular meeting.

Splendid Work.

Oakland—Fruitvale No. 177 tendered an Easter party to the children of the crippled classes of Hawthorne school March 23. Parents of the children and representatives of many civic clubs also interested in the unfortunates were present. A wonderful program was rendered by the children, after which the Parlor served ice cream and cake, and presented each child with a chocolate egg bearing the recipient's name. Caring for the crippled children is but one of the projects of Fruitvale, and much pleasure is derived from the work, both by the members and the children.

A joint theater party was held with Fruitvale No. 252 N.S.G.W. recently for the benefit of the homeless children fund. A goodly sum was derived from the proceeds of the show.

First To Honor Betsy Ross.

Placentia—Grace No. 242 initiated two candidates April 6. Deputy Irene Eden and a group from Los Angeles No. 124 were among the visitors. At the meeting's conclusion games were played, and refreshments were served by Matilda Enfield, Edna Gender, Alice Davis and Sarah Donald. April 19 a family card party was enjoyed, with an abundance of good things to eat prepared by Erma Watts and committee. April 5 the sewing club met at the home of Mrs. Frank Hill and had a potluck dinner at noon, but Mr. Hill receiving serious injuries in an auto accident those assembled adjourned to the home of Mrs. Frank Trendle. Anna Lemke, Mary Noerenberg and Nell Alldrich were special guests.

Supervising Deputy Nellie Cline was a speaker at the dedication of the fourth marker on La Playa Trail, San Diego County, April 18. Members of the Parlor were honored guests at the annual California day luncheon of the Placentia Round Table Club. Mrs. Cline presided. Past Grand Grace S. Stoermer was the speaker, and in the course of her remarks said the Native Daughters were the first to honor the memory of Betsy Ross, by placing a bronze monument in San Francisco in 1917 during her term as Grand President.

CONSIDERABLE INTEREST IS, EVEN at this early date, manifest in the Forty-eighth Annual Grand Parlor of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West, which convenes at Santa Cruz City, June 18, for a four-day session. Grand President Irma W. Laird of Alturas Parlor No. 159 will preside. A very interesting and profitable session is anticipated.

Santa Cruz Parlor No. 26 has charge of arrangements for the Grand Parlor, and it has a committee, headed by General Chairman Pearl N. Reid, at work on plans. The Parlor will be assisted in entertaining by all the Parlors of the district, including those in Monterey, San Benito and Santa Cruz Counties.

The four days are to be divided into periods: Monday, California romance; Tuesday, project day; Wednesday, California history; Thursday, play day. Good speakers will be provided for each day, also pageants, dances and singers to represent the different periods.

Sunday evening there will be an informal reception, with Past Grand Stella Finkeldey in charge. Thursday the Grand Parlor members will be taken on an auto trip around the Cliff Drive to Santa Cruz Mission, and thence to the Big Trees, where an outdoor luncheon will be served. There will also be a grand ball, with Marjorie Brunjes directing.

17 members present. Honor guests were the three remaining charter members, Miss Hannah Gray, "mother" of the Parlor, Miss Clara Stier and Past Grand Carrie R. Durham. Other visitors were Deputy Beth Jackson, Supervising Deputy Clarice Cook and Past Grand Pearl Lamb.

The members were seated at twelve tables, each at the one representing the month of her birth. There were twelve hostesses, one for each table, and each carried out her own ideas in decorations and song to represent the particular month. The affair was presided over by President Charlotte Clark, who also presented the charter members with gifts. A turkey banquet was served, and the evening proved a huge success.

Grand President Surprised.

Sacramento—April 9, Rio Rito No. 253 officially greeted Grand President Irma W. Laird. A dinner preceding the meeting carried out, in honor of Mrs. Laird, a cowboy theme. Clay cowboys marked the places, and a cowboy song and dance, the "Last Roundup," was given by little girl. "Just Because You're You" was sung by two members. As it was the first birthday of the Parlor, Rio Rito having been instituted April 8, 1933, the officers' entrance was marked by a candlelight march, each officer bearing a lighted candle.

Eight candidates were initiated and also, as a surprise to the Grand President, Vivian Sharpe was initiated for Alturas No. 159. The Grand President accepted for the Home diningroom a pair of vases carved with the emblem of the Order. Gifts were given to Grand President Laird, Deputy Vera Hellinge, Supervising Deputy May Lucas, Sadie Brainard, the organizer of Rio Rito, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Junior Past Grand Anna Armstrong, and Past Grands Dr. Eva Rasmussen and Emma Lou Humphrey. Rio Rito will place a marker at the Leland Stanford home, Memorial Day.

CANDIDATES FOR GRAND PARLOR OFFICES

Several additional candidates have announced their intentions the past month, and there are whisperings that, following election of delegates by Subordinate Parlors at their first May meetings, many others will come into the field. With the exception of the grand presidency, rumor has it, all offices will be contested for. The Grizzly Bear makes every effort to get the facts, and presents this lineup to date of candidates for Grand Parlor offices at the Santa Cruz session, compiled from information received direct from the candidates:

Grand President—Grand First Vice-president Gladys E. Noce (Amapola Parlor No. 80).

Grand Vice-president—Grand Marshal Anna C. Thuesen (Alta Parlor No. 3).

Grand Secretary—Sallie R. Thaler (Aloha Parlor No. 106), incumbent.

Grand Treasurer—Susie K. Christ (Yosemite Parlor No. 83), incumbent.

Grand Marshal—Edna B. Briggs (La Bandera Parlor No. 110). Grand Trustee Minna Kane Horn (Eschscholtzia Parlor No. 112). Grand Trustee Ethel S. Begley (Marinita Parlor No. 198).

Grand Organist—Pearl N. Reid (Santa Cruz Parlor No. 26).

Grand Trustees (seven to be selected)—Orinda Giannini (Orinda Parlor No. 56), incumbent. Grand Organist Clara A. Gairaud (Vendome Parlor No. 100). Alice M. Lane (Castro Parlor No. 178), incumbent. Willow Borba (Santa Rosa Parlor No. 217), incumbent. Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel B. Hansen (Glendale Parlor No. 240). Nellie M. Cline (Grace Parlor No. 242).

Mothers Day at N.D. Home.

Hollister—Sunday, May 13, the Parlors of District No. 25, comprising Santa Cruz, Monterey and San Benito Counties, will officiate as hostesses at the monthly breakfast at the Native Daughter Home, San Francisco. The theme of the gathering will be "The Pioneer Mother," with Past Grand Stella Finkeldey as the speaker. Each Parlor will furnish a number, consisting of vocal selections and other entertaining features. Presidents of the six Parlors will tell of the activities of their respective groups, and give interesting facts regarding their home communities. Supervising Deputy Rose Rhyner and Deputy Alberta McCormick are in charge of arrangements.

To Place Marker at Mission.

Santa Ana—At the homeless children benefit ball held in Los Angeles April 28, Santa Ana No. 235 was well represented on the reception and other committees. April 9 the birthday anniversaries of members born in April were honored. Miss Gladys Edwards was in charge of decorations and refreshments. During the month the thimble club met at the homes of Miss Edwards and Mrs. Daphne Leabo. April 7 and 30 the Parlor, jointly with Santa Ana No. 265 N.S.G.W., sponsored benefit dances.

President Mae West and the history and landmarks committee—Matilda Lemon (chairman), Ruth Kotlar and Naomi Schoenrock—visited Mission San Juan Capistrano to confer with Father Hutchinson in regard to placing a marker on work in the baptistry for which the Santa Ana Native Daughters and Sons contributed generously. They were assured that, just as soon

FIFTY-SEVENTH N.S.G.W. GRAND PARLOR

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

THE FIFTY-SEVENTH GRAND PARLOR of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West will convene at Ukiah, Mendocino County, Monday, May 21, at 10:30 a.m. Sessions will be held in the Ukiah grammar school auditorium Monday, Tuesday and Thursday. Grand President Emmet Seawell (Santa Rosa Parlor No. 28), associate justice California Supreme Court, will preside throughout the deliberations, and at their conclusion will automatically become the Junior Past Grand President.

The reports of the Grand Parlor officers and committees will deal with the Order's activities during 1933. There are rumors that some very important legislation will be proposed and so, some "hot" debates are anticipated. Resolutions galore no doubt will, as usual, be presented.

The report of Grand Secretary John T. Regan will detail the condition of the Subordinate Parlors as of December 31, 1933. Those of 450 or more members, with their assets-figures, include:

Parlors.	Members.	Assets.
Ramona No. 109	882	$41,404.76
South San Francisco No. 157	799	48,929.89
Castro No. 232	745	10,069.43
Stanford No. 76	505	24,497.19
Stockton No. 7	491	46,565.94
Twin Peaks No. 214	482	7,975.00
Piedmont No. 120	465	21,776.10
Arrowhead No. 110	455	24,791.19

Others, with assets of $20,000 or more, together with their membership-figures, are:

Parlors.	Members.	Assets.
San Jose No. 22	275	$67,566.33
Sacramento No. 3	310	44,011.57
Pacific No. 10	352	40,706.05
Amador No. 17	136	33,962.59
Santa Lucia No. 97	54	31,828.31
Placerville No. 9	253	30,276.22
Napa No. 62	270	30,209.36
Observatory No. 177	192	29,942.18
Redwood No. 66	160	29,318.77
California No. 1	332	22,771.27
Sunset No. 26	265	22,671.10
Eden No. 113	164	21,788.93
Excelsior No. 31	144	21,362.65
Presidio No. 194	347	20,042.29

From these figures, it will be noted that Ramona Parlor No. 109 (Los Angeles) continues its lead as the largest, numerically, in the Order, and that San Jose Parlor No. 22 (San Jose) remains the wealthiest, financially. Santa Lucia Parlor No. 97 (Salinas) has the greatest per-capita wealth.

At the close of 1933, the Subordinate Parlors had assets totaling $1,234,067.35, including $296,718.27 cash on hand. Their receipts for 1933 totaled $264,556.69, and their disbursements $273,794.26. They paid benefits totaling $89,484.42 to 1,317 members.

During 1933, the Board of Grand Officers, headed by Grand President Seawell, dedicated and laid the cornerstones of public buildings, and at all these ceremonies the attendance was large. Also, during the year, the Subordinate Parlors made flag presentations and marked several historic sites.

SAN FRANCISCO

(Special to The Grizzly Bear.)

JUSTICE EMMET SEAWELL, GRAND President of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, was tendered a reception by the San Francisco Extension of the Order Committee the evening of April 27 in Native Sons Auditorium and, testifying to the high regard in which he is held, more than a thousand members of the Order from San Francisco, Alameda, Contra Costa, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Marin and Sonoma Counties were present.

Grand First Vice-president Chas. A. Koenig, on behalf of the Extension of the Order Committee, presented Justice Seawell with a beautiful desk set embellished with the Order's emblem. In a most wonderful address of acceptance, the Grand President expressed appreciation for the thoughtfulness of the committee in charge and to the Order in general for the assistance given during his term as its directing head. He also spoke at length on the activities of the Order. and pointed out how necessary it is to have increased membership.

An entertainment program included: Overture, "The Harmonians" orchestra, Joseph Power leader; floor show; introduction Extension Order Committee, Chairman Hubert Caveney; juvenile accordionist, Bobbie Hessler; introduction grand officers; tenor solo, Louis Jennings; specialty numbers, Bob Brown and partner; witticisms, Eddie Healy; stunts, Art Varian and duo; soprano solo, Maria Vogel; San Francisco Fire Department quartet, Wm. Murray, Robt. Ceily, Joseph Blakley and Arthur McGuire, and soloists, Benton Huden and Frank Woods; floor show featuring Al Mason; accordionist, Chas. Ackerman; grand finale, "The Harmonians" orchestra.

The grand officers introduced included Emmet Seawell, Grand President; Chas. A. Koenig, Grand First Vice-president; Harmon D. Skillin, Grand Second Vice-president; J. Hartley Russell, Grand Third Vice-president; John T. Regan, Grand Secretary; John A. Corotto, Grand Treasurer; Gam Hurst, Grand Marshal; Eldred L. Meyer, Henry S. Lyon, Charles H. Spengemann, Jesse H. Miller and Edward T. Schnarr, Grand Trustees; also, Past Grand Presidents Lewis F. Byington, Judge Frank H. Dunne, Judge Fletcher A. Cutler, James A. Wilson, Charles L. Dodge and Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez.

Hubert Caveney was the honorary chairman of the successful affair, and the committees in charge included: General Reception—Harry Romick (chairman), L. A. Werner, Chas. J. Barry, Joseph Sugrowe, Wm. H. James, Louis Erb, Wm. Boyce, J. W. Smith and Jos. J. McShane. Entertainment—Paul Conniff (chairman), Harry Rickleffs, Chas. Spengemann, Frank Foss, Michael Joyce and Pat. Gould. Refreshments—Thos. Dillon (chairman), Al Vlautin, Nick Murphy, Wayne Burke, Erwin Dankwerth, Earl Keating and Milton Lawler. At the conclusion of the reception and entertainment program a buffet supper was served in the banquet-room.

NEW N.D. PARLOR INSTITUTED.

Amid a shower of California blossoms, Arguello Parlor No. 257 N.D.G.W. was instituted April 28 by Grand President Irma W. Laird. More than 200 members of the Order were in attendance. A picked team, composed of San Francisco deputies, exemplified the ritual under the supervision of Supervising Deputy Ann Dippel. Mrs. Leah Williams organized the new Parlor.

Officers of Arguello are: Wilma Westerlund, past president; Gladys Cruise, president; Adele Mason, first vice; Gladys Westerlund, second vice; Rena Whelan, third vice; Margaret Greiner, marshal; Lila Ledden, financial secretary; Loretta Trathen, recording secretary; Mabel Curts, treasurer; Kathleen Ledden, inside sentinel; Adeline Davy, outside sentinel; Dolores Silva, Charlotte Nichols, Irene Tracy, trustees; Estelle Carr, organist.

APRIL BREAKFAST AT N.D. HOME.

The monthly Sunday breakfast at the N.D.G.W. Home April 8 was in charge of Mrs. Helen Meyer of Bret Harte Parlor No. 232 and Mrs. Ruby Bried of El Vespero Parlor No. 118. The decorations were in keeping with the tribute paid Past Grand Eliza D. Keith by Mrs. Bried, who told of Miss Keith's untiring zeal which accomplished the introduction of the daily salute to the Flag in the public schools.

Past Grand Keith gave an entertaining and instructive address on "Education." Mrs. Florence Johnson and the San Francisco Glee Club favored with vocal selections. Among others in attendance were Grand President Irma W. Laird, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Past Grands Dr. Mariana Bertola and Margaret Hill.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS NEWS BRIEFS.

Members of Alta Parlor No. 3 gave a surprise party April 10 in honor of the silver wedding anniversary of President Mary Schultz. The hall was beautifully decorated in spring flowers. Chairman May L. MacDonald, assisted by Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Mms. Warren, Hartley, Flake, Creighton and Miller, presented a wedding skit which created a great deal of merriment. The series of card parties for the Parlor's sick fund concluded April 12.

Irma W. Laird, Grand President, paid an official visit to Oro Fino Parlor No. 9, April 19. Decorations were of Easter lillies and California poppies, strikingly beautiful in their arrangement. The Grand President and Deputy Gertrude LaFortune were presented with gifts. Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Grand Outside Sentinel Alice Oldham, Grand Trustees Orinda Giannini and Ethel Begley, and twenty deputy grand presidents, as well as Past Grand Presidents Mae C. Boldemann, Eliza D. Keith and Evelyn I. Carlson, honored the Parlor by their presence. Oro Fino also considered itself greatly privileged in having as a guest Founder Lillie O. Reichling-Dyer. April 21, the Parlor celebrated the forty-seventh anniversary of its institution with a banquet. It was the ninth Parlor to be organized in the Order. Edith Pettijohn is the president.

Orinda Parlor No. 56 held a whist party March 22 for the benefit of the delegates fund, and a large crowd was in attendance. March 17 and also on Easter Sunday the children welfare committee, Grand Trustee Orinda Giannini chairman, visited the tubercular wards of the San Francisco Hospital and presented the inmates with gifts and funny papers. As a special treat the children are given all the New York funny sheets, and these are especially enjoyed. April 27 a birthday party was held for all members born in the months of March and April. Each was presented with a gift and was given an opportunity to secure a home-made birthday cake presented by Past Grand Emma Foley.

Grand President Irma W. Laird paid an official visit to Yosemite Parlor No. 83, March 20. Other guests were Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Treasurer Susie K. Christ, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Grand Trustees Alice Lane, Orinda Giannini and Ethel Begley, and Grand Outside Sentinel Alice Oldham. Mrs. Agnes Zgraggen was the presiding officer. The Parlor is sponsoring a whist party May 1; Mrs. Mona Thiesen is the chairwoman.

La Estrella Parlor No. 89 presented a variety show, April 9, "broadcasted" from radio station N.U.T.S. The program included native dances of Hawaii and Spain; the greatest mystic of the age, who knows everyone and sees everybody, "Mahatma Gandhi;" a one-act farce, "Lizzie's Busy Day," written by one of the members, and a "Depression Fashion Show," with costumes from the No Such Dress Company. The assemblage was in shrieks of laughter from start to finish of the show. The tremendous success was due to the efforts of Lydia Hinrichs, Maude Koppitz, Margaret Riordan, Alice Boldemann, Tillie Marks, Ethel Deneri, Lola Horgan and Birdie Hartman.

The drill team of El Vespero Parlor No. 118 gave a whist party which was a complete success. Under the leadership of Captain Mary Casey, the team is sponsoring many activities. March 27 the Parlor enjoyed a delightful dinner served under the supervision of Mrs. Leonie Fillippi. Games and reminiscences were enjoyed.

Keith Parlor No. 137 was officially visited by Grand President Irma W. Laird, who addressed the assemblage in her efficient and gracious manner. Among the large number in attendance were Grand Secretary Sallie Thaler, Grand Inside Sentinel Alice Oldham, Grand Trustees Alice Lane, Orinda Giannini and Ethel Begley, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Past Grands Margaret Hill, Mae Himes Noonan, Evelyn I. Carlson and Mae C. Boldemann, and Supervising Deputy Ann Dippel. First Vice Mera Thompson, chairman of the evening, was assisted by F. Balettler, M. Dahlstrom, A. Mason, A. Sutcliffe, M. Greiner, L. Koch, E. Miller, G. LaFortune, H. Mann, T. Meyer, B. Mauser and E. Porter.

A St. Patrick party was given by Gabrielle Parlor No. 139, with members of Rincon Parlor No. 72 N.S.G.W. as guests. The decorations were very appropriate, and refreshments were served. Florence Bodeman was chairman of the evening.

April 11, Dolores Parlor No. 169 entertained twenty-six of its past presidents and three of the charter members, and each was presented with a souvenir. Refreshments were served at tables beautifully decorated with spring flowers. Reminiscences were related by the oldtimers, and the San Francisco Glee Club, directed by Mrs. Ruby Bried, presented a mock marriage comedy. Among the guests were Deputy Pearl Wedde and Agnes McVerry. Past Grand Evelyn I. Carlson was chairman of the evening. Dolores plans a dinner dance for May 5, and Mothers Day will be celebrated May 9.

The silver anniversary of Linda Rosa Parlor No. 170 was the occasion for an elaborate dinner. The table, aglow with beautiful blossoms, resembled a spring garden. Places of honor were given Charter Members Mmes. G. Grandeman, M. Carrau, F. Eoff, E. Taylor and E. Tyrell, who told of early days in the Parlor. Entertainment features were provided. Anna L. Prior was the celebration chairman.

The last week in March was a very busy one for Castro Parlor No. 178. Sixty-two children in the tubercular wards of San Francisco Hospital were made happy Easter morning when they received wagons drawn by bunnies filled with candy eggs. In the afternoon forty-five patients in Letterman Hospital were entertained with music and songs, and refreshments were served. The patients look forward to and greatly enjoy these monthly parties. May 16, Mothers Day will be fittingly observed. The committee, Eva Herschin chairman, is making great preparations, as there is nothing too good for mother. Seven candidates were initiated by the Parlor during April.

NATIVE SON JURIST PASSES.

George H. Cabaniss, presiding judge of the San Francisco Superior Court, died suddenly April 19, survived by a wife and a son. He was affiliated with Pacific Parlor No. 10 N.S.G.W.

N.D. PAST GRAND PASSES

Mrs. Anna L. Monroe, Past Grand President N.D.G.W., died at Ferndale, April 24. She was affiliated with Oneonta Parlor No. 71, was elected Grand President at the Twenty-second (Lodi 1908) Grand Parlor, and presided at the Twenty-third (Del Monte 1909) session.

NATIVE SONS NEWS BRIEFS.

Oroville—Grand Trustee Henry S. Lyon visited Argonaut Parlor No. 8, April 18, and in relating some of California's earlyday history paid tribute to the Pioneers.

Napa—Observing its forty-ninth institution anniversary April 16, Napa Parlor No. 62 honored its surviving Charter members, Past Grand Presidents Frank L. Coombs and Henry C. Gesford, Forrest Kelton, Benjamin Behrens, Camillus Smith and Ralph Wilson.

Livermore—Wilbur Sherman was awarded first prize, April 25, in the annual California history essay contest sponsored by Las Positas Parlor No. 96. There were fifty-seven entries. Sherman is a student at the Livermore high school.

San Leandro—Estudillo Parlor No. 223 celebrated its thirty-second institution anniversary April 17 and initiated four candidates. William G. Muntz, the Parlor's organizer, was the principal speaker. Among the guests were Grand Trustee Edward T. Schnarr and District Deputy Joseph Earhart.

FESTIVAL OF ARTS TO INCLUDE CALIFORNIA HISTORY ESSAY CONTEST.

Probably the most ambitious attempt ever to be made in southern California to encourage and recognize talent in the various arts will be the Southern California Festival of the Allied Arts, to be staged in Los Angeles in June by the Women's Community Service Auxiliary of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. John D. Fredericks is president of the organization and Mrs. Grace Widney Mabee, general festival chairman. The contest will schedule competitions in nine divisions, including essays on the history of California.

Realizing the immensity of the project and the valuable contribution it will be to the cultural life of the West in discovering and recognizing talent, many of the outstanding public-spirited organizations of the southland have joined with the auxiliary in offering to winners worthwhile prizes in the form of paid engagements with orchestras, theaters and clubs, cash awards and scholarships. Outstanding among such organizations is the Native Daughters of the Golden West, who are sponsoring prizes for the essays on the history of California.

Subjects in this contest are divided into twenty-four topics, selections being scheduled for grade schools, junior high schools, junior colleges, colleges, universities and private schools of similar grade. A nominal registration fee is required for entrance. Essays are to be from 750 to 1,000 words. Active chairman of the division for essays on the history of California is Miss Grace S. Stoermer, with Mrs. Irma Laird and John Steven McGroarty honorary chairmen.

Competition in the festival, for which registration has now begun, is open to all aspirants in the arts, regardless of age, place of residence or proficiency. Contests will be scheduled for individuals and groups. All competitions will be held in Los Angeles during festival week, June 22 to July 1.—Katherine Doyle.

In Memoriam

CONSTANCE A. YOUNG.

To the Officers and Members of Miocene Parlor No. 228 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of love and respect to the memory of our departed sister, Constance A. Young, submit the following:

The Golden Chain of our Fraternity has been severed by the loss of one who, in the midst of pleasant activities, has been called to a better home. The trials, the sorrows, the disappointments that come in every life, however sheltered, are ended for our faithful member. Her passing is sad to all who held her in deep affection and respect, and now her Heavenly Father comes to lay a soothing hand upon her brow, and to lift her spirit from the grim shadows into light where there is no burden and where all sorrow ceases.

So, with a nod of the head
And a wave of the hand,
She has left us
To dwell in a better land.

Resolved, That we extend our sincere sympathy to her bereaved family and that a copy be spread upon the minutes of our Parlor and one sent to The Grizzly Bear.

GRIZZLY GROWLS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

ARTHUR H. BREED OF OAKLAND, FOR twenty-four years a member of the State Senate, for eighteen years being president-pro-tem thereof, and generally considered an authority on conditions in government, announced March 27 that he would not be a candidate for re-election. In a prepared statement, he severely rebuked tax-levying officials and related facts—frequently given publicity in these columns—which should have the earnest consideration of the majority, that conditions may, for the well-being of California, be rectified. Quoting from the statement:

"Very little has been accomplished up to this time in the contest with the organized minorities for retrenchment in public expenditures. . . . Moreover, the limit of 5 per cent increase in county budgets, which restriction was placed in the constitutional amendment when the sales tax was voted, is being openly ignored by many boards of supervisors. In a time of economic distress the taxing authorities, under the whip of those organized forces that with unabated vigor and success dig into the public treasuries, are levying more taxes, piling up a burden under which there can be no sound recovery.

"It is not at all necessary to cripple governmental functions in any plan of retrenchment. Costs could be cut down substantially without impairment of the public service. We hear much of the public demand for these services. A correct statement is that it is the organized minorities with their designs on the treasuries that make many of these demands. Until the political power of these forces can be checked the people can look for no relaxation of the staggering tax load. And only if the people will support candidates for office who will represent faithfully the great unorganized majority can there be any hope of relief. . . . So long as we consider new and additional taxes, economy is forgotten. The idea of undertaking retrenchment first and revision of taxes afterward has to date not been the method pursued. Once supplied with revenues, public officialdom passes up economy.

"The people, or the unorganized majority, will have their chance at the primary in August and the election in November, and if they will manifest their views in sufficient force to encourage candidates so that advocacy of economy gives promise of success at the polls we shall not suffer a dearth of aspirants. When it is 'good politics' to run on a platform that deficits shall be met by reducing unjustifiable governmental expenditures and by eliminating gross extravagances, then and then only will we get men in office who will courageously give battle to save our state from the wreckage of confiscatory taxation."

Along this same line,—excessive taxation to promote the welfare of the political racketeers who infest California—a state official issued a statement, March 29, in which he said:

"California today is under the arrogant domination of a hungry tax-consuming bureaucracy. Constitutional government is a myth. Every year taxpayers must give up millions of dollars to provide these political parasites and their relatives and friends with an easy living. They are given princely salaries. They joy-ride over the state in automobiles purchased and maintained at the expense of the taxpayers. Year after year they spend tax money—your money—to perpetuate themselves in office. They have paralyzed our financial structure by their constant raids upon the public treasury. . . . California today has reached the cross-roads. There is no money in our state treasury to pay the bills. If we are to continue to travel the same road we are doomed financially. Unless we take immediate steps to halt this wild orgy of spending, an ad valorem tax will be inevitable."

Severely attacking groups favoring the granting of the quota to Japs, Robert Fouke, addressing the Rotary Club of Saint Helena, Napa County, declared that to do so might change the sovereignty of California. The many devious tricks which Japs use to evade the Immigration Law were explained, and he declared that present loopholes should be closed. He also called attention to the inconsistency of the Japs' opposal to exclusion, as their own laws prohibit entry of Chinese and Koreans into Japan. In conclusion, the speaker stated that problems confronting the American people cannot be lessened by increasing the friction bound to result from further alien encroachment. Commenting editorially on Fouke's instructive address, the "St. Helena Star" of April 6 said:

"For a long time certain columnists, misguided clerical groups, and a vociferous array of organizations whose patriotism is often subordinate to their pocketbooks, have been doing their best to increase the oriental population of the United States by applying the quota system to excluded Asiatic races. To what earthly end, except the financial betterment of a small minority? Certainly here in California there is enough racial hodge-podge, enough alien social problems, and enough unemployment without deliberately opening the doors to a type of humanity that simply cannot become a part of the American scheme."

Ambassador Saito of Japan, advocating putting that country on a quota basis, said in New York, according to the Associated Press, "its practical effect will be negligible, for only a hundred-odd Japanese will become admissible, a tiny drop in the enormous bucket, so to speak, of the American nation." We have already had far too many, for this nation's good, of those "tiny drops" from Japan! Just a week following this statement of Ambassador Saito, a manifesto came out of Japan indicating that that government plans to regulate the world, and a spokesman said, "Japan may be compelled to resort to arms."

There may be no connection between these two occurrences, but it appears that the day when this nation must pay dearly for its Japfolly draweth mighty near.

Non-exempt taxpaying citizens of this nation will be called on to contribute some half-billion additional dollars to aid the majority who overrode the President's veto of the revenue bill in the hope that, by so doing, it would be possible for them to hang on to their seats in the Federal Congress—to continue to fatten financially at the public trough. The terms of most of the overrriders are soon to expire, which accounts for their overriding. They voted to add to the Federal Government's financial burden not only by increasing pensions and other payments to those enlisted in the nation's armed forces in times of war, but also by increasing the salaries of themselves and other "public servants."

Voters, when they go to the polls, should have foremost in mind the record, not the promises, of those seeking their support. Every day it becomes more impressively evident that the greatest present need of this nation is outstanding, upstanding, courageous, honest, wholly unselfish, thoroughly competent men in public office. Such men, in anticipation of a few votes, would not "fall" for lobbies demanding special benefits for classes, at the expense of the masses. Such men would consider first and foremost the nation's welfare, not their own political ambitions and pocketbooks.

Commenting editorially on the overrriding of the President's veto, the Los Angeles "Tidings" of April 13 said:

"The new bill, although restoring what was taken away from the deserving, gives back millions of the taxpayers' dollars in the form of annuities and pension pay money. Federal employes are not all wage earners, neither are all pensioners war veterans, especially disabled war veterans. The veteran who has no job and nothing but his small pension is entitled to every penny of it and more. Nothing can ever compensate those who have lost health or suffered disability in a true service. But they were by no means the first in the scramble for their share of Uncle Sam's money following our recent wars and after that. Numerous service men abandoned their claims for compensation or pension and faced the handicap of starting all over again the business of making a living. But others, many of them, capitalized on everything in connection with the service. They rushed in, full and plenty, upon their patriotism and played politics with it as well. It was a race with them to see how many public treasuries they could tap.

"The Economy Act of a year ago now squelched, soon created such violent reactions that the ends of justice which it might have served are lost for the present. Lost in the turmoil of politics. Thus the whole question goes back to where it started from—thanks, not so much to Congress as to what Time calls 'the lash of two of the most potent lobbies in Washington—emanating those of the veterans and federal employes which snatched executive power . . . from the White House and returned pension reform to the pork barrel.'"

The Sacramento "Bee" of April 21 made this excellent suggestion—headed "Pension Publicity Would Do a Service"—editorially:

"The proposal to make income tax returns public again has appeared in Congress. It inspires a far better suggestion: make government pensions and the names of their recipients public. No one who deserves a pension he is drawing could object to that. After all if he deserves it there is no one who begrudges it to him. But if a man does not deserve a pension, yet is drawing one, his objection to publicity should have no force whatever. No more effective method of cleaning up this whole pension scandal could be devised."

The Wirt charges anent the national administration's policy aroused such widespread comment the Federal House of Representatives started an investigation but, according to latest reports from Washington, the inquiry is to be dropped. That is too bad for, until the charges are thoroughly disproved, they will persist, to the detriment of the nation. In his new book, "On Our Way," President Franklin Roosevelt has these references to the charges:

"Some people have sought to describe that policy as revolutionary. Perhaps it is. It is revolutionary, however, only in the sense that the measures adopted and the purposes that they seek differ from those that were used before. If it is a revolution, it is a peaceful one, achieved without violence. . . . Some people have called our new policy 'Fascism.' It is not Fascism because its inspiration springs from the mass of the people themselves rather than from a class. . . . Some people have called it 'Communism.' It is not that, either. It is not a driving regimentation founded upon the plans of a perpetuating directorate which subordinates the making of laws and the processes of the courts to the orders of the executive."

Donald R. Richberg, general counsel of the National Recovery Administration, said in an April 10 address, "Our economic recovery seems now assured—if we can bring about and sustain a mental recovery from the baneful effects of the depression upon our national sanity." Expressing the opinion that the "League of Stuffed Shirts," rather than the much-heralded "brain trust," is likely to retard recovery and cause trouble, he said:

"There is another class of businessmen, of bankers and politicians who have begun to conspire against a mythical 'brain trust'—who seem to be organizing what might be appropriately called a 'League of Stuffed Shirts.' They will probably enroll in their ranks most of the discredited economists and financial writers and oracles of editorial wisdom who helped to inflate the bubble prosperity that burst in 1929. These are the men who either did not know what they were doing when they mortgaged our future to create the illusion of wealth, or were sufficiently insane even then not to worry about the deluge of misery which they were preparing for us. . . . There are a great many Stuffed Shirts who have access to avenues of great publicity and so they pour their hysterical fears and their warped views of economic recovery into the public ears. They cannot use facts—even if they recognize them—so they create myths and hobgoblins and repeat nonsense over and over again in the expectation that eventually a great many people will assume that a falsehood is a fact. This campaign of the League of Stuffed Shirts is the greatest menace to our economic recovery today."

Declaring that the NRA is proceeding under the Constitution, and is not engaged in planning a political revolution but making every endeavor to avoid any danger of a political revolution, he continued:

"When a Stuffed Shirt, or any other mental casualty of the depression, attacks the fundamental program and underlying aims of the NRA it is just and proper to demand a statement of what industrial program he is supporting to bring us safely and surely out of the depression and to prevent another era of boom followed by another depression. When any man or group of men begins to sneer at brains and to use the phrase 'brain trust' as a term of reproach, there is presented pretty clear evidence of a distrust or fear of trained intelligence, which indicates that the speaker is afraid that his ignorance or his wrong-doing will be exposed if he is subjected to the scrutiny of a competent critic.

"In conclusion let me return to my opening statement: Our economic recovery now seems assured—if we can, as a people, sustain a mental recovery from the depression. We are not in the slightest danger of a political revolution so long as we preserve our national sanity. We cannot possibly escape from an economic revolution because that is in process throughout the world, brought about as the inevitable product of the industrial revolution.

"The only present menace to our national sanity—and consequent danger of a political upheaval—lies in the spread of that insanity which animates the League of Stuffed Shirts—that fear of brains that has already exposed the incompetence of their post-war leadership, brains that will always oppose their return to power, and brains that are seeking to establish a new morality for the conduct of public and private affairs in order to prevent those irresponsible uses of economic power for private gain that destroy the economic and political security of all the people. When all the warped minds in the country rally around the know-nothing do-nothing school of politicians and demand a brainless government, it will be interesting to find out how many of the American people are afraid to trust their government to men who are accused of having brains and of desiring to devote them to public service."

THIS IS ABSOLUTELY CERTAIN: THIS NATION POSITIVELY CANNOT REGAIN AND RETAIN ITS PLACE IN THE SUN UNTIL THE ROOT OF RACKETEERING, IN GOVERNMENT, IS THOROUGHLY AND PERMANENTLY DESTROYED! When, and not until, this is done, all the other numerous racketeering branches will cease to exist, from lack of sustenance and protection.—A "growl" often repeated, and still timely.

THE LETTER BOX

Comments on subjects of general interest and importance received from readers of The Grizzly Bear.

THERE IS BUT ONE ANSWER—THE GOLDEN RULE, LIVED, NOT A MOTTO.

Editor Grizzly Bear—For long, I have felt the urge to write to you, for our good Grizzly Growls has been telling us a few things! The reckless expenditures in several specially mentioned instances seem indeed unbelievable! How can they, when people are losing their homes and have no place to go! They, perhaps, have never suffered, and do not know.

Things must get better—but how? It seems there can be but one answer, the Golden Rule, lived, not just a pretty motto. I have never had an ambition to be rich. Rather, it has been my choice to share what I have with others and with God's creatures whenever opportunity offered. If this is why I now find myself alone, I have no regrets, even though now there seem only tears and black bread. With the best of good wishes, I remain, Busy on Official Visit Plans.

Oakland—Aloha No. 106 had a most enjoyable bridge and whist at the home of Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler the evening of March 23. Clara Bennett donated a large box of home-made candy, which was disposed of. The April card party was held the 20th at the home of President Edith Hoover. Johnina Lindblad is chairman of the committee which arranges for the monthly card parties.

Editor Gladys I. Farley of Aloha's newspaper announces that the staff has named the publication "The Aloha Victory," in memory of the late Past Grand Dr. Victory A. Derrick, a beloved member of No. 106. Mrs. Farley also announces that the social committee is real busy on plans for the official visit of Grand President Irma Laird, May 31, at the Rockridge Masonic Temple.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS NEWS BRIEFS.

Red Bluff—Berendos No. 23 enjoyed a picnic April 10. Each member was privileged to bring an eligible.

San Jose—San Jose No. 81 entertained the Pioneers with a reception April 18. A very entertaining program was the feature of the afternoon and was enjoyed by all. Following the program light refreshments were served at beautifully decorated tables, large bowls of roses and other blossoms being used as the decorations. Mrs. Juanita Fine was in charge, and was assisted by Mrs. Katherine Nelson, who was responsible for the splendid program.

Salinas—Alta No. 102 observed its thirty-sixth anniversary April 12. Juna Larkin, Anna Wrenn, Ida Muller, Etta Judder and Carolyn Sanders had charge of the program, which was participated in by Charter Member Nathalie Clark. Flowers, Lenta and Rose Royner. Refreshments, featured by a lovely birthday cake, were served by Susie Hunter, Frances Leidig, Jessie Mortensen and Anna Mortensen. Birthdays of members born in April were observed also.

Hollister—Copa de Oro No. 105 had a "two-in-one" celebration honoring Saint Patrick and the birthdays of the January, February and March girls. Thirteen honored guests were presented dainty bouquets, appropriate games were featured and Catherine Gray Hooton sketched the life of Ireland's patron saint. April 12 an interesting program was presented, Mayme Moran giving the highlights of a trip to Boulder Dam and Death Valley, Organist Kate McCray playing a group of numbers and Past Grand Bertha A. Briggs reviewing "Woman of Spain." Refreshments were served by Chairman Mary Prendergast.

Sierraville—Imogen No. 134 is the proud possessor of a new California (State) Bear Flag, secured mainly through the efforts of Recording Secretary Jennie Copren. In the flag's honor, an appropriate program was presented April 14 by Georgene Copren, Rosa Merrill and Frances Bony. The Parlor has inaugurated a series of monthly birthday parties, and President Myra Banks Kofford was honored in April.

Alturas—Alturas No. 159 sponsored a California history oratorical contest in the Modoc County schools, the finals being held here April 28. Several members of the Parlor accompanied Grand President Irma W. Laird on her official visit to Mt. Lassen No. 215 (Bieber), March 29.

San Leandro—John J. Goodman, husband of Mrs. Elizabeth Goodman, charter president El Cereso No. 207 and recording secretary Past Presidents Association No. 2, died recently. He was a native of this city, aged 65.

San Diego—At the convention of the Historical Society of California, San Diego No. 208 was well represented. Very interesting talks were given by Dr. Owen C. Coy. During April the Parlor's sewing club was entertained by Kate Heilbron and Marie James. The money collected is being turned over to the new swimming pool for the benefit of infantile paralysis sufferers. Past presidents entertained with a "vaudivil" show April 11. Dainty refreshments followed the performance.

Quincy—The annual Saint Patrick's ball given by Plumas Pioneer No. 219 was a grand social and financial success. The hall was decorated in shamrocks and other greenery. Plans for Mothers Day are being perfected.

Antioch—Antioch No. 223 presented April 20 a program planned by Emma B. Lynn, history and landmarks chairman. Warren Cunningham was the guest speaker and vocal selections were rendered by Frank Beede. A feature was the awarding of two cash prizes to children judged winners in a California history essay contest arranged by the Parlor. Antioch is particularly proud to have this year contributed more than double the contribution of last year to the homeless children work. The amount was the highest sent by any Contra Costa County Parlor.

In Memoriam

AGNES JACKS WERNER.

To the Officers and Members of Plumas Pioneer Parlor No. 219 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our departed sister, Agnes Jacks Werner, respectfully submit the following:

The golden chain of our fraternity has been severed by the loss of one who, in the prime of life and in the midst of pleasant activities and useful occupation has been called to a Better Home. The trials, the sorrows, the disappointments that come to every life, are ended for our sister, and her sudden passing is a shock to all members who held her in deep affection and respect. And now, her Heavenly Father comes to lay a soothing hand upon her brow, and to lift her spirit from the gloom shadows into the light where there is no burden and where all sorrow ceases.

So with a nod of the head
And a wave of the hand
She has left us
To dwell in a Better Land

While we pay loving tribute to her memory, we are not unmindful of the sorrow that has come to her loved ones. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to her bereaved family with our earnest prayer that trust in His infinite mercy will send peace into their hearts; that a copy be spread upon the minutes of our Parlor, and a copy sent to The Grizzly Bear for publication.

Respectfully submitted by P.P.P.A.,
MINNIE E. JOHNSON,
VERBENIA MILLER MOSELEY,
VIOLET J. C. MORI.

Quincy, March 29, 1934.

SUBORDINATE PARLORS HAVE BEEN and are being repeatedly appealed to in behalf of the Indians of California. At this time "Indians of California Inc." is particularly active, and from that source Parlors are receiving appeals for moral and financial assistance. Therefore, careful consideration should be given the statement which follows, received April 18 by The Grizzly Bear from the Federal Interior Department.—Editor.

"Certain southern California Indian tribes, incited by white men, are in a state of rebellion against the Federal Government, John Collier, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, has informed the House Committee on Indian Affairs. He particularly attacked Purl Willis, deputy county treasurer of San Diego, quoting the report of a special agent of the Department of Justice, who characterized Willis' activities among the Indians as an 'organized racket.' Collier also named as one of the leaders in stirring up the Indians, R. H. Prather, a hosiery salesman of the same locality. Both men are prominent in the affairs of the Mission Indian Federation of southern California.

"Under the direction of these and other white men, the Federation for years has endeavored to rule the southern California reservations through their own armed policemen, captains, and judges, resisting the authority of the United States in the spirit of 'beating off an invasion by a foreign power,' according to Commissioner Collier. Seven years ago, on the Campo reservation, two bootleggers were forcibly taken from the custody of Federal and county authorities by the so-called Federation police. This led to four deaths, and more killings for similar cause were narrowly avoided last August only by the cool-headed patience of Federal officers, Mr. Collier informed the committee.

"Willis has charged generally autocratic and incompetent administration of the thirty Mission Indian reservations by the local superintendents. Mr. Collier told the committee he was ready and willing to have specific charges investigated. He pointed out, however, that Willis, who inherited leadership of the Federation from another white man three years ago, lately has allied himself with Frederick C. Collett, the white executive of 'Indians of California, Inc.,' whose collections of money from the poverty-stricken California Indians, Mr. Collier estimated at $150,000 in the past decade. Mr. Collier charged that Collett is now backing a bill under which certain California attorneys, associated with Collett, would receive up to $180,000 out of a judgment against the United States arising out of a suit by the Indians now being prosecuted for them by the Attorney General of California.

"The Commissioner said a new superintendent had been sent to southern California last July in an effort to improve relations and conditions, but that his advent was met with a demand that he be removed and Willis given the position. In conclusion, Mr. Collier expressed the hope that Indians involved would purge themselves of white-man control and financial interference and would guide their future activities into the channel of Indian self-government which has been started in California since the present Commissioner took office."

There are thousands of fine eligibles just waiting to be extended an invitation to affiliate with the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West. Be a recruiter—extend the invitation today, not tomorrow!

Must Observe Memorial Day.

San Francisco—The Grand Parlor Printing and Supplies Committee—Fred H. Nickelson (chairman), Albert V. Grosskopf and Louis F. Erb—April 15 advised all Subordinate Parlors that they must observe Memorial Day, May 30, by holding appropriate memorial exercises or by decorating the graves of departed members with United States of America and California (State) Bear Flags. The committee will supply the flags at moderate cost, and Parlors wanting them are requested to order promptly.

Old Spanish Days at Santa Barbara.

Santa Barbara—This "Queen City" of California will have its eleventh annual celebration of Old Spanish Days, August 23, 24 and 25, and several members of Santa Barbara No. 116 are prominently identified with the association sponsoring the noted event.

Supervisor Sam Stanwood is the president, Secretary Harry C. Sweetser the first vice-president and T. Wilson Dibble the second vice-president. On the board of directors are State Senator Edgar W. Stow; Thomas M. Storke, publisher "Morning Press" and "Daily News;" Edward Borein, nationally famous landscape artist, and Reginald G. Fernald. Supervisor Stanwood was elected "el presidente" of the Old Spanish Days Fiesta Association for the eighth time.

Much History Related.

San Rafael—Following the initiation of a large class of candidates April 16 by the regular officers of Mount Tamalpais No. 64, the stations were relinquished to members of twenty-five years and more standing, with A. F. Pacheco as president. Interesting reminiscences were related by many speakers. Henry DeSoto recalled memories of Steven Richardson, for a quarter-century marshal of the Parlor; his father, Captain Wm. Richardson, built the first house in San Francisco. Warden James Holohan of Watsonville No. 65 gave an account of the adoption of the Bear Flag as California's state flag. John Murray of California No. 1, one of the original charter members of the Native Sons, told of the Independence Day parade in San Francisco, July 5, 1875. R. L. Duncan, a charter member of the extinct Marshall Parlar of Santa Rosa and now affiliated with Mount Tamalpais, told of the early days.

Grand Second Vice-president Harmon D. Skillin said the young members of the Order must carry on, but it is to the oldtimers they must look for counsel and encouragement. Other speakers were M. F. Donohue, J. Ray Keaton, Dr. Van Orden, Dr. E. E. Simard, Grand Trustees Jesse H. Miller and Edward T. Schnarr, J. W. Gorman, Louis Bosch, E. J. Connell, R. H. Warden, Chas. Redding, H. B. Hock, Wm. Crane, A. Bernal, J. C. Redmond, M. A. Andrade, Louis J. Peter and George Murray. G. W. Agnew was the only charter member of Mount Tamalpais in attendance. A fine program was presented and a sumptuous banquet concluded the festivities.

Wants Admission Day Celebration.

Sacramento—At the Ukiah Grand Parlor, the Sacramento City Parlors will urge that this year's Admission Day, September 9, statewide celebration be held in the Capital City. A joint committee, already at work on the celebration details, includes:

Sacramento No. 3—June J. Longshore (chairman), Irving D. Gibson, Roy C. Cothrin. Sunset No. 26—Edward E. Reese, Walton E. Holmes, George E. Foote. Sutter Fort No. 241—Albert W. Katzenstein, L. P. Ferron, Elmer Leavitt.

To Be in Floral Parade.

Santa Rosa—Since its fiftieth anniversary celebration, Santa Rosa No. 28 has added seven additional new names to its roster. The ritual team, headed by Past President George Eckman, put on the work. Eighty-five members of the Parlor went by special train to San Francisco to attend the reception for Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell.

In the rose carnival parade May 19, Santa Rosa will be represented by its drum corps, headed by James Bertino, and a float which is being prepared by a committee headed by Joe Pisenti.

No applications, no new members to fill the ranks. And California needs more Native Sons! Today's responsibility of every member of the Order is to contact eligibles. Don't leave this important duty for "George" to perform.

NATIVE SONS NEWS BRIEFS.

Sacramento—Charles A. Root of Sacramento No. 3, many years recorder of Sacramento County, was elected secretary-treasurer of the California County Recorders Association at its annual convention in San Jose April 14.

Modesto—With President George H. Hansen presiding, Modesto No. 11 initiated a class of five candidates March 21. Among the many visitors in attendance were Grand Trustees Thomas M. Foley, Charles H. Spengemann and Edward T. Schnarr. At a social session with Clarence E. Tucker as master of ceremonies, a musical program was presented and refreshments were served.

Sacramento—Frank Hickman, charter member of Sunset No. 26 and its first secretary, died April 3. He was born here, April 15, 1863.

Petaluma—Two candidates were initiated for Petaluma No. 27, April 9, by the ritual team from Santa Rosa No. 28. April 23, Petaluma had a "Pacific Parlor night," and there were many visitors.

Jackson—Excelsior No. 31 is planning, for June 28, a reunion and banquet in celebration of its fiftieth (golden) institution anniversary.

Martinez—R. R Veale, affiliated with General Winn No. 32 (Antioch) and for forty years Sheriff of Contra Costa County, celebrated March 27 his seventieth birthday anniversary. He was born in Sonoma County, and for thirty five years has been secretary of the California Sheriffs Association.

Ione—Ione No. 33 had a lively meeting March 21, when a campaign for fifty new members was launched. In conjunction with the other Amador County Parlors, Ione will promote athletics and is organizing baseball, football and basketball teams.

No applications, no new members to fill the ranks. And California needs more Native Sons! Today's responsibility of every member of the Order is to contact eligibles. Don't leave this important duty for "George" to perform.

Bakersfield—Officers of Bakersfield No. 42, with George Taylor as president and Hal Bannister as secretary, were installed April 6. Several new members were received. Members of El Tejon No. 239 N.D.G.W. were guests at the program of music and dances which followed the meeting.

Colusa—Colusa No. 69 initiated eight candidates April 10. At a banquet after the ceremonies the principal speakers were E. S. Merry, Colonel Nelson Holderman and Frank Frankovitch, members of the lost battalion of World War fame, and Junior Past Grand Seth Millington. Rotheus Gray now heads the Parlor's drum corps, which has resumed activities.

Ukiah—Committees of Ukiah No. 71 are working overtime getting everything in shape for the Grand Parlor, which convenes here May 11. At the Parlor's May 7 meeting a class of candidates will be initiated, the ceremonies to be followed by a feast and a good-of-the-order session.

Ferndale—Ferndale No. 93 initiated a class of sixteen candidates April 16, the ritual being very creditably exemplified by President S. A. Boyd and the other officers before a large gathering. Applications are coming in at a fast rate, and the members are working hard to materially increase the Parlor membership. Initiation will again be featured May 7.

Livermore—Las Positas No. 96 observed past presidents night March 29, when oldtimers filled the several stations. Much enthusiasm was created, and plans for a membership drive were outlined. A banquet concluded the festivities. At an oldtimers gathering April 26, twenty-year pins were presented L. A. McVicar, Chas. Crane and Geo. F. Peters.

San Diego—San Diego No. 108 will have its annual picnic outing at Felicita Park, May 27. Henry U. Emery heads the arrangements committee.

Los Banos—Los Banos No. 206 added seven new names to its membership-roll March 28. Among the visitors were Grand Third Vice-president J. Hartley Russell and Al Lobree. A big crowd attended the annual picnic of the Parlor and Lomitas No. 255 N.D.G.W. April 8. James

BOOK REVIEWS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT)

"AMERICA SELF-CONTAINED."

By Samuel Crowther; Doubleday, Doran & Company, Inc., Publishers, Garden City, N. Y.

In this 340-page book, overflowing with information, the author holds that the major portion of the disturbances to the United States' internal peace and prosperity have their origin in forces working from the outside. He expresses the belief that America should stand alone, contending that it is self contained and can and should depend upon its own resources, that there is scarcely one important commodity that needs be imported, and that we have the highest purchasing power of any people and because of our high standards of living are the greatest consumers of American goods. Here follow quotations from "America Self-Contained":

"We in the United States have today no friends among the nations of the earth, but we have many bitter enemies. . . . This, and only this, have we accomplished by dint of nearly two decades of insistent meddling into the affairs of other nations. We are back from our crusades, rather perhaps in experience, poorer certainly by upwards of twenty billions . . . We have returned—or have been returned—to the posture which George Washington held as prerequisite to perfecting our freedom. Forty international economic conferences have convinced us that we have a set of primary principles which the world at large neither shares nor desires to share.

"We have, as compared with all other nations, a clear field to do as we like. We have ready for our hands all the ingredients for a perfect freedom. . . . We have never had the moral and intellectual courage to reject the systems of national economy based on traditions which are not ours and to formulate for ourselves a system suited to our needs. . . . Now we have to decide whether we shall deliberately control our own destinies in the light of science or whether we shall drift on trying somehow to be out of world affairs and still in them.

"The arguments for internationalism have been presented with great skill and from many approaches ranging from the highly idealistic to the highly commercial. . . . We in the United States . . . have to choose for ourselves whether our people would be better off regulating their own destinies or having them regulated from the outside.

"Let us examine the fight which we in the United States have made for economic liberty. It is as dramatic as our fight for political liberty. Let us discover what it means and whether what we have gained is worth keeping. And then let us inquire if the course of our development has been wrong. . . . And finally let us inquire into the realities of national wealth and see if it be really true that science has placed in our hands the means more fully to develop the policies laid down by our forefathers . . . If we choose, with all the facts in hand, to bring to an end the America we have known and lived in, then that is one thing. But it would be very sad if, like a child tinkering with a toy, we should destroy our nation and all its future may hold, while innocently believing that we are mending it.

"The founders of this nation had clearly in mind the kind of nation they wanted—they had fought for independence. That, to them, meant a nation which could defend itself in peace as well as in war. . . . The struggle for freedom has been intense and dramatic—although few have even known that it was happening. . . . We have it in our power to refuse this glory—a glory greater and more enduring than any that has ever been known. The work of a century may easily be undone by accepting a false theory of the national welfare and leading the people to their eventual destruction in order that a few men may make money.

"As a part of our nation toiled steadily in the building of the means to a complete freedom, to be used as we liked to separate ourselves from the affairs of the world, another part was seized by a strange dementia which had so many of the elements of sanity that we did not know it was a dementia. We added to the reality of our great strength as a world power certain delusions of grandeur. The strongest of these delusions were two. The first was that we were angels of peace. The second was that we had illimitable wealth. And in the ardent pursuit of these delusions we have all but wrecked the grand structure we were rearing in our more lucid moments. Only the crash of our economic system in 1929 saved us from destroying ourselves.

"As a part of the drive against the American standard must be included the agitation for the cancellation of the war debts. This agitation takes many forms and can always count on a certain amount of American support. . . . Although much bathos has been poured on the war debts, they are in no sense sentimental obligations. Upon their treatment hang many questions going to the very root of American economic independence.

"Suppose, instead of bothering about . . . all the infinite and mostly sordid details and intrigues that seem to be inseparable from international relations . . . we pause and calmly try to decide what, if anything, the United States stands to gain or to lose by mulling about in the crowd. . . . We must either have a nation or not have one. There is no middle ground. We cannot exist half slave, half free. Have we within us the power to achieve freedom and thus to shape our own destiny. Freedom . . . is a state of being. And it rests on economic independence. . . . The quality of our freedom will be measured by our ability to live within ourselves. Let us face this question squarely, avoiding jingoism on the one hand and the brotherhood of man complex on the other.

"Do we want a nation and, if so, why? And what kind of nation do we want? . . . In our situation, the principles of socialism, communism, or any other of the doctrinaire philosophies have nothing worth while to give us, for they all have grown out of sets of conditions which are not ours. They are just as unreal as they seem to be. We can best learn from our own experience . . . Unless we deliberately decide to cede our sovereignty to some world super state or supervising body such as . . . the League of Nations often seem to have in mind, we can run our own affairs according to our lights unless we are conquered by force of arms or upset by economic pressure from the outside. . . . Against physical warfare we know how to prepare, and it is important that we should not be disarmed by words. . . . The fashion today is to devise elaborate remedies for economic ills and to take no account of the possible danger of failing

[illegible]

"INDIAN JUSTICE."

By John Howard Payne; Howard Publishing Company, Publishers, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; Price, $2.00.

This very interesting book details the arrest, trial, conviction and hanging of a Cherokee Indian, Archilla Smith, at Tekkaquah, in the Cherokee Nation, in 1840. The material came from John Howard Payne, who engaged in a serious study of the Cherokees with a view to writing their history and was in attendance at the Smith trial.

"Indian Justice" is edited by Grant Foreman who, in an introduction, says: "Payne has given us not only what he says is the first complete account ever to be put in print of an Indian trial with its forms and speeches and judicial charges, but he has done more; he has written the first newspaper account of a court trial in Oklahoma and one of the best ever written in any state. . . . The account appeared in two long instalments in 'The New York Journal of Commerce' for April 17 and April 29, 1841, and was never printed elsewhere so far as is known."

John Howard Payne, by the way, is famous as the author of "Home, Sweet Home," originally in the opera "Clari," or "The Maid of Milan," produced May 8, 1823. He was born at New York City, June 9, 1792, and died at Tunis, April 10, 1852. Incidentally, it would be well for this country if, in the administration of Justice, the course mapped in "Indian Justice" would be followed.

THE NATIVE SONS AND THE NATIVE Daughters of the southland will hold memorial services in their own memorial grove, Griffith Park, Sunday, June 3, at 3:30 p.m. The purpose of this grove is to perpetuate the memories of the Pioneer Fathers and Mothers whose undying loyalty and devotion made possible the building of this Golden State, California, and to pay homage to those men and women of the Orders of Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West who have passed beyond.

General Chairman Mary Noerenberg announces that the principal address will be delivered by Justice Emmet Seawell, now Grand President N.S.G.W. A special musical program is being arranged by Sophia Stewart, Glen LeVitt, Clayton Brandt and Marybelle Chapman. Miss Mary Emily Foy will pay tribute to the Native Daughters and the Pioneers.

The active committee of arrangements includes, in addition to Mrs. Noerenberg, Burrel Neighbours, Sophia Stewart, Flora Holy, Mary E. Foy, Mr. and Mrs. Philip McAnany, Arthur F. Giroux, Jack Leib, William Moore, Harry Davis, Bernard Hiss, Maynard Garrison, Judges Leo Aggeler, Joseph Call, Ruben Schmidt and Thomas White, Dr. George Woods, William O'Meara, John Ford, Henry Bodkin, Chandos Bush, Walter Odemar, Gene Murphy, Albert Boeckman, Harvey Gillette, Walter Baskerville, Earl LeMoine, Hazel Hansen, Margaret Donnelly, Inez Sitton, Gertrude Tuttle, Dolores Malin, Florence Schoneman, Myrtle Barden, Katherine Wirsham, Isabella Dodds, Clayton Brandt, Michael Botello and Eugene Smith. An honorary committee includes Grace S. Stoermer, Mrs. Leland Atherton Irish, Isadore Dockweiler, John T. Newell, Eldred L. Meyer, William Reuter, Herman C. Lichtenberger, Clarence M. Hunt, Eugene W. Biscailuz and Joseph Mesmer, the latter representing the Pioneers.

DELIGHTFUL OCCASION.

The hospitable and beautiful homeplace of Past Grand President and Mrs. Herman C. Lichtenberger in South Pasadena was again the setting for another gathering of the past presidents of Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. and several "outsiders." A delicious feast of barbecued beef was served, and there was an exchange of reminiscences and good-natured "raps." It was a delightful occasion, perfectly arranged, and thoroughly enjoyed by those favored with an invitation. On behalf of Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz, Past Grand John Newell presented to Host Herman a gavel, and then the fun started. In attendance at the festivities, April 14, were:

Frank S. Adams, Fred Batser, Irving Baxter, George Beebe, Chas. O. Brittain, Chandos E. Bush, W. E. Baskerville, E. E. Baldwin, Henry E. Carter, Wm. T. Calderwood, James B. Coffey, Jos. P. Coyle, T. Risheberger, Russell Vix, Homer Hayes, Clyde C. Johnston, Walter Odemar, Robert E. Dunn, A. S. Roen, Father James Morris.

PICNIC PILGRIMAGE TO MISSION.

Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W. initiated a large class of candidates April 18. The monthly card party April 11, Ann Schiebusch chairman, was well attended. The history and landmarks committee met at the home of Thelma Stengel April 9, and the sewing club held forth at the San Gabriel home of Grace Haven, April 21.

The Parlor celebrated its thirty-third institution anniversary April 25 and the party, for members only, was greatly enjoyed. From the rummage sale conducted under the management of Flora Holy, $25 was donated to the homeless children committee. No. 124 has adopted another homeless baby, and in honor of President Dolores Malin has named her Dolores.

Los Angeles' May calendar schedules: 2nd, election Grand Parlor delegates. 6th, Casa Adobe May Day party. 9th, picnic pilgrimage to San Juan Capistrano Mission; lunch at Doheny Park State Beach.

HISTORY AND LANDMARKS NIGHT.

Following initiation April 12, Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 N.S.G.W. had a social session, and among the speakers were Past Grand John T. Newell and District Deputy Walter E. Baskerville. The annual rabbit feast, promoted by Leslie A. Packard, drew a large number of visitors April 26 from all neighboring Parlors.

May 10 will be history and landmarks night at Los Angeles. William O. Gilkey, in charge, will present a very entertaining program and invites all interested to come up and learn some of the colorful history of California. May 24, officers for the July-December term will be nominated.

SOMEWHAT BUSY.

What with preparations for the birthday celebration of Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W., June 12, a most successful wistaria breakfast at the home of Misses Lizzie and Nellie Weston, a joyous weekend trip for California day at Catalina; the homeless children benefit ball; helping at the Southwest Museum's anniversary bea.a, where Isabel Lopez Fages arranged the program; attending in large numbers the South American program for Los Fresteros, planned by Larry and Marybelle Chapman; planning a barbecue May 5 at the home of Coroner and Mrs. C. H. Nance; adopting another baby; planning a big initiation for May 22, and doing a great deal of philanthropic work, one can see plainly that members of the Parlor have been somewhat busy during April.

At the recent tea, Chairman Mary Foy told the story of her grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Obed Macy, who settled in El Monte in 1850. Their first home was made of willow branches and mud. Dr. Macy was one of the pioneer physicians, and the Macy and Foy families have had great influence on Los Angeles City and County history. April 10, Dr. B. R. Baumgardt delighted the Parlor with an illustrated lecture on "Rambling Through California."

ANNIVERSARY GREAT SUCCESS.

The thirty-eighth anniversary banquet of Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W., at the Hollywood Athletic Club April 16, was the most successful and best attended in many a year. President Gene Murphy welcomed the "gang," and introduced as toastmaster George Breslan, who was a howling success in that capacity, keeping the boys in good cheer through his witty sayings.

Raymond Haight was the principal speaker of the evening, and he delivered a highly interesting address dealing with governmental conditions. Other speakers were Past Grand Herman Lichtenberger, Grand Trustees Charles Spengemann and Eldred Meyer, Grand Inside Sentinel "Bill" Reuter, Judges John M. York, William S. Baird, William T. Aggeler, Joseph L. Call and Joseph P. Sproul, Henry G. Bodkin, Marco Newmark, I. O. Levy, Charter Member L. Zinnamon, Arthur Schmidt, John Costello, Ernest Orfila, Walter Richards, Maynard Garrison, Walter Odemar and Edward Lovie. During the festivities Misses Marvel Thomas and Leonie Clos of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W. were admitted to "boost" the homeless children ball. The committee in charge of the banquet was Henry Bodkin, Jack Gorman and William O'Meara. May 14, Hollywood will initiate a class of candidates.

BOUQUET CANYON BARBECUE.

There is much activity in University Parlor No. 272 N.S.G.W., and the meetings every Wednesday are enthusiastic and followed by refreshments. A singing chorus has been developed by Dr. Phil Miller, and Manager Jimmy Shorten has gathered together an indoor baseball team with such stars as Carl R. Martin Jr., Stanley Parker, Lucien Griffin and Angelo DeFazio. The team wishes to challenge the best northern team for a game at the statewide Admission Day celebration.

The womenfolks were entertained by the Parlor April 25. Cards and pingpong provided entertainment, and refreshments were served. During May, a barbecue will be featured at the Bouquet Canyon ranch of Neal Woods' parents. All kinds of outdoor sports will be provided.

NATIVE SON LUNCHEON CLUB.

Speakers last month at the Native Sons Luncheon Club were Charles O. Brittain, Superior Judge Pat R. Parker of Mono County and District Attorney Buron Fitts. The chairmen were Maynard Garrison, Walter Baskerville, Ray Howard and Charles Son.

The club is in session at the Rosslyn Hotel every Friday from 12:15 (noon) to 1:15 p.m. All Native Sons are welcome, and so are all their friends, native or otherwise.

BENEFIT LARGELY ATTENDED.

Glendale—Verdugo Parlor No. 240 N.D.G.W. had a comic fashion show April 10. Participating were Ione Gillette, Edith Dobson, Gussie Anderson, Ada Steele, Mayme Kirrie and Vera Carlson. Mary Miller supplied the music. Old-fashioned games were played and refreshments were served. Ada Steele and Gussie Anderson were the hostesses.

April 11 a bridge and fashion show was held for the benefit of the homeless children.

One hundred were served. Many beautiful gowns were displayed, and among the models were Evelyn Wilson, Clytelle Hewitt and Dorothy Donlan. The committee in charge included Ada Steele, Myrtize Tregea, Etta Fulkerth, Dorothy Courtney, Ione Gillette, Evelyn Wilson and Ellamae Madden. April 26 a potluck lunch was held at Gussie Anderson's Malibu Lake cabin.

PLANNING ANNIVERSARY "STAG."

Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. had a largely attended and snappy meeting April 20, following the birthday dinner. Among the speakers were Grand Trustees Charles Spengemann and Eldred Meyer. Three candidates were initiated April 13. The "judges and lawyers" night April 27 attracted a large crowd, and there was no end of fun.

The birthday dinner May 11 will be followed by initiation. May 25 officers will be nominated and the Grand Parlor delegates will report. Charles Gassagne, "Bill" Bright, Ernest Orfila, Geraldo Guzman and Charles Straube have been named a committee to arrange for the Parlor's anniversary "stag" outing in June.

THIMBLE CLUB ACTIVE.

San Pedro—The Florencita Thimble Club of Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W. had a benefit luncheon, followed by cards, at the home of Mrs. L. Guzman, April 26. The club is always active making money for the Parlor. It meets the second and fourth Thursdays at 12:30 noon. Gloria Sorenson was chairman of a card party April 30.

Past President Margaret Dever was in charge of a dinner served by the harbor section of the Los Angeles Elementary Teachers Club at the Banning home in Wilmington. Florence Dodson Schoneman gave an amusing talk, and Marion Parks spoke on "The Manilla Galleons." May 7, Rudecinda will elect Grand Parlor delegates.

EIGHT INITIATED.

Glendale—In the presence of a large gathering, including many visitors from Ramona Parlor No. 109 and Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267, Glendale Parlor No. 264 N.S.G.W. initiated a class of eight candidates April 5. Speakers of the evening were Grand Trustee Eldred L. Meyer, Deputy Grand President John J. Ford and District Deputy Arthur Leonard. Refreshments were served.

DELEGATES RALLY.

Santa Monica—Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W. will stage a Grand Parlor delegates rally, May 16, to which all southland members of the Order are invited. The regular meeting will be followed by a buffet lunch and a rousing good show. The always-willing drum and bugle corps was a feature at the homeless children ball April 28.

In honor of Mayor William Carter, the Parlor will initiate June 6 a large class of candidates. Gill Robbins, William Dowsing, Clayton Brandt and Dr. R. C. Eshelman constitute the committee in charge. One of the Parlor's hardest working members, District Deputy Arthur Leonard, was recently presented a handsome past president emblem.

SUPPER IN SANTA MONICA CANYON.

Santa Monica—The homeless children committee of Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245 N.D.G.W., Rhea Jones chairman, sponsored a dinner March 21. Myrtle Barden entertained at her home March 24 many Native Sons and Daughters. The evening's theme, "please yourself," resulted in a most enjoyable affair. Amado Machado, history and landmarks chairman, gave a bridge luncheon at her country home April 2. Tables were set under a wide-spreading wistaria, and dainty refreshments were served. Lottie O'Connor, April ways and means chairman, sponsored a hardtimes dance the 25th. Prizes for most appropriate costumes were awarded.

Chairman Amado Machado and the Parlor's history and landmarks committee announce the feast of Saint Monica will be celebrated at a tamale supper in Santa Monica Canyon, at the original site of Villa San Pasquel's home, May 5 at 8 p.m. Tickets fifty cents. For reservations phone Lottie O'Connor, Culver City 4568, or Myrtle Barden, Santa Monica 62774.

THREE INITIATED.

Compton—Compton Parlor No. 273 N.S.G.W. added three new names to its roster April 10. The ritual was impressively exemplified by President Walter Richards and the other officers of Sepulveda Parlor No. 263, under the direction of District Deputy Edwin Baldwin. A lunch was enjoyed after the ceremonies. Compton is progressing slowly but surely.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Letitia Sarcleaux (Rudecina N.D.) of San Pedro is visiting in Sacramento.

J. Edward McCurdy (Santa Monica Bay N.S.) became a granddaddy April 4.

William J. Variel (Ramona N.S.) departed last month for a visit in France.

Mrs. Adelaide Hickman (Los Angeles N.D.) is in San Francisco on an extended visit.

Dorothy C. Blackburn and Robert Garey (Santa Monica Bay N.S.) were wedded April 18.

John S. Ramsay (Castro N.S.) of San Francisco, member State Pharmacy Board, was a visitor last month.

Mrs. Helen Burke (Santa Monica Bay N.D.) March 29 became the mother of a native daughter, Olive Amy.

Mrs. Betty Hale-Quisenberry (Californiana N.D.) is the mother of a native son, Clifford Hale, born April 6.

Ernest R. Orfila (Ramona N.S.) was a visitor last month to Sebastopol and other Sonoma County communities.

Wm. S. Kingsbury (Los Angeles N.S.) of Sacramento, surveyor-general of California, was a visitor last month.

Miss Grace S. Stoermer (Past Grand President N.D.) was a visitor last month to Sacramento, where she addressed the advertising club.

Emmet Seawell (Grand President N.S.), Charles H. Spengemann (Grand Trustee N.S.) and George Meierdick (Hesperian N.S.) of San Francisco were among last month's visitors.

THE DEATH RECORD.

Fred Augustus Peralta, affiliated with Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W., died March 30. He was born at Oakland, Alameda County, March 29, 1863.

Frederick Elmer Barnes, affiliated with Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W., died April 1. He was born at Elsinore, Riverside County, March 31, 1893.

Mrs. Annie Haugen, mother of David McDonald and John Haugen (both Ramona N.S.), died April 5, at the age of 73.

Thomas Vacher, father of George Vacher (Ramona N.S.), died at Southgate, April 7.

Mrs. Phyllis C. Rooke, affiliated with Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W., died April 8.

NEW LINK FOR N.D. CHAIN.

At Compton, May 5, a new parlor of Native Daughters is to be instituted. Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel B. Hansen is the organizer. Mrs Roy L. Adams has been elected president of the group, and Mrs. Esther Stout the recording secretary.

Ventura City will have a flower show, May 5 and 6, to encourage interest in better gardens.

Whittier, Los Angeles County, will have its ninth annual California avocado show, May 8-12.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

A SPORTING SUMMER UNDER THE SUN needs a careful selection of fabric to be smartly successful. This year a wide variety awaits you. One of the first things of importance is to be very certain that your choice of materials is re-shrunken before you begin to work on it. his will decide whether or not your dress will tain its fit after tubbing. In the matter of brics themselves, stripes lead the field in a laze of colors. Striped seersuckers and linens ill be great favorites. Gingham effects in seer-cker are very chic, as are printed, plain and riped pique. All sorts of novelty-weave effects cotton are waving in the wind.

Synthetic weaves in combination with cotton, ool and silk are among the season's most ef-ctive materials. Rough weaves are the smart-st in plain fabrics. You will hear a good deal bout "armures," meaning all-over patterns that e woven into the materials themselves. Tub lks are always a summer standby. Is there ything that looks quite as cleanly cool on a ot day? It will be a summer of spirited gaiety. ou will need at least one stripe to get into the ood of things summery.

Clothes that will do their stuff on the campus in the town are the major preoccupation of rls who expect a lot of week-ending between w and the final gasp of school in June. It is ite a trick to choose such models, but the de-gners are all on the side of the girls. The ilored suit which can be changed with many ashable blouses, proper hats and smart acces-ries is always a standby, and everything from pert bolero to a Norfolk tweed is good.

Taffeta seems to be the heart-beat for Sunday d tea-time frocks. The swish of grandmoth-'s best black silk has nothing on the rustle of randdaughter's new spring togs as she rushes the current tea dance, luncheon date or mat-ee. Taffeta is the new rage for bright young rls. They began with taffeta evening gowns, aint and demure little models recalling the arm of the early nineties. The contagion is read, and now they are making everything of ffeta, from topcoats to bathing suits. The ndy-striped taffeta dance frock, with a crisp eated frill across its wide neckline and a velvet bow fore and aft, has been one of the sub deb successes of the season. The bright plaid taffeta frock for daytime wear is new and exciting and looks grand with a cartwheel hat of leghorn.

Challies were always grand fabrics despite their tendency toward quaint designs. Another favorite is a two-inch plaid challie in red, white and black. This makes a smart frock, finished with a red belt and a red hat, shoes and bag.

Give a smart girl enough rope and she will turn out a sweater. The knitting craze goes on, and nowadays it is an unusual debutante who has not knitted a complete costume from dress to handbag. The smartest knitting now is done with string, just ordinary twine such as is used to tie up packages. The things they are doing with it you would never believe. The string knit coat, finger-tip length, is loose and casual and is about the best looking garment in the summertime wardrobe, especially when it fastens with one big wooden button at the neck, has deep patch pockets and is done in a wide herringbone knit.

String knit sweaters will be seen in the best resorts, both in natural and pastel shades. A nice style is the polo shirt, buttoning up to a turnover collar. But in all the knitting furore, good old crocheting has come into its own and the crocheted bathing suit is to be the bright star of fashionable beaches. It is stunning in white, but will also be seen in navy, scarlet and black.

The composed sports suits have struck the eye. These are suits with jackets in one material, skirts in another and blouses in a third. The favorite is the combination of beige, white and dull brown. The skirts are often patterned, with the jacket dark and plain. Ensembles of printed and plain crepe in navy, black or grey with a touch of fox are all included. Many of the costumes are touched with bright emerald green, either in the form of buttons or perhaps a bit of crepe on the cuffs and belt. Have you seen the velvet beret and the suede gloves with shirred velvet frills for cuffs?

Alpaca, that humble fabric once restricted to office coats, is another cinderella of fashion. Hats, frocks, coats, handbags and even shoes are being fashioned of this time-honored fabric this season, and well-dressed debutantes are "eating them up." Checked alpaca makes one of the year's doggiest sports frocks. This is cut in simple shirtwaist fashion, with a wide collar and windsor tie. Navy and white, and brown and white are favorite color combinations. Alpaca is taking the place of tweeds or gabardine in some of the new fabric walking shoes with reptile or patent leather trim, and the handbags always match.

There is a determined vogue for the spectator sports frock of neutral coloring, such as oatmeal, touched off dramatically with a flamboyant scarf. It is a fine budgeting idea, for a variety of hats, shoes and scarfs ensembled in sets makes a feast out of a sandwich, as it were.

Those vagabondish hats of soft felt come in gorgeous colorings. They are universally becoming and were made for sports. The pin checked beige and oatmeal suit is very convenient, for its shirt blouse may be worn outside the skirt in jumper effect.

Sports jewelry is of the massive sort. One of the newest interpretations is barbaric, large semi-precious stones being outlined in gold and fastened together at the points. They have the appearance of super-filigree. Metal, wood and compositions of all kinds are made into heavy chains, bracelets and necklaces, and pearls are extremely smart.

Your nose may not be shiny this season, but your hat must be. The new spring and summer hats glisten like the new fenders of nineteen-thirty-four autom biles. With the epidemic of lacquered straws, cire satins and stitched taffeta, patent leather has moved up from shoes and handbags and has graduated into millinery.

The impudent berets and gob hats of shiny patent kid are very new. A new sailor of the dinner-plate silhouette has the under side of the brim faced in patent leather, with a band to match. Then, the bellhop cap of rough lacquered straw is given an air by the addition of a nose veil. The wild west comes into its own with a sombrero in lacquered cord mesh, turned up in front in the buffalo-bill manner, revealing the forehead in all its glory.

With our shirt waist frocks we may find the sailor hats of rough straw variety such as we used to wear very becoming. In selecting one of these hats, however, for general wear with suits, top coats and tailored frocks, it is well to remember that a hard straw hat simply will not give an inch to the crowding of a high fur or cloth collar. They seem to get a cockeyed expression if pushed around.

WHAT GUIDE MORE EFFECTIVE THAN TEACHINGS OF THE NATIVE DAUGHTERS?

Irma W. Laird,
(GRAND PRESIDENT N.D.G.W.)

AGAINST THE ENCHANTING BACKground of a glorious past, picture a modern city located upon the Monterey Bay, aggressive, energetic and ambitious. Inject an ample portion of brilliant sunshine, with a touch of the invigorating breath of the Pacific Ocean, reflect upon other Grand Parlor sessions held, and Santa Cruz will seem to have an appealing personality, a throbbing, seeming individuality which defies comparison as a convention city. People the city with hospitable, friendly Native Daughters, whose sole purpose is to make this Grand Parlor the greatest gathering that the Order has yet known, and the result will be an indication of the many pleasures in store for those who attend the approaching Grand Parlor.

"Five hundred delegates and visitors, representing every section of the State, will be the guests of the City of Santa Cruz, famed for its hospitality and the warmth of its greeting. The members of Santa Cruz Parlor No. 26 N.D.G.W. will be assisted by members of the other Monterey Bay Parlors in the matter of entertainment, and nothing will be left undone for the happiness and pleasure of the delegates.

"Another year will be drawing to a close as we meet in our forty-eighth annual session of Grand Parlor. To one who has carefully watched the progress of our Order during the past year only satisfaction can be proclaimed, for it is steadily becoming a large and powerful institution of our great State of California. When we reflect upon the magnitude of the State, its natural charms, its beauties, its resources, undeveloped treasures and possibilities, its varied climate, the attraction to the stranger within our gates can readily be understood. We of California can truly be proud of our heritage.

"It is highly gratifying to note the progress and wonderful growth of the Order and the material prosperity which it enjoys, but we are ever mindful that the true strength of our Fraternity is not in numbers but in deeds accomplished. To be content with what we have accomplished is fatal; if we allow ourselves to be satisfied with our achievements, however respectable they may be, our mental garments will soon become threadbare.

"We are always anxious, those of us who are in earnest, for the best possible guide to a higher plane of existence, and what guide could be more effective for an individual to follow than the teachings of the Native Daughters of the Golden West? No one can pass through the chairs of our organization without realizing the power and strength that are latent in our Order. We salute the flag with the basic sentence, 'With liberty and justice for all,' and we experience a feeling that Patriotism is something that cannot be bought but must dwell within our inmost souls. Our fraternity can be likened to a sheaf of wheat; each straw has but the strength to support one head of grain, and then only when standing upright, but the bundle, the sheaves all placed in one direction and bound with a cord, has strength and resistence. The Native Daughters have associated themselves in a fraternal bond of friendship with specific purposes, carefully and earnestly outlined.

"Spontaneous arts of high character are rare, but they prove nothing. A continued performance of an outlined program of individual and group thinking and working brings certain definite results which prove the worth of the projects. We plan big things of tremendous scope because our wagon is hitched to a star, not with the expectation of reaching it, but because, it was Browning who said, 'A man's reach must exceed his grasp, or what's a Heaven for?' Our generation has a habit of saying 'Why, the sky is the limit,' and the Native Daughters have taken several stars for hitching posts.

"Outstanding among our achievements is the Native Daughter Home, now taking such a providential place in the lives of many of our less-fortunate members. It is truly a Home and not an institution, a beautiful building, typically Californian in design and bought and entirely paid for through the efforts of a large and faithful group of Native Daughters directed by Dr. Mariana Bertola, the chairman of the Home Committee, and her faithful committee. It is the one project which the Order unselfishly supports for its own, an expression of our fraternal love, one toward another.

"The project that places us most favorably in the public regard is truly the work accomplished by the Central Committee on Homeless Children. It has been a great pleasure to the Grand President to carry the news and gospel of this splendid work to the members of the Subordinate Parlors. Every Parlor is vitally interested, and the responses have been very liberal this year. It would seem that a supreme effort has been put forth during the past few years of hard times so that Parlors might adequately provide funds for this cherished project. The secretary, Miss Mary E. Brusie of Argonaut Parlor, Oakland, with her sunny disposition and happy faculty of drawing the best from human nature, efficiently represents the Order in this commendable work.

"From very small beginnings and careful planning has come our Veteran Welfare Work. This work is directed by Past Grand President Stella Finkeldey, who works quietly but steadily and, by means of her careful buying and planning, the Native Daughters have been able to express their appreciation to the World War Veterans. There is no project which has greater appeal to the membership at large and the response this year is one hundred percent in contribution.

"California has a wonderful history, and the Native Daughters are engaged in the laudable purpose of perpetuating the glorious deeds of the Pioneers. By concerted effort, they have been able to influence Boards of Education to place comprehensive courses in California history in the schools of the State. Much has been accomplished by means of programs, pageants and pictures to impress upon the public mind the importance of the History of our State. For the first time in the history of the Order, the Native Daughters have associated themselves as an Order with the California Chamber of Commerce, History and Landmark Division of Southern California, and have offered prizes in the Allied Arts Competitive Festival. The subjects offered by the Native Daughters are relative to California history. Past Grand President Esther Sullivan of Marysville Parlor directs the activity of the Order along this line of endeavor. She is an historian of no mean ability herself and is quoted as an authority upon many occasions.

"This being the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the death of Father Serra, the Native Daughters realize that with the first Missions in California the seeds of Christianity were sown that were to spread the lessons of love and sympathy in an effort to improve the condition of the human race. As a part of the work of the Order, one of the projects has been to assist in keeping in a reasonable state of preservation the Missions founded under the direction of Father Serra. That an especial honor and tribute may be paid to the memory of this early Pioneer Padre, Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer is directing the Serra Sesquicentennial movement.

"Many imposing monuments have been erected to the memory of the Pioneers, thousands of dollars have been spent in contributing to members in illness and distress, for scholarships for the higher education of young women, and for the various other projects undertaken and brought to successful completion by the Native Daughters.

"The Extension of the Order work this year has been very encouraging. Thirteen hundred new members have been received into the ranks, and six new Parlors, Las Plumas at Portola, Plumas County; Lomitas at Los Banos, Merced County; Stockton, at Stockton, San Joaquin County; Arguello, at San Francisco; Compton, at Compton, Los Angeles County, and Lakemont, at Oakland, Alameda County, have added to the golden chain of our fraternity.

"We have a broad field of endeavor and a bountiful harvest to reap in striving, as members of a great and rapidly growing institution, to make ourselves known as a power in the institutional life and respected for our strength in this great and glorious domain, the State of California."

48th NATIVE DAUGHTER GRAND PARLOR

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

MONDAY, JUNE 18, AT 9:30 A.M., THE Forty-eighth annual Grand Parlor of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West will convene at Santa Cruz, government-seat of Santa Cruz County, for a four-day session. Grand President Irma W. Laird of Alturas, Modoc County, affiliated with Alturas Parlor No. 159, will preside throughout the deliberations and, at their conclusion, will automatically become the Junior Past Grand President.

The sessions of the Grand Parlor will be held daily in the auditorium of Casa del Rey, which has been selected as the official headquarters and where most of the activities will center.

Reports of the grand officers and committees will show the Order to be in excellent condition, splendid progress having been made along all lines during the past year. The finances are in good shape, and 1,300 new names have been added to the membership-rolls of the Subordinate Parlors. For the past six months applications have averaged more than 100 monthly, and that number does not include charter members of new Parlors.

Six new Parlors have been instituted: Las Plumas No. 254 at Portola, Plumas County; Lomitas No. 255 at Los Banos, Merced County; Stockton No. 256 at Stockton, San Joaquin County; Arguello No. 257 at San Francisco; Compton No. 258 at Compton, Los Angeles County; Lakemont No. 259 at Oakland, Alameda County. Other new Parlors, including one at Ukiah, Mendocino County, are about ready for institution.

According to information received, on request, direct by The Grizzly Bear from the Subordinate Parlors of the Order, Los Angeles No. 124 (Los Angeles), with 230 members, is the strongest Parlor, numerically, in the Order. Other Parlors with a membership in excess of two hundred are: Joaquin No. 5 (Stockton), 205; Manzanita No. 29 (Grass Valley), 205; La Bandera No. 110 (Sacramento), 204.

Parlors with a membership of one hundred and more are: Castro No. 178 (San Francisco), 199; Sutter No. 111 (Sacramento), 198; Laurel No. 6 (Nevada City), 193; Twin Peaks No. 185 (San Francisco), 193; Marguerite No. 12 (Placerville), 189; Vendome No. 100 (San Jose), 172; Marinita No. 198 (San Rafael), 168; Ursula No. 1 (Jackson), 166; Californiana No. 247 (Los Angeles), 165; Alta No. 3 (San Francisco), 162; Piedmont No. 87 (Oakland), 161; Woodland No. 90 (Woodland), 158; Genevieve No. 132 (San Francisco), 154; Buena Vista No. 68 (San Francisco), 148; Presidio No. 148 (San Francisco), 148; Coloma No. 212 (Sacramento), 148; Stockton No. 256 (Stockton), 145; San Jose No. 81 (San Jose), 140; Dolores No. 169 (San Francisco), 140; Golden Gate No. 158 (San Francisco), 128; Guadalupe No. 153 (San Francisco), 120; Mission No. 227 (San Francisco), 120; El Vespero No. 118 (San Francisco), 119; El Pescadero No. 82 (Tracy), 118; Gabrielle No. 139 (San Francisco), 118; Amapola No. 80 (Sutter Creek), 109; Califia No. 22 (Sacramento), 106; Copa de Oro No. 105 (Hollister), 104; Portola No. 172 (San Francisco), 104; El Carmelo No. 181 (Daly City), 101; Annie K. Bidwell No. 168 (Chico), 100.

Several resolutions proposing changes in the laws and ritual of the Order will be proposed at the Santa Cruz session. Among them, "That a flag bearer, appointed by the president, escort the American Flag to the president's station and the pledge then be given." Another proposes to change the Grand Parlor meeting-date to the fourth Monday in June. Others propose: "That the Grand Parlor pay no more than $50 per month for the rental of the office space for the Grand Secretary." "That the N.D. Home assessment for the fiscal year 1934-35 be 25c." "That all salaries over $100 per month paid by the Grand Parlor be reduced 10 percent." "That the percapita tax for the fiscal year 1934-35 be 50c."

CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE.

By communicating with all the Subordinate Parlors and the many "rumored" candidates, The Grizzly Bear is enabled to announce the candidacies of several aspirants for Grand Parlor office honors. The list is complete, insofar as definite information has been received, but it is not complete if gossip be founded on fact. For, there are persistent whisperings that every elective office, excepting the grand presidency, will have two, or more, seekers. Be that as it may, here is the authentic "dope" received by The Grizzly Bear:

Grand President—Grand First Vice-president Gladys E. Noce (Amapola Parlor No. 80).

Grand Vice-president—Grand Marshal Anna C. Thuesen (Alta Parlor No. 3). Grand Trustee Florence Danforth Boyle (Gold of Ophir Parlor No. 190).

Grand Secretary—Sallie R. Thaler (Aloha Parlor No. 106), incumbent.

Grand Treasurer—Susie K. Christ (Yosemite Parlor No. 83), incumbent.

Grand Marshal—Edna B. Briggs (La Bandera Parlor No. 110). Grand Trustee Minna Kane Horn (Eschscholtzia Parlor No. 112). Grand Trustee Ethel S. Begley (Marinita Parlor No. 198).

Grand Inside Sentinel—Grand Outside Sentinel Alice M. Oldham (El Carmelo Parlor No. 181).

Grand Outside Sentinel — Claire Lindsey (Golden Gate Parlor No. 158). Evalyn G. Towne (Miocene Parlor No. 228).

Grand Organist—Pearl N. Reid (Santa Cruz Parlor No. 26).

Grand Trustees (seven to be selected)—Orinda Gunther Giannini (Orinda Parlor No. 56), incumbent. Grand Organist Clara A. Gairaud (Vendome Parlor No. 100). Alice M. Lane (Castro Parlor No. 178), incumbent. Clarise Cook (Caliz de Oro Parlor No. 206). Willow Borba (Santa Rosa Parlor No. 217), incumbent. Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel B. Hansen (Verdugo Parlor No. 240). Nellie M. Cline (Grace Parlor No. 242).

FOR GRAND MARSHAL
SANTA CRUZ 1934 GRAND PARLOR

PROCEEDINGS OF UKIAH N.S.G.W. GRAND PARLOR

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

THE FIFTY-SEVENTH GRAND PARLOR, in session at Ukiah, Mendocino County, May 21, 22 and 24, has gone into the annals of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West. The surroundings were most pleasant, the arrangements were faultless, and the entertainment was excellent. Grand President Justice Emmet Seawell of Santa Rosa Parlor No. 28 presided throughout the Grand Parlor deliberations.

Reports of grand officers and committees dealt mostly with matters which heretofore have been given publicity in The Grizzly Bear. A review of the Fifty-seventh Grand Parlor follows:

CHANGES IN CONSTITUTIONS.

[The designations "C.G.P." and "C.S.P." refer, respectively, to the Constitution of Grand Parlor N.S.G.W. and the Constitution for Subordinate Parlors.]

Art. VI, Sec. 1, C.G.P.—Amended by adding to that portion referring to appointment of district deputy grand presidents and deputy grand presidents at large: "and furnish each with a certificate of his appointment signed by the Grand President and the Grand Secretary."

Art. VIII, Sec. 3, C.G.P.—Amended by adding to the list of Grand Parlor committees a "Committee on Forestry and Conservation to consist of five members."

Art. IX, C.G.P.—Amended by adding a new section defining the duties of the Forestry and Conservation Committee.

Art. IX, Sec. 10, C.G.P.—Amended to create "a committee to be known as the Native Sons and Native Daughters Central Committee on Homeless Children for the purpose of the placing of and caring for the homeless children in the State of California." The makeup of the committee is specified, and regulations for the operation of the committee are detailed; among the latter is, "said committee shall annually prepare and adopt a budget, and no expenditures in excess thereof shall be made . . . , except in the case of emergency." [This legislation becomes effective only when and if approved by the Grand Parlor N.D.G.W., as the homeless children work is carried on jointly by both Orders.]

Art. X, C.G.P.—Amended by adding Sec. 4, "The percapita tax shall be levied and collected from each Subordinate Parlor." Also, Sec. 5, "Any Subordinate Parlor shall be entitled to be relieved from the payment of percapita tax on indigent members who have belonged to such Subordinate Parlors for more than five years upon complying with the [specified] conditions." When an indigent member pays his dues to his Parlor, the Parlor shall pay percapita tax on him, and indigent members shall not be counted in computing a Parlor's representation in the Grand Parlor.

Art. XII, Secs. 16, 20, 24 and 26, C.G.P.—Amended to regulate hearings by the Board of Appeals, and providing, among other things, that a copy of all orders or decrees shall be furnished the affected party by registered mail.

Art. IX, Sec. 9, C.S.P.—Amended to read, "Notices of all suspensions or expulsions shall be forwarded to the Grand Secretary by the Recording Secretary of the Parlor as soon as the judgment, on which the penalty of suspension or expulsion is based, has become final."

BUDGET AND PERCAPITA TAX.

The Finance Committee presented a budget of $26,400, which total includes $1,000 for history fellowships, $3,000 for organization work, $975 for special relief, $250 for Oriental exclusion, and $3,000 for mileage Ukiah session, and the budget was adopted. The Grand Parlor added approximately $1,000 to assist in financing the Admission Day, September 9, statewide celebration at Sacramento.

To raise the required funds, the percapita tax was fixed at $1.20, payable in quarterly installments of thirty cents each June 1, September 1 and December 1, 1934, and March 1, 1935.

OTHER BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

Sacramento was awarded this year's Admission Day, September 9, statewide celebration. Stockton was chosen for the 1935 celebration.

Vallejo, Solano County, was selected as the meetingplace for the Fifty-eighth (1935) Grand Parlor.

Ordered, that the names of committeemen of Parlors acting as hosts to the Grand Parlor be included in the Grand Parlor Proceedings.

The grand officers were directed to, "during the ensuing year, consider a means of contacting and advising the youth in our public schools of the purpose and nature of the N.S.G.W. and report the findings of such consideration to the 1935 Grand Parlor."

Telegrams of greetings were sent the Knights of Pythias Grand Lodge, Past Grand Presidents Frank L. Coombs and Fred H. Greely, A. H. Meyer (California No. 1), John H. Nelson (San Francisco No. 49), William J. Wynn (Rincon No. 72) and Thomas R. Hamilton (Bay City No. 104).

Proposals that the seven Grand Trustees be elected by districts, and specifying the duties of the Visiting Board, were referred to the Board of Grand Officers for a report at the 1935 session.

The State of the Order Committee's report which was approved, commended Grand President Emmet Seawell for the splendid service given the Order the past year. It concluded with: "The Subordinate Parlors as a whole have kept up very well during the trying times that have existed in the past few years, and as economic conditions in the country seem to be improving we hope that the Parlors will manifest the same determination to carry on as they did in the several years past."

NEW GRAND OFFICERS.

At the election of grand officers, 326 ballots were cast, and the following were selected:

Grand President, Chas. A. Koenig (Golden Gate No. 29).

Grand First Vice-president, Harmon D. Skillin (Castro No. 232).

Delegates from Marysville and Santa Cruz announced that at the 1935 Grand Parlor their home-cities would ask for the 1936 session.

On behalf of the family of Grand President Koenig, Junior Past Grand President Seawell presented him with a gavel.

ENTERTAINMENT.

The Fifty-seventh Grand Parlor was well entertained. Each feature on the program, carried out as detailed in The Grizzly Bear for May, was well managed and proved most enjoyable. Ukiah No. 71, the host Parlor, had the full cooperation of the citizens of the community generally, and genuine California hospitality was dispensed. The Grand Parlor committee of Ukiah No. 71 which so admirably arranged all details included Henry C. Spurr (chairman), Keith C. Eversole (co-chairman), Ben Hofman (secretary), H. J. Zimmerman, Henry Bucknell, Albert Bechtol, Walter Sandelin, Earl Dean, E. L. Kehoe, James E. Busch, Fred Figone, Kenneth W. Phillips, W. G. Cox and I. E. Saari.

The scenic trip of Wednesday, aboard "observation" cars through redwood forests from Ukiah to Fort Bragg, was most pleasing, and made even more so by the gentle washing which God gave the trees and the flowering shrubs. At Fort Bragg, Alder Glen Parlor No. 200 and Broderick Parlor No. 117 (Point Arena) served a most appetizing dinner. An interesting feature of the trip was the exhibitions of tree felling and topping at Shake City.

EXCLUSION INELIGIBLE ALIENS.

The California Joint Immigration Committee, with which the Order of Native Sons is identified, presented a report through Executive Secretary V. S. McClatchy (Pacific No. 10). Quoting therefrom:

"For three years past an intensive campaign has been conducted by the California Council on Oriental Relations (organized by Directors of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce) to develop a public sentiment in favor of repeal of the exclusion provision and grant of immigration quota to Japan. A number of organizations and individuals have been induced to approve the quota plan by misrepresentation of the facts and in belief that international good will would be promoted thereby without detriment to national welfare.

"The California Joint Committee has met this attack on the law by wide distribution of authenticated statements of fact in the shape of addresses, articles, letters and press releases. Among results ascribed in part to this campaign of education are mentioned the cessation of effort to promote quota by certain organizations including the prominent Pacific Coast Chambers of Commerce, excepting those of San Francisco, Portland and Spokane, and the definite endorsement of exclusion by those of Sacramento and Stockton.

"To President F. D. Roosevelt and also to the committee of three Cabinet members appointed by him to recommend desirable changes in the laws of naturalization and immigration, the California Joint Committee presented an authenticated statement of facts, many of them as yet unknown to the general public, in opposition to the plea for Asiatic quota. That statement served as basis for the action of the twenty California Congressmen in formally advising President Roosevelt of their 'vigorous opposition' to the proposed grant of quota, and for similar action taken by the delegations from Oregon and Washington. The report suggests that that unanimous action of the Congressmen from the three Pacific states who now face re-election offers conclusive evidence of the overwhelming sentiment in their respective communities, notwithstanding the assertion of quota advocates.

"Attention is called to the demand for statehood on the part of Hawaii; to the action of Governor Judd three years ago in vetoing a statehood resolution of the Hawaiian Legislature on the ground that it is not yet known how the Asiatic majority of the population will use the franchise; to the present conditions indicating early political control by the Japanese, already constituting over one-third of the total population, with a majority of school children educated in separate Japanese language schools by Buddhist teachers; and to the general profession of Japanese Buddhism, a centripetal Mikadoism, centering on loyalty to the Emperor.

"The Japanese-American Citizens' League, organized five years ago by second generation Japanese of the three Pacific states, now comprises 21 affiliated bodies, 17 of them in California. They claim 5,000 Japanese voters in this state, 3,000 of them in Los Angeles County. Two years ago they approved a campaign looking to securing entrance for alien Japanese relatives and alien Japanese women for wives, while recently the Los Angeles body endorsed repeal of the law excluding ineligible aliens and the grant of quota to Japan and will urge adoption thereof by the League at its biennial session in San Francisco in August.

"The report discusses Filipino immigration and Mexican immigration, because of the elements therein ineligible to American citizenship, and which are therefore proper subjects for consideration under the established policy of the organizations supporting the Joint Committee.

Homeless Children

A WORTHWHILE NON-SECTARIAN ENDEAVOR SPONSORED AND SUPPORTED BY THE ORDERS OF NATIVE SONS AND NATIVE DAUGHTERS OF THE GOLDEN WEST

NOT SO LONG AGO, NOVEMBER 1, 1933, to be exact, the Native Sons and Native Daughters Central Committee on Homeless Children and its workers were saying goodbye to 959 Phelan Building with a real heart wrench after years of service within its walls. At that time the change seemed prophetic of all sorts of ills and disappointments, but in addition to being able to cut the rent in half the change of offices has proved a happy one for all concerned and has brought renewed energy to those who work.

Applicants who have come to remind the Committee that they have been waiting for and are in need of a child; the Native Daughters who have come with gifts or a milk-fund check for "their baby;" the foster parents who have brought their sturdy, lovable children to be admired, have all been enthusiastic over the new location and have voiced their approval. "I think that this is a wonderful place you have. You are so independent with your own office on the ground floor, and the sign 'Native Sons and Native Daughters Central Committee on Homeless Children, 998 Eddy Street' where all who pass the door may read, and with no parking restrictions and no elevators." They comment at length on the home-like atmosphere of the rooms, the gardens, the sunshine pouring in—yes, real sunshine,—and on being on a direct car line to the cottages where they go to look at the babies.

Whether this appreciation of the Committee's present offices is a reason or not, the fact remains that there never has been in the history of the work a greater number of children brought by their foster parents to the office than during the past few months.

April 20, 1934, about four o'clock in the afternoon, the members of the Central Committee were holding their regular monthly meeting and a father and his fairy-like little four-year-old daughter came to visit. As they entered the room the child was a bit abashed at unexpectedly meeting so many "grown ups," but she smiled sweetly, and timidly clutched her father's coat. It wasn't long, however, before the bright eyes found the frieze of Mother Goose cut-outs and immediately the child felt herself among friends. "Oh," said she, pointing to the pictures, "there is little 'Jack Horner,' 'Jack Be Nimble,' 'Simple Simon,' 'Little Miss Muffit,' and the big spider that sat down beside her, and"—a sudden pause—a continued pause—and the "grown-ups" wondered why. Not one had observed previously, although they thought they knew their Mother Goose, that "Mary, Mary" had quite contrarily put herself in the wrong place in the wall decoration so, pointing to the next picture, some one said to the child, "What is this one?" Instantly the little face brightened and in a high-pitched little voice she cried, "Oh, oh, oh, that's where the spider frightened Miss Muffit away." It is needless to record that the pictures were at once arranged in proper sequence. The child then recited the "Coo-Coo Clock," sustaining throughout the four verses the perfect rhythm of the "tick tock, tick tock."

Perhaps nothing that transpires during the constantly changing experiences and duties of a day so stirs the hearts of those engaged in a philanthropic work of this character, and so thoroughly betokens the work's true value, as the opportunity to observe the little adopted child develop normally in every way. There is no greater assurance of the blessedness of the task, and justification of the effort and expense, than the ever recurring proof that the thousands of children bereft of their parents have been a joy and a comfort to the foster parents who have given them all that they had to give. The Native Sons and the Native Daughters have reason to feel proud of their outstanding humanitarian effort.

Two Indian villages, one of them possibly 1,900 years old, the other possibly 500, have been excavated on the shores of the dry Buena Vista Lake in Kern County.

The American Association for the Advancement of Science will have its ninety-fourth conference at Berkeley, Alameda County, June 18-23.

CALIFORNIA FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

JUNE 1884 WAS ANOTHER FREAK-weather month in California, and had all the oldtimers guessing. Showers coming on the 7th continued at intervals until the 16th, and during that period 1.44 inches of rain fell. Much damage was done to stacked hay, to growing wheat and barley, and to ripening fruit. A newspaper reporter discovered living in Knights Landing, Yolo County, Joseph Rivara, 100 years old, who had been in California many years and was recognized as a weather sharp. He claimed the only previous season comparable to this was that of June 1816, which was cold and windy and it rained for eighteen days.

L. J. Rose, a Los Angeles County breeder, shipped to the East by passenger train nine trotting horses, which were to compete on racetracks there.

In 1851, John McFarland bought a ranch near Placerville, El Dorado County, and planted there the first strawberry vines in the county, also asparagus.

Hopgrowers were feeling optimistic again, as higher prices for California hops were in sight. The price this month advanced to 28 cents a pound.

A Santa Rosa, Sonoma County, woman was proudly exhibiting a rose branch upon which were 130 roses in full bloom.

Local turfites were jubilant over the performance of "Jim Renwick," a California-born-and-bred colt which won a five-furlong dash on a New York racetrack in 1:02.

Digger Indians of El Dorado and Amador Counties were feasting on grasshoppers, a plague near Latrobe. They were daily gathering an average of fifty sacks of the "delicacy." By June 30 the grasshopper horde, on a five-mile front, reached into Placer County. Farmers bought big flocks of turkeys to feast on the hoppers, but about half the birds died from gluttony.

The Democratic Party had a state convention at Stockton, San Joaquin County, June 10, to select delegates to the national convention to be held during July in Chicago. Stephen M. White was chosen chairman.

The Prohibition Party had a state convention in San Francisco June 17, and selected delegates to the national convention to be held in Pittsburg during August.

W. A. Bissell caught ninety-four trout trolling on Donner Lake, Nevada County, June 27.

A representative of English weavers found in Shasta County a site upon which to locate a party of colonists soon expected to arrive.

The womenfolks of Jackson, Amador County, were arranging a Leap Year celebration of Independence Day. A woman was to be the grand marshal, another was to orate and another to read the Declaration of Independence. Menfolks, however, were to be permitted to do the treating and the fighting.

The sporting portion of the population of Woodland, Yolo County, went to the racetrack there June 15 to witness a hundred-yard footrace for $500 a side between Ryan, a local boy, and Burns of San Francisco. Ryan won.

Edgar Badlam, a 16-year-old San Francisco youth, obtained a patent this month for an improved steam boiler.

A monkey escaped from a circus at Sebastopol, Sonoma County, climbed into a big oak tree, and could not be coaxed down from an upper limb. So, molasses and whisky were mixed and, in a bowl, placed at the fork of the tree. The monkey could not resist the temptation, got drunk and could not keep aloft.

William Holden, elected lieutenant-governor of California in 1867, died at Healdsburg, Sonoma County, June 3.

Calhoun Benham, who came to California in 1849, died June 12 at San Francisco. He was the second of Judge Terry in the historic duel fought with Senator Broderick.

The San Francisco Electric Light Company was given a permit to erect masts in different parts of that city, and was to receive $5.28 a night for lighting the city.

Electric lights put into service on several Sacramento City street intersections were quickly surrounded, when they began to shine, by hordes of black beetles. Chinamen gathered them by basketsful to grind into medicine, and in the morning additional tons of dead beetles were shoveled into garbage wagons.

Santa Maria, Santa Barbara County, had a $20,000 fire June 1. The postoffice and its contents at Red Bluff, Tehama County, burned June 2 with several other buildings. June 29, Red Bluff had another disastrous fire, when the Sierra Lumber Company suffered a $100,000 loss.

Nevada City, Nevada County, had a disastrous fire June 5, when its brewery and ten business buildings burned. The Pike Flat section of Grass Valley, Nevada County, partially burned June 10. The Chinatown of Orland, Glenn County, went up in smoke June 9.

An effort to introduce the twenty-four-hour time of day system was being made in San Francisco. A big clock, erected at the corner of Montgomery and Sutter streets, was dialed into twenty-four hour spaces and struck accordingly. The system was not popular for, by it, dinner was served at 19 o'clock.

The Gignac mine at Texas Hill, El Dorado County, made a rich strike, finding a ledge that was half gold.

Hand mortars were being used for milling at the Alhambra mine, El Dorado County. By this method, the mine had yielded $50,000 in gold, and much more quartz was in sight.

In a quarrel over ownership of a mining claim at Brown's Flat, near Sonora, Tuolumne County, June 19, Edward Gallagher shot and killed Mrs. Otis Greenwood. Her son attempted to shoot Gallagher, who decamped. Robert Watson then went after young Greenwood, who shot him dead.

Miss Cora Edwards was thrown from a wagon and killed at Merced City June 5. By the accidental discharge of his rifle, Matthew Weisheimer was killed June 4 at Merced City.

Standing in front of a Napa City blacksmith shop June 1, the dress of a little girl named Perry was set afire by a spark from a hot iron and she was fatally burned.

The telephone cable across Carquinez Strait from Port Costa, Contra Costa County, to Benicia, Solano County, broke June 29 and men were sent to repair it. Five of them in a rowboat were run down by a ferryboat, and E. Rondeau, Con. Sweeney, Con. Brennan and James Fox were drowned.

SANTA CRUZ

N.D.G.W. GRAND PARLOR PROGRAM

SANTA CRUZ PARLOR NO. 26 NATIVE Daughters of the Golden West will be hostess to the Forty-eighth Grand Parlor which meets in Santa Cruz City Monday June 18. Most of the visitors will arrive the previous day. This will be the sixth time Santa Cruz Parlor has had the pleasure of entertaining the Grand Parlor. The fifth session was held there in 1891, Grand President Mollie B. Johnson, now deceased, presiding; the twenty-fifth session in 1911, Grand President Mamie G. Peyton presiding; the thirty-second session in 1918, Grand President Grace S. Stoermer presiding; the thirty-eighth session in 1924, Grand President Amy V. McAvoy presiding; the forty-third session in 1929, Grand President Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, now deceased, presiding.

For the entertainment of its guests, Santa Cruz Parlor has arranged a very attractive program. Most of the events will be held at Casa del Rey Hotel, which has been designated the headquarters. The daily program follows:

Sunday night, June 17—Registration of delegates, and informal reception in the hotel lobby.

Monday, California Romance Day—During the afternoon session of the Grand Parlor, a program will be given by Californiana Parlor No. 247 of Los Angeles, and refreshments will be served by the General Assembly of Past Presidents. In the evening, a program will be given in the hotel auditorium by Santa Cruz Parlor No. 26.

Tuesday, Project Day—Aleli No. 102 of Salinas will be the hostess Parlor. The grand ball will be held that night in the hotel auditorium.

Wednesday, California History Day—The hostess Parlors will be San Juan Bautista No. 17 of the old mission town, San Juan Bautista, and Copa de Oro No. 105 of Hollister. In the evening, the officers of Santa Cruz Parlor No. 26 will exemplify the ritual.

Thursday, Play Day—At 1 p.m. a caravan will leave the hotel via the Cliff Drive to the Santa Cruz Mission; thence to the Big Trees, where an outdoor barbecue picnic will be held, at fifty cents per plate, and a good program will be presented. In the evening, the newly-elected grand officers will be installed.

THE WORKERS.

Arrangements for the Grand Parlor have been made by committees composed of the following members of Santa Cruz Parlor:

Executive—Pearl Reid (chairman), Marjorie Dellamonica, May L. Williamson, Anna Linscott, Edith Dodge, Mary Gregory, Alberta McCormick.

Reception—Past Grand President Stella Fiskeldey (chairman), Anna Linscott, May L. Williamson, Edith K. Dodge, Myrtle Richey, Anna Lorenz, Mary Severio, Florence Roberts, Kate Pringle, Anita Triplett, Belle Rountree.

Program—Leona Geyer (chairman), Mell McKenna, Arista Mellor, Dorothy Noah, Alice Halsey, Mary Gregory, Adele Wackerman, Florence McCormick.

Finance—Marjorie Dellamonica (chairman), Marie Pratchner, Elsa O'Donnell, Edith Dodge, May L. Williamson.

Registration and Printing—Alta Macaula (chairman), Alice Daniels, Mae Cavanagh, Haz Brass, Marjorie Dellamonica, Verla Costella, Alberta McCormick, Lucille Harrison, Kathry Wise.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE HOSTESS PARLOR—SANTA CRUZ.

Santa Cruz Parlor No. 26 N.D.G.W. was instituted by Past Grand President Louise P. Watson Morris, March 17, 1888,—forty-six years ago. The first president was Anna M. Helmke, now deceased, and the first secretary was Mary E. Morgan.

Charter members still affiliated with the Parlor: Past Grand President Stella Finkeldey, Anna Lorenz, Florence Roberts, Kate Pringle and Past Grand President Mae B. Wilkin. Mary Severio, in the first class of candidates to be initiated, is still a member of the Parlor, also.

The team of Michael Essenger, a pioneer Elk Grove, Sacramento County, farmer, ran away June 28 and he was thrown from the wagon and killed.

At 6 p.m. of June 1 a water spout broke in the hills about twenty miles east of Visalia, Tulare County, and the home of a family named Stewart was in its path. The house was swept away, and the parents, their two children and a hired man were drowned.

An enterprising Kearny-street merchant in San Francisco announced he would give away 100,000 marbles to the first boys at his store on a certain morning. So many "kids" responded, a squad of policemen had to quell the riots that continually developed.

Excelsior Parlor No. 31 N.S.G.W. was instituted June 28 at Jackson, Amador County, with Judge E. C. Rust as the president. Colonel Harry W. Jones, one of the Parlor's first vice-presidents, is still "in the ring" there, living in the house in which he was born seventy-seven years ago.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

COSTUME ACCESSORIES ARE TREMENdous trifles. Fashion experts regard them as having almost the importance of clothes. The fit of corsets and underwear, the shape and color of handbags, the fresh perfection of gloves and the cut and finish of shoes are the details upon which much of the smartness depends.

The fashion for net has even gone to the head, and net and lace berets with matching gloves or mitts, are the newest inspiration of the designers. The lace or net beret is the newest version of the gossamer dinner hat that has been so popular of late. Net strikes a heavy balance in the net total of spring smartness.

The black net dinner gown is one of the most decorative and practical of hot-weather fashions. When it is accompanied by a frilly jacket of white net, it is the last word. When it is slim and fitted to the knees, then flared out in a froth from knee to ankle, it is one of the most becoming of semiformal costumes. When it is trimmed in tiny horizontal tucks all the way up and down, it is even more effective. When it has brief puffed sleeves and a demure square neckline, and when it has black net mitts to match and of course a net beret for dining, it is something to write home about.

A cotton net frou frou is tailored in plain color or print with practical tie silk designs. Organza is striped with narrow lines much like the patterns and colors of old-fashioned peanut sacks at the circus. Plaid gingham in strange tints of plum, slate, brown and purple are some of the other fancies for frocks suitable to gala nights.

Maybe the sun is not doing too much to warm up the corner where you are, but the fact remains that summer is right around the corner, and light festive clothes are in order. This is the season, too, when trousseau and travel clothes come in for lots of attention.

Visitors to shore and mountains will find practical value in the frock which has its own costume coat, or which may be worn under a light woolen odd coat on train or ship. Sheers are just as well represented as warmer fabrics. Cotton is as easy to find as silk.

If you want to illustrate the last word in resort fashions, wear your jackets backwards this season. Gay young girls seen on our best beaches already have started the idea, and it is bound to spread. Of course, it has to be a special kind of jacket, a sort of coolie coat fastening with one button. It allows the sun to get to work on your back unhampered and it is effectively worn with sun-back tennis frocks and shorts. Sometimes it is belted and sometimes it is allowed to wave loosely in the breeze. The coolie coat, especially designed for hindside-to wearing, is of pastel or white woolen with loose sleeves and it is three-quarters length. It has a high neckline and a chinese air, which harmonizes well with the growing oriental influence in beach clothes in vivid red or jade.

Green flannel with a dragon embroidered on the front or back makes a grand coat to wear over your favorite swim suit and, of course, the ideal finishing touch is the chinese coolie hat, that flat, pointed affair of lacquered straw which appeared in some of our snootier resorts last season.

The beach pajama, of course, must be worn over a bathing suit or shorts costume unless you subscribe to the nudist code, because the transparency of the new oiled silk conceals nothing of the form divine. Oiled silk slacks for yachting wear are the latest word in nautical equipment, keeping you dry and decorative at the same time. Oil silk is another distant relation of the cellophane family, and is being shown in devastating colors of cherry, sea blue, lettuce green, marigold yellow and all the rest of the prism. It is a fabric as transparent as cellophane, with the added body of a silk base, and it is being made into rain capes, rumble seat capes, beach clothes, golf jackets and what not.

Turkish toweling comes into its own from bathroom to ballroom. That is the successful story of turkish toweling, now known by the more elegant name of "terry cloth." If you see a young woman dancing on one of our better roofs or beach clubs this summer, do not be alarmed, for it is the newest conceit for summer evening gowns.

A summer evening dress of white or pastel, cut on lines of classic simplicity innocent of trimming is, as a matter of fact, as effective a costume as you could devise to set off a sunbrowned skin. It also enjoys the spotlight for sportswear. A suit consisting of a navy blue and white striped toweling jacket and white skirt of the same material is bound to attract envious glances on any beach. A wrap-around beach dress of toweling in brilliant mexican stripes, buttoned down the front, is the most comfortable and decorative thing possible to slip on over your bathing suit and, of course, the terry cloth beach robes have long been established as the uniform for bathers.

To be one of the best dressed girls on your beach, here are a few tips: Royal blue is the most popular color for bathing suits. Navy and white are both excellent choices. Brown is perhaps the smartest color. Yellow and turquoise are becoming to brown girls.

For playing on the beach, you are not likely to choose pajamas this year. A play suit consists of slacks and topper, or shorts and shirt, often with button-around skirt. Accessories are important, and it is just as easy to get smart ones if you remember that buying beach things is almost like buying Christmas presents. The best ones are brought out early. If you wait until the swimming season is in full sway, you are out of luck for the real novelties.

Dressing for summer is perfectly simple, if you can be out of town and stocked up on shirtwaist frocks and little tennis dresses. A cotton march is on. A fast-moving, widely-spreading cavalcade of cottons is bringing princely prestige to this once-lowly fabric. Cotton gloves are handsomely disguised with mesh hands and net cuffs, or fabric hands and pique cuffs.

A cotton collar set of fine wale pique is a crisp climax to summer frocks. A cotton bag pique slipover unlaces to disclose a linen bag. Cotton scarfs are actually of linen, for where cotton is, there also is linen, dotted or plain. Cotton hats of pique match the collar and gloves.

Fine linens and laces are used to make furbelows and exaggerated lapels. These feminine interpretations achieve a new spirit in neckwear accents, giving originality and distinction to the simplest of frocks. White shoes and light shoes have lots of holes in them. Sandals are very attractive this season.

Livermore, Alameda County, will stage, June 9 and 10, its annual rodeo. The spirit and the glamor of the West will predominate.

San Juan Bautista, San Benito County, will have its annual mission pageant, June 24.

NOTED HISTORIAN OF MISSIONS— THOUGH DEAD, HE SPEAKETH.

Santa Barbara City—Rev. Father Zephyrin Englehardt, O.F.M., noted historian of the missions of California, died April 27. In his honor, Reina del Mar Parlor No. 126 N.D.G.W. held memorial services May 1. The principal speaker was Dr. William H. Ellison, head of the State College history department, who said, in part:

"Our words can only partially express what we think, and can scarcely suggest what we feel, but we honor with sincere appreciation the life and work of Father Zephyrin Engelhardt, an earnest seeker after truth, a thorough scholar, a loyal friend, a gentle but courageous spirit, a lover of birds and flowers and mankind, an authentically great man who, though dead, yet speaketh, and will continue to speak down through the years in the historical story of the missions he wrote with painstaking care from faded and crumbling documents, left by many men who walked in faith."

Santa Barbara will feature a water and land carnival, June 28-30. One of the attractions will be an outdoor pageant, "Padre Junipero Serra."

The University of California at Berkeley, Alameda County, graduated nearly 2,800 students May 18, at its seventy-first commencement.

Native Sons of the Golden West

OAKLAND—LAKEMONT NO. 275 WAS instituted May 15 by Justice Emmet Seawell, Grand President, assisted by Past Grand Charles L. Dodge, Grand First Vice Chas. A. Koenig, Grand Second Vice Harmon D. Skillin, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Treasurer John A. Corotto, Grand Marshal Gam Hurst, Grand Trustees Chas. H. Spengemann, Thomas M. Foley, Jesse H. Miller, John M. Burnett and Edward T. Schnarr. Out of a charter roll of sixty-one, thirty-five new members for the Parlor were initiated by a team of grand officers constituted as follows: Grand Secretary Regan, president; Grand Second Vice Skillin, junior past; Past Grand Dodge, senior past; Grand Trustee Miller, first vice; Grand First Vice Koenig, second vice; Grand Trustee Schnarr, third vice; Grand Marshal Hurst, marshal; Grand Trustee Foley, inside sentinel. Among the initiates were Gustavus A. Winn and his son, Ritner B. Winn, grandson and great-grandson, respectively, of General Andrew Maver Winn, Founder of the Order of Native Sons.

The following officers of Lakemont were installed by District Deputy Felix Robson, assisted by Frank Perry, Frank P. Smith, E. W. Cooney, Frank Roemer, Joseph Ehrhart, Henry Uebner, R. M. Hamb, Walter Melvin Davis, George Delucchi, Malcolm McGowan, B. L. Deulise, Edgar G. Hansen, Alfred DeBenedetti and Edw. Ginocchio: Dr. Carl G. Buechele, president; Louis J. Zimmerman, junior past president; Dr. John M. Ward, senior past president; Joseph R. Deasy, first vice-president; Rupert R. Ryan, second vice-president; George E. Reed, third vice-president; Joseph F. Roberts, recording secretary; William J. Dieves, financial secretary and treasurer; James L. Donohue, marshal; Henry A. Donovan, inside sentinel; Melvin P. Dias, outside sentinel; John J. Hurley, James P. McNally, Daniel T. Reynolds, trustees. Following the initiatory ceremonies a motion prevailed that Brooklyn No. 151 surrender its charter to the Grand Parlor and be merged with Lakemont. Addresses were delivered by President Buechele of the new Parlor, Grand President Seawell and Gustavus Winn.

Prizes for California History Programs.

Hayward—Sponsored by Eden No. 113, the Native Sons early California history committee has been organized to promote in the high schools of Alameda County programs featuring some phase of California history to be portrayed in little plays at one of their regular assemblies next fall. Prizes will be given to high school efforts, and not to individuals, and the Parent Teachers Association will judge all assemblies. Eden and other Parlors of the county will provide the prizes.

The committee, headed by George H. Oakes of No. 113 as chairman, includes John J. Allen, vice-chairman; W. Paden; Principal Biedenbach of Berkeley; Messrs. Ewing and Givens of the Oakland Board of Education; David Martin, superintendent Alameda County schools; District Attorney Earl Warren; Professor F. P. Johnson of Hayward; Judge Alan Norris; Ernest Schween; Judge Manley Clark; Thomas W. Norris; James Wales; Judge Allison Bruner; William Knowland.

The high schools of the county are taking great interest in the contest, and are already sending in the dates of their assemblies. The principals of all the Oakland high schools have promised full co-operation, and unqualified support is assured by Berkeley, Alameda City, Centerville, Hayward, Pleasanton and Livermore.

NATIVE SONS NEWS BRIEFS.

Sacramento—Sacramento No. 3 petitioned the City Council May 12 to erect a monument to the late William Land, who bequeathed a park to the city and founded the Ann Land Memorial Fund.

Oroville—Argonaut No. 8 has presented to the N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Relics Building an attractive standard for holding the United States of America and California State (Bear) Flags. It is constructed of native rock, and is embellished with a shovel, a pick, a sluicebox and a goldpan. The committee that planned the adornment for the building included President Frank W. Boyle, Cyril Macdonald, Frank O'Brien, W. K. Palmer and M. G. Parker.

Santa Rosa—Several members of Santa Rosa No. 28 and Santa Rosa No. 217 N.D.G.W. chartered a bus and attended the Grand Parlor dance at Ukiah May 22. The Parlor initiated six candidates May 10. In the rose festival parade May 19, No. 28's entry was awarded second prize.

Suisun—Solano No. 39 entertained at a stag smoker May 1, and among the many visitors were large delegations from Napa No. 62 and Vallejo No. 77. President Charles Mayfield Jr. was master of ceremonies, and among the speakers were Joseph Clavo, George Weniger, Kenneth I. Jones, E. E. Long, John McCarron and Fred Cuthbertson.

Colusa—Colusa No. 69 entertained Colus No. 194 N.D.G.W. April 30. An elaborate entertainment program was followed by refreshments and dancing. The boys put on a fashion show as a feature attraction, and a fishpond "stunt" netted each guest a josh present.

Calistoga—Calistoga No. 86 observed May 7 its forty-eighth institution anniversary. With Rev. T. J. McKeon as the president, past presidents filled the several stations. A fine spirit was manifest, and there were laughs a-plenty. Refreshments were served. Following a baseball contest May 13, the Parlor members had a "dutch" picnic.

Ferndale—Ferndale No. 93 initiated four additional candidates May 7. The horseshoe tournament between the Humboldt County Parlors was won by No. 93, which has entered a team in the Playground League and is taking active interest in all affairs. The Parlor, as is its annual custom, sponsored the observance of Memorial Day. The committee in charge included J. Bagnuda (chairman), R. C. Jacobsen, R. A. Grinsell, V. Givins and J. W. Trigg.

Livermore—There were fifty-seven entries in the California history essay contest of Las Positas No. 96 this year. First prize went to Wilbur Sherman, second to Renee Gallagher, third to Mae Gomes, fourth to Loretta Madsen, fifth to Winifred Smiley and sixth to Grace Bargmann.

San Diego—San Diego No. 108 had a very interesting meeting May 9, when James Murphy and Fred Kaland gave the members a grand spanish steak dinner. The Parlor had its forty-seventh annual picnic May 27 at La Felicita Park, near Escondido.

San Bernardino—Arrowhead No. 110 initiated nine candidates May 16, the ritual being exemplified by the officers, headed by President Leslie D. Case. The annual roundup will be held June 9. Winston George is chairman of the arrangements committee. Lemar McGarvey heads the committee arranging for the Parlor's annual July 4 barbecue.

Hayward—Eden No. 113 had a "firemen and policemen night" May 8 and there was a very large attendance. Four candidates were initiated by a team from Fruitvale No. 252, and a group from Las Positas No. 96 put on that Parlor's "side degree." Principal speakers of the evening were Fire Chief Manuel G. Riggs and Police Chief Louis J. Silva.

Santa Barbara—Santa Barbara No. 116 featured an old-fashioned home-cooked dinner May 17. A ten-act vaudeville program was presented. Leland Holiday was chairman of the evening, C. Wesley McCormick the head chef, President James E. Sloan the toastmaster, and Alfred Kingwell the master of ceremonies.

Oakland—Piedmont No. 120 will hold its annual spring dance at La Honda Bowl, on the San Pablo Dam road, Contra Costa County, Saturday evening, June 2. Dancing 9 to 12. The arrangements committee includes Henry M. Weber (chairman), J. J. Dignan, F. Roemer, F. Smith, Gam Hurst and Arnold Halstead.

Nicasio—Nicasio No. 183 will celebrate its forty-second institution anniversary with a dance June 16. The three surviving charter members, J. L. Redding, John McIsaac and Frank Rodgers, will be honored guests.

CHAS. A. KOENIG, ELECTED AND INstalled as Grand President of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West at the Ukiah Grand Parlor, is affiliated with Golden Gate Parlor No. 29, San Francisco. Following his induction into office, he briefly addressed the assemblage, saying:

"I have just had the honor and the pleasure of having placed on my shoulders the regalia of Grand President of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West. It has for the past year adorned the shoulders of Junior Past Grand President Emmet Seawell, a distinguished citizen elevated by the people to the highest court of this State, an acknowledged orator, one who has brought great credit to our Order and has attracted favorable comment as Grand President. I do not come to this office with these qualifications, but can only offer you leadership from practical experience gained as a member of the order for thirty-two years, and for twenty-three years as member of the Grand Parlor.

"It is my intention to organize the grand officers, members of the Grand Parlor committees, district deputy grand presidents and deputy grand presidents at large as an Organization Committee in the various sections throughout the State and, through this group of members, hope to increase the membership of the Order. The policy of organization as announced by Grand President Seawell at the beginning of his term—that no paid organizer would be maintained during his term—will be continued this term. The same awards for the largest increase of members and the largest percentage of members gained will prevail.

"The delegates to this Grand Parlor should bear in mind that they were elected as such, and that active service in their Subordinate Parlors is expected in return for the honor conferred upon them by the members thereof, and they should return this confidence by giving service to the Order. The Secretaries of Subordinate Parlors are urged to make every effort to reduce the number of delinquent members on the rolls and to call upon the Lapsation Committees to assist them.

"Brothers! This is your Order. If it is worth while to you, it should be worth your time to BOOST its work to all native Californians. If you value your membership in the Order, you should regard it enough to have someone share it with you. During this term, let it be our aim to unite for the upbuilding of our Order. Let us pledge our best efforts unceasingly, unsparingly and unselfishly."

At the conclusion of his remarks, Grand President Koenig announced that his appointments of committeemen, district deputies and deputy grand presidents would appear in The Grizzly Bear for June. Here they are:

Native Daughters of the Golden West

OAKLAND—LAKEMONT NO. 259, ORganized by Mrs. Evelyn Perry, was instituted May 16 by Grand President Irma W. Laird, assisted by Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Secretary; Anna Thuesen, Grand Marshal; Ethel Begley and Orinda Giannini, Grand Trustees; Sue J. Irwin and Evelyn I. Carlson, Past Grand Presidents; Alice H. Dougherty, Past Grand Secretary; Dora Brayton, supervising deputy; Lillus Kelly (Calistoga No. 145), acting past grand president; Gertrude LaFortune (Keith No. 137), acting grand treasurer; Ida Mesquite (Ano Nuevo No. 180), acting grand vice-president; May Mills (Bahia Vista No. 167), acting grand organist; Phyllis Kelly (Calistoga No. 145), acting grand inside sentinel; Antoinette Hecht (Marinita No. 198), acting grand outside sentinel. From a list of forty-five applicants, thirty-four were present for the institution. The salute to the Flag was led by Grand Marshal Thuesen, and the Divine blessing was invoked by Acting Past Grand Kelly. The ritual was exemplified by the Alameda County deputies, and a quartet,—Ann Quinn, Imelda Smith, Mary Mills, Elsie Derickson, all of Bahia Vista No. 167—accompanied by Organist May Mills, sang "I Love You, California," and "California Lullaby."

The following officers of Lakemont were installed by Supervising Deputy Brayton, assisted by Grand Secretary Thaler, Grand Marshal Thuesen, Grand Trustees Begley and Giannini, Past Grands Irwin and Carlson, Past Grand Secretary Dougherty, and Carmelita Luhr (Aloha No. 106), acting grand marshal: Catherine Joyce, president; Consuela Soran, past president; Thelma Pickrell, first vice-president; Margaret Pickrell, second vice-president; Melba Petterson, third vice-president; Margaret Cronin, organist; Joan Powers, recording secretary; Nora O'Leary, financial secretary; Henrietta Shields, marshal; Muriel Cronin, treasurer; Evelyn Perry, inside sentinel; Maybelle Fisher, outside sentinel; Mildred Zimmerman, Catherine O'Connell, Marie Mizner, trustees.

Grand President Laird outlined the history of the Order and explained its projects; she stressed the value of true fraternalism. Past Grand Carlson extended good wishes for the Parlor's future prosperity. Past Grand Irwin said she hoped the members of Lakemont would realize the opportunity extended them to serve California and the Order, and voiced a wish that they would originate new ideas. Supervising Deputy Brayton pledged her services at all times. Other speakers were Grand Marshal Thuesen and Past Grand Secretary Dougherty. President Joyce presented the organizer, Evelyn Perry, with a basket of flowers sent by the newly-instituted Lakemont No. 275 N.S.G.W.

Reminiscences of Pioneer Mothers Please.

Etna—Mothers of Native Daughters and older mothers of Scott Valley were complimented at a party given by Eschscholtzia No. 112, Mothers Day. Flowers found in old-fashioned gardens were used effectively in decorating the hall. After a few words of welcome from President Lottie Tucker, an entertaining program was presented under the direction of Grand Trustee Minna K. Horn. Following the program, refreshments were served at tables attractively decorated with pansies.

Since Scott Valley, a mining and farming center as early as 1854, has a most colorful history, the interesting reminiscences of the Pioneer Mothers were heard with the greatest pleasure. One guest had lived in the valley for eighty-one years. Another, ninety-two years old, had won honorable mention in a recent newspaper contest in which the oldest mothers in "superior" California were listed. She failed to receive the medal, however, for she was too young! The afternoon was greatly enjoyed by guests and hostesses alike and, as it drew to a close, there were many expressions of mutual pleasure and of satisfaction in the fact that this May gathering of mothers and Native Daughters has become an established custom.

Spirit of True Fraternity Prevails.

Santa Ana—Santa Ana No. 235 initiated one candidate and entertained several visitors from Long Beach No. 154 and Grace No. 242, April 23. Deputy Violet Henshilwood complimented President Mae West and the other officers for their work, and spoke of the spirit of true fraternity and harmony prevailing among the members of the Parlor, and the hospitality extended all visitors. Other speakers were Supervising Deputy Nellie Cline and Deputy Mattie Edwards.

A benefit dance recital was presented May 18. Chairman Muriel Bray plans also a benefit garden party at her home early in June. More than seventy-five mothers of Santa Ana and vicinity attended the pioneer tea May 14. Mrs. Mary Levingood, longest in Santa Ana in attendance, and Mrs. Elizabeth McLeod, oldest in age, were given boquets. Recent meetings of the thimble club were held at the homes of Elizabeth Marsile and Muriel Bray.

"Welcome, Our Irma."

San Rafael—The rich colors of Spain, reflected in fans, shawls, costumes and flowers, predominated when Grand President Irma W. Laird paid her official visit to Marinita No. 198. The officers of the Parlor formed a semicircle and so held their fans that they read "Welcome, Our Irma." Eugenia Watson and Helen Morris Kientz, accompanied by Alice Kientz, favored with dances. Four candidates were initiated. Grand President Laird highly praised the ritual exemplification by President Bertha Wilson and her staff, and eulogized the Parlor for its progress.

Among the many in attendance were Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Grand Trustees Orinda Giannini, Alice Lane, Willow Borba and Ethel Begley, Past Grands Eliza D. Keith, Margaret G. Hill, Emma G. Foley and Evelyn I. Carlson, Supervising Deputy Delphine Todt and Deputy Myrtle Divita. Grand Trustee Begley, chairman of the evening, was assisted by Ora Perry, Irene Griffin, Antoinette Hecht, Gussie Bannister, Gresty Mazza and Hilma Kane. Refreshments were served following the meeting, and a dinner preceded it.

Many mothers attended the annual Mothers Day program of Marinita, May 14. Each member of the Parlor introduced her mother, told where she was born and presented her with a corsage. A program was presented by Polly Paretto, Antoinette Hecht, Marguerite Brusatori, Evelyn Griffin, Bertha Watson, the Hi Nellies, Tess Morgan and Alice Kientz. Te members staged a pantomime, "A Bachelor Reverie." Supper was served at an attractivel decorated table centered with a huge birthda cake inscribed "Mother." Bertha Watson a ranged the program, and Alice Glassford ha charge of the refreshments.

Past Presidents Have Annual Meet.

Oakland—The twelfth annual convention the General Association of Past Presiden N.D.G.W. met April 21, with Chief Presider Winifred Halter presiding. Mrs. Elsie Haven Association No. 2 extended greetings to the a sembled delegates. A no-hostess luncheon wa held at noon. At a banquet in the evening a past chief officers, chief officers, delegates an permanent members were guests of Associatio No. 2. Entertainment was provided by variot associations.

Newly elected officers of the General Associ tion are: Margaret Grote-Hill, chief president Emily Clifford, chief vice-president; Anna Lose chief secretary; Emma Foley, chief treasurer Mamie Davis, chief marshal; Edna Sampso chief inside sentinel; Willow Borba, chief ou side sentinel; A. Laughlin, chief organist; Ma tie Stein, Edith Kelly, Alice Roll, Alta Baldwi Ann Dippel, Emily Lawson, chief directors.

Sixteen Initiated.

San Jose—Vendome No. 100 was officially vi ited by Grand President Irma W. Laird, Apr 25, and a dinner preceded the great meetin Two truckloads of Santa Clara County's lovelie blooms were used in the decorations, and t next day they were sent to convalescent mem bers and friends. While Mrs. Hazel Haub san "Beautiful Garden of Roses," Mrs. Laird wa escorted to her station under an arbor of rose

Sixteen candidates were initiated. The Pa lor's officers, headed by Mrs. Anita Moore, wer attired in white evening gowns. A special dril team in gowns of rainbow-tinted net over sil foundations of like shades, added much to th scene's beauty. Among the many in attendanc were Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Gran Marshal Anna Thuesen, Grand Trustee Eth Begley, Grand Organist Clara Gairaud, Pa Grands Bertha A. Briggs, Margaret Grote Hi and Eliza D. Keith, Supervising Deputy Sad Brainard, Deputy Genevieve Epler and delega tions from numerous Parlors.

A tableau, "The Living Flag," was feature by the drillteam at the meeting's close. A gi of silver was Vendome's expression to Gran President Laird; the Parlor's past presiden club presented her with a lovely bag and, recognition of the great work done this year the Native Daughters, Observatory No. 17 N.S.G.W. sent her a silver vase. Communit singing during the refreshment hour, with Gran Organist Gairaud directing and Miss Tillie Br haska at the piano, was greatly enjoyed. Favo were candy trees in flowerpots, and decorat song booklets. Mms. Hazel Haub (general chai man), Alice Kady and Ella Graham were charge for the evening. May 9 the Parlor had dinner whist. A potluck dinner, honoring th mothers of members, and kiddie party May 2 were hugely enjoyed. Mms. Alice Roll, Franc Riley and Stella Baggs constituted the commi tee in charge.

EXCLUSION

"Filipinos, although racially ineligible to citizenship, have been admitted without restriction as subjects of the nation. The unfortunate results of such immigration induced an appeal to Congress in 1930 asking for immediate exclusion of Filipinos and the Philippine independence bill as recently passed includes a provision for limiting immigration during the ten or more probationary years preceding independence to 50 per year. Thereafter there will be absolute exclusion unless the present exclusion provision is repealed. The independence law is now in effect having received the approval of the Philippine Legislature in May 1st.

"The evils of Mexican immigration in California are now recognized even by former advocates thereof. Hundreds of thousands entered legally under the 1924 Act, and perhaps as many more illegally to escape the head tax. President Hoover's visa restriction order reduced legal entries during the last two years to a minimum, but had no effect on illegal entries. Counties of the State during the past two years have shipped Mexican indigents to the border in trainload lots. Los Angeles alone spent over $150,000 for the purpose, the last trainload departing in April. These repatriated Mexicans, however, are recrossing the border and imposing themselves again on the communities which formerly supported them. Many, if not most of the Mexican immigrants, are Indian peons, racially ineligible to American citizenship."

SACRAMENTO NATIVE SONS ORGANIZE FOR ADMISSION DAY.

Sacramento—This city having been awarded the 1934 statewide Admission Day celebration by the Ukiah Grand Parlor, the local Native Sons organized May 26 a joint committee to handle the details. The officers are: Walton E. Holmes, chairman; June Longshore, vice-chairman; Albert W. Katzenstein, secretary; George A. Burns, treasurer.

On the joint committee the Parlors are represented by the following: Sacramento No. 3—Roy C. Cothrin, J. G. Fitzhenry, Irving D. Gibson, June Longshore, George A. Burns. Sunset No. 26—Edward E. Reese, Walton E. Holmes, Chester F. Gannon, L. W. Marvin, H. J. Strachan. Sutter Fort No. 241—J. E. Knowles, L. P. Ferron, E. F. Leavitt, C. L. Katzenstein, Albert W. Katzenstein.

POPULAR HOTEL MANAGERS.

Wm. H. "Bill" Hanlon has been appointed manager of the Senator Hotel in Sacramento.

Abe Jacobs who, at various times, has managed hotels in Sacramento, San Francisco and Fresno, has been appointed manager of the Ambassador Hotel in San Francisco.

Leaves of the dandelion have a high mineral and vitamin content, and because of this, Federal Government nutritionists recommend their use. Many families, it has been found, can make frequent use of dandelion greens while the plants are young and tender. Green and yellow vegetables, especially sweet potatoes and carrots, are rich in carotin—the source of vitamin A.

Eureka, Humboldt County, is arranging an Independence Day celebration for July 4 that promises to eclipse any previous effort along that line.

Healdsburg, Sonoma County, is sponsoring a Russian River Fiesta, June 20-22.

In Memoriam

ADDIE L. MOSHER (P.G.P.)

To the Officers and Members of Piedmont Parlor No. 87 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our departed sister and a Past Grand President of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, Addie L. Mosher, submit the following:

In our Mother's Garden has been added another flower, and it is with deep sorrow that we bow to the will of our Heavenly Father, who has removed from our midst a very worthy member and a true, loyal Native Daughter, who has given unselfishly of her time and worked untiringly and tirelessly for the promotion of the projects of the N.D.G.W. Especially was she actively interested in our Homeless Children's work and our Native Daughters Home. In her passing, Piedmont Parlor No. 87 has lost a highly respected and devoted member, and our Order, another Past Grand President, and her family, a devoted wife and loving mother.

Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain.
To have, to love, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never—
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.

Therefore, be it Resolved, That we extend our sincere and heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family, and further be it resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of our departed sister, that a copy be spread in full upon the minutes of this Parlor, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear for publication.

Respectfully submitted,
GRETTA MURDEN,
JOSEPHINE CLARK,
DOROTHY HADLEN,
AUGUSTA E. HUXSOL,
Committee.

Oakland, May 3, 1934.

ANNA LYDIA MONROE (P.G.P.)

To the Officers and Members of Ononta Parlor No. 71 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of love and respect to the memory of our deceased sister, Past Grand President Anna Lydia Monroe, respectfully submit the following:

Again our Heavenly Father has seen fit to enter our Parlor and remove from our midst, to the Grand Parlor on High, our beloved sister, Past Grand President Anna Lydia Monroe.

Whereas, In view of our great loss and the far greater loss to those to whom she was dearest and nearest, therefore be it

Resolved, That though we bow to His decree with our hearts so saddened, we know of no one better yet the memory of [illegible] will be a comfort and inspiration to us for all time. We shall [illegible] your sister—for,

Not dead to those who love her,
And the [illegible] cross to be,
Will God unfold the purpose,
And reveal the reason why.
The dark threads were as needful,
In the weaver's skilful hands,
As the threads of gold and silver,
In the pattern which he planned.

To the bereaved daughters and other relatives we extend our heartfelt sympathy and commend them to Him who doeth all things well. Be it further resolved, That our charter be draped for a period of thirty days, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the daughters of the deceased sister, that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication and that a copy be spread in full upon the minutes of our Parlor.

Respectfully submitted in P.G.P.A.,
MYRA RUMRILL,
HAZEL E. ROBERTS,
VERNA H. PEERS,
Committee.

Ferndale, May 11, 1934.

ADDIE L. MOSHER (P.G.P.)

The undersigned having been appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of Past Grand President Addie L. Mosher, offer this message of regret and condolence:

Whereas, Our Order has been bereft of a loyal member who through years of service and devotion to the principles of the N.D.G.W. was elevated to the highest office within our organization, and in whose passing the N.D.G.W. Home Committee lost a valued member—loyal and interested to the last. Be it

Resolved, That heartfelt sympathy be extended to Piedmont Parlor No. 87 N.D.G.W., to the Grand Parlor N.D.G.W. Home Committee of which she was a member for fifteen consecutive years, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved husband and children, whom we commend to our Heavenly Father for comfort; and be it further resolved, that these resolutions be published in The Grizzly Bear Magazine and a copy be spread in the minutes of the Home Committee.

"And at home in the beautiful hills of God
By the valley of rest so fair,
Some day—some time, when our work is done,
With joy—we shall meet her there."

EVELYN I. CARLSON, P.G.P.,
SALLIE R. THALER, Grand Secretary,
EMMA G. FOLEY, P.G.P.,
Committee.

Countersigned DR. MARIANA BERTOLA (P.G.P.), Chairman, EMMA G. FOLEY (P.G.P.), Secretary, Grand Parlor N.D.G.W. Home Committee.

San Francisco, May 7, 1934.

LILLIE B. BROWN.

To the Officers and Members of Calistoga Parlor No. 145 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our departed sister, Lillie B. Brown, "Mother of this Parlor," respectfully submit the following:

Whereas, Again the Angel of Death has entered our Parlor and taken from our midst our dearly beloved sister, her family a devoted and loving mother, the community a citizen who was always ready and willing to help and do for others—

Not dead to those who love her,
Not lost but gone before,
She lives with us in memory,
And will forever more.

Whereas, in the passing of Sister Lillie Brown, we have lost an earnest and faithful worker in her quiet way, therefore, be it

Resolved That we extend the sympathy of the Parlor to her bereaved family, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes, one sent the family and another to The Grizzly Bear for publication.

Respectfully submitted,
MYRTLE SIEMSEN,
ELLA LIGHT,
KATIE BUTLER.

Calistoga, May 14, 1934.

CLARA STEINER.

To the Officers and Members of Forrest Parlor No. 86 N.D.G.W.—On April 26, 1934, at her home in Oakland, the final summons came for our Sister Clara Steiner, and she answered trustfully, strong in the faith that in the House of Many Mansions there was prepared a place for her. Sister Steiner was a charter member of this Parlor and neither time nor distance nor personal affairs had ever lessened her interest in our Order and the Parlor.

Because we feel that we have lost a most loyal and worthy member, we suggest that our charter be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days and that this report be spread in full upon the minutes of the Parlor. As an expression of our deep sympathy for her family, we ask that a copy of this report be sent to them. We also recommend that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

Respectfully submitted,
MARGUERITE DAVIS,
SADIE TIPPETT.

SAN FRANCISCO

GOLDEN GATE PARLOR NO. 29 N.S.G.W. celebrated its fiftieth institution anniversary, as well as the election of one of its members, Chas. A. Koenig, to the Grand Presidency of the Order, with a dinner-dance May 26. More than three hundred members and their ladies were in attendance. Golden Gate was instituted May 2, 1884, by Grand President John A. Steinbach, with forty-seven members and assets of $300. The first president was James I. Boland, and the first secretary Charles T. Stanley. The Parlor now has a membership of 333, and assets of $16,500.

William M. Roll, president of No. 29, with brief remarks introduced Harry W. Gaetjen as the toastmaster. Addresses were made by Grand First Vice-president Harmon D. Skillin and Adolph Eberhart, for forty-four years recording secretary of the Parlor. The latter gave a brief history of Golden Gate, and introduced three of the charter members—Charles Henry Connell, George Adrion Brin and Henry Clay Schmitt—and stated that seven others still maintaining their membership could not be present either because of illness or residing at too great a distance from the city.

Grand President Koenig delivered the address of the evening. Prior to his introduction, Toastmaster Gaetjen presented to him, on behalf of the officers and members of Golden Gate, a beautiful clock. He said he was the first member of the Parlor to be elected Grand President, and he felt greatly honored on being the one selected by the Parlor to fill this high office. Past Grand President Judge Frank H. Dunne is a member of Golden Gate, but at the time of his election to the grand presidency he was affiliated with Columbia Parlor No. 121, which consolidated with No. 29.

A very fine entertainment followed the speaking, and thereafter dancing was in order until the wee sma' hours. In addition to those above referred to, Toastmaster Gaetjen introduced the following: Grand Second Vice-president J. Hartley Russell, Grand Third Vice-president Eldred L. Meyer, Grand Secretary John T. Regan and Grand Trustee Charles H. Spengemann.

"COUNTRY" PARLORS HOLD SWAY.

The May Breakfast at the Native Daughter Home was an outstanding event in many respects. It was the first occasion on which Parlors of "country districts" had officiated as hostesses—those of Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito Counties. Supervising Deputy Rose Rhyner presided during the program, with "The Pioneer Mother" as its theme. The invocation was delivered by Past Grand Bertha A. Briggs, who also presided during the introduction of notables of the Order and representatives of the hostess Parlors. The musical part of the program consisted of community singing, a vocal number by Leona Geyer, vocal selections by Marjorie McCray Thompson and a song by a group of Santa Cruz members. Mayme Moran gave a toast to mothers. Past Grand Stella Finkeldey was the speaker of the day, with "The Pioneer Mother" as her subject. A reading by Gladys Dodd was posed by Matilda Fry. Mrs. Catherine Nyland related interesting stories of the Donner Party, she being a direct descendant of the Breen family of that ill-fated group. Mayme Avila spoke on the history of San Juan Bautista Mission, and Past Grand Ariana W. Stirling responded to a toast to mothers. Interesting talks were given by Grand President Irma W. Laird, Past Grands Eliza D. Keith and Emma Foley.

Representatives of each of the hostess Parlors told of the history and activities of their respective Parlors and communities. Marjorie Dellamonica speaking for Santa Cruz No. 26, Mildred Peers for Aleli No. 102, Ida M. Green for Copa de Oro No. 105 and Blanche Taix for San Juan Bautista No. 179. Favors representative of products and industries of the different communities were presented—tiny sacks of honeydew sugar from Salinas, tuberous begonia bulbs from Santa Cruz, apple blossoms cunningly devised out of dried apples from Watsonville, golden gleam nasturtium seeds from San Juan Bautista, and dried prunes from Hollister with a prize-winning recipe for prune cake—all wrapped attractively in cellophane paper in the colors of the Order. The hostess Parlors were represented in goodly numbers and, in addition, groups were present from fourteen other Parlors.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS NEWS BRIEFS.

Orinda Parlor No. 56 had its annual mothers banquet May 11, with a large crowd in attendance. Mothers of the members of the Parlor were special guests, and each received a lovely pin as a gift. The tables were beautifully decorated in pastel shades, and at each plate was a small maypole. In the center of the guests' table was a large maypole with dancing dolls, and each mother had a doll named after her. The dramatic club supplied entertainment, and games were played. Louise Junker was chairman of the evening. May 13, Grand President Irma W. Laird unofficially visited the Parlor. This was also the annual birthday party given Grand Trustee Orinda Giannini. Among the many others present were Grand Trustees Alice Lane and Fthel Begley, Grand Marshal Anna Thuesen, Past Grands Eliza Keith, Emma Foley and Evelyn Carlson, and Deputy Mae Waring. Also at this time, Orinda initiated its one hundredth member.

Members and friends of La Estrella No. 89 recently celebrated the Parlor's institution anniversary. The beautiful table decorations were of pink and green colorings. Mrs. Georgia Thierback and Past Grand May C. Boldemann were hostesses of the evening.

Genevieve Parlor No. 132 entertained its charter members. President Belle Foley welcomed them and presented each with a token of esteem. Honored guests were Margaret Counihan, Mary Walthers, Mary Denike, Emma Mathewson, Mamie Rooney, May Richards and Agnes Regan, and among the visitors was Deputy Edna Bishop. A mock wedding, depicting Mr. and Mrs. James Foley and presented by officers and members attired in old-fashioned costumes, and a spirited virginia reel added much to the evening's enjoyment. Other numbers on the program were contributed by Lillian Troy, Mamie O'Leary, Nora Schefflin, Katie Ford and Rena Taube. Eugenia Mabelly headed the refreshment committee. In appreciation of their activity to promote sociability in the Parlor, President Foley had a surprise recently for members of the drum corps. For the Parlor's relief fund, President Foley has made and donated a beautiful afghan, which will be disposed of; Rena Taube is in charge.

Mothers of Gabrielle Parlor No. 139 were honored by the members with a banquet. Each mother was pres nted with a gift.

Dolores Parlor No. 169 celebrated, May 9, Mothers Day by entertaining the mothers of the members at an informal reception. A very delightful program was presented by Ann Godfrey, Betty Marcus, Doris and Beverly Nelson, Ethel Browning and the Hill Nellys. Refreshments were served at beautifully decorated tables, and each mother was presented with a token. Past Grand Evelyn I. Carlson, chairman of the evening, paid a sweet and lovely tribut to all mothers.

Linda Rosa Parlor No. 170 observed Mothe Day by serving a potluck dinner, and it was s successful another will be served in the nea future. Chairman Janet Wellde was assisted b Emily V. Taylor. Mrs. Neva Coughrean ha charge of the May 23 whist, which was a gre success.

NATIVE SONS NEWS BRIEFS.

Pacific Parlor No. 10 initiated a class of fiv candidates May 8. Among the speakers of th evening were Past Grand Dr. Frank I. Gonzale Mayor Angelo Rossi, F. H. Dam and Coron Dr. T. B. W. Leland. Several members of th Parlor paid a visit April 23 to Petaluma Parl No. 27 and had a merry time; Walter Bamma directed the excursion. Pacific will hold i annual picnic at Saratoga Park, June 17.

Stanford Parlor No. 76 featured charter men bers—Edward J. Casey (chairman), E. J. A gelo, Edward F. Franks, Robert Kalmuk, Wi liam J. McMurray, Fredk. J. Meckfessel, Ric J. Mier, Jesse H. and successful. The profits will purchase uniforms for the indoor baseball team.

University will have nomination of officers June 6, and election will be June 13. A barbecue under the direction of George Woods will be held at the ranch of Neil Woods' parents in Boquet Canyon June 24. The Parlor's ball team is entered in the Nite League, which starts soon. It has been very successful in practice games, for two reasons: the pitching of Stanley Parker and T. Carl Martin Jr., and the grandstand assistance of feminine fans—Mms. Carl Martin, Stanley Parker, Paul Ulm and Billie Griffin, Misses Winnie Rich and Irene Kenta, and others.

SUN DIAL DEDICATED TO MOTHERS.

Long Beach—In observance of Mothers Day, Long Beach Parlor No. 154 N.D.G.W. placed a sun dial in its memory garden in Recreation Park, May 12, and dedicated it to the Pioneer Mothers of California. After the dedication members, and their mothers as guests, enjoyed a delightful program and dainty refreshments at the home of Past President Clara Fay. Past President Kate McFadyen was chairman of the day.

May 11 the Parlor sponsored a delightful and profitable card party at the home of Elnora Martin. The thimble club met at the home of Mrs. Taber, May 24, and had a miscellaneous shower for Past President Eleanor Johnson, who is to be married June 6. The Parlor enjoyed a history program May 17. In a mission contest, a prize was awarded Margaret Burch. Kate McFadyen was in charge. Long Beach is making plans for a cooked-food sale June 16.

FIRST DANCE MARKED SUCCESS.

Compton—The initial dance of Compton Parlor No. 273 N.S.G.W., May 16, was a marked success, some 250 persons enjoying the evening immensely. The people of Compton like the Native Sons' way of entertainment, and the goodfellowship that prevails at all their affairs. The committee in charge of the dance included W. Don Castillo (chairman), Ray L. Adams, Fred Smith, Roy Hood and Walter Hopcraft. About the middle of June another dance will probably be given.

"PIONEER NIGHT" AT SAN PEDRO.

San Pedro—Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W. had several guests May 7, among them Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel B. Hansen, Florence Dodson-Schoneman, former grand trustee, Deputy Flora Holy and President Katherine Worsham of Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245. May 19 a pie sale was held at a downtown store, and May 21 a bunco party was featured. Bernice Drant was chairman for both affairs.

June 4, Rudecinda will have a "pioneer night." All the members will appear in costumes of former years.

PRESIDENT HONORED ON BIRTHDAY.

Glendale—Mothers were honored by Verdugo Parlor No. 240 N.D.G.W. May 8. Mary Miller furnished appropriate music. Ione Gillett and Dorothy Courtney were in charge. The benefit card party at the home of Dorothy Ravn, May 12, was a huge success. May 15 the Parlor gave its veteran in San Fernando Hospital gifts and a birthday cake. Vera Carlson, assisted by Ione Gillett, entertained members of the Parlor at her home May 22, in honor of President Margaret Donlan, the date being her birthday anniversary.

Verdugo is sponsoring a dinner dance at 8:30 p.m. of June 2 at the Chevy Chase Country Club. Vera Carlson, the chairman, is being assisted by Evelyn Wilson. Phone DOuglas 8317 for reservations.

ANNIVERSARY OUTING.

In observance of its forty-seventh institution anniversary, Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. will stage its annual stag barbecue at Walker's Ranch in Placeritas Canyon near Newhall, June 10. Admission, including lunch, 65 cents. The committee in charge—Charles Gassagne, Charles Straube, "Bill" Bright, G. M. Guzman and Ernest Orfila—assures "plenty of food, fun and fraternity." All Native Sons welcome.

Ramona will have initiation June 8, and a sociable to which the womenfolks are invited, will be featured June 22.

HALL ASSOCIATION ELECTS DIRECTORS.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Native Sons Hall Association of Los Angeles, May 3, the following directors were elected: John T. Newell, Sil. A. Lazard, Willard C. Allen, Dwight Crittenden and John J. Ford. At a later meeting the directors organized by electing Crittenden, president; Ford, vice-president; Allen, secretary; Lazard, treasurer.

MEMORIAL SERVICES.

Memorial services will be held June 3, 3:30 p.m., in the Native Sons and Native Daughters Memorial Grove in Griffith Park. The ceremonies, sponsored by the Interparlor Committee, are in charge of a subcommittee headed by Mrs. Mary Noerenberg. Justice Emmet Seawell of the California Supreme Court, Junior Past Grand President N.S.G.W., will be the principal speaker.

GOOD SPEAKERS AT LUNCHEON CLUB.

Speakers at the Native Sons Luncheon Club during May were Dr. Charles Cunningham, former Native Sons traveling history fellow; Ray L. Riley, state controller; T. S. Scrogg, manager Los Angeles agency R.F.C.; John Perry Wood, judge Los Angeles County Superior Court. The respective chairmen were Ralph Garnier, Percy Eisen, Municipal Judge Newcomb Conc and Robert Ford.

The club gathers every Friday at 12:15 noon at the Rosslyn Hotel. All Native Sons and their friends are welcome, and there is always a good speaker who imparts information that all citizens should be glad to receive.

EDWOOD NATIONAL FOREST TO BE CREATED IN CALIFORNIA.

Plans for establishment by the United States rest Service of the first Redwood National rest in California were announced by Regional rester S. B. Show, on receipt of notice of ap- oval of the project by the National Forest Res- ation Commission at Washington, D. C.

"The national forests of California," says ow, "although covering one-fifth of the land a of the state, do not have within their bor- rs an adequate example of the redwood type forest. It is proposed, therefore, to acquire area of 200,000 or more ac es of virgin and t-over timber lands in the redwood region in ler to secure through Federal ownership and nagement a planned development and stabili- ion of the economic life of the region which not attainable under complete private owner- p.

"Offers of redwood lands have already been received from Sonoma to Del Norte Counties, but the location of the new national forest has not yet been selected. It should be clearly understood that if and when a redwood national forest is created it will not be handled as a park but as an economic forest unit. Because of the popularity of the redwood region as a summer vacation land, recreation will be an important economic feature of the new national forest. Fishing and hunting will be permitted, free public camp grounds established, and land leased for summer homes, resorts and necessary business enterprises. No timber cutting will be done along main traveled roads or heavily used streams, and virgin forest conditions will be preserved around all highly valuable recreation centers. Detailed plans will be carefully prepared by experts before any recreational development is undertaken."

SHE SITS WITHIN A SUNNY PATIO

(S. KINNE d'EUZYAN.)

She sits within a sunny patio
Of palms and ferns and blooming flow'rs
And knits away at dainty things
For future generations. Hours
And hours a day she spends upon
Her work with bended head of white
Above a face of smiling love,
While far ahead her mind's in flight
To ferret out the things to meet
In coming years, and so prepare
Her sons and daughters for the times
And problems with the subtle snare.

In youth they pictured her upon a disc.
A buxom lady with a spear,
Upon a hill that overlooked
A bay with ships and very near
Her knee a shield held by her hand,
Upon her stately head the gear
Of Roman soldier, bosom wrapped
In mail, and there she sat to peer
Across the broad Pacific's blue
In watchfulness for any care
While at her feet a miner digged
A mine, protected by a bear.

The seal of California remains
The same, but gone's the spear, the shield,
The miner and the grizzly bear,
And funny Roman hat. To wield
A needle making finer things
To nestle 'gainst the rosy skin
Of Californians to come
Is her desire. Eureka in
The sky has come down to the earth
To make her latter years to glow
Of palms and ferns and blooming flow'rs.
She sits within a sunny patio.

(The above, inspired by California's Great Seal of State, is a contribution to The Grizzly Bear from S. Kinne d'Euzyan of San Diego City. In an accompanying letter he says: "Although I am not a native son, I have lived in California since the early twenties and during that time have seen much to impress me, and I have here put down a thought which I hold for the state. If I can write something to help uphold the finer side of the state, it is a pleasure to see it published. I want to do what I can to show my appreciation for the state I have chosen to call home."—Editor.)

ORANGE COUNTY '49 PIONEER MAKES KNOWN HER DISTINCTION.

The "Orange News" of May 3 had this news item: "Judge J. E. Pleasants, 95, who has resided in this section for the past seventy-three years, is not Orange County's only living '49er, it was learned today when a communication was received from Mrs. N. C. Bittle, of 163 North Orange street." Mrs. Bittle wrote:

"I wish to correct the error or mistake that the City of Orange only has one '49er. I am the daughter of a '49er and I am also a '49er, having crossed the plains with my father and mother and one sister in '49. Arriving late in the fall, we wintered in Los Angeles as we came the Southern route. Early in the spring my father moved on up to the gold fields of Nevada and California."

GRIZZLY GROWLS

NOTE—Expressions of opinion in these "Growls" are, unless indicated otherwise, those of the Managing Editor,

CLARENCE M. HUNT.

AN IMPORTANT ELECTION IS COMING up, and California voters, particularly the tax-paying brigade, should give careful consideration to the qualifications of the numerous candidates, to the end that state and county officials of unquestioned ability and honesty, not allied with political racketeers, may take over the reins of government and correct the abuses and wastefulness that have brought the state and most of its counties to the verge of bankruptcy.

Don't overlook the seekers for seats in the State Legislature, for that body, properly constituted, can, and will, enact legislation that will materially lighten the heavy tax burden. The state needs a Legislature that will, for one thing, wipe out all "fixed-charges" legislation, the smoke screen that has too long aided the political racketeers and "saved the faces" of too many office holders. Bear this statement—made by Mrs. W. W. Green at the annual meeting of the California Federation of Women's Clubs—in mind: "Right now, there is springing up in California the greatest crop of morons to get jobs in the State Legislature, beginning next January, that the state has ever seen."

NRA is now in its second year. During its first year's existence it accomplished some good—fixed minimum wages, obtained agreements not to work children in industries, forbade "loss leaders" in retail stores, regulated sales of prison-made goods, and endeavored to adjust employer-employee relations on collective bargaining.

Spending thousands of dollars of taxpayers' money to induce people to come to California and then spending additional millions to feed, clothe and house them, is one of the many government extravagances which should be cut out.

"Nothing can stop Japan in her relentless fanaticism and religious fervor, beside which the 'Mittel Europa' dream of Germany was a mere bagatelle," said Miss Katherine Locke in Los Angeles on her return from the Orient, "unless the White race unites in a common purpose to save itself and Christian civilization. Japan confidently expects to encompass the world, and her people implicitly believe that the son born to the mikado a few months ago was brought to the earth as the 'son of god' to rule the whole world under Shintoism.

"Christian nations of the world are today fighting each other with specious nationalisms, trade wars and tariff barriers, while the Japanese people are united to a man in consolidating Japan's position toward the zero hour that they feel sure will bring the world under the domination of Nippon."

The 1934 delinquent tax list of Los Angeles County fills 670 extra-large newspaper pages weighing eleven pounds. Last year the list filled 642 pages, and the year before 652. And there is talk of increasing the taxes! Well, the political racketeers must eat!

The Catholic Church is endeavoring to rout indecent motion pictures and, thanks to its forceful efforts, is meeting with success. Not only should indecency be expunged from the product, however, but the morally unfit among the producers should be eliminated also. For the product of the motion picture industry, as of other industries, reflects the real character of the producers,—artists and executives.

"It ought to be written down in big letters over the desk of every public servant," remarks "The Sacramento Bee" editorially, "that if democracy today is in peril, the chief reason is not the fact there are communists among us but that there are so many faithless and lazy public servants."

Never before in their history have the nation's mints been called on to supply such quantities of silver coins—nickels, dimes, quarters and half-dollars—as at present. This is believed to indicate general improvement in conditions.

"If you want to stop having six thousand men in San Quentin, you must stop having sixty thousand in orphanages," declared Sidney Hershel Small. The Native Sons and the Native Daughters, through their homeless children endeavor, are doing that very thing—keeping unfortunate little ones out of orphanages by finding good private homes for them.

Of course, no one should be allowed to starve in this country. But, care must be taken that there is not created, through the generosity of government, a mighty horde who believe the world, and particularly this nation, owes them a living.

Tearing into the critics of NRA, Administrator Hugh S. Johnson said Ogden Mills, former Federal Treasury secretary, is "the mouthpiece of a crew that didn't reorganize or reconstruct or regiment American industry—all they did to it was to ruin it."

A very small percent tax levied against gross incomes, with no exceptions whatever, would meet the cost of honest and efficient government and eliminate all other taxes. It is the only just and impartial form of taxation. Under existing laws, millions best able financially to pay taxes of any nature and whose incomes have been the least depreciated—feeders at the public trough—are income-tax exempt. Why?

"The argonauts who pioneered across the continent in a hunt for gold in '49 were pikers compared with a group of Congressmen about to go after more money for the Federal Treasury," says "the United States News." Probably they have in mind another increase in their salaries.

In the opinion of United States Senator William E. Borah, the people, not emergencies, have the right to change the Constitution. The right of the people, however, appears to have been suspended.

One thing the NRA HAS done: made it possible for public officials to make numerous trips to the National Capital, at the expense of the taxpayers.

The Sacramento Women's Council, membership of which is drawn from that city's leading clubs, has adopted resolutions favoring dismissal of all married women whose husbands are working and making a living wage. It should be done, and many unemployed would find employment if it be done, but it will not be done by "resoluting." Public officials with wives and

THE MISSIONS OF CALIFORNIA

Wilbur Sherman

For several years, Las Positas Parlor No. 96 N.S.G.W. of Livermore, Alameda County, has sponsored a California history essay contest among students at the Livermore high school, and some excellent papers have resulted. Each year the Parlor has the prize-winning essay bound and placed in the history section of the Livermore Public Library.

This year's award, announced by Frank Fiorio of the Parlor during the April observance of Public School Week, went to Wilbur Sherman, a 16-year-old junior student of the Livermore high school. The Grizzly Bear is pleased to publish the 1934 prize-winning essay,—chosen by the judges from a record number of fifty-seven papers submitted—for it has much merit. Also, it is particularly appropriate for presentation in these columns this, Serra, year.—Editor.

PREFACE.

THERE IS NO OTHER PART OF OUR history as replete with colorful romance and admirable heroism as the history of the missions of California. History is made interesting by the people who participate in it. What an amazing cross-section of humanity can be found in the story of the missions. There is the greatness of the priest, contrasted with the brutality of the conquistador. There is the tragedy of the Indian, contrasted with the splendid idleness of the later Spanish Californian. There is heroism and meanness, devotion and hate, hardship and luxury—everything that makes humanity what it is.

Fine books on this subject are numerous, and it certainly cannot be treated justly in the short space of these few pages. Yet scanty acquaintance may serve to stimulate the interest of the reader in the story of the missions; it is for that reason that I write this tale. The divisions of the essay seem to be self-explanatory; I have endeavored to treat all phases without unduly emphasizing any one to the disadvantage of any other. Enthusiasm has, I am afraid, carried me into prolixity. It is my hope that the paper will be sufficiently interesting to make the length unobjectionable.

PENINSULA FOUNDATIONS

It will be interesting and enlightening to review, in their sequence, the various happenings that led up to the establishment of the missions of Baja California which, in turn, formed the foundations on which were built the missions of Alta California.

The first in the human chain to be considered is Cortes, the Conqueror who, after destroying Mexico, turned his attention to exploration that should lead to the discovery of fabled California, "the island of the Amazons, the terrestrial paradise." So, in 1538, he set out to find that rival of the Indies with its store of gold, its jeweled riches, and beauty of scene and climate. He failed; but the legend was not forgotten; rumors of a rich island still persisted.

Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo, a Portuguese navigator, was the next to try his hand at discovery. In 1543 he found San Diego Bay and the coast of Santa Barbara. And then came Francis Drake, the youngest and boldest English seaman of that day. For his Queen Elizabeth, he took possession of Drake's Bay, from which he made daring forays on the clumsy but rich galleons of Spain as they came from the Philippines. Next came Sebastian Viscaino, a Spaniard, who discovered the Bay of Monterey. Then, for about one hundred eighty years, California was left to her Indian inhabitants.

In the meantime, Mexico was colonizing and progressing as far north as the provinces of Sinalao, Sonora and Chihuahua. Military expeditions from time to time penetrated farther north, but did not succeed in accomplishing much in the way of colonization or territorial gain. Other expeditions, not of a military nature, were instituted by the various religious orders whose members, anxious to convert the heathen Indian, were ever ready to cross deserts or mountains, among hostile tribes and through fever-infested regions in advance of soldiers or settlers, to pioneer the message of peace and good will, and help improve and relieve the terrible conditions they found.

Among these diligent, devoted friars were two whose good work and zeal outran that of their brethren. They were Francisco Eusebio Kino and Juan Maria Salvatierra, both of the Jesuit order. The work of these men was the seed from which all the missions of the Pacific Coast sprang. In 1696, Kino and Salvatierra succeded in getting the approval of the Jesuit order to their plan of establishing missions in California, the first concrete result of which was the founding of the mission at Loreto, in Lower California, on October 26, 1697.

During the next six years, Father Kino made no less than six toilsome journeys through the desert regions stretching far to the east, north and northwest of the upper gulf, in none of which he was as completely successful as he hoped to be. In all of them he was more or less opposed by the views of his friends and associates, who could derive but little encouragement from the evidence here and there obtained which filled him with hope.

The trackless wastes in which they were obliged to travel, where the evershifting sands, blown hither and thither by parching winds, obliterated their tracks almost as soon as they had made them, leaving no mark to guide their return; the privations of the journey as well as the toil of it discouraged others, but he never lost hope or lacked courage. Some times he was for two days together without water, and at one camping place his Indian guides assured him he must walk thirty leagues—which would ordinarily require three days' time—before another water hole would be found, but he did not falter, although they were reluctant to advance. On two of these adventures he passed over the treacherous Camino del Diablo where many perished even after the route was mapped. But he, the pioneer, had no help of this kind.

WILBUR SHERMAN.

He was persistent through the years in his belief that California was part of the mainland, and in 1706 proved his belief true. In 1711, Father Kino died, after having pioneered the way into California from the eastern side. It was sixty years after his death that the first settlers from that direction made use of the trail he had blazed.

Meanwhile, Salvatierra and his companions were succeeding across the Gulf of California. Missionary beginnings were made at Loreto, halfway up the inner coast of the Peninsula. Soon a palisaded fort and church were constructed there, and within a year Father Salvatierra had four launches plying back and forth, to and from the mainland. Gradually the work extended to the surrounding country, new missions were founded in the neighborhood, and explorations were made across the Peninsula to the Pacific.

Salvatierra followed the same plan which Father Kino and his associates employed in establishing their work. He sent a padre, or went himself, to visit a tribe, to make gifts and to talk of religion, until the Indians were won over and were willing to have a mission erected in their village. Each new mission was placed in easy communication with one already established, from which supplies could be drawn until the new mission was able to support itself. Some fifteen missions were ultimately established in Father Salvatierra's domain by separate endowment made through the charity and zeal of some rich Catholic. Patiently Father Salvatierra and his assistants went on their chosen task, erecting missions, gathering the Indians in pueblos under trustworthy alcaldes, teaching them agriculture, stock raising, saddlery and shoemaking, improving on the native fashion of weaving, and—for the beautifying of the church services and for their own innocent entertainment—instructing them in music and singing.

In the midst of his work, Father Salvatierra was called to Mexico to serve as provincial of New Spain, but at the expiration of his term he returned and continued his work till 1717. For twenty years the history of Lower California had been little more than his own biography. After Salvatierra's death, more liberal aid was provided, and new missions were established both in the south and the north. Before their expulsion, the Jesuits had founded missions and opened trails throughout almost the entire length of the Peninsula.

The lives of such men as Padres Kino and Salvatierra—and of some of their associates who met martyrdom at the hands of their flocks—are the undimming gold of one side of the shield. It was for what he professed to see on the reverse side of that shield that Carlos III, in 1767, banished the Jesuits from his dominions. For a year or two the Franciscans occupied the former Jesuit field; but, when a new advance north was made, the Peninsula was assigned to the Dominicans, and Alta California to the Franciscans.

The work of the Jesuits in Lower California had opened the way for the colonization of Alta California. The preparations for settlement were made at Loreto and other mission towns, from which the land expeditions started; and the ships from Mexico were overhauled and stocked in seaports on the Peninsula. Thus the first stages of the northward journey of the founders of California were made through a province where peaceable natives and a chain of missions and mission farms reduced the hazards of the march.

THE LOST CALIFORNIAN

Before proceeding, it would be wise to conceive a picture of the savages whom the missionaries found in Alta California, and whom Father Serra learned to love as if they were his own flesh. The natives of California were among the most stupid, brutish, filthy, lazy and improvident of the aborigines of America. They were neither brave nor bold, neither generous nor spirited. There were no orators among them, no bold braves; terribly resenting and contesting the usurpation of the whites, they succumbed without a blow to the rule of foreign masters. Let us briefly go into particulars in order better to apprehend the conditions of the aborigines before the advent of the messengers of Christ.

The diversity of language among the Indians was so great that almost every fifteen or twenty leagues one would find a distinct dialect, in no way resembling any other. None of the languages, however, was highly developed. The moral and spiritual poverty of the natives naturally produced only deficient languages. They had words for scarcely anything that could not be seen, touched or tasted. This, aside from the fact that the Indian languages are the most difficult to master, made it very hard for the missionaries to convey the lofty ideas concerning the unseen supernatural world.

Physically, the natives were short, inclining to stoutness, and along the coast, especially in the south, were unusually dark. As a rule, the men had no beards. Men and boys usually wore no clothing, but women and girls were always clothed. Men, as well as women, except in certain districts, wore the hair long, and took considerable pride in cultivating its length as a mark of beauty. Ornaments of shell and feathers were common.

Their dwellings were primitive to the extreme. In summer a shady place or an enramada of brushwood answered the purpose. Their permanent or winter habitations were nothing but flimsy shelters constructed of poles fixed in the ground and drawn together at the top at a height of about ten or twelve feet. The poles were interwoven with small twigs and the whole structure was then covered with tules or tufts of dried grass. In places these dwellings were conical in shape, whereas in other regions they were oblong. The size depended upon the number of people that were to occupy them. At a distance they resembled huge beehives or small haystacks. On one side there was an opening which served for a door, and at the top there was another opening to let out the smoke. A collection of such native huts in California is called a rancheria. In these shelters all the members of a family—men, women and children

PROCEEDINGS SANTA CRUZ N.D.G.W. GRAND PARLOR

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

ANOTHER GRAND PARLOR, THE Forty-eighth, has gone into the history of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West. It was in session at Santa Cruz City, June 18, 19, 20 and 21, and Grand President Irma W. Laird of Alturas Parlor No. 159 presided throughout the deliberations. Every courtesy was shown the Grand Parlor members, and all agreed that the Forty-eighth was, from every viewpoint, a most delightful and beneficial one.

Reports of grand officers and committees dealt mostly with matters which heretofore have been given publicity in The Grizzly Bear. A review of the Forty-eighth Grand Parlor follows:

FUNDS.

The report of Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler detailed the receipts and the disbursements for the year totaling, respectively, $9,471.74 and $13,394.73. The general fund worth June 1, 1934, was $21,566.10, including a cash balance of $16,662.01.

Grand Treasurer Susie K. Christ reported balances in other funds as follows: death benefit, $392.40; scholarships, $978.40; home savings, $2,592.41; redwood memorial grove, $803.22.

Treasurer Millie Tietjen of the Grand Parlor Home Committee reported substantial balances in the several funds. During the year Loyalty Pledge receipts were $319.60, and sales of cook books brought $546.15.

CHANGES IN GOVERNING LAWS.

[The designations "C.G.P." and "C.S.P." refer, respectively, to the Constitution Grand Parlor and the Constitution Subordinate Parlors.]

Art. III, Sec. 2, Par. 4, C.G.P.—Amended by adding after the words "during the year" the following: "If a member be so remotely located from her Parlor that regular attendance is impossible, attendance at meetings of other Parlors may be counted to provide the two-thirds necessary; provided, that a record of such attendance be sent to her home Parlor, upon her request. This provision applies also to Deputy Grand Presidents who are absent from their own Parlors on official business."

Art. VI, Sec. 1, C.G.P.—Amended by adding: "A Supervising Deputy Grand President must first have served as a Deputy Grand President before being entitled to the higher office."

Art. XI, Sec. 12-a, C.G.P.—Amended by substituting: "New Parlors shall be required to pay but one-half the cost of banners, regalia and flags."

Art. II, Sec. 2, C.S.P.—Amended by adding after the words "sixteen years of age" the following: "and to become a beneficiary member, not over 50 years of age."

Art. II, Sec. 3-b, C.S.P.—Amended by eliminating: "(50 year age limit has been abolished.)"

Art. IV, Sec. 4, C.S.P.—Amended to read: "No member shall be eligible to the office of President, unless she has served a full term as Vice-president," etc.

Art. VI, Sec. 3, C.S.P.—Amended by substituting after the word "eligible" in line 25 the following: "she shall notify the Grand Secretary of the reinstatement, resignation, expulsion or withdrawal of members; the names of rejected candidates; and shall report all suspensions with the name, address, date of birth, date of admission into the Order, and the amount of arrearage; she shall sign and affix", etc.

Art. VI, Sec. 5, C.S.P.—Amended by adding: "When forwarding remittances to Grand Parlor, the Treasurer is required to specify fund to which same shall apply."

BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

A message of good cheer was ordered sent Past Grand Alison F. Watt, seriously ill at her Grass Valley home.

The invitation to participate in the statewide Admission Day, September 9, celebration at Sacramento was accepted.

The unexpended balance in the redwood memorial grove fund was ordered transferred to the general fund.

The percapita tax was fixed at 75 cents, payable 50 cents in December 1934 and 25 cents in June 1935, and a 25-cent assessment was levied for support of the Home.

Rent for office space for the Grand Secretary during the 1934-35 fiscal year was fixed at $50 monthly.

To cover expenses of Grand Parlor speakers and talent a fund of $100 was created, and to assist the Serra Sesquicentennial $50 was donated.

Sacramento was selected as the meetingplace for the Forty-ninth (1935) Grand Parlor.

Slight changes were made in the Ritual and the Installation Ceremonies.

For mission restoration, $25 each was contributed to Mission San Miguel, San Luis Obispo County, and Mission San Juan Capistrano, Orange County.

The Home Committee was requested to "provide a memorial plaque to Dr. Louise C. Heilbron as the originator of the Loyalty Pledge, all expense pertaining thereto to be borne by the Grand Parlor."

Establishment of four, or more, schools of instruction in different sections of the state was authorized. The Grand President will be in charge, and instruction in the ritualistic work will be given.

MRS. GLADYS E. NOCE,
GRAND PRESIDENT N.D.G.W.

Scholarships were awarded: Jane Alexander (Linda Rosa No. 170) and Phyllis Thompson (La Junta No. 203) at Mills College; Imogene Gray (Marguerite No. 12) at the University of California at Berkeley, and Mildred Pierson (Long Beach No. 154) at the University of California at Los Angeles.

The degree of doctor of laws having been bestowed on Miss Anna E. McCaughey of Reina del Mar Parlor No. 126 (Santa Barbara) by Immaculate Heart College of Los Angeles, ordered that congratulations be sent to her and that a letter of appreciation for conferring the great honor be forwarded to the college.

Ordered that, "to save extra postage the Chairmen of the various Grand Parlor Committees be required to have their circulars in the Grand Parlor office not later than the 25th of the month."

Ordered, "That when new rituals or other material pertaining to the general welfare of the Order are adopted, each Parlor be sent at least three, same to be charged to the Parlor's account."

The Grizzly Bear Magazine was re-endorsed as the official organ of the Order, and financial provision was made for the publication therein of the Official Directory of Subordinate Parlors.

The granting of charters to Las Plumas Parlor No. 254 (Portola), Lomitas Parlor No. 255 (Los Banos), Stockton Parlor No. 256 (Stockton), Arguello Parlor No. 257 (San Francisco), Compton Parlor No. 258 (Compton) and Lakemont Parlor No. 259 (Oakland) was approved.

Legislation pertaining to the Central Homeless Children Committee operated jointly by the Orders of Native Sons and Native Daughters—proposed by the N.S.G.W. Grand Parlor which adopted it at the Ukiah session in May—failed to receive the required approval of the N.D.G.W Grand Parlor to make it effective.

Grand Trustees—Orinda Gunther Giannini (Orinda No. 56), Clara A. Gairaud (Vendome No. 100), Alice M. Lane (Castro No. 178), Clarise Cook (Caliz de Oro No. 206), Willow Borba (Santa Rosa No. 217), Hazel B. Hansen (Verdugo No. 240), Nellie M. Cline (Grace No. 242).

They, along with Irma W. Laird, Alturas No. 159), who automatically became the Junior Past Grand President, were installed by Past Grand Anna M. Armstrong, assisted by Henrietta O'Neill (Ursula No. 1), Minna Kane-Horn (Eschscholtzia No. 112), Ethel Begley (Marinita No. 198) and Dorothy Dimmler (Berkeley No. 150).

On behalf of the Order, Past Grand Catherine E. Gloster presented to Mrs. Irma Laird, the retiring Grand President, the official diamond-and-ruby emblematic ring, and there were numerous other presentations. Grand President Gladys Noce introduced five charter members of the Mother Parlor, Ursula No. 1 (Jackson): Lilly O. R. Dyer, Henrietta O'Neill, Flora Podesta, Nellie Fontenrose and Rose Carli.

NOTES OF THE SESSION.

The folklore committee of Californiana Parlor No. 247 (Los Angeles) escorted the grand officers at the opening ceremonies.

Lois Johnson (Lugonia No. 241) was the song leader of the session, and Frances Leidig (Aleli No. 102) was heard in several vocal selections.

Many messages of greetings were received from various organizations and individuals.

Past Grand Eliza D. Keith spoke on "Education," and made a plea to "keep California schools Californian."

The Transportation Committee reported the mileage of the Santa Cruz session as $1,791.

Stockton, Placerville and Modesto gave notice that they will next year ask for the 1936 Grand Parlor.

Dorothy Davis, on behalf of Piedmont Parlor

No. 87 (Oakland) presented to the Home Committee a check for $155 for the endowment of a room in the Home in tribute to Past Grand Addie L. Mosher, lately deceased.

Formal welcomes to Santa Cruz were extended by President Marjorie Dellamonica, speaking for Santa Cruz Parlor No. 26, and by Alvin Weymouth, acting mayor, speaking for Santa Cruz City.

Excellent reports were presented by Past Grand Stella Finkeldey for the Veterans Welfare Committee, and by Past Grand Esther R. Sullivan for the California History and Landmarks Committee.

E. Tilden Maddux spoke Monday morning on "The National Recovery Act" and, on behalf of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, extended greetings to the Native Daughters.

Greetings from the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West were extended Tuesday afternoon by Grand President Chas. A. Koenig. Other speakers were Grand First Vice-president Harmon D. Skillin, Grand Second Vice-president Hartley Russell, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Past Grands Charles L. Dodge and Seth Millington. In the evening, for the grand ball, they were joined by Grand Treasurer John A. Corotto and Grand Trustee Edward T. Schnarr.

John M. Burnett of San Jose Parlor No. 22 N.S.G.W. gave an educational address Wednesday afternoon on the life and the attainments of Father Junipero Serra. Miss Marian Parks (Californiana No. 247) related incidents in the life of Father Serra.

Lilly O. Reichling-Dyer (Ursula No. 1), Founder of the Order, Carrie Roesch-Durham (Joaquin No. 5), who has attended every Grand Parlor, and Laura Frakes-Toman (Amapola No. 80) and Alice H. Dougherty (Angelita No. 32), former Grand Secretaries, were in attendance.

Mary E. Brusie (Argonaut No. 166), the efficient secretary of the N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Central Homeless Children Committee, had an attractive display of the pictures of many of "our babies," and gave a detailed account of the home-finding endeavors. She stated 4,787 children had been placed in private homes since the work was undertaken.

Quoting from the Extension of the Order Committee's report: "To the members of the Order, do not tear down the structure of your Parlor because of your diffidence. Be interested! Give the Order, which has so much to offer you, something in return. Above all, tell your friends of the advantages and the honors connected with membership in the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West."

The Grand Parlor Publicity Committee had on display sixty-five attractively arranged and most interesting scrapbooks, of publicity for the Order, compiled by various Subordinate Parlors. The judges picked the following as prizewinners: group 1 (cities 50,000 or more population), San Diego Parlor No. 208 (San Diego); group 2 (cities between 10,000 and 50,000 population), Gold of Ophir Parlor No. 190 (Oroville); group 3 (cities less than 10,000 population), Berendos Parlor No. 23 (Red Bluff). Special cash awards were made also to El Tejon Parlor No. 239 (Bakersfield) and La Estrella Parlor No. 89 (San Francisco).

Among the many gifts received by Grand President Laird was a diamond ring, presented by the grand officers, the supervising deputies and the district deputies.

Group dinners and other social functions filled the playhours. In fact, there were no idle moments.

MEMORIAL SERVICES.

Most impressive memorial services were held just following the formal opening of the Grand Parlor. Grand President Laird placed a wreath upon the altar and each grand officer put a flower within the wreath. During this ceremony Marybelle Chapman (Californiana No. 247) sang "Absent."

Eulogies for Past Grands Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, Addie L. Mosher and Anna L. Monroe were delivered, respectively, by Past Grands Catherine E. Gloster, Sue J. Irwin and Bertha A. Briggs. Past Grand Stella Finkeldey, in memory of the deceased Past Grands and of her Pioneer Mother, whose one hundredth birthday anniversary the day was, placed at the altar a basket of lilies.

RITUAL EXEMPLIFICATION.

The ritual was exemplified Wednesday evening by the following members of Santa Cruz Parlor No. 26: Marjorie Dellamonica, president; Grace Reynolds, past president; Melba McKenna, junior past president; Mildred Richey, senior past president; Mary Gregory, first vice-president; Mamie Cavanaugh, second vice-president; Hazel Brass, third vice-president; May I. Williamson, recording secretary, Alta Macauley, financial secretary; Edith K. Dodge, treasurer, Lucille Harrison, marshal; Adele Wackerman, inside sentinel; Elsa O'Donnell, outside sentinel; Pearl Reid, organist, Myrtle Richey, Laura Geyer, Leona Geyer, trustees. Alice Halsey was the chairman.

Five candidates were initiated, among them Mary Ann True, 76-year-old "covered wagon baby," and her granddaughter, Truella Louise Jensen.

ENTERTAINMENT FEATURES.

Monday afternoon the folklore committee of Californiana Parlor No. 247 (Los Angeles) presented a program of early-day Spanish and American dances. Those participating were Marcella Wolfskill (chairman), Uvenia Wentz, Viola Vejar, Eloise Cadd, Rosita Locke, Mary Clarke, Ruth Clarke, Margaret Harris, Isabel Fages, Hortense Steinike, President Inez Sitton, Georgia Sinclair, Mildred Ruiz (accompanist) and Marybelle Chapman (soloist).

The hostess Parlor, Santa Cruz No. 26, entertained with a delightful program Monday evening, all the talent coming from within its ranks. Leona Geyer was the director, and Pearl Reid the accompanist. The numbers included: Dance, Margaret Gregory, Mary Gregory and Adele Wackerman; vocal selections, Arista Mellor and Leona Geyer; toe dance, Margaret Gregory; flute solo, Dorothy Noah; comedy skit, "The Ticket Agent," May L. Williamson, Anna Linscott and Grace Andrews; ensemble, "Old Fashioned Garden," Leona Geyer, Melba McKenna, Grace Andrews, Kathryn Wise, Mary Gregory, Adele Wackerman, Alberta McCormick, Hazel Brass, Mae Cavanagh, Josephine Grellman, Lucille Harrison, Verel VanGorder, Marjorie Brunges, Marjorie Dellamonica, Elsa O'Donnell, Arlet Harris, Elsa Sayre and Marie Pratchner.

Aleli Parlor No. 102 (Salinas) presented Tuesday afternoon a most original and enjoyable one-act play in which the Order's most important projects were depicted in tabloid. The setting was the lounge of the Native Daughter Home.

Copa de Oro Parlor No. 105 (Hollister) and San Juan Bautista Parlor No. 179 (San Juan) presented Wednesday evening a colorful and impressive historical pageant depicting episodes associated with the history of Mission San Juan Bautista, San Benito County. Past Grand Bertha A. Briggs read the explanatory story for each of the six scenes. Participants included: Copa de Oro Parlor—Mayme Moran, Hilda A. Thompson, Josephine Snell, Alta Trowbridge, Rose Guilhamet, Erma Pivetti, Lila Melendy, Elma Chandler, Edith Chandler, Catherine Hooton, Janey Willson, Hazel Bengard, Rachael Maroney, Ruby Nyland and Genevieve Willson. San Juan Bautista Parlor—Mayme Avilla, Edith Ahern, Lillie Rampone, Blanche Taix, Clara Zanetta and Catherine Nyland.

PAST GRANDS' REUNION.

The annual dinner of the Past Grand Presidents Association was held Tuesday evening. In attendance were Carrie Roesch-Durham, Dr. Mariana Bertola, Cora B. Sifford, Eliza D. Keith, Stella Finkeldey, Ariana W. Stirling, Dr. Eva Rasmussen, Emma G. Foley, Emma W. Humphrey, Mamie G. Peyton, Olive B. Matlock, May C. Boldemann, Margaret G. Hill, Grace S. Stoermer, Mary E. Bell, Bertha A. Briggs, Mattie M. Stein, Amy V. McAvoy, Catherine E. Gloster, Pearl Lamb, Mae H. Noonan, Esther R. Sullivan, Evelyn I. Carlson and Anna M. Armstrong. A message of good wishes was received from Mae B. Wilkin, now residing in West Virginia.

The center of the table was surrounded with a fence entwined with golden nasturtiums; an open gate signified welcome to the baby member, Mrs. Armstrong. Placecards were tiny baskets of pansies, and the favors were needlecases fashioned as pioneer bonnets.

Hostess Keith extended greetings and welcomed the "baby," and Dr. Bertola spoke on "Perils of Communism." Photographs were shown and amusing stories were related of former Grand Parlor sessions. At a short business session the officers of the association, President Matlock and Secretary Briggs, were re-elected for another term.

"FULL SPEED AHEAD!"

Follows, in part, the report presented by the Grand Parlor Publicity Committee, Past Grand Bertha A. Briggs chairman:

"Through all the changing scenes that the recent trying years have brought, the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West has carried on happily and successfully, because we practice the principle of good cheer, because we teach the fundamental lessons of goodwill by example as well as by precept, for we are imbued with the conviction and charitable purposes, because we have back of us a history worthy of emulation. Assuredly, ours is an organization of which we may justly be proud. One so distinctively Californian, so strongly patriotic, so definitely non-sectarian, so wholly democratic, so free from intolerance—builded upon the lasting foundation of an 'abiding faith in the existence of God.' These ennobling principles which we are pleased to call our own, should constantly refresh and rejuvenate our own members, for more determined effort; should create a wholesome respect in the minds of non-members of proper caliber, and should make a poignant appeal to the heart of every desirable native-born California woman.

One of our most difficult problems and one that demands effort without cessation, is the dissemination to our neighbors of a clearer understanding and a proper appreciation of the eternal virtues upon which our Order is based and the lofty motives by which we are actuated. A distinct responsibility rests upon each of us, whether we be of the officially chosen public service group or not, to contribute whatever we can, within our particular sphere of experience and ability, to stimulate a more definite knowledge of what we are and what we hope to be. Every member should give evidence of a sincere pride in her fraternity and a desire to be helpful in promoting our highest principles. Only by such procedure can public appreciation be crystalized intelligently. Enthusiasm is essential; diligence is imperative, for a reclaptism in the true spirit and a new resolve to devote ourselves more zealously to the future to the upbuilding and strengthening of our organization and to the enlargement of our influence in every community.

As the constituted organ of our fraternity The Grizzly Bear is absolutely essential for the promulgation of our purposes, our activities and our affairs. The editor is to be commended for the high standard always maintained and for the noteworthy assistance rendered for the welfare of Native Daughterism. Make it your aim to support it, its columns to read it painstakingly from cover to cover, to support it financially.

Your publicity squad as a unit has done splendid work in direct publicity traffic. You are on the Kelly green light of the intersections are clear, the green light is set to keep full speed ahead!"

Homeless Children

A WORTHWHILE NON-SECTARIAN ENDEAVOR SPONSORED AND SUPPORTED BY THE ORDERS OF NATIVE SONS AND NATIVE DAUGHTERS OF THE GOLDEN WEST

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO HAVE "Questions and Answers" run in the space generously given each month by The Grizzly Bear for the Homeless Children's work? Editor Hunt has specified his willingness to print in each issue of the magazine, in the order of their receipt, as many submitted questions and their answers as space permits. Please write your opinion of this plan or give any suggestion relative to publicity of the work to the Native Sons and Native Daughters Central Committee on Homeless Children, to 998 Eddy street, San Francisco.

Since the first of April 1934 twenty-two children have gone to their new homes. Twenty-five cases, involving time and labor and money, have been investigated, and detailed reports submitted to the State Department of Social Welfare. Sixty-three applications have been received.

The following Parlors have expressed regret that their contributions reached the central office too late to be included in the printed annual report: Native Sons—Lodi No. 18, $19.58. Native Daughters—Califia No. 22, La Bandera No. 110, Sutter No. 111, Coloma No. 212, Rio Rito No. 252 jointly, $88.55; Ella Freitas of Argonaut No. 166, D.D.G.P. for Richmond No. 147, $2.50; Nataqua No. 152, $25; Fruitvale No. 177, $14.65; Phoebe A. Hearst No. 214, $44.34; Mary E. Bell No. 224, $15; Miocene No. 228, $20; Auburn No. 233, $5. Native Sons and Native Daughters jointly—Seaside No. 95 N.S. and Vista del Mar No. 155 N.D., $89.85.

Since April 1, 1934, the beginning of the Central Committee's fiscal year, the following Native Daughter Parlors have paid in full for the six weeks' care of their Parlors' babies: El Vespero No. 118 drill team, Imogen No. 134, Richmond No. 147, Donner No. 193, office workers. The Native Daughter Parlors that have assumed the six weeks' care of a SECOND child are: Los Angeles No. 124 and Linda Rosa No. 170. The following Native Daughter Parlors have contributed the full amount for a second child: Portola No. 172, La Junta No. 203, Californiana No. 247. Presidents Assembly Women's Clubs has paid in full for a second child. The Committee has also received $200 from W. H. Neumiller as a bequest of Charles L. Neumiller of Stockton Parlor No. 7 N.S.G.W.

The receipts for April and May have been $1,088.95, the disbursements have been $1,591.19 for April and $1,400.03 for May. From June first until the latter part of October of each year no contributions are received from the Parlors. The income during this period depends upon friends of the Orders, bequests and the refund on board from state, counties and parents

Native Sons of the Golden West

"TO OFFICERS AND MEMBERS OF Subordinate Parlors N.S.G.W.—Dear Sirs and Brothers: Upon my installation as Grand President of the N.S.G.W., I announced to the members assembled that it is my intention to follow the plan inaugurated by Justice Emmet Seawell during the past year, whereby the sum of $2.50 will be paid for every member initiated. This allowance will also be made for members reinstated who had resigned or who had been suspended for non-payment of dues on or before July 1, 1933. In addition to the allowance for each candidate initiated, prizes amounting to $300 will be offered as follows:

"First—$100 to the Parlor initiating the largest number of candidates from June 1 to December 31, 1934. Second—$50 to the Parlor initiating the second largest number during the same period. Third—$100 to the Parlor initiating the largest percentage of members based upon the membership of the Parlor June 30, 1934. Fourth—$50 to the Parlor initiating the second largest percentage of members during the same period. In no case shall the Parlor in either of the above named classes, or in both, be entitled to more than one prize. In case of a tie, the prize shall be distributed equally to the highest tying contenders. The minimum number in each case shall not be less than 20 candidates to entitle a Parlor in any case to receive an award. The Recording Secretary of each Subordinate Parlor shall certify to the Grand Secretary at the end of each month the names of the candidates initiated, their sponsors and the addresses of the sponsors.

"For more than a half-century we have been a factor in the life of our native state. Let us continue to hold the confidence of the people by performing the activities we are engaged in with such a high degree of efficiency that we will attract the attention of the thousands of eligibles who may be made members of our Order. With your co-operation, I am confident we will be successful in all our endeavors. Sincerely and fraternally yours,

"CHAS. A. KOENIG,
"Grand President N.S.G.W.
"San Francisco, June 11, 1934."

Sports Championships.

The Grand Parlor Athletic Committee—Al. Sandell (Twin Peaks No. 214) chairman, Paul Connif (Pacific No. 10), R. J. Garrett (Berkeley No. 210), F. B. Leonard (Eden No. 113), Edward Ginochio (Claremont No. 240)—has set dates for Native Sons championships as follows: January, basketball; March, handball; April, tennis; May, track and field; August, boxing; September, baseball and swimming; October, golf and soft-ball; November, indoor horseshoes.

Any Parlor or county committee desiring to conduct any of the above championships is requested to apply to the Athletic Committee for a sanction to conduct same. All Parlors and committees are being requested to recommend members to serve as district athletic commissioners, these to select assistants and to conduct district championships for the purpose of qualifying teams and competitors for the state championships.

In all the above sports, with the exception of boxing, competitors must be members of the Parlors they represent. In boxing, they must be qualified to apply for membership on reaching the proper age. All sports will be conducted in accordance with the rules of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, of which there are two district associations in California, the Pacific in the north and the Southern Pacific in the south.

Membership is vital! Help Grand President Koenig, in his desire and determination to build up, by reinteresting the faltering and signing up the eligibles. Every member get a member—right now!

NATIVE SONS NEWS BRIEFS.

Oakland—Past Grand Joseph R. Knowland has been elected president of the State Chamber of Commerce.

Sacramento—Sacramento No. 3 observed Memorial Day by appropriate lodgeroom ceremonies in memory of the departed, numbering more than a hundred. Archibald Mull Jr. presided, and Frank E. Michel was the principal speaker. Mrs. Dair Davidson, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Pallady, sang "When the Roses Bloom," and Mrs. Edna Briggs of La Bandera No. 110 N.D.G.W. at intervals rendered piano selections—"No Night There," "Leave It With Him" and "Nearer, My God, To Thee."

Eureka—Thomas Kemper Carr, auditor of Humboldt County for nearly a quarter-century and affiliated with Humboldt No. 14, died May 27 survived by four children. He was born at Weaverville, Trinity County, May 15, 1860.

No applications, no new members to fill the ranks. And California needs more Native Sons! Today's responsibility of every member of the Order is to contact eligibles. Don't leave this important duty for "George" to perform.

Arcata—The Humboldt County Central Committee, composed of representatives from Humboldt No. 14 (Eureka), Arcata No. 20 and Ferndale No. 93, met here June 12 and, following dinner, discussed various matters, among them a picnic to be held in the near-future. The next meeting of the committee will be at Ferndale, July 10.

Fresno—Members of Fresno No. 25, reinforced by representatives from Visalia No. 19, Selma No. 107 and Los Banos No. 206, had a get-together June 8. President Ben R. Walker of the Fresno Historical Society spoke on "Talking Points for Fresno County," Past Grand William M. Conley told of the Order's early history, and Frank M. Lane reported on the Ukiah Grand Parlor. Other speakers were M. E. Griffith, Frank Holman, B. W. Gearhart and L. A. Winchell, and there were songs and music. Arthur H. Drew was chairman of the arrangements committee, and C. B. Harkness was the toastmaster. More than a hundred enjoyed the event. Fresno Parlor has elected Ralph Slavich president.

Sacramento—An official Pony Express marker of the Oregon Trail Memorial Association was unveiled at Sutter Fort, June 7. Speakers included Dr. Howard R. Driggs and W. H. Jackson of New York, respectively president and secretary of the association; Assemblyman Percy G. West of Sunset No. 26; Rolland A. Vandergrift, state finance director; President Ernest Wiltsee of the California Historical Society, and H. C. Peterson, Sutter Fort curator.

Bakersfield—Bakersfield No. 42 and El Tejon No. 239 N.D.G.W. unveiled in Kern River Park June 3, a monument dedicated to the Pioneers. Ben Cooper was master of ceremonies, T. A. Baker spoke on early Kern County life, and Principal H. A. Spindt of Bakersfield high school traced local history from its cradle-days to the present. Others participating in the ceremonies were John O. Hart and Miss Sadie Clendenen.

There are thousands of fine eligibles just waiting to be extended an invitation to affiliate with the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West. Be a recruiter—extend the invitation today, not tomorrow!

Colusa—Colusa No. 69 resurrected a bell which, three-quarters of a century back, summoned the local children to school. The Parlor placed the relic in William S. Green Memorial Park, where it was dedicated May 30. Elder Clement, historian of No. 69, related the school bell's history.

Calistoga—Ted Tamagni has been elected president of Calistoga No. 86. June 18, "father and son" night was celebrated, and special invitations were sent to more than fifty fathers of members of the Parlor.

Salinas—Santa Lucia No. 97 had a "past presidents night" June 11, with Everall Adcock presiding. A barbecue opened the ceremonies and during the evening an emblematic ring was presented Past President George Miller, one of the Parlor's two remaining charter members. Russell Scott made the presentation address and other speakers were Mayor Victor Barlogi and P. J. Daugherty. Among the many in attendance were several visitors from Monterey No. 75 and Gabilan No. 132 (Castroville). John Massera has been elected president for the new term.

Santa Clara—Santa Clara No. 100 invites all surrounding Native Son and Native Daughter Parlors to observe the Nation's birthday, July 4, in that city. The Parlor will have headquarters where all visiting Natives will be entertained. "By your presence," says Secretary Clarence Clevenger, "demonstrate that patriotism is our cornerstone."

San Francisco—Phillip Isaac Figel, a charter member of Bay City No. 104, died June 3. He was a writer of considerable note, and many of his short stories, founded on California history, were published in The Grizzly Bear. He was born here March 8, 1863.

San Diego—In recognition of Flag Day, June 14, flag-raising ceremonies, sponsored by San Diego No. 108, were held at Old Town Plaza. Deputy Grand President Albert V. Mayrhofer was chairman of the day. The program consisted of the raising of four flags which have flown over California—the Spanish, the Mexican, the California Republic (Bear), and the United States of America. Speakers were D. C. Collier, Enrique Ferreira, Carl Heilbron and Judge E. N. Curtis. San Diego's new corps of officers is headed by Roby Jones as president.

Membership is vital! Help Grand President Koenig in his desire and determination to build up, by reinteresting the faltering and signing up the eligibles. Every member get a member—right now!

San Bernardino—Past presidents of Arrowhead No. 110 and Santa Ana No. 265 organized here, June 23, Arrowhead Past Presidents Assembly. Governor-general Frank Roemer and Director-general James F. Stanley were the installing officers. Arrowhead has completed extensive plans for the annual Fourth of July barbecue at the Parlor's clubhouse at Crestline in the San Bernardino Mountains. District Deputy F. L. McGarvey is the general chairman. The affair is open to all Natives and the public and a most enjoyable day is assured.

Alameda—Halcyon No. 146 had an "old-timers night" June 19, with President F. L. Stahl presiding. Reminiscences were related by Charter Members W. F. Chipman and F. A. Youngberg, Past Grand Joseph R. Knowland and James Hatch.

her married-women on the payrolls, and also isinessmen, must be impressed with the necessty of making the dismissal. And they can st, and only, be so impressed by a withdrawal support.

Along this line, the State Public Health Dertment reports births in California, which ve steadily declined since 1924, reached a w low-ebb last year. Undoubtedly that record uld be reversed, if married women with ablebdied husbands were not employed and, also, e constantly-increasing number of divorces uld decrease.

Truthfully, the "Laverne Leader" said editorlly: "The system we call democracy is not much at fault, but the corrupt and selfish olitieians who have been elected by the people e responsible for our present dilemma. And e remedy is in the hands of an intelligent and triotic citizenship."

HOME OF LOLA MONTEZ

(BETTY L. WHITSELL.)

It is a quiet house
With blinds all closely drawn,
Gray-veiled with faded roses,
A-weeping since the dawn.

Staunch dreams possess the place,
Of happy dancing hours,
Of fire, and wine and kisses—
A time of hearts and flowers.

Strong men required her mirth,
Her animating breath,
That gipsy soul still dances
In some gay hall of death.

ORGANIZING FOR MORE MEMBERS

GRAND PRESIDENT CHAS. A. KOENIG has started his campaign to build up the membership of the Order. The first meeting called for that purpose was held in San Francisco, June 14, and those present included grand officers, deputy grand presidents and Grand Parlor committeemen who are members of the San Francisco Parlors.

Forty-two were in attendance and listened to an address by the Grand President outlining his plans for the year and what he hopes to accomplish during that period. He invited discussion on the merits of his plan, and many present expressed the belief that it is a practical one and that great accomplishments will be the result of this movement. All agreed to go back to their respective Parlors and urge that an initiation be held at least once a month for the rest of the year. It was also decided to hold a joint initiation Friday evening, August 24, and each one assembled promised to have at least one candidate to be initiated that evening.

The deputy grand presidents organized, with permission from the Grand President, during the meeting. Theo. Schmidt (Stanford No. 76) was elected chairman, and Gus E. Ritter (Hesperian No. 137) secretary. The deputies met again June 21 and outlined plans to carry out the wishes of Grand President Koenig. Further meetings of the whole committee will be held the second Thursday of each month.

East Bay Organizes.

Oakland—June 21, grand officers, deputy grand presidents and Grand Parlor committeemen of the East Bay, which includes all Parlors in Alameda and Contra Costa Counties, were called together by Grand President Koenig for the purpose of organizing and to put into effect the campaign he has started to build up the membership of the Order.

Twenty were in attendance. Many paid tribute to the Grand President for starting the campaign, and he was assured of full co-operation to carry out his plans. Organization was perfected by the selection of Frank P. Smith (Piedmont No. 120) chairman, David R. Norris (Fruitvale No. 252) secretary. Regular meetings will be held and subcommittees named to put the Grand President's plan into effect.

Other Districts To Organize.

A similar meeting is to be held at Los Angeles, June 30, to include representatives from Santa Barbara and Bakersfield on the north to San Diego on the south.

Saturday evening, July 21, representatives from all the northern counties will gather at Sacramento.

Saturday evening, July 28, representatives from Sonoma, Napa and Marin Counties will gather at Sonoma City.

Saturday evening, August 4, representatives from San Mateo, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz and Monterey Counties will gather at San Jose.

Grand President Koenig will be present at all these gatherings. The opinion prevails generally that his plans are certain of success.

Membership is vital! Help Grand President Koenig, in his desire and determination to build up, by re-interesting the faltering and signing up the eligibles. Every member get a member—right now!

Native Daughters of the Golden West

MRS. GLADYS E. NOCE OF SUTTER Creek, Amador County, affiliated with Amapola Parlor No. 80, was installed as Grand President just prior to the closing of the Santa Cruz Grand Parlor. Following her induction into office, she addressed the assembled members of the Order as follows:

"Eighty-six years and more ago,—I hardly think that any here were living then—a millhand at the little settlement of Coloma [El Dorado County] found flakes of gold in the raceway of a sawmill. None, in that day, dreamed that this unique discovery would mark the finder for immortality, or set in motion a mass movement of humanity not less important than any migration noted in history. The lodestone that set mankind westering to the shores of the Pacific was, as it has ever been through the ages, the lure of gold. No wonder that this bright metal has become invested with a profound symbolism for all races! It has, from the earliest times, been the basis of all exchange and barter; its rarity, its beauty, its incorruptibility, mark it as the King of Metals.

"Gold has inevitably become symbolic of our wonderful Empire of the West; our history has developed out of the quest for gold. That mighty host of venturesome Argonauts, advancing through untold hardships and privation across desolate wastes of prairie and desert, and over the mountain peaks unscaled by civilized man, was drawn onward to its destiny by the vision of wealth untold in the priceless yield of our Golden Sands.

"What a mighty band was this, indeed! Sturdy, rough and grim, yet withal tender and just. In mind we can almost hear the throb of their plodding steps, as they pressed onward toward their goal; the tramp, tramp, tramp of man and beast, in a pulsing rhythm that seems still to vibrate in earth and air—that has echoed down the years, the dominate and pervasive note in the great symphony of our history. These, my sisters, were our people,—your people and my people—the moulders of destiny, the conquerors of a goodly land, the Pioneers of our Golden State.

"Nor was this altogether a man's land, even then. And it is a proud privilege that we claim, to point out the part played by womankind in this great drama. Shoulder to shoulder they strove beside their menfolk, and through the years they also served, laying deeply the foundation stone of domesticity that afforded permanence to the Commonwealth. It was inevitable that out of this background of service and of striving there should develop a passionate urge to crystalize the traditions of this great saga. It was inevitable that this passion should reflect the color and the beauty and the romance of the Pioneers, the color, the beauty and the lure of the golden wealth of our everlasting hills.

"When, on September 11, 1886, that little group of California women assembled at Pioneer Hall in the little mining town of Jackson, the dramatic elements were in full keeping with this historic background.

"Pioneers were they, indeed! True to the traditions of their forefathers, they set their footsteps in untrodden paths, venturing where none before had dared. Not lured by the vision of worldly wealth, but inspired by the golden opportunity for service, by the golden wealth of historic material awaiting their magic touch; inspired, perhaps, by the golden harvests of our fertile valleys, and the golden riot of bloom over all, they resolutely set forth to make of this golden tradition a golden verity.

"Peculiarly fitting it was, and most especially inspiring to me, that this venture, out of which has grown our great sisterhood, was staged in my own Mother Lode county [Amador] by the daughters of Pioneers reared in the atmosphere of the golden quest.

"All honor to these Pioneers of our Order! I cannot fail, at this crowning moment of my life, to bow in humble tribute to that brave group who, under the guidance of our Worthy Founder, Lilly O. Reichling Dyer, and the loving, earnest endeavors of our Pioneer Grand President, Tina L. Kane, led the womanhood of California upward and onward to accomplishment and power.

"The Pioneers of our Order built upon a firm foundation; those who followed have added to the beauty and permanence of this structure. Noble women have led us year after year, each contributing to her utmost, that our organization might be the outstanding women's organization of our State. It is with diffidence that I follow in their footsteps.

"Yet, each Grand President must have the loyal, earnest support of the members of every Subordinate Parlor if her term is to be successful. It is this united effort that has kept the Native Daughters in a steady line of advance when others were confused and seemed to falter. I solicit your continued co-operation.

"The Subordinate Parlors of our Order are the golden links in the chain that binds us to service, to realization, to understanding of the ideals that inspire us. Theirs is the real strength, the real democracy, the vital force of our Order. We, in this place, may help guide the Parlors in their service, to organize, to direct, to counsel. But the life of the Order is in the Subordinate Parlor, and the strength of the Order is the strength of the golden links that comprise our golden chain.

"Let us strive earnestly to build up and give strength to the Subordinate Parlors, that our Grand Parlor may thus fulfill the destiny that alone justifies its existence. Let us learn humility, that we may fully realize our function as Grand Officers and members of the Grand Parlor. Let us see clearly that it is only by reason of the opportunity for service to the individual Parlors, that our position here carries honor and distinction.

"As God shall give me strength in this service, I pledge myself to be true to the ideals that brought our Order into being; to build up and conserve the strength of the Subordinate Parlors; to be mindful of the storied traditions our historic past; to render tribute and hom to the Pioneers of our State and Order a under His guidance, to be steadfast, loyal true.

"It shall be my especial endeavor to fos so far as I may be able, the interest in hist landmarks, and to encourage the Subordin Parlors, through their personal efforts, in permanent marking of historic places wit their several jurisdictions. I do not believe is necessary for me to assure you that I sh earnestly dedicate myself to the furthera of the various projects sponsored by our Or You have consigned this service to me a sacred trust, confident that I would so este it. To the utmost of my ability, I shall str to justify that confidence.

"If it should be my destiny to assist in accomplishment of anything of real moment importance, I shall be humbly proud that s privilege has been given me; if it shall cha otherwise, I shall still be humbly proud tha have been afforded the opportunity to be g cious, to be kind, to be loyal."

Fine Work.

Santa Ana Santa Ana No. 235 entertained ine 11 twenty-two candidates for naturalizon, the splendid affair being arranged by hairman Matilda Lemon of the Parlor's ameriinization committee. Addresses of welcome ere delivered by President Mae West and Present Ivan Harper of Santa Ana No. 265 S.G.W., and among the speakers were Postaster Terry E. Stephenson and Mrs. Golden eston. Entertainment was provided by Ronld and Raymond Marsile, Mrs. Julius and Miss uth Ellen Salz, and Marvel McGill.

Ray Atkinson (Santa Ana N.S.), superintendat Orange County schools, gave a fine address n the constitutions of the nation and the state, nd stressed points in the establishment of the ational government--personal rights and coperative privileges of the citizen by birth or doption. He referred to the Americans' reictance to frequent changes in government, ecause "we believe we must maintain and preerve within us the principles and ideals estabished by our forefathers for the best interests f our country." He mentioned that June 14 s the birthday of both the United States of merica and the California State (Bear) Flags.

Refreshments followed the program, the tales being beautifully decorated with flowers nd flags. Mrs. Genevieve Hiskey had charge f this portion of the evening. Speakers here ere W. Wieman, instructor of the citizenship lass, and Andrew Pixton who, speaking for imself and the other candidates, thanked the latives for their welcome and courtesy. Chairan Lemon then presented, on behalf of both arlors, flags of the nation and the state to ach candidate.

VALLEJO MONUMENT

Sonoma City—Sonoma County Past Presidents Assembly No. 9 N.S.G.W. met June 10 to clear grass from the Vallejo marker at the entrance to the State Park and also to remove dry grass from the plaque area where a N.S.G.W. marker to "Fighting" Joe Hooker stands.

While at the old Vallejo home, the party inspected a model of the monument proposed as a memorial to General M. G. Vallejo, distinguished Californian and founder of the town of Sonoma. It is to be erected in the Sonoma Plaza, and the plan is to have it completed and dedicated on the hundredth birthday of Sonoma, in 1935. The monument is to have a pedestal of stones which each county in California would supply, and surmounting this a bronze bust of the patriot and soldier. As designed by Al Sondag, the monument would be fifteen feet high, with red rock from the hills of the Vallejo hacienda at its base.

The Grand Parlors of Native Sons and Native Daughters have endorsed the project. The San Francisco district of women's clubs, comprising more than a dozen counties, is also sponsoring it. Mrs. Celeste G. Murphy of Sonoma, history and landmarks chairman of the district, was appointed chairman of the committee to work with the Native Daughters and Native Sons. W. S. Borba (Sebastopol No. 143) of the Native Sons committee on history met with Mrs. Murphy and other Sonoma residents relative to a plan to finance the monument, and it was suggested that the fifty-eight counties of the state participate. A rollcall of counties at the hundredth anniversary of Sonoma and the monument's unveiling was proposed.

At a meeting of Santa Ana No. 235 preceding the entertainment, President Mae West was presented with an evening bag, in appreciation of her service to the Parlor. A year's expense for Anna Mae, the Parlor's adopted baby, was paid and, for their indefatigable work in the children's cause, a rising vote of thanks was given Chairman Myrtle Ellis, Muriel Bray and Gladys Edwards. The wedding of Organist Stella Stiffler and Chauncey Gates was announced. May 28, the Parlor presented small traveling bags filled with handkerchiefs to Mrs. Naomi Schoenrock, who is moving to Tacoma to reside, and Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel B. Hansen. In appreciation of her fine work as former chairman of No. 235's history and landmarks committee and her interest in Orange County history, Mrs. Adelina Pleasants has been given a life membership in the Parlor.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS NEWS BRIEFS.

Placerville—Marguerite No. 12 and Placerville No. 9 N.S.G.W. have placed upon the Sigwart building a bronze plaque, given by Mrs. Sadie Winn-Brainard of Sacramento, which is inscribed: "This was the site of Elstner's hay yard on which stood the Hangman's Tree where Vigilantes executed many men for various crimes. The stump of the tree is under this building." Placerville was originally known as Hangtown.

Hollister—Copa de Oro No. 105 staged an enjoyable surprise kitchen shower in honor of Evelyn O'Connor Pivetti, a recent bride, June 14. Pauline Saugnauer, Eileen Hansen and Else Schou were the hostesses. A color scheme of green was carried out in the table decorations, and the honor-guest received many useful kitchen articles. From an appetizing bride's cake Hilda Thompson secured a key, Alice Holmes Maggini a thimble, Alta Trowbridge a ring, and Mildred Marcheski a dime; Lila Melendy captured the bridal boquet. An amusing playlet, "Domesticated Papas," was presented by Lila Melendy and Erma Pivetti. It featured Hollister homes fifty years hence, when the mammas will serve as wage-earners and the papas will manage the households and attend bridge parties. Many local thrusts were greeted with gales of laughter.

San Diego—One of the good works done by San Diego No. 208 was the raising of a $15 fund which was donated to the pool for crippled children. A shower of jelly for orphan children is being arranged. The sewing circle of the Parlor met at the home of Mrs. Alice Damarus, and a bridge luncheon for the benefit of the homeless children was given at the home of Mrs. Doris Hoffner.

Bakersfield—El Tejon No. 239 celebrated its eighth institution anniversary and observed Flag

In Memoriam

AUGUSTO F. PACHECO.

Once again the Angel of Death has invaded our ranks and a well beloved brother has answered the final summons. In his infinite wisdom, The Supreme Ruler of the Universe has called to his eternal rest a worthy and respected member, Augusto F. Pacheco. Past President of this Parlor, one who served faithfully, truthfully and consistently. In its hour of trial and woe he stood as well as in its more fortunate days. Worthy F. Pacheco gave freely of his time, of his influence and of his worldly possessions to maintain the prestige and high standing of this great Order in this community.

As a citizen, his unswerving loyalty to his country was second to that of no man. He performed his official duties with sympathy, justice and understanding. His loss to the community is irreparable.

This Parlor deeply mourns his passing and hereby extends to his bereaved family its most sincere and profound sympathy in their hour of sorrow, and most earnestly commends them to our Heavenly Father who alone can give that comfort and consolation beyond our power to bestow. Be it

Resolved, that the [illegible] of the Parlor be draped for a period of thirty days [illegible] and that a copy of this memorial be forwarded to the family, [illegible] Bear Magazine for publication, also that a copy be [illegible] to the press [illegible]

Respectfully submitted in F. F. & L. C.

CHAS. F. REINDOLLAR,
M. W. LABEL,
LOUIS J. PETER,
Committee on Resolutions.

COLORFUL WESTERN CHARACTER AT FINAL REST IN MODOC COUNTY.

Alturas (Modoc County)—A colorful career was closed and a picturesque character was withdrawn from Western life when the soil of Modoc closed May 27 over the mortal remains of Colonel William Thompson, pioneer, soldier, stockman, miner, editor and author. Born in Missouri in 1846, he crossed the plains in 1852, and resided in Oregon until 1884, when he came to Modoc County. Alturas Parlor No. 159 N.D.G.W. assisted at his burial service.

Colonel Thompson's book, "Reminiscences of a Pioneer," will preserve for posterity the story of those who wrested from the Red Man the lava bed section of California and the territory of southeastern Oregon. He belonged to those Pioneers of whom Captain O. C. Applegate wrote:

"'Let there be light in the western wilds,'
The spirit of progress said
And thousands came on the devious ways
And the strong young woodsmen led
They crossed the mountains' beetling crags
And the deserts brown and bare,
And on the shores of the western main
They planted the old flag there."

In Memoriam

ANNIE ADELAIDE HOFMEISTER.

To the Officers and Members of Marguerite Parlor No. 12 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of love and respect to the memory of our departed sister, Annie Hofmeister, herewith submit the following:

Whereas, God, in His Infinite wisdom, has seen fit to again send forth the Angel of Death and remove from our Sisterhood and her family and home one who was very dear to us, being not only one of our members but also one of our Charter Members, and whereas we deeply feel the loss the Parlor has suffered by the passing out of this life to her Heavenly Home, when our beloved sister, Annie Adelaide Hofmeister, answered the Angel's call, thus stepping through the door that opened and into the Great Beyond therefore, be it

Resolved, That we extend to her family in this, their hour of sorrow, the sincere sympathy of the Parlor, and commend them to our Heavenly Father, realizing that He doeth all things well and that

"Life tho' transient as the hour,
Is the seed of an immortal flower"

which will live through all the cycles of eternity, and that she is not lost to those who loved her, only gone before. Perhaps,

Not now, but in the coming years,
It may be in the Better Land, that
We'll catch the broken threads again,
To finish what we here began.
Heaven will the mystery explain—
Up there, sometime, we'll understand

And be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family and that they be spread upon the minutes of the Parlor.

Respectfully submitted in P.D.F.A.,

MAE J. BAILEY,
LOUISE SHEPPARD,
NETTIE LEONARDI,
Committee.

Placerville, June 7, 1934.

AILEEN M. KENNEY.

To the Officers and Members of Genevieve Parlor No. 132 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our departed sister, Aileen M. Kenney, respectfully submit the following:

Whereas, The golden thread of her beautiful life has broken and our beloved sister, Aileen M. Kenney, has gone from our midst to her Heavenly Home on High and we have lost a true and loyal member, and her family a loving daughter and sister, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we extend to her bereaved family our sincere and heartfelt sympathy; that these resolutions be recorded in the minutes of our Parlor; that a copy be sent to the family of our departed sister, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

Respectfully submitted,

LILLIAN RYAN,
RENA TAUBE,
CATHERINE BARRON,
Committee.

San Francisco, June 11, 1934.

GERTRUDE MELLON COUPE.

To the Officers and Members of Marysville Parlor No. 162 Native Daughters of the Golden West—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of love and respect to the memory of our departed sister, Gertrude Mellon Coupe, submit the following:

The Golden Chain of our Fraternity has been severed by the loss of one who, in the midst of pleasant activities, has been called to a better home. The trials, the sorrows, the disappointments that come in every life, however sheltered, are ended for our faithful member. Her passing is sad to all who held her in deep affection and respect, and now her Heavenly Father comes to lay a soothing hand upon her brow, and to lift her spirit from the grim shadows into light where there is no burden and where all sorrow ceases. While we pay loving tribute to her memory, we are not unmindful of the sorrow that has come to her loved ones. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That we extend our sincere sympathy to her bereaved family, and that a copy of this memoriam be spread upon the minutes of our Parlor and one sent to The Grizzly Bear.

BERNICE SPERBECK,
CECILIA C. GOMES,
Committee.

Marysville, June 13, 1934.

Common sense, as well as the law, requires care with fire in the woods, says the United States Forest Service, in repeating the warning that extreme forest-fire danger exists now.

CALIFORNIA FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

FRIDAY, JULY 4, 1884, THE ONE HUNDRED and eighth anniversary of American independence, was celebrated in a very enthusiastic manner throughout California. Towns in the northern part of the Sacramento Valley joined in a big celebration at Red Bluff, Tehama County. Santa Cruz City was the celebration center for that section of the state. At Sacramento City, the Society of California Pioneers had its annual banquet. Parlors of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West were conspicuous participants in the parades in all important towns and cities. No serious fires or accidents occurred to mar the celebrations.

Eighteen eighty-four being a leap year, in the towns of Lodi, San Joaquin County, and Jackson and Fiddletown, Amador County, the womenfolks ran things in a feminine way, and the menfolks took either a back seat or to drink. The pioneer town of Fiddletown had its first Independence Day celebration since 1855, and an innovation was a chicken dinner, furnished free to all by the women.

The Republicans of California had a state convention at Sacramento City, July 23. Heading the list of those nominated for presidential electors was Henry Edgerton, noted California orator.

The irrepressible Dr. C. C. O'Donnell, a peripatetic candidate for coroner of San Francisco, left for the East with two Chinese lepers. He proposed to exhibit them, and lecture on the evils resulting from Chinese immigration.

Mrs. John Fuller of Dutch Flat, Placer County, July 4 gave birth to a native son weighing seventeen pounds.

The honey yield of Ventura County was reported to be 1,600 tons. Ten thousand bees were buzzing there.

Three carloads of deciduous fruits were shipped by passenger train to Eastern cities July 13. It was announced that this business was increasing, and that the shipments "might some day make up a train."

L. J. Rose sold his 2,500-acre "Sunny Slope" rancho in Los Angeles County to an English syndicate for $750,000. A thousand acres were in grapevines, and 12,000 orange and lemon trees were growing. His income from the property was said to be $50,000 yearly.

The army worm pest made its appearance in Placer County, in the vicinity of Newcastle, and was said to be reducing ranches thereabouts to bare rocky knolls surrounded by barbwire fences. The pest was also reported in the Feather River district of Butte County.

Two electric light companies had been incorporated and were now endeavoring to secure lighting contracts from towns of California for their respective patents.

The stage going north from Redding, Shasta County, was stopped July 29 by a highwayman who appropriated the express box.

July 5, in Grass Valley, Nevada County, began a Cornish wrestling match which lasted four days. Charles Parr won the first prize.

Dr. J. T. Zukerfort, international chess champion, arrived in San Francisco and created a furore among the devotees of that game. He was regarded as a mental phenomenon.

James W. Marshall, discoverer of gold at Coloma, El Dorado County, in 1848, accepted an invitation, extended by the Native Sons of Sacramento City, to ride on the Sutter Fort replica float in the Admission Day parade to be held in the Capital City September 9.

A big stump removed by a powder blast from the roadbed of the Loma Prieta railway, building south of San Jose, Santa Clara County, landed in the kitchen of George McCrell's home and, striking his wife, broke both her legs and threw her twenty feet from the house.

C. H. Pope was arrested in San Francisco for having placed in the woodbox of his divorced wife's quarters a stick of dynamite, camouflaged as a piece of stovewood. July 7 Mrs. Pope put the stick into the stove, and the house was blown to pieces, but, fortunately, she had stepped outside before the explosion.

The womenfolks of Oroville, Butte County, July 24 presented to Argonaut Parlor No. 8 N.S.G.W. a beautiful silk banner. Miss Mamie McDermott made the presentation address, which was responded to by Warren Sexton.

The Pioneer mine at Gross Flat, Sierra County, struck a gravel deposit that paid $150 in gold to the pan.

At the Melton mine in Grizzly Flat, El Dorado County, men grading for a new blacksmith shop uncovered July 20 a rich vein of gold-bearing quartz.

D. R. Thomas, owner of a placer mine on Poorman's Creek, Plumas County, had his sluices robbed, and to prevent repetition devised a torpedo—a quicksilver flask filled with nails and slugs—and attached it to a wire laid along the sluices. July 23 he accidentally touched off the home-made torpedo and was seriously injured.

The Society of California Pioneers in San Francisco, at the annual election July 8, named Louis Sloss president and E. B. Freeland marshal. One hundred and ninety-seven members participated in the election.

William Hicks, Pioneer of 1843 who settled in Sacramento County and founded the town of Hicksville, died there July 5, aged 67.

Mrs. Antonio Merendo, a native of California aged 107 years, died at Gilroy, Santa Clara County, July 14.

Turn Verein Hall, in San Jose, Santa Clara County, burned July 9, causing a $15,000 loss. Grizzly Flat, El Dorado County, was partially destroyed by fire July 15; thirteen houses burned, with a $25,000 loss.

Guttenberg's foundry and the Pioneer hotel, in Sacramento City, burned July 17, with a $40,000 loss. This hotel, located at Second and "N" streets, a two-story brick building, was the first structure of its kind to be erected in Sacramento. George Zinns and Jacob Dinninger molded and laid the bricks, hewed the timbers, and opened the place as a hotel.

Chinatown in Nevada City, Nevada County, consisting of twenty-five buildings, burned July 24. Several Modesto, Stanislaus County, business houses burned July 8, causing a $35,000 loss.

Fire July 12 at Mission San Jose, Alameda County, caused a loss of $50,000. The old mission church was saved by the use of twelve large casks of claret wine to extinguish the flames when the water supply gave out.

A grain field fire that started near Oakdale, Stanislaus County, July 20, required the labor of 2,000 men to stop it. The fire burned for ten hours and destroyed 10,000 acres of standing grain. The loss was estimated at $100,000. Andrea Blanquist, farming near Salinas, Monterey County, lost 300 acres of standing grain by fire July 28.

General Winn Parlor No. 32 N.S.G.W. was instituted July 27 at Antioch, Contra Costa County, by Grand President John A. Steinbach, assisted by Grand Lecturer Charles W. Decker. [Dr. Decker, recently deceased, became Grand President in 1886]. C. F. Montgomery was the Parlor's first president, and its first secretary was Charles M. Belshaw, [now deceased, elected Grand President in 1908].

At Ione City, Amador County, July 29, Ione Parlor No. 33 N.S.G.W. was instituted by District Deputy Grand President J. H. Tibbits. Ed. A. LaGrave was the first president, and W. Leininger the first secretary.

Emmet Blackwell, while firing a salute at Weaverville, Trinity County, was killed when the cannon burst.

Mrs. C. S. Weyburn, attending a picnic near Alameda City, was accidentally killed while shooting at a target.

Miss Leah Rich of San Bernardino City, while engaged in a swimming contest at Arrowhead Springs July 28, ruptured a bloodvessel and soon died.

A Chinese cook at the Hollenbeck ranch near Los Angeles City, July 1 assaulted and killed a 10-year-old girl. He was pursued by a farmer posse and, when captured, was lynched.

In San Francisco, July 2, John Lane won a $6,000 damage suit, and he and his wife went on a prolonged spree. Lane died July 12 from delirium tremens, and three days later his wife, intoxicated, fell down a stairway and broke her neck.

Peter Clark, intoxicated, at Bakersfield, Kern County, July 6 challenged any one in a coterie of idlers in front of a saloon to fight. Harry Kane laughingly accepted the defy and, after making a pass with his fist at Clark, was stabbed and instantly killed by the latter.

A man named Moore was arrested at Truckee, Nevada County, for selling to a Piute Indian as whiskey a bottle containing a mixture of glycerine, tobacco juice, turpentine, alcohol, brown sugar and water. The Piute died before he could empty the bottle of its contents.

INDEPENDENCE DAY CURIOUS HISTORICAL FACTS

WHEN WESTERN STATES OBSERV Independence Day, July 4, they a commemorating an idea rather tha an historic event, because their i dependence came neither on July nor in 1776. On the other han when one speaks of the American Revolutio as having begun in 1776 and ended in 1783, h is wrong, for the Revolution lasted forty-thre years longer. These curious historical fac were pointed out by Professor Herbert E. Bo ton, chairman of the department of history the University of California, in a recently-deli ered address.

In explanation of the inconsistencies in popu lar tradition, Dr. Bolton stated that Massachu setts, Virginia and Kentucky, for example, b came independent of Europe in 1783. Missour Arkansas, Nebraska, Minnesota and all the wes ern half of the Mississippi Valley did not becom independent of Europe until 1803, and their i dependence was gained not by revolution but b purchase. Napoleon sold this territory to th United States. They had no Pilgrim Father no Fourth of July, no struggle for independenc no revolutionary heroes, except vicariously.

Coming still farther west, Dr. Bolton adde such states as California and Texas did not gai their independence from Europe until 1810. H said: "Who brought independence to Texas an California? Not Washington, but Hidalg Morelos and Iturbide. In short, independenc was given to fully a third of the territory tha is now the United States, not by our Pilgri Fathers but by our Mexican Fathers." Concern ing the American Revolution, he continued:

"The story we have taught our school childre is a provincial one, making it appear that th Revolution began in 1776 and ended in 178 As a matter of fact, it lasted half a centur from 1776 to 1826, and it witnessed the politica separation from Europe of not merely thirtee colonies but of most of America. Not Englan alone, but Spain and Portugal, likewise, founde vigorous colonies in America. They grew u and asserted their majority. The Revolutio was the surest sign that the mother countrie had succeeded in raising up stalwart childre It was not so much the result of tyranny on th part of the mother countries, as evidence tha the colonies had grown up.

"Thirteen of the English colonies led the way Spanish and Portuguese America followe Throwing off their status as wards, English Spanish and Portuguese colonies set up fo themselves independent American nations. B 1826, all of South America, all of Spanish Nort America and half of English North America ha become independent, and there were a doze American nations. It is for Canadians to sa if, how and when the rest of English Americ become independent. Viewed thus broadly, th American Revolution takes on larger signifi cance.

"In English and Spanish America independ ence came as the result of long and hard-fough wars. In both cases a large part of the popu lation was loyalist, opposed to independenc In both cases great leaders arose, to win th wars and lay the foundations of the new reput lics. In the English colonies Washington earne the undisputed title of the Father of his Coun try. In Spanish America several nations emerge from the struggle, and each produced one o more great leaders who deserve to be remem bered. At the top of the list, standing besid Washington, are Miranda the Forerunner; Sa Martin, liberator of Argentina and Chile; an Simon Bolivar, liberator of the northern half o South America, founder of five republics whic still endure, and father of the idea of Pan Americanism."

An enterprising Sacramento City business firm introduced the cent-piece into its change system so as to make its slogan, "Square to a cent, the real thing. The penny was also being used by swindlers, who passed it on ignorant vendors as a gold piece. A peddler gave two tamales and $2.30 in exchange for one of the coppers thinking it was a $2.50 gold piece.

Many wild plants, in addition to dandelions make excellent greens and are in common use in many parts of the country. Federal Government nutritionists suggest that satisfactory greens may be obtained from pokeweed, lamb quarter, wild mustard and horseradish; in some districts, alfalfa shoots have been used for greens.

DR. FRANK I. GONZALEZ, PAST Grand President of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, passed away at his San Francisco home, June 18, and his going hence is keenly regretted by hosts of friends within and without the Order. He was born at San Francisco, July 10, 1875, and is survived by his wife, Mrs. Celestine E. Gonzalez, and a son, Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez Jr. (Pacific No. 10).

Deceased was affiliated with Pacific Parlor No. 10 N.S.G.W., which he joined October 3, 1899, and had been an active worker therein ever since his affiliation. His first Grand Parlor was the Twenty-ninth (Ventura 1906) Session. At the Forty-eighth (San Bernardino 1925) Session he was elected Grand Trustee, became the Grand Third Vice-president at the Fifty-first (Redding (1928) Session, and was elevated to the Grand Presidency at the Fifty-fourth (Del Monte 1931) Session.

DR. FRANK I. GONZALEZ,
PAST GRAND PRESIDENT N.S.G.W.

In May 1932, Grand President Gonzalez accepted an invitation to attend a meeting in the southern part of the state and while driving south he and Mrs. Gonzalez had an automobile collision on the highway near Santa Barbara, and both were seriously injured. Dr. Gonzalez received a very severe head injury, from which he never fully recovered and which hastened his passing.

Native Son services were conducted for him the evening of June 19 by Past Grand Presidents Lewis F. Byington, William P. Caubu, Edward J. Lynch and James A. Wilson. The following attended the funeral June 20: Grand President Chas. A. Koenig, Grand First Vice-president Harmon D. Skillin, Grand Second Vice-president Hartley Russell, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Historian Charles R. Boden, Grand Trustees Thomas M. Foley, Joseph J. McShane and Charles H. Spengemann, Past Grand Presidents Lewis F. Byington, Walter D. Wagner, Thomas Monahan, William P. Caubu, Edward J. Lynch, Judge Fletcher A. Cutler, James A. Wilson, Charles L. Dodge and Seth Millington.

OUR ARCADY

(R. MATTESON.)

Oh the roads of California
How they shine, how they shine!
Now the curl of a river,
Now a straight silver line.
They glow on the hill tops,
And they glide like a song.
They sing down the valley,
"Come along, come along."

Oh the hills of California,
How they lure, how they lure,
With their history and mystery,
So high, and so pure!
They rise like a challenge
For the brave to aspire,
And to toil for the crowning
On the height of desire.

Oh the trees of California,
How they grew, how they grew!
They have climbed towards the heavens
Twenty centuries through.
How the tips of their branches
Seem to touch sky at last!
How their roots link the living
To a dark buried past!

(This is a contribution to The Grizzly Bear from R. Matteson of Oakland, Alameda County.—Editor.)

DEATH CALLS WELL-KNOWN NATIVE SONS.

Thomas Richardson Hamilton, active in the affairs of the Parlor ever since his affiliation with Bay City No. 104 N.S.G.W., August 17, 1887, and a delegate to several Grand Parlors, died June 19. He was born at San Francisco, February 14, 1868, and is survived by a wife and a son.

John H. Nelson, for more than forty-two years financial secretary of San Francisco Parlor No. 49 N.S.G.W., died June 20, survived by a wife and four children. He was born at San Francisco, January 2, 1862, and affiliated with the Parlor December 11, 1884. In addition to the faithful service rendered his Parlor, he was a delegate to many Grand Parlors and would have been at Ukiah in May had not illness prevented his attendance.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS NEWS BRIEFS.

Orinda Parlor No. 56 celebrated June 8 the birthdays of those members born in June. Honor guests were Past Grand Emma G. Foley and Deputy Mae E. Waring. The affair was dedicated to Mrs. Foley, the "official cook" of the Parlor, who provides each meeting a home-made cake which is disposed of and the proceeds used to buy gifts for tubercular children at the San Francisco Hospital. All officers donned cook's caps and aprons. Dainty refreshments were served.

Buena Vista Parlor No. 68 presented a large United States of America Flag to the Sunshine school June 12. Speakers were Mrs. Edward Wales, Past Grand Dr. Mariana Bertola and Mrs. Mary L. Growney. The pledge of allegiance was led by Mrs. E. W. Kennerley.

El Vespero Parlor No. 118 celebrated June 7 its thirty-fourth institution anniversary. Guests of honor were the charter members, Secretary Nell R. Boege, who organized the Parlor, and Deputy Emily Ryan. May 29, at the home of Mrs. Richard Cullen, a kitchen shower was given President-elect Katherine Pagannucci, a June bride.

Linda Rosa Parlor No. 170 is planning several parties for the near-future. "It looks like a pleasant and interesting summer season," says Anna L. Prior.

Castro Parlor No. 178 entertained thirty mothers, who were extended a cordial welcome by Grand Trustee Alice Lane. The Native Daughter Glee Club put on a skit, "A Busy Afternoon in Any Mother's Life," and vocal selections were given by Mrs. Ethel Browning. Refreshments were served at beautifully decorated tables, and each mother was presented with a beautiful corsage and gift.

CALIFORNIA'S 27TH GOVERNOR NOW OF THE SILENT MAJORI

James Rolph Jr., Governor of California si 1931 and mayor of San Francisco 1912-19 died June 2 at Agnew, Santa Clara County, vived by a wife and three children. He born at San Francisco, August 23, 1869, was affiliated with Hesperian Parlor No. N.S.G.W. of that city.

Deceased was the twenty-seventh governo California. His successor in office is Lieuten Governor Frank Finley Merriam of Long Bea Los Angeles County.

LOS ANGELES CITY AND COUNTY

CALIFORNIA HISTORY IS NOT A PROvincial study it is the study of world history. Our state has flown six different flags at one time or another," declared Dr. Owen Cochran Coy, director of the State Historical Association, addressing the Los Angeles Soroptimist Club recently. California has a world history to 1850, a more remarkable one since.

Too many men and women in southern California," he continued, "are more interested in what is going on in their old home towns The best way to help them to be adjusted to the life is through a study of its history. A definition of California citizenship might be 'a person who becomes interested in California and helps to solve its problems.'

The entire New England section could be placed in half of California. If we can't study all the states, let us study the one in which we live. It will not only afford more appreciation of the state traditions, but enlarge and endear the associations, and give us a cross-section of the history of the world."

CLEAN UP NEEDED.

This town is going to be turned upside down before the year is over, if one-tenth of the reports that come to the Grand Jury are true," said Superior Judge Fletcher Bowron in a recent address to the Los Angeles Women's Political League. "You have no idea what is going on. Particular influences in this city do not want an independent grand jury and have stopped and embarrassed them at every turn.

There is existing in this community a serious and deplorable situation. It almost discourages the honest candidate for public office. The racketeers and 'chiselers' who do not offer outright bribes do contribute heavily to campaigns and the candidate is bound to be under political obligation. We have instances at the present time where public officials are controlled in just that way." Voters should heed these statements and should, at the ballot box, assist the Grand Jury in the much-needed upside-down turning process. Governmental conditions in Los Angeles, both city and county, need a thorough cleaning out, that's certain.—C.M.H.

COUNTY LIBRARY TO GET '49 BALLADS.

Los Angeles Parlor No 124 N.D.G.W. has purchased ballads of the days of '49, which will be presented to the Los Angeles County Library at a ceremony to be held in the near-future. June 6, Past Grand Grace S. Stoermer told the Parlor of the plans for the Junipero Serra Sesquicentennial. Mrs. Olinda Kerby is to guide, as president, the destinies of No. 124 for the next year

The sewing club had a delightful meeting at the home of Mrs. Lucile Duncan June 13. The hostess was assisted by her daughter, Dorothy. Chairman Mildred Ripling concluded the sewing for the term. July 1, Los Angeles will sponsor a Sunday breakfast in the grove at Griffith Park; Mary McAnany and Edna Holcomb chairmen. July 25, installation of the new officers will be followed by dancing.

GENE MURPHY WEEK.

Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W. has designated July 2-9 "Gene Murphy Week," in honor of its retiring president, and during that time a special drive for new members is to be made.

John M. Costello, president-elect, has sent to the members of No. 196 a special letter saying: "Every member of Hollywood Parlor should give serious consideration to his responsibilities as a member of the Order. We inaugurate a special drive for new members by setting aside the week of July 2 to 9 as Hollywood Parlor's immediate past president week." A class of candidates will be initiated July 16.

LANDMARK MARKED.

Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W. marked with appropriate ceremonies, June 29, the old Machado adobe, known as Rancho Centinela, located in Inglewood. A basket picnic lunch was held at noon. Mrs. Ruth Parris has been elected president of the Parlor for the new term.

UNIVERSITY PARLOR NEWS.

The first annual barbecue of University Parlor No. 272 N.S.G.W., June 24, was a huge success. It was under the direction of Dr. George Woods and Neil Wood, who were assisted by Lucien Griffin, Solly Smith, Bill Quast, Joe Hiss and others. At election of officers Dr. George Logan Woods was chosen president for the new term. A very comprehensive program has been outlined. Wesley Stillwell and wife are now singing lullabys.

The ball team under Manager James Jasper Shorten is going great and looking forward to the Admission Day celebration at Sacramento, where one or two games will be played. Gerry Miller is the leading hitter at present, and what a fielder! Red Curran is playing third base like a major leaguer.—W.W.

OUTSTANDING AFFAIR.

Glendale—The dinner-dance of Verdugo Parlor No. 240 N.D.G.W. at Chevy Chase Country Club June 2 was an outstanding affair. Dance numbers were given by Geraldine Glick. Vera Carlson was the chairman. A card party was given at the home of Maud Molen, who was assisted by Ione Gillette.

Myrtize Tregea was chairman of a successful food sale June 9. A spaghetti bridge luncheon at Glen Oaks Park was in charge of Grand Inside Sentinel Hazel Hansen, who was assisted by Ada Steele and Ione Gillette. Following the June 12 meeting, at which all officers were re-elected, the Parlor was entertained by Mary Miller and Anna Alpi.

TREES DEDICATED.

The Native Sons and the Native Daughters held their annual services at their Memorial Grove in Griffith Park, June 3. The detailed program appeared in The Grizzly Bear for May. Mrs. Clarence E. Noerenberg was chairman of the day, and the speakers were Miss Mary Emily Foy and Justice Emmet Seawell, Junior Past Grand President N.S.G.W.

During the tree dedication ceremonies Mrs. John B. Stewart sang "Trees." Trees were dedi-

PIONEER NIGHT.

San Pedro — Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W. had a "pioneer night" June 4. All the members were attired in costumes of years ago, and everyone had a good time. Dancing was in order, and refreshments were served. With one exception, all officers have been re-elected for the new term; Carrie Northway will serve as secretary during the absence of Letitia Sarciaux in Sacramento.

The Parlor's thimble club met June 27 at the home of Lucia Guzman, and had a card party and luncheon. Chairman for July is Louise Fontes, with Leanore Padilla and Marie Willacy assisting.

BIRTHDAY DINNER.

Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. will have initiation and install officers July 13. The monthly birthday dinner is scheduled for July 20, at 6:30 p.m.

TAX RATE SHOULD BE LIMITED.

The property owners division of the Los Angeles Realty Board is sponsoring a vote at the fall election on a proposed amendment to the Los Angeles County charter limiting the tax rate to 80 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation. Chairman Mason Case says:

"It is probable that an attempt may be made to avoid placing the measure on the ballot through some technicality. If it does go on the ballot and the campaign begun to influence a favorable vote at the hands of the voters, we can look for very spirited opposition. It will no doubt come from those who profit by the loose spending of public money, rather than from an economical administration of public affairs. The amendment is so worded as to protect the continued, uninterrupted conduct of the mandatory and necessary functions of the county, and at the same time cut out any waste or unwarranted expenditure."

Along this same line, the Los Angeles division of the California Taxpayers Association, in a resolution filed with the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, declares: "The ability of property owners in Los Angeles County to pay taxes has greatly decreased during the past four years, with no prospect of early improvement; great numbers of property owners have been unable to pay their taxes and are in danger of losing their property; the expenditures of Los Angeles County government have not decreased in proportion to the decrease in private incomes, with consequent increase in the relative burden of county governmental costs; county expenditures have exceeded revenues." Taxpayers interested in the welfare of Los Angeles and themselves, and not in that of the politicians and their followers, will approve the Realty Board's proposed charter amendment and thereby force a reduction in the cost of county government.—C.M.H.

N. S. LUNCHEON CLUB.

Chairmen at the Native Sons weekly luncheon at the Rosslyn Hotel during June were A. Perry Harris, Earl McGarry, Superior Judge Walton Wood, Richard F. Bird and Fernard G. Hiss.

The speakers included Fredk. H. Vercoe, Los Angeles County public defender, Thorwald Siegfried, Superior Judge Fletcher Bowron, Ellery E. Cuff and Grand President Chas. A. Koenig.

To arrange a series of talks, this committee has been appointed: Bernard Hiss (chairman), Grand Third Vice-president Eldred Meyer, Leslie Packard, John Ford and Charles Straube.

SANTA MONICA BAY DISTRICT

SANTA MONICA ACTIVITIES.

Santa Monica The annual Venice breakwater swim, held June 24, was sponsored by Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W. Winners were presented with cups and trophies provided by the Parlor, Dr. R. C. Eshelman and Wm. Dowsing. Under the auspices of the drum and bugle corps, a gigantic show will be staged August 25 at the Ocean Park Municipal Auditorium. Dr. Leland Clark, as president, will lead No. 267's corps of officers during the July-December term.

Dedication of the new breakwater and yacht harbor at Santa Monica has been set for Sunday, August 5, under the direction of Santa Monica Bay Parlor. The grand officers will conduct the dedicatory ceremonies. A bronze plaque is to be placed in the base of a harbor flagmast, erected temporarily on the Los Angeles County beach just north of the municipal pier. Later this mast will be moved to the breakwater, where it will fly pennants giving weather information and directions to visiting yachtsmen. Opening of the Pacific Coast championship regatta, which will bring some 300 boats to Santa Monica, is scheduled for August 4. Cornelius O'Inerny of No. 267 is chairman of the Santa Monica Civic Regatta Association.

THE MISSIONS

besides single relatives or friends, huddled around the fire burning in the center of the hut, or lay wherever there was room. There was no privacy, no screens, no beds or berths. Several baskets, a stone mortar or two, weapons, scanty rags of clothing, and the unused products of the chase or seed gathering were kept in the crowded apartment. There was no furniture whatever. Refuse food or bones were left where they had been dropped or thrown so that the earthen floor had the appearance of a dog-kennel. Dirt, in the mass of which fleas and other vermin thrived, abounded. The longer such a habitation was used the filthier it became, until it was rendered unendurable for even the savages. The Indians had a simple way of improving the situation. The owner would set fire to the hut and then erect another after the same inexpensive plan. Though they bathed frequently, when they were not in the water they wallowed in filth, and they swarmed with vermin which they could catch and eat.

There were other structures, usually one in each rancheria, and built in the following manner. A pit was dug about three feet deep and from twelve to sixteen feet in diameter. Heavy timbers were placed on end around the rim of the pit and inclined toward the center so as to meet at the top. Reeds were laid over the timbers crosswise, and the whole was covered with earth. Only a small opening was left at the top to allow the smoke to escape, and another small hole was on one side through which the men crawled in and out. These were the notorious sweathouses. Within was a fireplace, a hole in the ground. The men would crawl into this structure, start a fire with wood, and lie about until the perspiration flowed from their bodies. They would then emerge and plunge into a stream or pool of water. For this reason the rancherias were usually found near a river, creek or lagoon. Women were never allowed to enter the sweathouse, which also served as a kind of meeting-room for the men.

The weapons of the Indians consisted of bows and arrows, to which some added a spear, and some a club of hard wood. The Californians were neither brave nor warlike, yet petty wars were frequent among the natives. These served only as a pretext for plunder, and the slightest real or imaginary wrong sufficed to make a stronger rancheria attack a weaker one.

The Indians neither cultivated the soil nor planted any kind of grain, but lived upon the wild seeds of the field, the fruits of the forest, and the abundance of game. They labored no more than was necessary to secure a supply of anything that would sustain life, without much concern for its quality. In consequence of this improvidence, the Indian frequently was in a state of semi-starvation. In such an event he would devour almost any living thing on which he could lay his hands. Coyotes, skunks, rats, wildcats, mice, hawks, owls, lizards, frogs, snakes, worms, grasshoppers and other insects served as food.

Stranded whales, seals, shellfish and fish formed the main support of those on the coast. For others the mainstay were acorns, roots, grass, seeds, berries and the like. Grasshoppers were eaten roasted. Acorns were shelled, dried in the sun, and then pounded into powder with stones. From this flour the women made a species of coarse bread, which was sometimes flavored with berries or herbs. A sort of mush was made from the clover seed. Meat was roasted on a stick over the fire, or baked in a hole in the ground. Often the meal consisted of the uncooked animal; the blood of the animal was extracted by sucking it. It was the duty of the women to gather seeds, prepare them for cooking, and perform all the meanest offices, as well as the most laborious, while their lazy husbands were either at play or asleep.

The Californians possessed the art of basket making in a high form; otherwise they were extremely simple and rude in the field of mechanical arts. Pottery was practically unknown, and the carving or working of wood was carried on only to a limited extent. Among the few articles which the Indians produced were fish-hooks, needles, and awls of bone or shell. Mortars and pestles of granite, and cooking vessels of soapstone were also made. Their tools were knives of flint and awls of bone. Along the Santa Barbara Channel the Indians made canoes of wood, but the others merely used very crude balsa or tule rafts. The natives had a kind of circulating medium which consisted of very small round pieces of white mussell shells, polished, perforated and put on strings.

Like all Indians, the Californians delighted in games of chance. Nothing was too precious or too valueless to be staked, from a wife to a deerskin. Nothing, however, seemed to give them greater pleasure than to lie for hours on the ground, doing absolutely nothing and entirely careless and indifferent to everything. The natives smoked a species of wild tobacco which had a nauseous and sickening odor. The pipes were straight tubes of stone.

Collinsville, once an important shipping point on the Sacramento River below Rio Vista, Solano County, and one of the county's unique towns because built upon stilts over a swamp, is to benefit from the "new deal," the Federal Government having decided to fill the swamp with sand pumped from the river.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

THERE IS A TENDENCY TO REVIVE the fluffy ruffle type of dress. Not a bad idea at that, for the dress that is giddy enough to start with, can double nicely for the dance frock later. Among the summer models chosen are such contrasting ones as sports frocks in any pastel color, and white lace or mousseline evening gowns with long skirts. Other designers will turn out a procession of organza-clad maidens, who will rival any bridal parade with their flower-hued gowns.

Cherished pink returns as one of the most important colors for summer clothes. If you used to be a little girl who delighted in strawberry ice cream and pink hair ribbons, you ought to be happy this season, for pink is back with a bang as one of the most important colors for summer clothes. Most women have a fondness for pink, which has been suppressed in the past years, when it was smart to wear vivid reds and greens or uncompromising blacks, but fashion makes a bow to femininity this season.

Sheer, crisp pink organdie dance frocks are shown in all smart shops, frothy as a raspberry ice cream soda. Pink linen blouses, hats, handbags, collars and cuffs are being used to brighten up summer costumes. Nothing can be more romantic and feminine than the new capes and boas of ruffled pink net. They are the last word in evening accessories to add the good old glamour to dark dresses.

Dark lacquered straw cartwheel hats are faced in pink satin once more. The new garden hues bring a gay note to combinations. The crop of garden colors is shown in crisp linen accessories about the town. Corn yellow, rhubarb pink, lettuce green, tomato red are all there, to say nothing of the more ethereal shades of biscayne blue, parma violet and aquamarine.

Starting out with a one-piece dress or a skirt of navy or brown linen, one may work all kinds of wonders with the extensive choice of the new linen jackets, blouses, hats, belts, handkerchiefs, gloves, handbags and bandannas that are blossoming forth in our best shop windows these days.

Say that the basic factor is a brown linen skirt. To transform it into a raspberry sundae, add a pink linen blouse, a pink linen wide-brimmed hat with a brown band, and a pink and brown checked linen jacket belted in the approved norfolk fashion. Pink linen gloves and handbag complete this costume. Pink accessories are also effective with navy.

With a white skirt, there is nothing smarter than a yellow linen blouse, a brown linen jacket and a hat to match either or both.

For your dark summer prints, you may add gayety by a three-quarters coat of linen in pink, blue or yellow, with hat and gloves to match.

Satin gob hats in luscious pastels complete the new sports frocks, which are the latest hot-weather inspirations of the designers, who point out how cool and slick they look.

Then there is the stiffened crochet gob hat. It has a turned-up brim as crisp as starched linen. You may knit your own, of chalk white string, or weave it of cellophane. You may even have it made in fabric, to match your dress. If the dress is one of the popular summer cottons, ginghams, seersuckers or such, you may know that it can be tubbed with the rest of the costume. If you do not care for the gob hat silhouette, there is always the classic beret with an anchor or a star on the front for the navy's sake.

Yachts or even rowboats may take a lot of jack on the owner's part, but clothes must be correct. The fair one should realize that skirts are a bit of a handicap, so slacks or shorts,—depending upon legs or activities,—are what she should wear. Pajamas or near-pajamas are completely out. Trousers are good, when they are made of linen, terry cloth, canvas or jersey. Shirts that won't pull out, hats that won't blow overboard, shoes that have low heels and non-slip soles, flannel slacks and a jersey or cloth jacket constitute a seaworthy uniform for bad weather.

Summer suits of white linen or that slick, cool new alpaca occupy an important place in the hot-weather fashion parade, and with them blouses advance to a commanding position in the summer wardrobe. The tailored blouse that is most seen with the crisp white suit is the shirtwaist model with pleated front and tied neckline, with or without a collar.

One of the most effective blouse-and-suit combinations seen about town is composed of a white alpaca suit having a blouse of gay necktie silk with a scarlet ground and tiny black and white figures. The blouse ties at the neckline in a tailored bow and fastens down the front with smoked pearl studs.

Another effective blouse for wear with white is made of navy dotted swiss with a white dot, in either tailored or lacy style. The latter effect is ruffled and has a jabot edged in white lace. So wear any fabric you want, any color you want, and look crisp.

Sporty casual outfits to slip on for lazy or inactive hours about the seashore cost so little this year that any woman could invest in a few of them and get that complete vacation feeling.

We know that shorts have it, as far as popularity goes, but there is many a gal who looks queer in them. She will be correctly dressed if she wears slacks which are cut straight or with a jaunty flare.

Many novelty fabric shoes are being worn right now with the smart cotton, linen and knitted fashions. In linen and pique weaves and in ribbed and mesh effects, combinations of mesh and kid are very smart, and all-kid, buckskin, pigskin and glove-calf are well represented in all white shoes. Even in a seemingly colorless season such as this, the colored shoe still has its place. Browns, blacks and certain shades of blue are all represented, and are still in demand for wear with certain colors as well as white.

Sandals are designed for all feet, for all costume types and for all occasions. The "T"-strap sandal, both formal and informal, is well in the lead, as might be expected. Not only because of its grace and symmetry, but because it is so flattering to the average foot. White clothes and white accessories is the big news of the moment.

Wherever we go, stripped or strapped, perforated or eyeletted, embroidered, stitched or braided, in fabric or leather, there is a sandal for every mood of the footwear mode. Oxfords in one-, two-, three- and four-eyelet ties are in the running; in most instances they are perfo ated. We find that in any number of delightf ways, ventilated effects are of tremendous in portance, bringing all types of perforations in greater prominence. Cut-outs in an endless v riety give an impression of lightness and coo ness.

Long Beach, Los Angeles County, Chamber Commerce is sponsoring a movement to crea a new California county with that city as t nucleus and government-seat.

Newport-Balboa, Orange County, will featu their annual "Tournament of Lights," July 2

Coronado, San Diego County, will have "National Horse Show," July 28 to August 4.

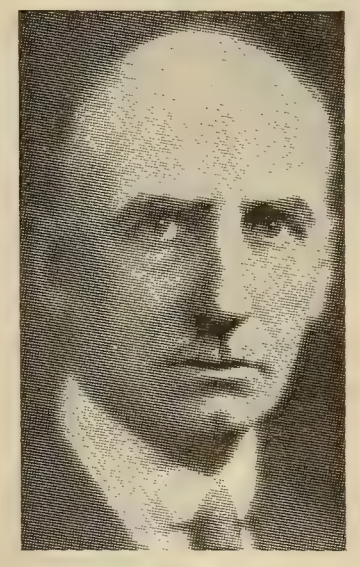
ELECT
JOHN R. QUINN
A Native Californian
GOVERNOR



Born in Porterville, a graduate of the University of California, John R. Quinn has served well the people of California in Sacramento and Los Angeles. He has a pre-eminent appreciation of the complex problems of labor, business, industry, agriculture and education.

California faces the threat of Socialism and Communism seizing its state government. That would mean economic chaos. Only a man with the sterling qualities and courageous leadership of John R. Quinn can defeat this threat. Citizens loyal to secure democratic institutions of government are uniting to support him.

GRIZZLY GROWLS

NOTE—Expressions of opinion in these "Growls" are, unless indicated otherwise, those of the Managing Editor.
CLARENCE M. HUNT.

CALIFORNIA HAS A MOST IMPORTANT general election approaching—the August 28 primary, when state and counties officials will be nominated. Every registered voter, worthy of the blessing of American citizenship, should go to the polls and cast a ballot. Give a little time, primary election day, to your foremost duty. If you are not interested—if you are not concerned with governmental affairs and the welfare of the state and the nation—surrender your citizenship rights and get out of this country.

August 28 will give the suffering citizen-taxpayers of California an opportunity to place their stamp of disapproval on waste, extravagance, incompetency and political racketeering in government, by eliminating as contenders for public offices those incumbents who are largely responsible for the present deplorable conditions and the excessive tax burden, and those new seekers who cannot, because of entangling alliances and inability, correct existant government evils and abuses.

Look well to your ballot! Get first-hand and reliable information concerning each and every candidate. There are some good men in office who deserve retention, and there are candidates of proven quality to succeed those incumbents who should be replaced. Do not be misled by the pre-election promises of any candidate, but consider only his past record and qualifications. Remember, the wellbeing of California is at stake, and separate, with care, the wheat from the chaff among the candidates.

Do not overlook the candidates for the Legislature, for that body is responsible for many of the government-ills of the state, and its several counties and municipalities. Nominate only as representatives therein, citizens of unquestioned quality interested in the welfare of the masses and not that of the political racketeers; then we will be certain to have in the approaching session those who will provide legislation that will cure the ills from which we suffer governmentally.

Remedial legislation sorely needed includes: Specify ownership of real estate as a requisite to voting on bond issues which create a lien on real estate. Eliminate all mandatory expenditures. Abolish in their entirety all special-assessment districts. Abolish all unnecessary state departments and commissions, a great many of which were created solely to provide political patronage. Prohibit nepotism in public office; some officials have their whole families, including the housedog, eating at the taxrough. Prohibit any pensioner from drawing additional public money. Prohibit the employment, at the taxpayers' expense, of married women with able-bodied husbands. Give to all counties the right to fix the salaries of their public servants. Reduce, within reason, the higher-bracket salaries of all state officials and employes. Give to all counties the right to fix their tax limitation. Prohibit an incumbent from seeking nomination for some other public office unless he resigns from the office held. Prohibit the use by public officials and employes—regardless of station—of public-owned autos for personal business or pleasure; it now costs the taxpayers of this state millions of dollars annually to purchase and then to operate autos used by public servants" for private purposes. Wipe off the statute books all of the too-numerous special-privilege and class laws.

Elect to the Legislature those who will provide this and other needed legislation, and the ever-mounting cost of government in California will be materially lessened, and the state's future will be assured. Otherwise, otherwise.

In a recent review of the New Deal, President Franklin D. Roosevelt said: "It is not the overwhelming majority of the farmers or manufacturers or workers who deny the substantial gains of the past year. The most vociferous of the doubting Thomases may be divided roughly into two groups: First, those who seek special political privilege, and, second, those who seek special financial privilege. It is well for us to remember that humanity is a long way from being perfect and that a selfish minority in every walk of life—farming, business, finance and even government service itself—will always continue to think of themselves first and their fellow beings second. . . .

"A few timid people, who fear progress, will try to give you new and strange names for what we are doing. Sometimes they will call it 'fascism,' sometimes 'communism,' sometimes 'socialism.' But, in so doing, they are trying to make very complex and theoretical something that is really very simple and very practical. I believe in practical explanations and in practical policies. I believe that what we are doing today is a necessary fulfillment of what Americans have always been doing—a fulfillment of old and tested American ideals. . . . While I was in France during the war our boys used to call the United States 'God's country.' Let us make it and keep it 'God's country'."

The Tarrant County, Texas, Baptist Ministers Association decided, after a heated debate, not to pray for rain to break the drought. One reverend said, "I doubt that we deserve rain. If we are suffering we must remember that the government plowed up a lot of food last year. This is retribution for the greatest gambling mania in history." He may be right.

Dr. William G. Everson cautions, "It is not a question of getting back to yesterday, but of taking care that we make tomorrow what it should be, that confronts the people of our great nation now."

The superintendent of Los Angeles County charities reports that his department, during the fiscal year closed June 30, handled 297,357 separate relief appeals. The amounts spent daily to care for the charity load vary, but for one single day, July 2, the cost was $250,000.

If the suggestion, that the names of those on the county charity roll be publicized, be carried out, the number would be materially lessened. The politicians, of course, for various reasons, will not "stand" for doing that.

In an address at St. Anthony, Idaho, United States Senator William E. Borah of that state—one of the nation's outstanding statesmen, a genuine American,—paid tribute to the Western Pioneers, saying: "If you would know the pioneer's full stature and grasp the full force of his genius, contrast him with the cowed, whipped, fear-smitten, spineless, dependent creatures with whom Nazism, Fascism and Communism would fill the world!

"In the wake of the one we find forests and deserts conquered and subdued, great states erected, law and order established and personal liberty preserved. With the other, violence and terror hold sway over sorrow-stricken, harassed, tortured and enslaved people—millions of broken hearts and blasted souls. We can pay no higher tribute to the brave pioneer than highly to resolve that no such creeds shall ever find lodgment under the American flag."

Hurling a challenge to the "defenders of monopoly," the Senator said: "When I discuss the question of monopoly, I am accused of attacking the New Deal. Do these people contend that when a person attacks monopoly he attacks the New Deal? Is monopoly and the New Deal one and the same thing?

"One of the announced purposes of the New Deal, in fact the basic purpose, was to increase purchasing power. The effect of monopoly is to decrease, if not destroy, purchasing power among the people. The most insidious and most successful enemy of the New Deal, according to its announced purposes, is this power of vast combinations to fix prices and to rake off all the gains which may come to the farmers, the producers or the laborers. The defenders of monopoly will not be permitted to hide behind the New Deal. They will have to fight in the open."

A Native Daughter of San Gabriel sent to The Grizzly Bear a copy of the "Pasadena Independent" with this item marked: "Another letter comes from a resident of North Fair Oaks who is indignant because tooth brushes recommended by the school health authorities are made in Japan. 'My son was told that he was using the wrong kind of tooth brush at home,' writes this man. 'We were informed that he could get the right kind at school for ten cents. We sent the ten cents and he came home with a new brush with "Made in Japan" printed on the handle. Is that fair?'

"Well, we had a visit the other day from a couple of indignant men who brought us a parking tag placed on automobiles at a party held by a patriotic organization and it also carried the 'Made in Japan' legend. That sent us on rounds of the stores and we found that virtually all the American flags used for souvenirs on tables are made in Japan. Perhaps, after all, this country is the dumping ground for the cheap material made by cheap labor in countries where the living standards are so much lower than in this country that it would be impossible to compete with them."

No fooling, this country IS the dumping ground for Jap products, as well as for Japs. Some of those dumped products are plainly stamped "Made in Japan," while others are stamped otherwise, to deceive the public. It is said a large manufacturing center in Japan has changed its name to "Usa," so now those products come here labeled "Made in USA." You will, in fact, find all the chain stores, as well as many others, loaded to the gunwales with Jap products. The only way to be certain that what you purchase was not made in Japan is to buy only those things which you are dead sure are produced in a White man's country.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor in a public statement July 20 declared: "No sympathetic strike of any consequence or possessed of any national significance was ever won. To the contrary, the record shows that all experiments of this kind have failed. These are stern facts which all workers who do not see in every strike the possibilities of a political revolution must ultimately learn."

At the San Diego convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, National Commander James E. Van Zandt said that the veterans' program "calls for elimination of 'chiselers' from the compensation rolls. We feel the man who served but a few months, and discovered twelve or fourteen years later that he has an ailment which requires plenty of imagination to trace

THE INDIANS WERE FOND OF DANCing, which among them was a swaying of the body and alternate lifting of one foot and the other. The men usually danced with their faces painted with glaring colors in grotesque patterns. Important events, such as the seasons for hunting, fishing and acorn-gathering, were celebrated with dances. The dancing was accompanied with chanting, clapping of hands, blowing on pipes, beating of skin drums, and rattling of pebble-filled tortoise shells, all of which produced a horrible discord.

Each Indian rancheria had its own chief, and was absolutely independent of all others. The chief would take the lead in time of war, make peace, appoint feasts, and give advice; but beyond this he had little power. Everyone followed his own will without exterior restraint, except fear of the sorcerers or medicine men, who held tremendous power. These diabolical imposters were feared for the supernatural powers which they pretended to possess, and consequently there was hardly any excess or wickedness which they could not and did not commit with impunity.

Before the coming of the missionaries, the Indians had no religion whatsoever, and only very vague ideas about death and the hereafter. Consequently morality was of the lowest. Stealing, untruthfulness and a disregard for human life were among the most notable vices. In marriage they observed no ceremony other than the mere convenience and agreement between two persons. The marriages could be broken off by either party with an equal lack of ceremony. It was a custom that a man took all his wife's sisters when he married her.

Serious disease was not prevalent among the Indians. The general remedy in case of sickness was the sweathouse. The sorcerers sometimes attempted to cure by means of incantations, massage of the affected member, sucking the spot giving pain, and other trumpery. If they failed to cure, especially during an epidemic, the sorcerers were sometimes put to death.

The missionaries observed with pleasure some natural good qualities, which they delighted to put on record, and only regretted they could not report more. Those most noticeable were love for their children, submissiveness, patience in sickness, and a certain degree of modesty in the women. Such was the material out of which Father Serra and his brethren with loving devotion endeavored to produce civilized Christians.

FOR CROSS AND CROWN

The Count of Monterey, Viceroy of Mexico, was in a rage. Again his annual galleon from Manila had been captured by pirates. He summoned Sebastian Viscaino before him. "Find me a harbor on the California coast," he said, "where my galleons may find refuge." On December 16, 1602—eighteen years before the pilgrims landed—Viscaino came to another in a "Noble Harbor." He named it Monterey Bay. There under a great oak on the crescent shore of the beautiful bay Viscaino conducted the impressive ceremonies that brought California under the flag of Spain. In his report to the Viceroy of Mexico, he referred to the "infinite number of very large pines," the "oaks of prodigious size," the abundance of flowers, fowl and game. Then he sailed away, and his discovery was forgotten.

For more than a century and a half Spain allowed this part of her colonial empire to lie neglected. But toward the end of this period there appeared a monarch less indolent than the long succession of rulers who had contributed so much toward the debilitation of the great Hispanic Kingdom. She was the Empress Catherine of Russia. In 1725 she had sent Vitus Bering, the Dane, to seek a northern passage from the Pacific into the Atlantic. On his first voyage he had discovered Bering Strait, leading not into the Atlantic, but into the Arctic Ocean where Siberia and Alaska all but touch hands.

And now, in the reign of His Most Catholic Majesty, Carlos II, Russian trading posts had been established on Bering, Kadiak and Unalaska Islands, and Russian vessels were cruising southward toward Oregon. Carlos lifted heavy lids and gazed toward the north; he saw the encroachments of Russia. He looked to the east; he saw the danger of an English overland invasion. He became frightened and asked for action.

Still, California had been in danger before, and little had been done. So might it have been this time had there not been on the frontier a man of action clothed with ample powers. This man was Jose de Galvez, the visitador-general, who had carried out for Carlos reforms in Spain. Galvez realized that a crisis had arrived and true to form he acted: soldiers and missionaries were to go forth side by side and plant military colonies and missions at San Diego and Monterey.

To carry out the work Galvez had good material ready at hand. The general command was entrusted to Don Gaspar de Portola, the newly appointed governor of Lower California. Fray Junipero Serra, presidente of the Franciscans of Lower California, was chosen to carry the banner of the Faith into the new territory, and he would take with him five other friars chosen from his missions. These men, whose highly developed minds and sensibilities were the products of the greatest universities and highest civilization of Europe, truly present a brave picture. Cheerfully they repudiated home and civilization, and all that these mean to man that they might save souls and better the lives of the heathen Indians.

Father Serra himself merits a place among our greatest heroes—he was a religious enthusiast, eager to make every sacrifice and even exhaust himself for the conversion of the heathen, believing patience and suffering to be the inheritance of the elect, the coin with which heaven is bought.

The expedition, which was under way early in 1769, consisted of two passenger ships, and a supply ship, and two overland parties. The "San Antonio" reached port after fifty-four days at sea. The "San Carlos" was one hundred and ten days on the way, and when she entered the harbor her crew were too ill from scurvy and the lack of fresh water to lower the boats. A fortnight was spent chiefly in caring for the sick and burying the dead. The supply ship, the "San Jose," was never heard of again after her departure from port in Lower California.

The land expeditions were much more fortunate, though the way was difficult and long. Provisions for the journey, horses, mules, and cattle, were assembled at Velicata, a post eighteen leagues beyond Santa Maria, the northernmost of the old missions. The first of the overland parties set out from Velicata on March 24, 1769. It was led by Captain Rivera, commander of the company of Loreto. He had twenty-five soldiers, three muleteers and forty Indians from the old missions, equipped to open the roads through the mountains and across gullies. Along went Father Juan Crespi, principal historian of the expedition.

For the first eight days the trail was that followed by the Jesuit Father Linck, three years before. Thereafter, a distance of three hundred miles, the route was now explored by white men for the first time. Frequently water had to be carried in barrels and skin bags, for the Peninsula is dry. More than once the animals had to camp for the night without water. Sometimes there was no fuel for a camp fire. Several nights were made terrible by the roaring of a lion. Much of the way was over rugged mountains. The wild Indians did no harm, but they were occasionally threatening. Frequently it rained, and the men spent uncomfortable nights in water-soaked clothing. At last the journey came to an end. On the thirteenth of May scouts saw from a height the masts of the vessels anchored in San Diego Bay. Next day their joy was mixed with sadness; the welcome salutes and the fond embraces were offset by the horrible inroads made by scurvy into the ranks of the sea party.

On the day after Rivera and Father Crespi reached San Diego, Portola and Father Serra set out from Velicata. The season was better, the trail had been broken, and the journey was quicker than Rivera's. During the whole course of the trip northward, however, Father Serra suffered the greatest pain, because of his leg,—previously poisoned by the attacks of Lower California mosquitoes—which had become very much inflamed from the exertions he had made before starting. It grew more and more painful when he was compelled to keep to his mule, while the column was in motion, and after some days he suffered so much that he was unable to sleep. Finally observing that one of the mule drivers was accustomed to apply some ointment to the backs of his mules, when their saddles galled them, and that it had a certain healing quality, he asked the man if he could not prescribe something to relieve his misery. The astonished driver demurred at first but finally yielded, and the remedy was applied and a day or two later the good padre was able to pursue his journey in comparative comfort. On the last day of June, after a march of six weeks, the wayfarers reached San Diego. Father Serra said mass, the te deum was sung, and artillery roared salute from the new outpost of Church and State. The first band of Spanish pioneers on the soil of Alta California comprised one hundred and twenty-six souls; ninety-three had perished on the "San Carlos," or after landing; the Indians, some had deserted on the way, reluctant to leave home.

With the assistance of all not absolutely necessary to attend the sick, a spacious brushwood structure was erected for a chapel, and a large cross was constructed. On the morning of the sixteenth of July, Father Serra blessed the cross planted in front of the chapel, after which he sang high mass and delivered a fervent address to the little company present. Such was the beginning of the Mission San Diego de Alcala. Nearby, the presidio was founded.

The port of Monterey was still to be protected. Portola therefore sent the "San Antonio" back to Mexico for men and supplies; then leaving the "San Carlos" at anchor for want of a crew he continued up the coast by land to complete his task. The march northward began on the fourteenth of July. Ahead rode Portola, Fages, Constanso, the friars, six Catalan volunteers and the Indian sappers. Next followed the pack train in four divisions, each of twenty-five loaded mules with muleteers and a soldier on guard. In the rear came Captain Rivera, the rest of the soldiers, and friendly Indians driving the herd of spare mules and horses. The cavalcade must have presented a picturesque appearance, as it wound about the hills or stretched away along the beach. There was a striking contrast of color—from the gray-cowled robe of the friar to the showy uniform of the officers, the many colored shawls of the muleteers, and the painted and almost naked Indians.

Most of the way pasture and water were plentiful and the Indians numerous and friendly. At Los Angeles River, a sharp earthquake was felt. "It lasted about half as long as an Ave Maria, and about ten minutes later it was repeated, though not so violently," says the good Father Crespi, writing of the occurrence. The coast was followed without great difficulty as far as rugged Santa Lucia Mountain, whose jagged sea-washed cliffs prevented passage. A halt of several days was necessary for Rivera and the scouts to find a way through the mountains. The march was continued across one of the hardest stretches of country encountered by the early explorers of the West. Arroyos flowing down the gorges had to be crossed innumerable times. From a high peak near the San Antonio River nothing but mountains, almost inaccessible, could be seen in any direction. It was a sad spectacle for the poor wayfarers, oppressed by the fatigues of the long journey. Some of the soldiers by now were disabled by scurvy. The heroic Father Crespi says, "All this tended to oppress our hearts, but, remembering the object to which these toils were directed, and that it was for the greater glory of God through the conversion of souls, and service of the king whose dominions were being enlarged by this expedition, all were animated to work cheerfully."

Six days down the Salinas River took the expedition to the shore of Monterey Bay. But Viscaino had told of a "fine harbor." None was found and Portola, mystified, concluded that some mistake had been made, and that the harbor must be farther north. He therefore continued up the coast. As the men pressed on through the spacious forests they saw, rank upon rank, the sheer, ruddy trunks of giant timber and they called this new tree the pala colorado. At Half Moon Bay they saw the Farallones, Point Reyes and Drake's Bay; which last they recognized at once, for it was better known than any other point on the north coast. Plainly they had passed Monterey and were a long distance out of their course. So they pitched camp at Point Pedro, to rest and to debate what should be done. And, their food being nearly exhausted, some hunters struck into the mountains northeast of the camp to look for game. The chase led them upward until presently they came out on a clear height and beheld a great quiet harbor, almost landlocked, so near together

RETAIN THE MAN WHO MET THE EMERGENCY!

¶ Two years ago, crushing and unjust taxation had brought California home-owners, farmers and business men face-to-face with the threat of tax-confiscation and bankruptcy.

¶ As a state, California was confronted with the danger of a general tax strike—the shut-down of our public schools and the disruption of business and government.

¶ But California had men equal to the emergency—outstanding among them, FRED E. STEWART, militant member of the State Board of Equalization!

¶ Measuring up to the crisis, Fred Stewart, as co-author of the Riley-Stewart Tax Relief Plan, led the successful fight for a square deal for California's common property taxpayers.

¶ And out of that fight came the first tax relief secured for California home-owners, farmers and other common taxpayers in the state's history—a $40,000,000 Tax Reduction. . . .

A 20% SAVING FOR COMMON TAXPAYERS!

¶ NEXT YEAR, WHEN THE RILEY-STEWART PLAN BECOMES FULLY OPERATIVE, A 15% ADDITIONAL REDUCTION IS SCHEDULED IN YOUR BILLS.

¶ It is only common-sense and simple justice to fight for the man who fought for us.

od the two titanic pillars of its one great gate, en to the sunset-gold of the ocean.

Thus, for the first time, did white men gaze San Fran isco Bay. After exploring the bay rtola's party retraced their route along the ast, and again reached Monterey Bay. They anted two crosses and continued to San Diego. iere affairs had gone badly: fifty persons had ed; there had been serious trouble with the tives; provisions were scarce; and there was en talk of abandoning the enterprise. But ivera was dispatched to Loreto for stock and pplies, and the pioneers persevered. Father rra's faith was superb. "I shall remain along ith Father Juan Crespi," he wrote, "and hold it to the last breath." A novena was said and l prayed fervently for relief—and it came. A cond expedition to Monterey was successful, id the mission and the presidio of San Carlos ere founded there.

Thus in 1770 were Catherine's ambitions frus- ated; thus were the cross and the sceptre ad- nced eight hundred miles through three hun- ed leagues of wilderness. In Mexico the bells the cathedral and all the other churches were ng. The Viceroy ordered a solemn mass of anksgiving sung in the cathedral, and attended ith his whole viceregal court. With his goal tained, Governor Portola yielded the military mmand to Lieutenant Fages and returned to exico. Portola was a wise governor, and a od one.

II.

Padre Junipero Serra now requested of the ad of his college in Mexico two more friars, that Buenaventura mission might be founded. irty were sent—twenty to Lower, and ten to per California. $10,000 was to be used in unding ten new missions and $400 each to pay e traveling expenses of the new missionaries, no were also promised an annual salary of 75 each, which they never received. (It must borne in mind that these sums, as all used or for the missions or missionaries, were fur- shed not from the royal coffers but from the ous Mission Fund, money contributed by the ithful to the missionaries for the purpose of reading Catholicism among the California In- ans. This fund had been arbitrarily appropri- ed by the Spanish government, and from it e authorities doled out pittances to the mis- onaries. At times it was even used for strictly overnmental purposes, which had no direct connection with the missions. In many other cases than this the union of Church and State in Spain likewise hindered the efforts of the patient, industrious missionaries.)

Agricultural implements, which the Indians at the missions were to be taught to use, were also sent. Padres Viscaino, Gomez and Parron had previously returned to Mexico in ill health. So that, on the arrival of the scurvy-stricken newcomers, the total missionary force in Alta California consisted of only twelve priests.

Father Serra obtained permission to change the site of San Carlos from Monterey to the Carmelo Valley, and then picked the site on which he founded San Antonio de Padua.

On September 8, 1771, San Gabriel Arcangel was established. Indians were numerous here and at first appeared hostile, but when one of the friars unfurled a banner, which on one side showed a picture of Our Lady of Sorrows, and held it up to the gaze of the howling Indians, they immediately threw down their weapons, tendered their ornaments as offerings, and in other ways signified their submission. Shortly afterward an uprising did occur. The soldiers were compelled to use their firearms, which so frightened the Indians that no similar demonstration occurred thereafter.

On September 1, 1772, the mission of San Luis Obispo was founded, Father Serra himself officiating. Then, leaving Padre Cavaller here to begin his missionary work alone, the party, headed by Father Serra, journeyed southward, and reached San Diego on the sixteenth of September.

Since his appointment as comandante, Fages had been acting with insufferable arrogance. He wished to domineer and bind everyone with harsh rules. Even the missionaries were victimized by his demonstration of absolute, unreasoning authority. Father Serra had set his heart on founding the San Buenaventura mission. It had been delayed by one excuse after another; but now with priests to take charge, and all the vestments and bells and church furniture ready, there should have been no further obstacles. But Fages refused to furnish mission guards, claiming lack of soldiers, and also refused men for transportation work.

This brought matters to a crisis. Burning with a desire to found this mission so that he could go on with the others, the padre wrote the Viceroy urgent letters complaining of Fages' conduct. When this brought no concrete results, Father Serra resolved to travel to Mexico. So this strenuous worker and champion pleader undertook the hazardous journey with the equanimity that characterized all his actions. He sailed on the "San Carlos" for San Blas, and suffered serious illness on the way.

In Mexico, Father Serra was received very graciously, and by the eloquence of his writing in the famous "Representacion" through which he presented all his grievances and desires, he managed to increase the number of helpers sent him from four to eight or ten, and to gain money and other concessions which much alleviated his tasks. Fages' powers were curtailed, and the priests were given the position of fathers over the Indians—to teach and convert without interference. This episode well illustrates the practical ability of Fray Junipero. By his earnest presence, by the eloquence of his speech and writing, and by the sensibleness of his reasoning he many times obviated seemingly immobile obstacles which hindered the work of his beloved missions.

In a report prepared at this time Father Serra, after giving the history of the founding of the five missions, related that 491 Indians had been baptized, twenty-nine of whom had died. There had been sixty-two marriages, in three of which Spanish soldiers had married native women. The missions were in charge of nineteen friars. The military force consisted of thirty-five presidio soldiers, and twenty-four Catalan volunteers and their commanders; and these eighty souls with a very few settlers comprised the whole Spanish population of Alta California in the year of Our Lord 1774.

As a further result of Padre Serra's pleading, a new set of regulations for the government of the province were put into force. They provided for a governor, to be stationed at Loreto, who should rule both Upper and Lower California. There should be two presidios, one at Monterey and one at San Diego, under command of a captain who should reside at Monterey, and a lieutenant who should have charge at San Diego. Each presidio was to have a force of twenty-five soldiers, including a sergeant and two corporals. Each presidio was also to have a storekeeper, and two blacksmiths and two carpenters who, in addition to their work at the forts, were to teach the Indians the use of tools. A cor-

Native Sons of the Golden West

LOS ANGELES—RESPONDING TO A CALL issued by Grand President Chas. A. Koenig, fourteen Native Sons from Santa Barbara, San Diego, San Bernardino, Orange and Los Angeles Counties met here June 30 to discuss the development of the Order. In attendance were Herman C. Lichtenberger and John T. Newell, Past Grands; Eldred L. Meyer, Grand Third Vice-president; William A. Reuter, Grand Marshal; Donald E. VanLuven, Grand Trustee; John Andreson of the Historic Landmarks Committee; A. C. Dinsmore, Daniel E. McSweeny, Walter C. Richards, F. L. McGarvey and Walter Hiskey, district deputy grand presidents; Albert V. Mayrhofer, Sidney B. Witkowski and Clarence M. Hunt, deputy grand presidents.

Grand President Koenig addressed the assemblage, stressing the necessity for increased membership and urging that the district deputies organize to bring that about. He outlined what is planned along this line in other parts of the state, and suggested a monthly group initiation at which every Parlor in the southern counties would have at least one candidate at each gathering. He also announced the appointment of Bernard G. Hiss (University No. 272) as deputy for District No. 55, which includes Hollywood No. 196 and Sepulveda No. 263, to succeed Arthur Leonard, resigned.

The district deputies then organized by the election of Bernard G. Hiss of Los Angeles as chairman, Walter C. Richards of Wilmington as vice-chairman, and F. L. McGarvey of San Bernardino as secretary. The monthly group initiation was approved, and it was voted to hold the first July 26 with Sepulveda Parlor at Wilmington.

An open discussion of the best way to get desired results for the Order followed, and various plans were suggested. Deputy Grand President Albert V. Mayrhofer declared no undertaking could be successful unless a goal be fixed, and his proposal that the Parlors be urged to increase their membership at least ten percent by the end of the present year won the approval of all present, including Grand President Koenig.

At a meeting of the district committee July 23 it was decided to hold the August group initiation with Ramona No. 109 (Los Angeles), Friday, August 31. All Parlors are urged to have candidates.

NATIVE SONS NEWS BRIEFS.

Placerville—Officers of Placerville No. 9 and Marguerite No. 12 N.D.G.W. were jointly installed July 10 by Deputies Chris. Orelli and Georgia Gardner. The new presidents are George Fausel and Mildred Lefevre. The ceremonies were followed by a program of entertainment and a dinner.

San Jose—San Jose No. 22 initiated four candidates June 25. The Parlor had its annual "stag" barbecue at the George Lyle ranch July 8. Cliff Kelley was the general chairman.

Jackson—Excelsior No. 31 celebrated June 28 the fiftieth anniversary of its institution. A brief program was presented, and refreshments were served. Among the many oldtimers in attendance was John Going, a charter member.

Sacramento—William S. Kingsbury, a member of Los Angeles No. 45, will retire August 1 from state service. For many years he was surveyor-general of California, and in 1929 became the chief of the divisions of state lands. Kingsbury was born in Oakland.

Saint Helena—Saint Helena No. 53 enjoyed July 16 an evening barbecue in Lyman Grove prepared under the direction of Lowell Palmer, Lucas Haus, Arnold Metzner, William Bullotti and Joseph Vasconi Sr. Mayor Walter Metzner, who celebrated his birth anniversary that day, was the toastmaster, and among the speakers were Sheriff John Steckter and Zollie Israelsky.

There are thousands of fine eligibles just waiting to be extended an invitation to affiliate with the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West. Be a recruiter—extend the invitation today, not tomorrow!

Lincoln—Silver Star No. 63 had a public whist party for the benefit of the homeless children July 18. There was a large attendance.

Vallejo—George Weniger of Vallejo No. 77, treasurer of Solano County, July 15 celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary by entertaining three Vallejo natives of similar age—J. A. Browne, F. Haggerty and J. Brownlie.

Calistoga—At joint ceremonies July 16, officers of Calistoga No. 86 and Calistoga No. 145 N.D.G.W. were installed by Deputies Louis Carlenzoli and Eleanor Simpkins, Theodore Tamagni and Andriena Lercari becoming the respective presidents. Presentations were made to Supervising Deputy Lillus Kelly, Deputy Simpkins and Junior Past President Corina Falleri of the Native Daughters. Dancing concluded the occasion.

Downieville—Downieville No. 92 was host to Fred H. Greely Past Presidents Assembly No. 6, June 24. A camp stew was served on Piety Hill.

Ferndale—Ferndale No. 93's officers were i stalled July 2 by District Deputy R. A. Ti mons, O. A. Bartlett becoming president. The were many visitors from Eureka. A past pres dent emblem was presented C. J. Olsen. Har Ellsworth Hurlbutt, assessor of Humboldt Cou ty since 1922 and a member of Ferndale, di July 10 at Eureka. He was born in Garbe ville, Humboldt County, June 16, 1867. A wi and six children survive.

Menlo Park—Menlo No. 185 and Menlo No. 211 N.D.G.W. July 12 welcomed back Rev. Father Thomas J. McKeon (Calistoga No. 86), who has been appointed pastor of the Church of the Nativity. Harry Weeden was chairman, and Father McKeon gave a fine talk on the Order of Native Sons. Other speakers were John Fucchino, president No. 185; Eloise Rathje, president No. 211, and C. T. Maloney. Isabel Linquist sang several numbers, and John Fucchino gave a tap dance.

Sutter City—Officers of Sutter No. 261 and South Butte No. 226 N.D.G.W. were jointly installed July 23 by Deputies Rothus Gray and Freda Yopp, Charles Hill and Necia Correll becoming the respective presidents. A banquet concluded the ceremonies.

San Bernardino—The recently organized Arrowhead Past Presidents Assembly No. 14 will meet August 10, when the charter will close. A 6:30 dinner will precede the meeting.

THE CHIMNEY'S SOLILOQUY

(ELEANOR SOOY.)

(The miner's cabin, built in 1850, has crumbled to dust, but the old stone chimney still stands; and the following lines are an idea of what it might say, were it to talk to itself.)

It's funny how I'm feelin', but mem'ry's ties are strong,
And lately I've been wonderin' why I have lived so long,
For all around is lonesome, and blackened with decay;
Night holds no terror for me, an' I salute th' day!

I never was no beauty,—just mud an' broken stone—
But I was strong an' sturdy, and now I stand alone!
I've felt th' shriekin' tempest, and heat that dried th' clay
That plastered me together that long forgotten day!

Th' cabin in th' clearin'—so long ago that seems!
Th' boy who did th' buildin', his eyes alight with dreams
Of courage great, an' livin' an' doin' great things too,
His hope an' his endeavor,—his purpose that was true!

His haven an' his anchor were what we meant to him
When luck was strikin' deeper, or when the chance was slim;
Reflected in our buildin' were all his visions grand;
His heart was brave and loyal, and honest was his hand!

And oh, the friends that loved him—like them he chose to roam!
To him they'd come for cheerin' within his little home;
To quit or keep on tryin'—they either lost or won.
Our West was in th' makin', our hist'ry had begun!

And now, I've seen th' moderns who'd love to show th' way
To all th' so-called fogies of hallowed yesterday;
Give ME th' forty-niner who loved our western land;
He built for those to follow, and honest was his hand!

(The above came to The Grizzly Bear from Peter J. Delay of Marysville with this notation: "Miss Eleanor Sooy, a Yuba County girl now of Alameda who two years or so ago contributed the 'Old Gray Mule' to The Grizzly Bear, has provided another I think equally good."—Editor.)

Amador County is sponsoring at Silver Lake, in the high Sierra, August 5, a celebration commemorating the ninetieth anniversary of the arrival in California of "Kit" Carson, famous scout and trapper, who was born in Kentucky, December 24, 1809. The main address will be delivered by Lewis F. Byington, Past Grand President N.S.G.W.

Hollister will feature the San Benito County Saddle Horse Show and Rodeo, August 24-26.

CALIFORNIA FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

AUGUST WAS THE HOTTEST MONTH OF 1884 in California. For a fortnight the temperature in the valleys went above 100 degrees, and in some places registered 115. The balance of the month was warm, but pleasant.

August 12, Plumas County experienced the heaviest thunder and hail storm in its history. Trees were uprooted, branches were torn away, house windows were broken, and hailstones as large as billiard balls pelted the land.

August 20, southern California had a terrific wind and thunder storm. At Riverside City three inches of rain fell. Damage in excess of $100,000 was done to crops and buildings.

Ninety threshing outfits were reaping the grain harvest of Colusa County, estimated at 6,000,000 sacks.

Lodi, San Joaquin County, came to the front as a watermelon producing center. Fifty carloads of 65,000 melons went out in July, and the outgo in August was more than double that quantity.

Wheat dropped in price to $1.40, barley to 85 cents, and potatoes and onions to 80 cents a cental, because the supply exceeded the demand. Crops were bountiful.

The largest prune orchard in the world, containing over 10,000 trees, was located near Saratoga, Santa Clara County. Higgins & Stoddard planted it, and had just sold it to Malone & Browning for $72,000.

A Pomona, Los Angeles County, watermelon raiser improved the flavor of his product by inserting through punctures in the rinds of his growing melons a strip of flannel soaked with the essence of vanilla. The melons absorbed the extract, and their taste was improved.

Mrs. George Scheffler of Yuba County took from the craw of a wild goose she was dressing a number of kernels of wheat. She planted them, and harvested about four quarts of grain of an unknown variety. The kernels were double the size of locally-grown wheat, and a superior variety was expected to be developed.

It was estimated that more than 3,000 Chinamen were now employed picking the hop crop in northern California. There was said to be a scarcity of White labor and, also, it could not be obtained for the prevailing per diem.

The El Dorado County Fair opened at Placerville, August 2; the Mechanics Fair at San Francisco, August 5; the Sonoma County Fair at Santa Rosa, August 18; the Fourteenth District Fair at Petaluma, Sonoma County, and the Thirteenth District Fair at Marysville, Yuba County, August 27. All reported large attendances.

Mrs. Leland Stanford endowed and opened in San Francisco a model kindergarten. It began functioning with a hundred tots in attendance.

Hiram W. Johnson of Sacramento, then 18 years of age and now United States Senator from California, this month entered the University of California at Berkeley as a freshman.

The Catholic Church in Los Angeles City became infested with crickets. So, the womenfolks of the church gathered in force one day and removed four bushel-basketsfull of the insects.

At Woodland, Yolo County, the building of a new opera house was commenced.

During the month of August there were shipped from Eureka, Humboldt County, 6,000,000 feet of redwood lumber and 7,000,000 shingles.

The C. & O. Railway completed August 13 a bridge across the Sacramento River and laid its track to Delta.

On Fourth street, near Market, San Francisco, work was begun on a building for the Society of California Pioneers. It was to cost $175,000—and the Pioneers had the "dough."

August 28, the centennial anniversary of the death of Padre Junipero Serra was celebrated at San Carlos Mission, Monterey County. Thousands attended, going in special trains from Los Angeles, San Francisco and other cities. After mass and a large parade there was a barbecue. Senator R. F. DelValle of Los Angeles was the orator of the day.

Modesto, Stanislaus County, organized a vigilance committee to free it of gamblers and other renegades gathered there to prey on grain harvesters.

In the past few years some 500 new settlers had located in Shasta County. August 24 they had a reunion at Redding and organized an association.

A sanitary vigilance committee was organized August 10 at Sacramento to rid that city's Chinatown of its disease-breeding spots. Robert T. Devlin was named chairman. It was found that the property belonged to prominent citizens, who agreed to improve conditions.

Mrs. Milton Brown, who came to the Pacific Coast in a covered wagon in 1840, died August 16 in Lake County.

John Munroe Murphy died in Monterey City, August 26, at the age of 53. When, in 1862, the steamer "Golden Gate" burned off the Mexican coast he swam ashore, carrying upon his back a waif whose parents were drowned. For his heroic act, the steamship company presented him $1,000.

Bodie, Mono County, had a $35,000 fire August 1; among the buildings destroyed was the Champion Hotel. Laporte, Plumas County, burned August 5; but three fireproof buildings in its business section remained.

At Colton, San Bernardino County, a business block burned August 7; loss, $25,000. The Harbor View Hotel at Vacaville, Solano County, burned August 9; loss, $5,000. Mojave, Kern County, was almost entirely destroyed by fire August 25; Tom Deering was cremated.

The Chinatown of San Andreas, Calaveras County, consisting of fifteen buildings, was destroyed by fire August 6. The Chinatown of Bakersfield, Kern County, went up in smoke August 11; loss, $100,000.

Fire on Main street, near Market, San Francisco, destroyed the Schmitt Lithographing Company's plant and several other establishments; loss, $500,000. Sacramento City had a $15,000 fire August 9.

T. Bacigallupi, in Tulare County, lost by fire 240 acres of standing grain August 11. In Merced County, four stacks of harvested wheat belonging to H. S. Clay burned August 24.

On the Lankershim & Van Nuys ranch in San Fernando Valley, Los Angeles County, fire burned over 1,000 acres of standing grain August 23. A downpour of rain started while the fire was in progress and stopped the flames. Nearly two inches of rain fell.

A tree was riveted by a lightning stroke near Redding, Shasta County. In the hollowed trunk was found a skeleton, with three bullet holes in the skull.

A ledge of silver ore assaying $659 a ton was reported found in Bald Mountain, Calaveras County.

Guy Terry was thrown from a horse and killed at Livermore, Alameda County, August 13.

Thomas Balse, working in a San Francisco planing mill, tripped and fell upon a circular saw August 8 and was cut in two.

Jack Woodward, a Sacramento County stockraiser, had a dispute with a herdsman named O'Neill, August 8, at Webber Lake. O'Neill ambuscaded and killed Woodward.

George Buckman, aged 72, had a dispute with his soninlaw in Slack's Canyon, Monterey County, August 4, and was shot and killed.

Two masked men entered the saloon of Adam Houch at Princeton, Colusa County, August 6, and held up five men playing cards. Charles L. Hemstreet was deaf and, not complying with the "stick 'em up" order, was shot dead. The robbers then decamped.

A. Wainwright was married at Sacramento City, August 24, to a sisterinlaw of C. R. Clark. Shortly after the ceremony Clark, taking umbrage at an ill-timed remark of Wainwright, shot and killed him.

William Bennett, sentenced to be hanged August 28 in the Martinez, Contra Costa County, jail, committed suicide August 5 by cutting a wrist artery with the lid of a tin can.

A Santa Barbara City fisherman hooked a mackerel weighing about three pounds, and as he was pulling it in it was gulped down by a twenty-five-pound rock-cod. So, he landed both.

A fishing party from Chico, Butte County, caught in the Sacramento River, August 12, a 306-pound sturgeon. In its stomach were found bones of a human arm, a buckskin purse containing $2.80, and a silver watch.
